TRIAL OFFERED TO KIMMEL

Survives 47 Days on Raft and 2 Years of Jap Torture

PEARL HARBOR HEARING IS PUT UP TO ADMIRAL

Action Disclosed by Senator Walsh

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—Sen. Walsh [D., Mass.] disclosed today that the navy has offered Rear Adm. Kimmel, navy commander at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese struck, a court martial if he wants it.

The revelation came in a letter from Navy Secretary Forrestal, part of which was made public by the senator, which left up to congress the decision on making public confidential information which a naval court of inquiry gathered about the Pearl Harbor disaster.

The navy said there had been no response from the admiral on the offer of trial.

Quotes Report on Quiz

The letter from Forrestal quoted a report on the Pearl Harbor investigation made last spring by Vice Adm. H. K. Hewitt, and said the report contained the recommendation of the navy judge advocate general and of Fleet Adm. King that Kimmel be given a court martial.

"These recommendations and the offer of a general court martial in open court which I made to Adm. Kimmel, with which you are familiar, were not referred to in the reports released by the President on August 28, 1945, because we did not wish Adm. Kimmel to feel constrained in making his reply to the offer of a general court martial by any publicity concerning that offer," Forrestal wrote.

The secretary's reference was to the findings of army and navy Pearl Harbor investigating boards released by the White House.

Blame Higher Officials

Those boards reported no cause for court martial trials. They attributed some of the responsibility for the Pearl Harbor debacle to officers higher in command than Kimmel and Lt. Gen. Short, who was in charge of Hawaiian army forces.

Kimmel, since he was relieved of command shortly after the Japanese struck, has repeatedly said he wanted trial. Short, after the White House report, issued a statement saying "my conscience is clear."

Walsh, chairman of the naval affairs committee, had asked Forrestal for a complete file of the navy's investigations of the circumstances surrounding the surprise Japanese attack.

The secretary furnished a record of testimony taken by Adm. Thomas C. Hart, now a senator, in 1944. Included was a report by a navy court of inquiry and of the additional investigation by Adm. Hewitt.

Decision Up to Congress

In the letter to Walsh, Forrestal wrote:

"The navy department will abide by the decisions of your committee and the naval affairs committee of the house as to whether the information contained in these documents which has not been heretofore released is of sufficient public importance to warrant compromising sources of information which

TELLS JAPS: CLEAN UP BECAUSE AMERICANS HATE DIRTY PEOPLE

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 8 (AP)—Because "the Americans hate dirty people," the Osaka radio today urged Japanese to "keep the streets and homes clean, wear clean clothes, and shave their untidy beards."

Americans scorned Japanese living in America in the past, the broadcast explained, principally because "the Japanese people were dirty. If once the American people mark a race as inferior they will scorn this race to the last, and it is very difficult to have them change this opinion. Therefore, we must do everything to give them a good impression of us."

The broadcast also offered these tips on what sort of people Americans are: "They are frank and are apt to joke frequently, even in their daily conversation. They value greatly their own ideas and whatever they consider as right."

'TOO SUCCESSFUL,' SAYS JAP OF RAID ON PEARL HARBOR

TOKYO, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Japanese were "amazed" at the success of their Pearl Harbor attack, but they were caught without a plan to take immediate advantage of the blow with a landing on Hawaii, a Japanese official said today.

Planes from four carriers, protected by three battleships, eight cruisers, and 20 destroyers hit Pearl Harbor, said Capt. Ryonosuke Imamura, secretary of the naval ministry.

"We had expected a much greater defense at so important a base," he declared. "We were amazed. Our fleet was told to bomb and leave. We had no troops with which to make a landing. If we had, perhaps we could have taken Hawaii, but we had no plan to do so."

The planes sank the battleship Arizona and damaged seven other battleships, three cruisers, three destroyers, and several other vessels, and left a toll of 3,303 service men killed or missing and 1,272 wounded.

Planned Midway Occupation

Imamura's report agreed with that of Rear Adm. Toshitane Takáta yesterday.

Takata said the Japanese later planned to occupy Midway Island, 1,450 miles northwest of Pearl Harbor, but the American victory in the battle of Midway, June 3-6, 1942, six months after Pearl Harbor, wrecked that plan.

"The defeat of our fleet at Midway, where we lost four aircraft carriers, was the turning point of the war," Imamura said.

He said the shelling of the American coast near Santa Barbara, Cal., and Fort Stevens, Ore., by Japanese submarines early in the war were merely incidental to the patrols of the underwater craft between Hawaii and the United States.

After Pearl Harbor "our submarines showed excellent results," the officer said. "They patrolled easily all the way to the coast of the United States."

The submarine shelled oil tanks near Santa Barbara "because we felt them important war assets," Imamura said. "So it was with Fort Stevens. We didn't use these attacks to terrorize your people, but to strike war blows."

Japs Lose 126 Submarines

The officer said Japan lost 126 submarines during the war, but had 60 left to surrender. He expressed the belief the U. S. cruiser Indianapolis, sunk off Leyte, Philippines, last July 30, was torpedoed by the huge submarine I-13, which has not returned to its base. It has not been officially determined whether the cruiser was sunk by a mine or torpedo.

Imamura said he believed Japan was defeated because of lack of air power. Homeland war plants were starved for materials by the allied air and sea blockade.

The American invasion of the Solomons upset Japanese submarine warfare, giving the allies bases for planes to protect allied convoys, said Comdr. Tamori Yoshimatsu, a submarine skipper and member of the Japanese military affairs bureau.

Imamura, who commanded the cruiser Kiso when six direct bomb hits sank it in Manila bay, said "we started the air war at Pearl Harbor and Singapore, but made the mistake of not following those tactics."

Lay Shooting of Patient to Navy Officer

Lt. [j. g.] George A. Funk, 42, personnel officer in the naval training center hospital at Great Lakes, was held on $2,000 bail yesterday on charge of shooting Ernest Meads, 40, a chief petty officer, who had taken Funk's young daughter and his young sister-in-law to a beach party. Police said Meads was a mental patient in the hospital.

Meads staggered into the North Chicago police station about 2 a. m. yesterday and reported that Lt. Funk shot him in the left leg and belabored him on the head with a pistol.

Officer Denies Shooting

Sergeants Roy Shoub and John Hladnik of North Chicago hurried to the Funk home at 922 Broadway, in North Chicago, and, after some difficulty, induced a member of the household to open the door. When they met Lt. Funk he denied he had shot Meads, but admitted that he had beaten him with his fists.

The police reported they found a .45 caliber pistol in the Funk home, but the cartridge clip was missing from it.

Meads told the police that he had taken Lt. Funk's daughter, June, 17, and Funk's sister-in-law, Jeanne Roemer, 18, to a beach party at Lake Forest on Friday night. Rain interrupted the party, and Meads related that he then escorted both young women to the Funk home.

Miss Funk Goes Indoors

Some time later Miss Funk went indoors, leaving Meads and Miss Roemer on the front porch.

Meads told police that Lt. Funk became angry when he discovered the two on the porch. He charged that Lt. Funk drew a pistol during their altercation and shot him. In addition to the leg wound he received several cuts on the head and face. His condition, however, is not serious, hospital surgeons said.

Lt. Funk, when arraigned before Police Magistrate J. B. Neuhaus, again denied that he shot Meads and exhibited a cut on his hand to show that he only had used his fists. Hearing of assault charges were deferred until Sept. 18. Police said naval officers took Lt. Funk into custody.

Yank and 15 Britons Liberated from Rabaul

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 8 (AP)—One American and 15 Britons were among 28 white liberated prisoners of war reaching Jacquinot bay, south of Rabaul, New Britain, Melbourne radio reported tonight. All could walk, but were suffering from malnutrition and other ailments. They had been imprisoned at Rabaul.

FIRST YANK TO ENTER TOKYO TO USE PRIZE FOR A CHICKEN FARM

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 8 (AP)—The American soldier who was the first to enter Tokyo officially, and thereby qualified for a $1,000 prize offered by the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Ottawa county, Okla., intends to go home and buy a chicken farm with the money.

Interviewed in a broadcast from Tokyo, Pvt. 1st Class Paul E. Davis of Fairland, Okla., said he got the honor simply by asking for it a long time ago.

"I was lucky enough to join the 1st cavalry division under command of Maj. Gen. William C. Chase," he said. "When we arrived in Luzon I asked Gen. Chase what the chances were of being the first soldier to enter Tokyo from my county. Gen. Chase told me, 'Just stay with this division and you'll make it.' Today I reminded the general of his promise. We came into Tokyo and he congratulated me for my good luck."

SCOTLAND YARD BELIEVES HITLER IS STILL LIVING

LONDON, Sept. 8 [Reuters]—According to tonight's London Evening Standard, officials of Scotland Yard—Britain's famous criminal investigation department—believe that Adolf Hitler is alive.

The paper said that during his stay in Wales as a British prisoner Rudolf Hess, Hitler's deputy, wrote a book about the Fuehrer. This book has now been scrutinized by British intelligence officers. The Evening Standard said that the book outlined possible hiding places and escape routes as part of Hitler's alternative plans should he fail to conquer the world.

Believes Hitler Alive

BERLIN, Sept. 8 [Reuters]—Dr. Karl Maron, deputy mayor of Berlin, today said that he thought Adolf Hitler alive. He said it had been proved that none of the five bodies found near the chancellery shelter was the Fuehrer's.

Warrants Out for 4 Men in Labor Beating

Municipal Judge Oscar Caplan in Fillmore st. court last night signed warrants for the arrest of four men who yesterday severely beat and kicked Carter Olsen, 30, of 2500 N. Washtenaw av., an assembler at the Greyhound Motor and Supply company, 916 N. Kilbourn av., in an alley near Augusta blvd. and Kostner av.

One of the warrants was for Frank Carroll, business agent for local 701 of the Auto Mechanics' union [AFL]. The others were John Doe warrants. Bond was fixed at $1,500 real estate or $500 cash.

Capt. George Barnes of the police labor detail immediately took the warrants, signed shortly before midnight after Judge Caplan had made a special trip to the court to issue them, and started a search for Carroll and his companions.

Several Teeth Knocked Out

Several of Olsen's teeth were knocked out in the attack, and he was treated at St. Anne's hospital, where he was taken by Austin police, for bruises on the body and cuts on the head.

Olsen, a member of local 701, was one of a group of mechanics at the plant who, Friday, signed a petition notifying the union they would no longer recognize it as their bargaining agent after expiration in October of the union's current contract with the plant.

Yesterday, Carroll and three companions called at the plant and asked to see Olsen. When Olsen emerged from the shop, he told police, Carroll swung at him and he ducked. Then the three other men grabbed him, he said, but he broke away and fled from the plant.

Kicked and Beaten

The four men caught up with him in the alley near Augusta blvd. and Kostner av., seized him, knocked him down, and severely beat and kicked him, he asserted. Then they drove away.

On the way back to the plant, Olsen said, he met another business agent of the union who swore at him and told him, "Now you can go to the CIO."

At the Austin station, Olsen told Capt. Barnes he did not know Carroll's three companions, but that he would recognize them if he saw them again.

Arrested Two Years Ago

Capt. Barnes said he arrested Carroll two years ago after Carroll had attacked a CIO organizer passing out handbills. At that time, when Capt. Barnes informed Carroll that he was a police officer, Carroll replied "So what?"

Carroll was dismissed in court at that time, Barnes said, when his victim told the judge he did not desire to prosecute.

LOU ZAMPERINI, OLYMPIC STAR, CHEATS DEATH

One Pal Saved, but Other Succumbs

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Sept. 6 [Delayed]—Lt. Louis Zamperini, mile runner in the 1936 Olympics who was given up for dead when he failed to return from a search mission in an army plane almost 28 months ago, is on the way home today after an incredible survival of 47 days on a raft, followed by equally incredible cruelties in Japanese prison camps from the Marshall Islands to Honshu.

Lt. Louis Zamperini

Lt. Russell A. Phillips of Princeton, Ind., pilot of the army B-24 in which Zamperini was bombardier, also survived the raft ordeal and shared his prison hardships until he was sent to another camp recently. A third man on the raft, whom Zamperini could identify only as McIntyre, the tail gunner, died on the 33d day at sea. The other seven of the B-24's crew were lost with the plane.

Zamperini's survival was held so unlikely by the army that the day after he broadcast on the Japanese radio, American networks carried an army announcement—which was relayed to Zamperini via the Japanese—saying he definitely had been killed. That was a year ago.

Family Kept Up Hope

But his family in Torrance, Cal., nevertheless kept up hope and wrote to him as if he still were alive. He received their letters three weeks ago.

[His family said at that time—Nov. 21, 1944—that only Zamperini himself could have known the details he broadcast.]

At this moment he is in a plane bound for Okinawa, none the worse for his starvation, exposure, and thirst, and the Japanese torture except that his weight is down from a normal 160 pounds to 143. But when Japanese fishermen captured him and Phillips in the Marshalls, he weighed only 87 pounds.

With another plane a half-hour ahead and out of sight, Phillips took off from Kualoa airport on Oahu Island, Hawaii, on May 27, 1943, to search for a B-25 reported down 200 miles northwest of Palmyra. They took a jinx plane that no one liked to fly. The eager co-pilot asked Phillips to exchange seats with him, and the latter did. For that reason, the co-pilot is dead and Phillips lived.

Plane Plunges Into Sea

At 2 o'clock that sunny day, the plane reached the area where the B-25 had gone down. Zamperini warned the crew to be on the lookout and was about to report to the pilot when the two port engines died. The plane slanted into the sea, nose down. There was a terrific explosion and Zamperini found his neck pinned beneath a machine gun mount and coils of wire wrapped around his waist and legs holding him down.

He already had grabbed a life raft at the waist window. This and the University of Southern California ring on his finger saved his life. The plane dipped beneath the waves as it exploded. The part where Zamperini was pinned shot back to the surface and as light again streamed thru the window he saw two bodies float past, mangled beyond recognition.

Pulls Two Onto Raft

Then the plane dived again. Zamperini, trapped, felt pressure in his ears, then his head became one vast ache and he began swallowing water. He estimated he was 40 feet beneath the surface. He yanked the cord inflating his Mae West life belt. This and the buoyancy of the raft pulled him upward, badly wrenching his neck and tearing flesh from his legs and body as the gun and wires reluctantly let him go. His ring caught on the window casing, badly gashing his finger, but now he knew in the darkness that he had one hand on the win-

WAINWRIGHT'S WEARY WAIT IS OVER; HE'S HOME!

You Can't Win!

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 8 (AP)—Gen. Wainwright said with authority today that card players who expect to beat the game of solitaire consistently might just as well give it up as a bad job.

"I played a lot of solitaire in prison," he said in an interview. "I set a project for myself to find out the percentage of wins there would be in 10,000 games.

"By the time my rescuers arrived I had played 8,642 games and the percentage of wins was 6.8.

"Of course, I have no regrets about not finishing the test."

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 8 [Special]—Grim, tired, and carrying a cane, Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, the gangling hero of Corregidor, came home today to an ovation that brought him to the verge of tears.

He wore the four stars of his new full generalcy on a new shirt whose collar hung loose around his thin neck as he stepped from an army transport plane to the soil of his homeland at Hamilton field. Two thousand civilians and military personnel greeted the C-54 that brought him from Honolulu en route to Washington, D. C.

Troops Battered, Overwhelmed

Gen. Wainwright told how his troops were subjected to the most intense artillery bombardment in history as they held back the Japanese on Bataan and Corregidor.

"With my men battered and overwhelmed, further resistance was useless," he told a press conference. "So I surrendered to M. Homa, the Japanese general.

"A few days ago it was my turn. The shoe was on the other foot. I was present at Baguio in the Philippines when Gen. Yamashita was obliged to bow his head in surrender."

Plans to "Say Plenty"

The general said he will have "plenty to say" in Washington about the cruelties the Japanese inflicted on America's fighting men.

When the general's plane settled on Hamilton field, bringing him back from 42 months of imprisonment, the western defense command band broke into the strains of "Semper Fidelis" [Always Faithful]. Wainwright saluted and the military personnel on the field returned it.

Then, followed by his chief of staff, Brig. Gen. L. C. Beebe, he walked forward to the music of "The General's March." Maj. Gen. H. C. Pratt of the western defense command grabbed his hand and said, "Gosh, Skinny, I'm glad to see you." Wainwright smiled a tired, thin smile.

Embraced by Sister

Then Mrs. Frederick Mears of Seattle, Wash., the general's sister, threw herself into his arms and burst into tears. Wainwright took off his cap and kissed her. Then he wiped from his cheek something that looked suspiciously like a tear.

The general walked with a cane, but Beebe explained the limp was due to a polo injury suffered years ago.

Wainwright's husky son, Comdr. J. M. Wainwright V., known to his intimates as "Captain," nearly bowled him over as he grasped him in his arms and exclaimed: "Thank goodness, you don't look as bad as you did in your pictures."

"Thanks, son," the father replied.

"To Say I'm Happy . . ."

In a brief broadcast later, the general said: "To say I am happy to be home after five years abroad would be to gild the lily."

In addition to Beebe those who returned with Wainwright included Col. John R. Pugh, aide de camp; Lt. Col. Thomas Cooley, aide de camp, and Master Sgt. Hubert Carroll, orderly.

Tomorrow Wainwright will ride at the head of a military parade of 20,000 marchers.

Later in the day he will leave for Washington to make his official report on what happened in the Japanese prison camp in which he was held captive.

KOREANS DEFY JAPS TO CHEER AS YANKS LAND

Nation's Surrender to Be Signed Today

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

INCHHEN, Korea, Sept. 8—Koreans by the thousands lined the highway from this city to Seoul, the capital city, waving American flags and shouting cheers as the American 7th division landed at this port today.

In sharp contrast the port city, Inchhen, where Jap armed police stood at almost every intersection, is virtually abandoned. Those Koreans who remained in Inchhen peeped between closed shutters at the first Americans they had seen in 15 years.

Brig. Gen. Crump Garvin, Fayetteville, Ark., chief of staff of the 24th corps, immediately went into conference with the Jap army and navy commanders and the Jap governor general. The surrender of Korea will be signed at 4 p. m. tomorrow in the grandiose governor general's palace in Seoul, which today regained its Korean name. During the Jap dictatorship it was known as Keijo, just as this port's name was changed by the Japs to Jinsen.

Release 166 Prisoners

One hundred and thirty-eight Americans, 20 Britons, and eight Australians, prisoners of war, were released from a near-by prison camp.

Outside of town, the natives made it a holiday. Koreans from their little tile and brick villages line the 20 miles of road. Hundreds had American flags made in the last week. A huge welcome sign flies from the tower of what until today was a Japanese controled factory.

"Why haven't you come earlier?" asked Min Won Sik, University of Chicago educated teacher in Seoul's Chosen Christian college.

The last two weeks in Seoul, since the Japs quit the war, have been a nightmare, Min said. Jap soldiers, in a final fling of hate, have killed and robbed. Machineguns have been set up on the main intersections, the Japs claiming that the arms were necessary to prevent uprisings against them by the Koreans whom for 35 years they have treated virtually as slaves.

Defy Orders of Japs

Never since the entry into Manila have the Americans received such an apparently sincere welcome. These people were warned by the Japs to make no exhibition when the Americans arrived, and Korean auxiliary police, armed with wooden rifles, since the Japs trust no Koreans with guns, were posted along the route to make certain that the order was carried out. However, the auxiliary police joined in the cheers. Some even had American flags tied to their mock guns.

Children went wild like kids at a circus parade, running and shouting and waving. Women, in skirts and short boleros buttoned only at the neck, held naked babies in front of them and moved the tots' hands in a wave.

From a huge convoy of transports that left Okinawa three days ago troops of the 24th army corps under the command of Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, got their first look at the "hermit" kingdom which has been under the Japanese lash for nearly forty years.

Dodge Mine Fields

For three days and three nights the transports dodged mine fields in the east China sea and the Yellow sea.

This morning a Japanese picket boat made a rendezvous with leading elements of the 7th amphibious force of the 7th fleet and another Jap boat stood by flying the international signal "welcome." A dozen Japanese harbor pilots clambered aboard and guided the transports thru the tortuous channel winding among uncountable small green islands for 15 miles from the port.

SEIZE NAVAL BASE TODAY

ABOARD THE U. S. S. PANAMINT, Mutsu bay, Japan, Sept. 9 [Sunday]—(AP)—Vice Adm. Frank

Jack Fletcher, commander of United States North Pacific naval forces, will take formal command of the Ominato naval guard district today, extending allied occupation to northern Japan.

In ceremonies aboard the Panamint, flagship of the 9th fleet, at 10 a. m., Vice Adm. Kenji Ugaki, commandant of the Ominato naval base, will sign the document for transfer of the naval district to American control.

Fletcher's flotilla of nearly 60 ships, which guarded the Aleutians and Alaska and made forays against Japanese bases in the Kuriles, anchored in Mutsu bay on the north coast of Honshu Island after navigating the treacherous Tsugaru strait between Honshu and Hokkaido. Japanese pilots guided the ships thru the strait.

Would Have Been Easy

Adm. Ugaki has been ordered to bring with him the army commander in the Ominato district and civil leaders, for the ceremony aboard the Panamint.

Ominato would have been a pushover for Fletcher's fleet had the American chosen to take it in battle. There are but few Japanese warcraft and planes in the area bounded by Ominato and the city of Hakodate, on the nearby south coast of Hokkaido Island.

Among the American warships are the heavy cruisers Salt Lake City, Pensacola, and Chester; the light cruisers Richmond and Concord; six escort carriers, 25 destroyers, three destroyer escorts, and numerous auxiliaries and minesweepers.

Few Vessels in Port

The fleet dropped anchor during a rainstorm. Marines immediately manned reconnaissance boats to tour the shore line and naval crews prepared to immobilize Japanese shipping. Three floating mines were destroyed.

Terms handed the Japanese ordered the decommissioning of Ominato naval base, 400 miles north of Tokyo, maintenance of warships and merchant craft without damage, and information on the location of prisoner of war camps in the area. The Americans found few Japanese war vessels in port—not enough to have stopped two squadrons of United States destroyers had there been a fight for the base.

There were eight Japanese frigates, 12 torpedo boats, 13 small gun boats, and four launches in the harbor ready for service. There also was a damaged destroyer, an obsolete cruiser, and four merchant ships, the largest of 8,000 tons. Shore installations were such that Fletcher's force could have knocked them out easily.

Orders No Fraternizing

It was from the Ominato base, which controled the Kuriles to the north, that Japanese seizure of Attu and Kiska Islands in the Aleutians was directed. Fletcher, who fought the Nipponese in the battles of Midway and Coral sea, ordered the men of his command to respect the property and persons of Japanese ashore, but not to fraternize with them.

The admiral said that "all Japanese, however they may talk or act, are still enemies of the United States."

Spread Over Japan

TOKYO, Sept. 9 [Sunday]—(AP)—American troops with bayonets ready spread their control over more of subdued Tokyo today as additional men, tanks, and guns streamed into Japan.

The American flag flew over this devastated capital of a fallen empire, placed there yesterday at the command of Gen. MacArthur.

The Tokyo radio said American rule over the homeland would reach up to Japan's northernmost limits of Hokkaido by Oct. 4.

Katsuura naval and submarine base on Honshu's eastern coast southeast of Tokyo, will pass under United States control before nightfall.

Sasebo to Be Taken Over

Tokyo radio announced a schedule of occupation which would place American forces in control of many strategic points of the empire by early October. The naval base of Sasebo on the western coast of Kyushu will be taken over Sept. 22, presumably by the United States 5th fleet.

Wakayama, steel city of 195,000 population 30 miles southwest of Osaka—the great industrial complex lying 250 miles southwest of Tokyo—will change hands Sept. 25, Tokyo said.

Tokyo reported Yokkaichi, oil refining center 60 miles northeast of Osaka, will be occupied Oct. 2, the north Honshu port of Aomori Oct. 3, and the northernmost island of Hokkaido Oct. 4.

The Japanese also said two officers of the United States 6th army had left Tokyo yesterday for Kyoto to arrange for its occupation. Kyoto, ancient capital of Japan, is 20 miles north of Osaka.

Gen. MacArthur toured Tokyo, lunched at the Metropolis hotel with his staff and then returned to his headquarters at Yokohama.

Girls Hide from Yanks

Many residents of Tokyo's outskirts, who had been subjected to propaganda stories about pillage and rape, were obviously afraid of the Americans. Numerous young girls ran to hide as the troops moved by.

One village had huge signs posted reading: "Take care of infections. Disease is prevalent in this village."

The Americal division, veterans of South Pacific fighting, was arriving in the Yokohama area on the heels of first units of the 27th division.

Maj. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold of the 14th corps landed in Yokohama with most of his staff preparatory to moving on up to Sendai, railway city north of Tokyo which will be occupied this week.

These forces will spread out over Honshu north of Tokyo, while the United States 6th army will begin occupying parts of southern Honshu as well as Kyushu.

Find Prices High

Correspondents found prices high and there was no evidence the Japanese had been informed of Eichelberger's order setting the exchange rate at 15 yen to the dollar.

Domei agency told the Japanese to accept "invasion" money with the same readiness as they did their own yen.

Some stores and banks offered slightly over four yen to the dollar, while black market prices were as high as 50 yen. Most Americans had dollars, despite an official statement they would be paid in yen.

SINGAPORE JAPS BEACHED SHIP HIT BY U. S. SUB

SINGAPORE, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Japanese cruiser Takao, lying beached alongside her damaged sistership, Myoko, was torpedoed astern by an American submarine off Leyte during the first invasion of the Philippines, it was learned today.

The Takao was barely able to return to its base here, where it was beached and the stern cut away.

Singapore's naval base also harbors two German submarines which arrived from Kiel more than a year ago, and were operated by their nazi crews until the Nazis surrendered. Japanese then took the U-boats over for training, with Germans as instructors.

BAIL BONDS FREE 5 FILIPINOS HELD FOR AIDING JAPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 8—Five Filipinos imprisoned by the United States for collaboration with the Japs were released today under $10,000 bond after being turned over to the commonwealth government yesterday.

They are Nicanor Boxas, who was executive secretary to the puppet president, Jose Laurel; Arsenio Bonifacio, who was vice minister of home affairs; Vicente de Gusman, who was executive officer of the board of information; Javier Pabalan, puppet governor of Bulacan province in Luzon, and Bartolome Gatmaiten, a former member of the Manila city council.

A Philippine department of justice spokesman said that members of the Philippine congress still detained in the insular penitentiary will be given top priority over more than 1,900 political prisoners.

Filipino patriots are indignant over the easy release of the local collaborators. There is a popular belief that the collaborators, many of whom were former political big wigs, will go free in view of the fact that the judges who will sit on the Peoples' court were proteges and stooges of the accused collaborators.

NAGASAKI ATOM BOMBING TOLD BY EYEWITNESS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—A pillar of purple fire shot 10,000 feet into the skies over Nagasaki Aug. 9 from the burst of the second atomic bomb dropped on Japan, according to a graphic eye witness account released today by the war department.

The account was written by William L. Laurence, science writer for the New York Times and a special consultant to the Manhattan engineer district which developed the atomic bomb.

Laurence flew in one of two Super Fortresses accompanying the B-29 "The Great Artiste" which loosed the bomb on the city. Laurence's plane, which carried apparatus to measure the effects of the explosion, was commanded by Capt. Frederick C. Bock of Greenville, Mich.

Nagasaki, Laurence discloses, was one of several potential targets picked for the mission.

Wear Welders' Glasses

"We heard the prearranged signal on our radio, put on our arc welder's glasses and watched tensely the maneuverings of the strike ship about a half mile in front of us," Laurence writes.

"'There she goes!' some one said.

"Capt. Bock swung around to get out of range, but even tho we were turning away in the opposite direction and despite the fact that it was broad daylight in our cabin, all of us became aware of a giant flash that broke thru the dark barrier of our arc welder's lenses and flooded our cabin with an intense light.

"We removed our glasses after the first flash, but the light still lingered on, a bluish-green light that illuminated the entire sky all around. A tremendous blast wave struck our ship and made it tremble from nose to tail. This was followed by four more blasts in rapid succession.

Giant Ball of Fire Rises

"Observers in the tail of our ship saw a giant ball of fire rise as tho from the bowels of the earth, belching forth enormous white smoke rings. Next they saw a giant pillar of purple fire, 10,000 feet high, shooting skyward with enormous speed.

"By the time our ship had made another turn in the direction of the atomic explosion the pillar of purple fire had reached the level of our altitude. Only about 45 seconds had passed. Awe-struck, we watched it shoot upward like a meteor coming from the earth instead of from outer space, becoming ever more alive as it climbed skyward thru the white clouds. It was no longer smoke, or dust, or even a cloud of fire. It was a living thing, a new species of being, born right before our incredulous eyes.

"At one stage of its evolution, covering missions of years in terms of seconds, the entity assumed the form of a giant square totem pole, with its base about three miles long, tapering off to about a mile at the top.

"Then, just when it appeared as tho the thing had settled down into a state of permanence, there came shooting out of the top a giant mushroom that increased the height of the pillar to a total of 45,000 feet. The mushroom top was even more alive than the pillar.

"It kept struggling in an elemental fury, like a creature in the act of breaking the bonds that held it down. In a few seconds it had freed itself from its gigantic stem and floated upward with tremendous speed, its momentum carrying into the stratosphere to a height of about 60,000 feet.

Chicagoans Aboard Planes

"But no sooner did this happen when another mushroom, smaller in size than the first one, began emerging out of the pillar.

"As the first mushroom floated off into the blue it changed its shape into a flowerlike form, its giant petal curving downward, creamy white outside, rose colored inside."

Sgt. Raymond Gallagher, 23, of 5727 S. Mozart st., Chicago, was assistant flight engineer aboard the Artiste. Radio operator on Laurence's plane was Sgt. Ralph D. Curry, 20, of Hoopeston, Ill. Among the crew of the third Super Fort was Sgt. George L. Brabenec, 9717 S. Lawndale av., Evergreen Park.

DO OR DIE RAID SHATTERS NAZIS' ATOM DREAMS

Saboteurs Wreck Heavy Water Plant in Norway

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AP)—So important was their mission that saboteurs who destroyed German "heavy water" manufacturing equipment in Norway had orders to kill themselves rather than be captured.

This was disclosed tonight in a war office account of the daring parachute and glider expeditions in late 1942 and 1943 that slowed the Germans' feverish race to develop an atomic bomb of their own.

None of the saboteurs had to commit suicide, the announcement said, and none was captured.

Destroy Year's Production

Diaries of the expedition leaders disclosed that 3,000 pounds, or a year's production of heavy water, an important ingredient in the manufacture of atomic explosives, were destroyed in the saboteurs' strike at Vermork, Norway, on the night of Feb. 29, 1943.

Another large quantity was destroyed in an American bomber raid on the Norsk hydro electrolysis plant at Vermork, and more than 3,600 gallons went down when a ship on which the Nazis were trying to get it to Germany was sabotaged.

The Vermork plant, whose vital parts were ruined in the first act of sabotage, was the only major source of "heavy water" in Europe.

Called Vital to War Effort

"As early as 1939 German scientists had publicly admitted its manufacture might become vitally important to their war effort," the war office statement said. "How vitally, at that stage, we could only estimate.

"But since the obliteration of Hiroshima and Nagasaki we can be profoundly grateful that we did not underestimate."

The Germans gave up the project last November, dismantled "heavy water" installations and tried to send them to Germany. With the help of intelligence reports from the Norwegian undergrounds, however, much of the equipment was destroyed in transit by bombs and saboteurs.

OPERA RETURNS TO BERLIN AND AUDIENCE IS GAY

BERLIN, Sept. 8 (AP)—Opera came back to Berlin tonight, in a gay and enthusiastic reopening of the celebrated state opera. Christian Gluck's "Orpheus and Eurydice" was heard.

The audience was so enthralled that three principal performers took 18 curtain calls. The women in the audience had every hue and description of dress, most of them superannuated models.

The music seemed to retain its old high standard. Annaliese Mueller as Orpheus, Tiana Lemnitz as Eurydice, Ilse Mentzel as Eros, and Karl Schmidt as the conductor, followed in the footsteps of state opera's long artistic tradition.

POLICY OF U. S. TOWARD KOREA, FORMS MYSTERY

Nationals Fearful of Red Inroads

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8.—Members of congress today found that one of the major post-war mysteries is: "What is the American policy toward Korea?"

Korea at the moment is divided roughly on a half and half basis. The Russians occupy the northern half of the country and, by pronouncement of Gen. MacArthur, the Japanese in the southern half are to surrender to American occupation forces. Gen. MacArthur has designated Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge to receive the capitulation tomorrow at Seoul, the capital of the ancient land.

Meantime, all efforts to determine present or ultimate policy of the United States toward Korea have been fruitless. The state department pleads "military activity" as the reason for its inability to prescribe policy.

Military Avoids Policy

American military forces, concerned primarily with the Japanese surrender and the maintenance of order in their part of Korea, have little time or inclination to essay political policy making.

As a result, the nearly 30 million Koreans wonder whether the Cairo pledge of "independence in due course" means communist "freedom" or the institution of a democratic government.

The United States, portraying democracy, is silent. Russia, representing communism, likewise has had nothing official to say regarding Korea, but as they were and are in eastern Europe, the Communists are feverishly active, well supplied with funds, and the recipients of considerable aid, whereas Korean democratic forces, both within and outside Korea, receive no encouragement.

Red Drive Feared

With the democracies silent, Korean democrats expressed fears to members of congress of the infiltration of thousand of Communists into the American zone of occupation and the further use of their country as a pawn of power politics.

They are vociferous, however, in declaring they do not wish to exchange the bondage of 40 years of Japanese oppression for another set of chains that would link them irrevocably to Moscow.

The Koreans are highly suspicious of the activities of Dr. T. V. Soong, Chinese premier, who arranged the 30 year friendship pact between China and the soviet union. Nowhere in that treaty is there any reference to the future of Korea. Soong, moreover, has said there was no discussion of Korea during his Moscow sessions with Dictator Stalin.

SIGN SURRENDER FOR A MILLION JAPS IN CHINA

NANKING, Sept. 9 [Sunday]—(AP)—The formal surrender of 1,000,000 Japanese troops in China was signed here today at 9:04 a. m. [7:04 p. m. Saturday, Chicago time].

Gen. Yasutsugu Okamura signed for Japan.

The surrender was accepted by Gen. Ho Ying-chin, delegated by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. He arrived yesterday by plane, completely ignored six Japanese officers waiting at the field and went to the Central Military academy, China's West Point.

Trimly dressed members of the Chinese 6th army, flown into Nanking by American army planes, preceded and followed the general on a road lined with armed Japanese guards. Thousands of Chinese school children waved flags and cheered the liberating troops.

United States General Present

Another arrival at Nanking was Brig. Gen. Robert B. McClure, who will represent the United States at the surrender ceremony. He took up residence in the building that was the Manchurian embassy during the eight year Japanese occupation of the capital.

The spirits of Nanking's ill fed, often mistreated people rose visibly as the influx of Chinese soldiers continued. Many seemed to realize for the first time that the long years of bombings and beatings were over, that Nanking was free at last.

American troops in the capital were given freedom of the city during daylight. Some of them mingled with Chinese troops in the shopping area.

China's American trained 1st army, which helped oust the Japanese from northern Burma and open the Stilwell road, entered the south China metropolis of Canton, the Chinese high command announced.

Wildly Greeted at Shanghai

SHANGHAI, China, Sept. 8 [Reuters]—Cheers, the banging of gongs and drums, and the thunder of firecrackers set off by hundreds of people greeted Gen. Tang-Enpo, commander in chief of the Chinese occupation forces in the Shanghai and Nanking area, when he drove with some of his troops thru Shanghai soon after his arrival by air from Liucho.

Thruout the 30 mile drive, Gen. Tang stood in his car to acknowledge the cheers of the citizens. On his left was Brig. Gen. H. G. Boye, American commander of the 94th Chinese army, and on his right Wu Shao Chu, deputy mayor of the city.

The procession comprised 40 flag covered cars and trucks filled with singing school children, Chinese troops, and representatives of local patriotic associations. An incongruous touch was lent by the participation of two truck loads of Japanese soldiers, sitting stiffly to attention.

JAPS CONFIRM M'ARTHUR VIEW OF SEA BATTLE

Calls Bismarck Fight His Biggest Thrill

Rear Adm. Takata's admission in Yokohama Friday that the Bismarck sea battle in March, 1943, was the greatest shock of the war to the Japanese navy bore out the description of Gen. MacArthur at the time he announced the annihilation of a 22 ship convoy:

"We have achieved a victory of such completeness as to assume the proportions of a major disaster to the enemy."

In Yokohama the other day Gen. MacArthur described the victory as his most thrilling moment of the war.

Not only was it a major Jap defeat—costing them three light cruisers, seven destroyers, 12 merchant ships totaling 90,000 tons of shipping, and 15,000 soldiers, but it was a sample of perfect teamwork on the part of Gen. George Kenney's limited air forces, who lost one bomber, three fighters, and 12 men.

Greatest Air Success

The victory, employing a combination of altitude bombing and the new "skip" bombing method developed by Kenney, was the greatest ever achieved by purely air action against a naval force. Fortresses dropped 1,000 pound bombs from 7,000 feet and were followed by Mitchells at mast level which released their bombs to "skip" over the sea into the sides of the Jap ships, bounce off and explode under the surface where they could cause the greatest damage.

The first Jap convoy of 14 vessels was sighted March 1 as it skirted the north coast of New Britain, heading westward from Rabaul with the apparent intention of reinforcing Lae, which was under increasing threat from MacArthur's advances in New Guinea.

Bad weather prevented an attack that day and the skies were little better the next day, but one group of Fortresses managed to break thru a clear spot to sink or damage four ships. Clearing skies gave Kenney's airmen their opportunity the next day, and formation after formation hit the convoy as it turned Cape Gloucester and headed southward in Vitiaz straits.

Battle Carefully Planned

The Americans had a better target the third day, for off Finschhafen, New Guinea, the convoy was augmented by eight more ships. So effective was the bombers' work that day that only mopping up was necessary on March 4, the finale of a three day battle that so shocked the Jap war leaders they never again attempted to reinforce their New Guinea bases on a large scale.

The Japs had planned their action carefully. Meteorologists had correctly gauged the storm that broke over Rabaul and gave the convoy protection on the start of its trip. The route was planned so that land-based fighters could give it protection thruout its journey, but the Zeros could not stem the carefully organized tide of Kenney bombers and fighters.

WAINWRIGHTS TALK FOR FIRST TIME IN 4 YEARS

Skaneateles, N. Y., Sept. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Jonathan M. Wainwright talked today to her husband for the first time in four years, but the hero of Corregidor, deafened by artillery fire, was unable to hear her.

At 4:30 p. m. Mrs. Wainwright said she had just received a telephone call from her husband. She had to talk to him thru their son, Comdr. Jonathan M. Wainwright V. of the merchant marine, who met the general upon his arrival at Hamilton field, Cal.

Mrs. Wainwright, "too excited" to recall much of the conversation, said it was concerned principally with their plans for a meeting in Washington Monday.

TRUMAN TO RUSH ENEMY ALIENS' REPATRIATION

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—President Truman issued orders today to speed up the repatriation of enemy aliens who are held in this country and who have not gone thru immigration procedure. Such persons are believed to number about 3,000, including those sent here from other American countries for detention. The list is made up of about 1,000 Germans, 1,700 Japanese, and 200 Italians.

TELL HOW JAP SWORD EXPERTS KILLED CHINESE

Reveal Slaying of 100,-000 at Singapore

SINGAPORE, Sept. 8 (AP)—Eyewitnesses with keen memories of Singapore's era of sadism said tonight the Japanese slew tens of thousands of Chinese, whom they never could rule, with expert displays of swordsmanship and other barbaric cruelties.

One Chinese survivor estimated that nearly 100,000 of his fellow countrymen were killed, while the former physician to the Sultan of Johore placed the figure as high as 150,000.

The Japanese took pride in practicing lopping off heads with single two-handed strokes slicing diagonally downward from the nape of the neck, the Chinese said. Other Chinese said they witnessed executions in which rows of Chinese were machine gunned and fell into common graves they had dug under Japanese prodding.

Chinese Take Revenge

But the Chinese have long memories for faces. Now the Chinese guerrillas, called "hilly billies" by the city Chinese of Singapore, are taking their toll of the subjugated Japanese withdrawing thru Malaya. These guerrillas were armed during the war by British air drops and other clandestine methods. British officers have been withdrawn from the guerrilla units which the British now are trying to bring under control.

During the Japanese occupation the Chinese played their own game of subtle psychological warfare to harass the foe. They taught their children to chant: "English come, Nippon go! English come, Nippon go!" Then they sent the children tagging along beside marching Japanese soldiers, who in ignorance of the derisive intent, took up the chant until their English speaking officers stopped it.

Last Yank Leaves

The last of more than 2,000 American war prisoners and internees left this great base today, headed for Calcutta in giant C-54 Skymasters.

Ten British battle casualties also were evacuated. A lone American was left behind—an unnamed and presumably AWOL merchant seaman.

The repatriation of Japan's former American captives in Singapore had taken only three days. Removal of thousands of British, Indian, and other prisoners was to begin tomorrow.

Now it was the Japanese who were underdogs and the British, again the rulers of the "Gibraltar of the East," saw to it that the entire orient knew who was "losing face" and who had regained it.

The once strutting Japanese were ordered to seize picks and shovels and bend their backs at such manual tasks as filling trenches.

Miss America

Miss Bess Myerson of New York, winner in Atlantic City contest.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 8 (AP)—Bess Myerson, 5 feet 10 inches tall college graduate, tonight was crowned Miss America of 1945.

Miss Myerson, who carried the banner of Miss New York City, was selected from a group of 40 beauties from all over the country.

The new Miss America is 21 years old, weighs 136 pounds, and has brunette hair and hazel eyes. A graduate of Hunter college, where she majored in music, Miss Myerson plans further music study and is also interested in dramatics. With the title goes a $5,000 college scholarship, the first time such an award has been made in the annual pageant.

Runners-up were: Phyllis Mathis, 18, Miss San Diego, in second place; Frances L. Dorn, 18, Miss Birmingham, in third place; Virginia Freeland, 19, Miss Florida, in fourth place, and Arlene Anderson, 19, Miss Minnesota, in fifth place.

350 PRISONERS OF 1,619 SURVIVE JAPS' CRUELTY

INCHHEN, Korea, Sept. 8 (AP)—Fewer than 350 survived of the 1,619 American prisoners of war whom the Japanese loaded aboard a ship in the Philippines Dec. 13, 1944, it was revealed here today.

The Americans were packed in the hold of the Oryoku Maru in Subic bay on Dec. 15-16 when American bombers attacking shipping in the bay sank the prison vessel. Nearly 300 died then.

Five thousand Japanese aboard the ship were rescued by other Nipponese but the Americans were left in the holds. Many of the Yanks went mad from the horror.

The 1,341 Americans who finally broke out of the ship and reached shore were rounded up and kept for five days in a tennis court without food. Then they were given two tablespoons of rice each—a daily diet which continued until Dec. 27.

Many Die in Holds

Once more they were loaded aboard a vessel bound for Formosa but this time it was a cargo ship which had been carrying artillery horses and was still deep in manure.

On this voyage many men died in the holds and their bodies were left there as long as three days, a colonel said. Crazed by thirst, some of the prisoners bit their own arms and sucked the blood, he said.

This ship was bombed in harbor at Formosa and again the Japanese refused to let the prisoners take shelter. Several hundred were killed by a bomb burst in the hold.

Twenty-six of the men rescued today were enlisted men from a medical unit captured on Bataan. Others were officers also captured in the Philippines.

Only 600 Reach Japan

Regardless of rank, all were forced to do hard labor. While in the Philippines, said one major, a Japanese lieutenant commanding a farm detail issued pick handles to his men, who moved among the prisoners in the fields and beat them like water buffaloes.

Finally less than 600 survivors of the original 1,619 reached a new prison camp on southern Kyushu in mid-January this year, as a blizzard was raging. Some of the men were clad only in shorts, and all were in thin clothing, but they were marched around in the storm and in subsequent snows all winter.

During that period, they said, all dropped to less than 100 pounds.

A colonel who said he originally weighed nearly 250 pounds fell off to 89—a typical case.

The prisoners were taken to Korea last April. In May they said their treatment suddenly became much better. They were permitted to grow gardens and managed to steal enough food to keep from starving. Some even gained weight.

Yanks Garble Jap Radio

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Sept. 8 (AP)—"The Japs threatened to kill us if we told our American liberators the truth. Don't write us up until we've been flown out of Japan," a group of freed prisoners said. They are in the United States now, so their story can be told.

The group included Navy Radio Men Marvin Balhorn of Garrison, Ia., and Charles Sargent of South Chelmsford, Mass., Wake Island survivors, and Edward J. Borkowski of Trenton, N. J., survivors of the destroyer Pope, which was sunk in March, 1942.

Because of their technical skill they were assigned to man a secret Japanese listening post between Yokohama and Tokyo, where they purposely garbled the American messages they were assigned to intercept. For three years and four months they stood watch, entirely cut off from the rest of the world.

Illinoisan Freed

CALCUTTA, India, Sept 8 (AP)—The name of Pvt. Ernest B. Dunn, Gorham, Ill., was contained today on a list of prisoners of war freed from Japanese prison camps.

Annapolis May Receive Halsey's Unused Saddle

Montrose, Colo., Sept. 8 (AP)—The fancy saddle presented to Adm. Halsey by the Montrose Lions club may wind up on a museum wall instead of Emperor Hirohito's white horse. In a message today the admiral informed the club he couldn't even ride a horse, and that he planned to give the saddle to the naval museum at Annapolis.

CHARGE SCHACHT ARMED NAZIS TO CONQUER WORLD

War Crimes Body May Try 400,000

FRANKFURT ON THE MAIN, Germany, Sept. 8 (AP)—Hjalmar Horace Greely Schacht, former head of the Reichsbank, will be charged with active participation in Hitler's plans for world conquest, it was authoritatively learned today Schacht and 23 other top nazi confederates are slated for trial as war criminals at Nuernberg next month.

Evidence shows that Schacht "invented economic warfare" and had full knowledge of Germany's aggressive intentions. He made it possible for Hitler to rearm by blocking foreign accounts and nullifying the rights of foreign creditors, principally in the United States and Britain.

Praised by Defense Chief

As early as 1932, the year before Hitler came into power, Paul Joseph Goebbels noted in his diary: "In a conversation with Dr. Schacht I assured myself that he absolutely represents our viewpoint. He is one of the few who accepts the fuehrer's position entirely."

In 1937, after German rearmament was a fact, Hitler presented Schacht with a gold swastika. Gen. Werner von Blomberg, then minister of defense, at a public demonstration said that without Schacht's help "none of this magnificent German army would have been possible."

Financed Rearmament

An American spokesman said:

"Schacht will claim in defense that he got out in 1939, but in March of that year Hitler went into Prague and in September he marched into Poland. He had previously occupied Austria. We know that you can't rearm overnight. Schacht financed the rearmament program at the expense of Britain and the United States. He imported strategic materials and paid for them with money that should have been applied to Germany's defaulted debts."

Will Try Terrorists

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—The allies expect to try perhaps 400,000 Germans for war crimes.

Their courts will deal with smaller fry after disposing of at least 24 Nazi big shots in a master trial at Nuernberg.

A large part of the 400,000 will be made up of members of Hitler's terror outfits—the Gestapo and the SS [Elite Guard].

Both of those groups will be charged collectively with war crimes.

The 24 big shots—including Reichsmarshal Goering and Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop—face death by hanging if convicted.

Those convicted—and not executed—among the 400,000 face hard labor sentences, probably helping rebuild countries devastated by the Germans, such as Russia.

ALLIES LEAVE DOOR OPEN TO OUST HIROHITO

Mikado May Be Tried as War Criminal

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 (AP) — Emperor Hirohito of Japan may find himself out of a job soon.

And once the bespectacled little man has ceased to be the royal figurehead of Japan's religious-political system, he may be tried as a war criminal.

At the moment, as far as official Washington will say, these are good possibilities. Some foreign diplomats say they are certainties. Evidently the final decision is up to Gen. MacArthur.

MacArthur's entry into Tokyo opens a period of drastic political and economic changes in the defeated island country. The action symbolizes his control of the country.

Aim at Ideal of Peace

The changes will be designed to rip out the war-making powers of the Japanese and begin the long process of rendering them peaceful and more or less democratic. Top developments are tentatively expected to include:

1. Withdrawal of Hirohito from the throne—either by voluntary abdication or by order of the allied powers. He will be replaced by a regency for the schoolboy Prince Akihito. The regent probably will be an elderly member of the royal family.

2. Break-up of the "Zaibatsu"—the clique of eight great families which have run Japanese industry and commerce for generations. Some authorities who have helped shape American policy on Japan consider these families to be the real basis of lingering feudalism in Nippon.

3. Revision of the Japanese constitution to take power from the emperor and place it in the hands of the people.

Disarmament Is Problem

These three are long range measures beyond the immediate problems of disarming the enemy, depriving him of his arms factories, limiting his heavy industries strictly to peace needs, digging out war criminals, and destroying the military clique.

Grounds for speculation that the emperor may be tried as a war criminal are found here in the fact that powerful Chinese factions have demanded such a trial. American leaders see no objection to it and could find the technical basis for it in the fact that the emperor signed official documents starting the war.

Under the surrender terms the Japanese people got assurances that they would make the final decision on whether they wanted to keep any emperor. There were no guarantees for Hirohito the man.

Japs Accuse Own Leaders

TOKYO, Sept. 7 [Delayed]—(AP)—Japanese intellectuals who opposed the schemes of the empire's war lords are preparing their own list of war criminals, including on it Hideki Tojo, Nippon's premier when Pearl Harbor was attacked.

Prince Fumimaro Konoye, vice premier of the present government; Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu and Lt. Gen. Yoshijiro Umezu, vice chief of the imperial staff, who with Shigemitsu signed Japan's surrender document, also should be on the list, two close supporters of Premier Prince Higashi-Kuni said.

20,000 Women to Sell Heart Tags Tomorrow

Twenty thousand volunteer workers will sell paper hearts on the streets tomorrow in the annual tag day of the Chicago Have a Heart charities, Mrs. L. W. Budd, 6715 Oglesby av., chairman, said yesterday. The tag day is one of five approved by the city council. Last year's sale yielded $97,000, and it is hoped to increase the figure this year, Mrs. Budd said.

HEAD OF RUINED CASSINO ABBEY DIES OF MALARIA

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 8 (AP)—Msgr. Gregorio Diamare, 81, abbot of the war wrecked Monte Cassino abbey, died Sept. 3 of malaria at Santelia a Fiume Rapido, near Mount Cassino, it was announced today.

The aged abbot, who denied German parachute troopers ever entered the abbey, saw it ruined 18 months ago under an intensive American bombing. With 11 other priests, he was praying in the abbey air raid shelter when the bombs fell.

Even after the bombardment, which President Roosevelt said took place only after the Germans had converted the monastery into a fortress, it was weeks before allied troops finally clawed their way up to the abbey ruins.

JAPS NOW BOW TO MANCHURIANS THEY STARVED

Country Stagnant and Lacking in Coal

DAIREN, Manchuria, Sept. 9 (AP)—The first Americans ashore in Manchuria found the country little damaged by war, but with its commerce virtually stagnant, its people semi-starved and half a dozen feuds and enmities near the boiling point.

The Chinese here have a bitter hatred for the Japanese and the Nipponese know it and are doing their best to become invisible. The few Japanese seen on the streets almost snap their spines bowing to the Chinese they mistreated for more than 10 years.

The once busy port of Dairen, peace time soybean capital of the world, has been virtually a dead city for 18 months as a result of successful forays by United States submarines.

The Japanese, afraid to risk shipping along the west coast of Korea, diverted traffic over railroads thru Korea and only shipping across the Tsushima straits was attempted.

Tear Up Rail Track

The Mukden-to-Port Arthur segment of the Manchurian railway, formerly a double track line, was reduced to a single track when Japanese removed the rails presumably to build a second track thru Korea.

This move was typical of the frantic Japanese efforts to improvise alternate traffic routes as American pressure was directed against the Japanese controled territory.

Dairen has a magnificent harbor, but its traveling cranes and elaborate docks have been unused for many months. The port city's industries of glass manufacturing, soybean processing, and oil refining were halted months ago when the Japanese were unable to provide coal.

Coal and Food Scarce

Suffering in Dairen was reported to be wide due to the severe rationing of coal. Despite the nearness of coalfields, the breakdown of communications prevented the fuel from reaching the city. People in Dairen said the food situation had been acute for a long time. The Japanese fixed the Chinese rations below subsistence levels.

White flour has been unobtainable for two years and recently the Japanese have been stretching the black flour supply by mixing in ground corn cobs. Eggs on the black market cost $1.50 each.

The only thing certain about Manchuria's future is that billions of dollars the Japanese invested in the country to make it an industrial arsenal have been wasted.

2 TRIBUNE MEN AMONG FIRST IN TOKYO LANDING

Corp. Gene Powers, Tribune photographer on military leave, and Pvt. William J. O'Connor, Tribune guard, were among the first marines to land in the Tokyo area, said a dispatch from Sgt. Bernie Milligan, marine corps combat correspondent, received yesterday.

The two Tribunites met aboard a troop transport before the landing. Corp. Powers, a combat photographer, had been attached to marine aircraft carrier squadrons before he was transferred to the 4th marine regiment for the landing. His home is at 1425 N. Parkside av.

Pvt. O'Connor, a signal company operator, has been in foreign service for the last two years. His home is at 7027 Harper av.

U. S. EXPECTED TO BUY MOST OF BRAZIL'S RUBBER

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—The United States is expected to continue buying most of Brazil's natural rubber output even when far eastern sources reach normal production again, the Pan-American union said today.

Estimates of Brazil's 1946 output have been placed at 60,000 metric tons, compared to 16,430 in 1939.

In view of the industrial expansion planned in this country "The United States should be able to absorb all the rubber that Brazil can furnish to meet civilian demands," the report said.

1st at Great Lakes

Nine of the first 25 midwestern marines to be discharged under the point system at the Great Lakes Naval Training center yesterday were from Chicago and its suburbs. The first one to receive his honorable discharge fas Corp. John E. Boldyga, 21, of 4631 S. Wastenaw av. He had earned 114 discharge points. He was gun captain on a 20 mm. cannon on the cruiser U. S. S. Honolulu for 35 months and served in six naval engagements.

The other Chicago men were Sgt. Alvin Stone Carlstrom, 31, of 11 W. Division st.; Sgt. Lawrence J. Chrastka, 25, of 2700 Kominsky av.; Pvt. Robert Wilfred Crawley, 24, of 623 S. Keeler av.; Corp. John K. Hanson, 25, of 6548 N. Richmond st., and Sgt. Irvin A. Tvaroh, 30, of 1700 N. Rockwell st.

REVEAL U. S. SHIP LOST 112 MEN IN FIGHT WITH SUBS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—The destroyer escort Underhill lost 112 men, including 10 of her 14 officers, when she was sunk by a pack of midget submarines off southern Luzon last July 24, the navy announced today. Her total complement was 238.

The loss of the vessel was announced Aug. 10, and additional details were disclosed today with the safe arrival of survivors in the United States.

Two Submarines Sunk

Two of the six attacking Japanese subs were sunk in the battle, and the Underhill's casualties resulted from an explosion which followed the ramming of the second submarine.

The submarine pack was stalking a convoy southbound from Okinawa.

The navy made public the story of the action as told by Lt. Joe H. Timberlake, Starkville, Miss.

Presence of the submarines was discovered on the Underhill's detection apparatus, and an attack was ordered. The Underhill dropped depth charges and observed evidence of a kill. A moment later the periscope of a second submarine was sighted.

The destroyer escort quickly altered course and rammed the submarine, but the impact evidently set off the submarine's high explosives. The blast broke the destroyer escort in two.

Picks Up 126 Men

"Observers watching from other ships in the convoy said it was the biggest explosion they ever saw," Lt. Timberlake, the Underhill's senior survivor said, "They didn't think any one had survived."

However, patrol craft rushed to the scene and picked up four officers and 122 crew members who had been on the ship's after section. All those forward were lost.

The rescue was effected in the midst of a running battle with four other midget subs, none of which was known to have been sunk, tho all were driven away from the convoy.

Skipper on the Underhill was Lt. Comdr. Robert M. Newcomb, Winding River farm, Guilford, Conn. He was among those listed as killed or missing.

FIRST CARLOAD OF POULTRY IS SHIPPED BY AIR

A big cargo plane left Chicago airport yesterday with the first carload of dressed poultry ever shipped by air. The shipment, 17,500 pounds, was carried by American Airlines for the Peter Fox Sons company to the June Dairy Products company, a large poultry distributor in New York City.

The plane has already been used for shipping a variety of products. On a previous trip a capacity load of freshly picked fruit was brought from California to Chicago. The saving in time and refrigeration when perishable foods are involved, will compensate for the higher frate cost by air, it is believed.

EXPECTS CLOCKS TO BE SET BACK HOUR BY SEPT. 30

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 [Special]—Speedy action on the return to standard time thruout the nation was predicted today by two congressional leaders.

Rep. Boren [D., Okla.], chairman of a house interstate commerce subcommittee, told a reporter: "I can promise you we'll have the war time act off the books within two weeks." His group is preparing the necessary legislation based on more than 50 pending bills.

Rep. Cannon [D., Mo.], chairman of the house appropriations committee, said: "I am advised by those in a position to know that the repeal will be passed and transmitted to the President in time to become effective Sept. 30." Setting of the nation's clocks back an hour will be authorized by abolishing war time, under which the clocks were moved ahead an hour in 1942.

King, my chief military advisor, has indicated that, in his view, the information obtained from these sources is of such great and prospective value to our national security that we should continue to safeguard them to the greatest extent possible."

Must Study Report

Forrestal said that these sources had given the navy information by which this country "could keep itself informed of the intentions as well as the action of the enemy."

Walsh has said that the committee must study the report before it decides what course to take.

But the indications are that determination of the publicity question will be left to a joint committee of five senators and five house members. The senate has approved appointment of the special group for a thoro Pearl Harbor inquiry, and house action is expected Monday or Tuesday.

Refuse G. O. P. Equality

Republican demands for equal representation on the congressional investigating committee drew a rejection today from the house Democratic leadership.

"It's out of the question," said Speaker Rayburn.

His statement to reporters made it just about certain that the committee will consist of three Democrats and two Republicans from each branch of congress.

Republican Leader Martin wants three Democrats and three Republicans from each side.

Both Democrats and Republicans predicted the committee will split in its report next January, with six Democrats signing a majority report and four Republicans dissenting.

Rayburn said it would be impractical for the committee to be divided evenly because of the possibility of a deadlock on every important move.

High School Queen

MISS JOYCE HALL

Chicago's typical high school girl yesterday was selected from among several thousand by a jury of four "shrewd dudes" [high school boys] at a meeting of Calling the Girls club in the Fair store. She is Miss Joyce Hall, 17, of 4036 N. Kedvale av., a senior at Schurz High school.

Miss Hall is a tall, blonde with large blue eyes and a flashing smile. She received a $250 scholarship to a modeling school and a dress from the Fair. Runner-ups were Miss Cynthia Collins, 16, of 1112 E. 64th st., junior at Hyde Park High school, and Miss Janet Lee Price, 15, of 616 E. 89th st., a junior at Fenger High school.

The four "shrewd dudes" were Don Patterson, 17, of 6412 Harper av., a senior at Mount Carmel High school; John Schoondermark, 18, of 3414 W. 63d st., senior at Lindblom High school; Don Ansel, 16, of 2327 Winnemac av., senior at Lane High school, and Bob Hoy, 17, of 3249 Le Moyne st., senior at Austin High school.

DENY CLOTHING SALES AFFECTED BY NAVY'S ORDER

Chicago clothing merchants said yesterday the navy's order permitting naval personnel to wear civilian clothes off duty failed to affect their sales before it was rescinded. Dispatches from Washington, D. C., had disclosed that pressure to rescind the order was brought on the navy by Harry L. Hopkins, who was an intimate of the late President Roosevelt and is now impartial chairman of New York's garment industry.

One excuse given for the shift was that garment manufacturers would be unable to keep up with any additional demand for civilian clothes from naval personnel. The Chicago retailers said this was contrary to their experience. Large State street dealers agreed that men's clothing sales were not given any impetus while the order was effective.

One large store's spokesman said the navy's fears were groundless because the inclination of sailors is to delay restocking their wardrobes until they are discharged.

NAVY OFFICER'S WIFE IS KILLED IN TRUCK CRASH

Mrs. Jeanette Fisher, 22, of Shevlin, Minn., was fatally injured yesterday when a car driven by her husband, Lt. [j. g.] Floyd A. Fisher, 23, collided head-on with an army truck on U. S. 14 between Crystal Lake and Perry, in McHenry county. Lt. Fisher is in Sherman hospital, Elgin, in serious condition.

Five persons were slightly injured last night when a Chicago Surface lines bus collided with an automobile at Diversey and Central Park av., then knocked down a traffic light and water hydrant and smashed into the front of a drug store at 3600 Diversey av. The store is owned by Edmund Karwowski.

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 8 [Special]—Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. D. Taylor, superintendent of the United States Military academy, today announced that the academic course at West Point will go back to a four year basis after the present senior class is graduated in three years next June.

DEMAND BRITAIN SPEED RELEASE OF ITS SOLDIERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 8—The slowness in demobilizing Britain's army has aroused the Trades Union council. The general council of the TUC today drafted an emergency resolution on demobilization which will be presented at the congress' annual conference opening at Blackpool Monday.

The TUC will tell the Labor government that it must speed up demobilization of troops, who are being discharged at the rate of 45,000 a week; take the country into its confidence, and give it complete facts and figures on the demobilization situation.

Britain's labor needs, in order to regain its big export markets and satisfy home demands for goods, have been put at 5,000,000 workers. An indication that a large part of these 5,000,000 will be required to make goods for home consumption is seen in board of trade figures. They show a boom in London dress shops, houseware stores, cafes, candy and tobacco stores.

20 Killed When British Transport Plane Crashes

A "Scratching" Dog Is in Torment

Thousands of dog owners have found the good way to keep their pets from constant scratching, biting, rubbing, and digging. Once a week give them a dose of Rex Hunters Dog Powders. These powders usually help to bring prompt ease from an intense itching irritation that has centered in the nerve endings of the dog's skin. The urge to scratch abates—the dog is happier more contented. No wonder a purchaser writes: "Rex Hunters Dog Powders have given my dog great relief. Many thanks from 'Chink' and self." Why not try them on your own scratching dog. 25c at any good drug store, pet or sport shop. (Economy size box only $1.00).

Important: Keep your dog clean and flea free with Rex Hunters Medicated Dog Soap and Pine Oil Disinfectant.

GERMAN OFFERS ELECTRIC GUN'S SECRETS TO U. S.

Radio Repair Man Tells of Super Weapon

BY HENRY WALES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, Sept. 8—The super-secret weapon which the Nazis hoped to use to bombard America was invented by a German radio repair man who swears that he stalled and evaded submitting a completed model until Germany collapsed.

The inventor offers the secret and the patents to the United States but has requested that his name and address be withheld. He fears that the GPU [Russian secret police] will kidnap him and take him to Russia. He said the Russians seized his colleagues who worked for the Speer research department experimenting with atomic splitting and which produced the V-1 bombs and two other pieces of war apparatus.

"I believe the weapon can fire a shot around the world," said the inventor. "There is no limit to the range or caliber of the projectile."

Electricity Propels Weapon

The weapon utilizes electricity instead of explosives to propel the missile, employing the electro-magnetic principle.

"The simplest way I can explain it," said the inventor, "is that Marconi's original spark radio transmitter projected only the impulse whereas I harness a shell or bomb to the impulse and shoot it thru space."

The inventor got the idea when, as a radio repair man, he began tinkering with electro-magnetism, but the Gestapo learned about the experiments and Dr. Speer forced him to work in the nazi laboratory developing secret weapons.

"They did not want to kill me when I delayed work because they hoped I would finally finish the model," he said.

The electric artillery is faster than sound, is rapid fire, noiseless, smokeless, flashless, and has no recoil, he said. Therefore, it is breechless like a rocket, eliminating the heavy gun construction to withstand the shock and strain of explosives. The only weight is that of the projectiles, as the shells can be fired thru cardboard or plastic tubes which are used merely for aiming.

Fires Electric Pistol

A fighter plane could carry an 8 inch electric gun and a destroyer could carry a 16 inch size.

I fired the model electric pistol of 10 mm. caliber with a 15 gram cartridge ranging 200 yards by plugging in a wire to a 220 volt socket in the inventor's home. The missile's velocity was 60 meters per second after traversing an electro-magnetic field 1 inch long. Doubling the length of the field in proportion to the length of the projectile squares the speed to 3,600 meters per second, minus the air resistance.

Commercially the invention is a substitute for pneumatic, internal combustion, steam tools, or engines. It could be used for railways and automobiles if the dizzy speed was controllable.

THAILAND CHIEFS AIDED U.S. UNDER NOSES OF JAPS

American Officers Lived in 'Enemy' City

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—The office of strategic service [OSS] pulled another spy thriller from its voluminous collection of war secrets today to reveal:

That virtually the entire government of Thailand [Siam], supposed to be a satellite of Japan, was actually in league with the allies.

That Thai leaders in on the dangerous game were the regent, Luang Pradit; the premier, Thawal Bunyaket; and the chief of police, Luang Adul Aduldeckarat.

That for many months American army officers lived in a room in the heart of enemy occupied Bangkok and radioed out intelligence picked up by the Thais from conversations with the Japanese. Nowhere else did the allies have so direct a check on the enemy's thoughts, actions and plans.

Technically an Enemy

Part of the story of underground work in Thailand had been told before, but this is the first revelation that the allied scheme reached into the highest offices of the government. Thailand was technically at war with the allies.

The OSS directed the allied part of the underground operations, taking Thais and Americans in and out of the country under the very eyes of the Japanese and parachuting supplies and equipment to aid the underground.

Toward the end of the war, 12 jungle camps had been established by American army forces, working with the OSS, to train guerrillas for the time when the allied command might decide a general revolt of Thailand against the Japanese to be in order. Approximately 175 tons of arms and material also were dropped to aid the Thais.

Pulled Weight with Rest

The OSS, explained, however:

"The signal for open revolt, for which the Thais were waiting so eagerly, never came, and they never had their chance to prove their mettle in open conflict with the enemy. Even so, in the intelligence on the Japanese which they made available to the allied forces, they pulled their weight with the rest of the allied nations."

One OSS man, T-5 Edward J. Napieralski of South Bend., Ind., was killed in action.

Luang Sukhum, secretary general of the Thai civil service, in Washington on a special mission for the Thailand resistance movement, said a list of war criminals in Thailand now is being drawn up.

The list "most certainly will include," Sukhum said, "the name of Pibul Songgram, whom he described as the "former premier who seized power as a military dictator in 1938, allowed the Japanese to march into Thailand in December, 1941, and collaborated with occupation forces until he was forced out of office in July, 1944, by free Thai elements which dominated the Thai national assembly."

DOG 'FURLOUGH' GETS A PARDON, AND DISCHARGE

Fort Douglas, Utah, Sept. 8 (AP)—"Furlough" beat the rap, got a pardon and soon the mischievous little pup will be going home with Corp. James Donald of Coeur D'Alene, Idaho.

"Furlough" received the death sentence a year ago from the provost marshal who was annoyed by the pup's barking. "Furlough" escaped on his way to the city pound and later showed up at the guardhouse. The execution was delayed and the pup won many friends, including the provost marshal.

Today at a formal ceremony "Furlough" was pardoned. He barked his appreciation.

OSS RINGS WITH SELF-PRAISE TO ESCAPE THE AX

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8—The super secret office of strategic services, which has spent more than 125 million dollars in propaganda and intelligence activities around the world and still has 20 million dollars in its coffers, is fighting for its life.

It was learned tonight that the joint chiefs of staff of the United States—Adm. Leahy, Gen. Marshall, Adm. King, and Gen. Arnold—have decreed liquidation of the cloak and dagger organization which has drawn wide criticism for its strange conglomeration of communists, internationalists, Wall street operatives, and socialites.

Open Publicity Drive

To ward off the attack of the military high command, Maj. Gen. William J. [Wild Bill] Donovan, world war hero and bcsr of OSS, has embarked on a huge publicity campaign. The nation is to be flooded with reports of the accomplishments of the unit, which Donovan's aids hope will influence congress and perhaps the White House to countermand the orders of the joint chiefs of staff.

Last Aug. 28 Gen. Marshall presented a memorandum, which was approved by his colleagues, calling for the withdrawal of all service personnel from OSS and recommending that OSS functions be transferred to the army and navy. A copy of the memorandum, labeled "secret," was served on Gen. Donovan.

Called Gestapo Scheme

Early this year Donovan had submitted a plan to the White House under which he hoped to bring army and navy intelligence units and all federal police activities under a permanent OSS. This plan which was assailed in congress as calling for the creation of an American gestapo, was opposed by the joint chiefs of staff.

The Marshall memorandum on the dissolution of OSS said that latest available figures indicate there are approximately 8,000 army officers and enlisted personnel and a total of 8,000 navy, coast guard, and marine corps personnel on duty with OSS. It added that military necessity for the OSS ceased with the end of the war.

3,500 Civilians on Pay Roll

The memorandum also found that OSS has 3,500 civilian employes and 20 million dollars on hand to carry on its activities thru June 30, 1946. Gen. Marshall said a very considerable reduction in this fund could be made. The Marshall memorandum recommended:

"A. All army, navy, coast guard, and marine officer and enlisted personnel on duty with OSS should be withdrawn as rapidly as possible without disruption of work which should be completed.

"B. OSS functions which can be performed only by military personnel be transferred at once, with military personnel involved, to the war or navy department."

Barred by MacArthur, Nimitz

The memorandum directed Donovan to submit for the approval of the joint chiefs of staff as promptly as possible a plan for implementing the decision. The OSS operates under the chiefs of staff.

The Donovan organization has long been the target of criticism within the services, a criticism which was never voiced publicly except indirectly when Adm. Nimitz and Gen. MacArthur refused to permit OSS to assume intelligence operations in their commands.

To members of army, air, and naval intelligence OSS is a publicity organization which has plagiarized information gathered by these services and by the British secret service and claimed credit for work it did not do. OSS men, on the other hand, claim their organization contributed greatly to final victory.

There has been some demand among members of congress for an accounting of the vast sums expended by OSS. Now that the war is over, it is said, the people should be permitted to decide whether these sums were spent wisely or squandered.

HARBORD GIVEN THANKS FOR AID IN ARMY SUPPLY

New York, Sept. 8 [Special]—The man who was responsible for the tremendous task of keeping United States invasion forces supplied from the moment of their landings in Normandy flew here today to thank a retired veteran of World War I.

Lt. Gen. John G. Lee, former deputy to Gen. Eisenhower, and now commanding general of headquarters communications zone in the European theater, had luncheon with Lt. Gen. James G. Harbord, retired, who headed the services of supply under Gen. Pershing, and expressed gratitude for the advice Gen. Harbord gave him. Harbord is now chairman of the Radio Corporation of America.

"It helped materially," Gen. Lee told reporters on his arrival from Washington. "We were able to take advantage of his rich experience and avoid mistakes in difficulties."

RUSSIA CHARGES ALLIES FORCED ROMANIA PLEA

U. S. and Britain Ignored Reds, Paper Says

MOSCOW, Sept. 8 (AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia bluntly charged today that without first consulting soviet colleagues United States and British representatives in Bucharest went to young King Michael of Romania and demanded that Dr. Petru Groza's government be replaced.

King Michael

In an editorial across three-fourths of its front page the soviet Journal warned: "The standpoint of the soviet public is clear. It stands firmly on the principle of not permitting interference in the internal affairs of Romania, which is a sovereign, independent state."

When King Michael recently asked Russia, Britain, and the United States to assist in formation of a new regime which all could recognize, his action was not spontaneous, Izvestia charged.

"Really it was a straight case of allied representatives in Bucharest going to the king and telling him their governments would not recognize Romania nor conclude a peace treaty unless the Groza government was let out," the paper declared.

(Britain and the United States have signified willingness to accede to the king's request and assist in forming a new regime.]

Kremlin Fetes Groza

Izvestia's flat rejection of Anglo-American policy toward Romania followed a dinner given by Stalin for Dr. Groza at the Kremlin. The dinner, a highspot in the Romanian prime minister's current week long visit here, was described officially as held in a "warm, friendly atmosphere."

Today's editorial underscored predictions of diplomatic observers here that the likelihood of Groza's government being replaced is small.

"It would be laughable to think such interference encouraged only by anti-democratic forces would be thus made in the interests of democracy in Romania," Izvestia declared.

Western Allies Warned

Charging some sections of the foreign press with "trying to create a 'Romanian question'" similar to the Polish question which once existed, the government paper cautioned that "there is rising a more sober voice of peoples who, taking into consideration the history of the celebrated Polish question, forewarn England and the United States from repeating such policies regarding Romania."

The newspaper claimed that some foreign press reports gave the impression King Michael sought aid from the Big Three in forming a universally acceptable regime on the basis of statements on the situation by Secretary of State Byrnes and British Foreign Secretary Bevin and information from a private American source.

The editorial said that actually the initiative was taken by United States and British representatives without prior consultation with soviet members of the allied control commission.

After his letter was sent, King Michael told soviet representatives he had no complaints to make against the Groza government, Izvestia said.

THAILAND TELLS THE WORLD IT'S SIAM ONCE MORE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—Foreigners will know Thailand as Siam once again, the Thai legation announced tonight.

The name was changed from Siam in 1939 under a previous government.

Word of the order came to the legation from Premier Thawi Bunyaket, who said in a telegram that the change to Siam is effective for all foreign languages. In accordance with tradition the name in the native language of the Asiatic country will continue to be called Thai, he said. The premier's telegram called attention to long usage of the old name.

CHICAGO AIRMAN ONE OF EIGHT SLAIN BY NAZI CIVILIANS

The war department disclosed in Washington, D. C., yesterday that Frank L. Misiak, 37, of 2246 S. Cicero av., Cicero, was one of eight American army flyers who were slain last year by nazi civilians. His mother, Mary, a widow, had received word of his death.

Frank L. Misiak

The story of the slayings was revealed Friday when copies of French war crimes commission files were turned over to American authorities at Paris. Seven Germans are under arrest for the crimes.

Misiak, a graduate of J. Sterling Morton High school, Cicero, was employed as a spot welder before he entered the army in August, 1942. He trained as an aerial gunner. Misiak was one of five airmen who parachuted from a crashing bomber near Schollach, Germany. While three of them were being taken to German authorities by guards, they were halted and shot by armed civilians.

QUISLING WAITS AS JURY WEIGHS TREASON GUILT

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 8 [Reuters]—Vidkun Quisling, 58 year old Norwegian puppet premier under the Germans, is waiting in his cell this week-end for the verdict of his trial for treason which is due to be announced on Wednesday or Thursday.

Immediately after the conclusion of the trial yesterday, workmen started to install film and broadcast equipment in the courtroom to record the final scenes. Seven of the nine judges who heard the case are considering the verdict.

Quisling defended his actions on the last day of the trial yesterday. "I have meant well, tho I have perhaps failed in many ways," he shouted. "But I have also achieved much for Norway, and one day my countrymen will realize it."

4 SENT TO JAIL FOR THEFTS OF LUGGAGE OF GIs

Four men who were arrested Friday on charges of taking unguarded suitcases of soldiers and sailors in North Western railroad station yesterday were given jail sentences by Judge John J. Griffin in Desplaines st. court. The men are Raymond Marcus, 54, who gave no address; Arthur Herring, 56, of 836 Madison st., and William Baker, 44, of 20 S. Desplaines st., each of whom was fined $100 and costs and given a 10 days' sentence. The fourth, Perry Mathis, 41, of 623 Madison st. was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

DISCHARGE POINT SCORES REDUCED BY COAST GUARD

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—The coast guard cut its discharge points for male personnel today.

At the same time two senators suggested that all soldiers 30 years of age or older who have children be released, along with young men who left college studies to go to war.

One of the senators also suggested that limited service soldiers on special duty be released to make room for civilians who might need their jobs.

Cut from 49 to 43

The coast guard, operating in war time as a part of the navy, cut its points today for male personnel from 49 to 43 for commissioned and warrant officers and from 44 to 40 for enlisted personnel. The old points were the same as the navy's.

The coast guard explained that the lower average age of coast guardsmen, as compared with the navy, made the revision necessary in order to maintain its rate of release proportionate with that of the navy. The coast guard left unchanged the point scores for SPARs—35 for officers and 29 for enlisted women—the same as for WAVEs.

Modification o the navy point discharge system to take overseas and sea service into account was recommended today by Chairman Walsh [D., Mass.] of the senate naval affairs committee in a letter to Secretary Forrestal. Forrestal had previously disclosed that such a formula was under study.

Urged by O'Mahoney

Army release of all soldiers 30 or older who have children, was urged by Sen. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] in a letter he made public to War Secretary Stimson. O'Mahoney also urged that "all soldiers of limited service classification, who have had overseas service, and all soldiers who have sustained any injuries or who are found by physical examination to be ill, should be immediately screened from all outfits under consideration for Pacific service."

He suggested that "all officers and men whose scientific training, including medicine, dentistry and the like, was interrupted by the war and who in good faith desire to resume their training should also be released."

Sen. McCarran [D., Nev.] also wrote Stimson, calling attention to what he termed "the plight of many thousands of young men who left college to go to war."

"These men," he said, "it seems to me have every right to ask that they be allowed to return to civilian life at the earliest possible moment, and take up again the studies which they laid aside when their country called."

300,000 BRITISH ARMY TROOPS IN PACIFIC WAR

60 Per Cent of Navy There at the Finish

BY JAMES SLOAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 8—The British army's contribution to the allied forces fighting Japan amounted to 300,000 men it was disclosed today by Herbert Morrison, lord president of the council. There were 4,500,000 men in Britain's army, navy, and air force at the end of the war.

Only one strictly British division was earmarked for the invasion of Japan itself [which allied military experts once figured would cost 1,000,000 casualties, mostly American], Morrison revealed.

"When the enemy surrendered we were about to launch a large scale operation against Malaya. Our men in Burma also would have advanced into Siam," the Laborite cabinet minister, who wa minister of home security in the Churchill coalition government, told an audience at a V-J celebration in Lewisham.

Five Empire Divisions

"We were also ready to do our share with the United States in the invasion of Japan, itself. Five divisions—one British, one British-Indian, one Australian, one Canadian, and one New Zealand—were to be employed as a British commonwealth force under Gen. MacArthur."

Morrison said this would have necessitated the redeployment of 250,000 men from the European theater and that the force was limited, not by the number of men available, but because "our large passenger fleet was transporting United States troops across the North Atlantic."

On the naval side of the battle ledger Britain looked better, according to Morrison, who said that "over 60 per cent of the total strength of the royal navy was our contribution to the war in the far east, a force three times the size of the whole navy in 1939."

Fleet Moved to Pacific

This force began moving to the Pacific as soon as the threat from the enemy lessened in European waters, Morrison added, and by this March was supporting the American assault on Okinawa, 4,000 miles from its base at Sydney, Australia. The British force required 120 supply vessels to keep it operating while the southeast Asia command also had a fleet half as big as the Pacific armada to support its drive thru Burma.

Revealing figures on the war in Burma also were disclosed by Morrison who said the British forces totaled just over 1,000,000, including the 700,000 in the British-Indian army which is predominantly Indian.

Britain's war casualties, Morrison added, were "240,000 men in the armed forces, 31,000 merchant seamen, more than 60,000 civilians who were the first direct victims of enemy action, and 4,000,000 homes destroyed or damaged by bombs, of which nearly half a million were a total loss."

Tomorrow's Trains Exhibited

At Science Museum

Tomorrow's train traveler may dance, enjoy a movie, have an entire side of a dining car table to himself, and sleep in private luxury at a reasonable cost, according to the exhibit, "Tomorrow's Trains Today," which will be shown today in the Museum of Science and Industry. Presented by the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company, the exhibit will continue thru Sept. 30.

The most spectacular model is a club-cinema car, providing a combination bar lounge and observation lounge by day, which can be converted at night into a night club and movie theater, respectively. Other innovations include the day-nite car, which offers chaise longue sleeping comfort for coach travelers; the threedex coach, built on three levels to increase seating capacity one-third, for commuters, and a diagonal seating arrangement for dining cars which gives each traveler a side of the table to himself.

For greater sleeping comforts at lower cost there are the duplex-roomette, the three tier sleeper, which has a 42 berth capacity, and improvements on such standard sleeping accommodations as the drawing room, bedroom, compartment, and roomette.

HOW UNFINISHED FRENCH WARSHIP FOILED GERMANS

PARIS, Sept. 8 (AP)—How France's unfinished 35,000-ton battleship Jean Bart escaped capture during the debacle of June, 1940, finally was told today following her arrival at Cherbourg.

Workmen manned machine gun-studded barricades around the St. Nazaire docks to keep off the onrushing Germans while tugs towed the Jean Bart in the wake of dredges still clearing the channel.

It was not known whether the warship's engines would function, for two years' work remained to be done on her. Electric current broke down three times. Once towed into the unfinished channel, the Jean Bart ran aground and listed heavily. In the pitch black night dredges dragged the bottom under her bow and she cleared with the rising tide. Somehow the engines started and she made Casablanca.

U. S. URGES NEW RULES TO SET UP PRESS FREEDOM

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept. 8 (AP)—The United States delegation introduced a resolution at the third Inter-American communications conference today urging new regulations liberalizing the interchange of information among nations.

The proposal was submitted by Adolf A. Berle Jr., United States ambassador to Brazil. It asked liberalization of all government regulations dealing with the transmission and reception of press and radio messages and news addressed to multiple destinations for publication or broadcasting.

Text of Proposal

The text of the United States proposal for freedom of information:

"Whereas the 1945 Inter-American conference in Mexico urged the American governments:

"1. Recognize the essential obligation to guarantee their peoples free and impartial access to sources of information, and

"2. Adopt measures separately and jointly to develop unrestricted interchange of information between their peoples:

"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the third Inter-American radio conference that one of the most effective means of expanding the interchange of information among peoples of the American region is liberalization of all government regulations dealing with the transmission and reception of press and radio transmission addressed to multiple destinations.

Urges New Regulations

"Specifically the Inter-American radio conference recommends new Inter-American and international regulations governing these transmissions be drafted to provide as follows:

"Those radio transmissions may consist of information and news intended for publication, reproduction or broadcasting, and press messages dealing with the collection and distribution of news, but with messages of a private nature strictly prohibited.

"News organizations sending these communications must communicate to the transmitting organizations names and addresses of all authorized recipients. Transmitting organizations shall, in turn, notify each interested administration of the names and addresses of recipients in its territory."

PLANE CROSSES U. S. IN 8 HRS. AND 39 MIN. FOR NEW SPEED MARK

Burbank, Cal., Sept. 8 (AP)—A Lockheed Constellation transport plane set a new east-west transcontinental flight record last Thursday in 8 hours and 39 minutes between Washington, D. C., and Burbank, Cal., army officials announced today. Lt. Col. W. Rafferty, pilot, said the huge ship cruised at only 50 per cent power, averaging 272 m. p. h. for the 2,350 mile trip. The previous east-west record, 10 hours and 2 minutes, was made in 1938 by Maj. Alexander P. De Seversky in a fighter plane.

SPIEGEL FEATURING Sally FASHIONS

ANNOUNCES

The addition of the 19 Chicagoland Sally Fashion Stores to the growing nationwide Spiegel group

You are cordially invited to visit a smart group of postwar fashion stores ... Monday, September the 10th, when all Sally Stores in Chicago and suburbs become Spiegel Stores ... featuring Sally Fashions.

Here are the well-stocked stores you have been waiting for ... with Furs ... Coats ... Suits ... Dresses ... Hosiery ... Sportswear ... Lingerie ... in a wide selection of sizes, colors and styles.

You will find things that are hard-to-get .. 51-gauge hose ... all wool gabardine suits ... slips ... flannelette gowns and pajamas ... famous brand brassieres, for example. It is our hope to keep plenty of these stocks on hand, but the rule must be first come, first served.

Though there will be many popular price lines for those on a budget, the new stores will feature the finer ... the more distinctive fashions ... the high quality merchandise formerly found only in the smaller boulevard shops.

There are four ways to buy ... for cash ... on the layaway plan ... 30-day charge ... time payments.

With this announcement, Spiegel, Inc., now celebrating its 80th year, becomes one of the largest distributors of women's fashions in America.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

OLYMPIC RUNNER ZAMPERINI BACK FROM THE DEAD

Two Years of Jap Horror Follow 47 Days on Raft

dow. He wrenched it open and shot to the surface.

The water was covered with gasoline. The half drowned Zamperini saw two rafts and Phillips and McIntyre struggling weakly in the sea. Zamperini clambered into the raft and pulled them in with him. Then he took the aluminum paddles and rowed 40 feet to the other raft, where he placed McIntyre after lashing the two frail rubber boats together.

Phillips had a triangular cut in his head and other gashes. The raft was half full of mixed sea water and blood. Remembering his physical education course at Southern California, Zamperini worked the pressure points on Phillips' body for six hours until the bleeding stopped. Then he applied a compress to his head.

The rafts contained six pounds of chocolate. He gave some to Phillips, half as much to McIntyre and took none himself. That night the rest of the chocolate disappeared. The emergency water cans gave each man a few swallows for two days, then that was gone.

Three Men on a Raft

After that the adventure followed the usual raft story pattern, except that it eclipsed them all in endurance. Phillips appointed Zamperini as captain of the rafts. Then they hungered, thirsted, and suffered from sun and salt water until their upper lips pressed against their noses and their lower lips were like raw welts hanging slack "like the under lip of an African savage," Zamperini said.

"Little squalls gave us about one mouthful of water about every seven days," he continued, "altho once we went 10 days without drinking."

They caught two tiny fish, and once Zamperini grabbed a two and a half foot shark by the tail and ripped out its liver with a pair of pliers—their only implement of any kind. Three small birds and four albatrosses lit on the raft to rest. They caught these by the legs—being badly bitten on the hands—and ate them. That was the sum of their sustenance for 47 days.

Enjoy Talk of Food

"You would think people wouldn't want to talk about food at a time like that," Zamperini said, "but we enjoyed discussing meals. I had done little cooking, so every day I had to prepare a menu for each imaginary meal—breakfast, dinner, supper—describing the preparations for each dish, even to the exact quantity of each ingredient. I was expected to spend two hours telling about each meal; and they listened to every word—they wouldn't have it otherwise.

"They would ask me, 'well, what are we going to have for lunch today?' and I'd go on with the little play as if it were real. Strangely enough, this kept us cheerful."

Phillips' head compress began to smell. Zamperini knew this indicated maggots, which was the best medicine he could have prescribed for the wounds, so he let the bandage alone until the caked blood fell out in chunks about the third week. Then he removed the dressing.

"There I found the most beautiful straight white thin scars you ever saw." he said.

Third Plane Sighted

On the 27th day they saw their third plane. All planes brought tragedy to the raft. On the second day, A B-25 flew by at 8,000 feet and two miles off, failing to notice the flares and dye markers on the water. On the third day, a plane passed directly overhead at 3,000 feet, despite the dye marks and the flares that Zamperini fired in front of and behind it.

"Both the tail gunner and the navigator must have been occupied with their backs to their windows," Zamperini said, "or they couldn't have failed to notice the flares if they looked out."

When this plane made a sharp turn to the left, Zamperini and Phillips knew they were getting out of the patrol area, for the point where the plane turned was the end of a search leg.

On the 27th day the rafts were under Japanese air lanes and the third plane was a "Betty," a two-motored bomber that dived to 300 feet and mercilessly raked the rafts with its machine guns.

"The bullets missed us all by a hair's breadth," Zamperini declared, "and it was a miracle that none of us was scratched."

Fights Off Sharks

He slipped into the sea to hide while his comrades, both too weak now to move, sprawled with their arms flung out as if dead. On each pass Zamperini ducked under the water and each time fought off sharks, which closed on him from both sides.

"One shark poked his snout into my face as if he were sniffing me like a dog," Zamperini said. "I opened my eyes wide and stared into his, and he turned away. I kept the others off me by kicking and punching them on the nose and by twisting my body from the path of their charges by swinging on a rope under the raft."

Following pass after pass with machine guns spitting, the Japanese pilot flew over the rafts five times to satisfy himself that the occupants were as dead as they looked. He finally went away. The rafts were riddled; one had 45 holes in it, but stayed afloat, while the other remained half full of water for the rest of the trip.

The young red-haired MacIntyre was by now a bearded skeleton, nothing but skin and bone. He had periods of mental derangement that Zamperini always cured by "threatening to report him," whereupon army discipline reasserted itself and he then would be normal for a day or two more."

Knows Death Is Near

On the 33d day the starving youth knew he was going to die.

"How long will I last?" he asked, whispering with greatest earnestness in his ghost of a voice.

Zamperini felt it was as well to be honest with the boy who knew his death was near. It would have been unkind to promise the lad further agony. "I think," said Zamperini softly, "you'll die during the night."

"Yes, sir," the boy whispered. "I think you're right, Lt. Zamperini."

At 3 a. m. Zamperini heard a slight moan; young MacIntyre lay with his eyes closed, motionless. The lieutenant felt his pulse; there was none. He put his ear to the skeleton chest and heard no beat. The brave young heart was still forever.

"We will wait till sunrise," Zamperini said sadly to Phillips, "and we'll give him a little service and bury him at sea."

Body Slides Into Sea

As the sun broke above the rim of their lonely world, Zamperini said the Lord's Prayer, then eulogized the boy for half an hour, telling of the lad's frequent kindnesses and good deeds. Then to make the pathetic funeral nearly like the service of the Catholic church, which was the boy's faith and Zamperini's, too, he extemporized a prayer. Finally, with one hand pushing and the other merely guiding, Zamperini gently slid the shrunken body into the sun-dappled morning sea.

Burned by the sun by day and drenched and frozen by night in the choppy waves, suffering as few men have, Zamperini and Phillips drifted on and on. They saw Japanese planes about every other day now, and from the time of the planes' arrival—a little earlier each day—and their course and speed they knew they were drifting directly into the Japanese-held Marshall Islands.

Heartened beyond measure, they bet a meal on who could guess the day they would make land. Zamperini picked the 47th day and won.

Run Into a Storm

The raft bobbled sickeningly in a storm. Once when it rose to the top of a mountainous wave Zamperini saw at patch of green.

"I had thought we'd go nuts if this happened," he asserted, "but actually I just turned around and remarked in a conversational tone, 'Say, Phillips, there's an island over there.'"

All that day and night they paddled when they were able. By morning they could hear the surf breaking on the coral reef. Then it stormed.

Taking the remnants of the second raft, which they had pulled into two pieces with pliers for protective awnings, they lay down, tied themselves securely under the seats and lashed the rubber coverings about them. This way they rode out the storm, which abated at sun-up. The sea was calm and the men were exhausted. They fell asleep.

Waking at 8 a. m., they found themselves inside a lagoon, encircled by a dozen islets. They do not know yet which atoll is was. Choosing the nearest island, they spelled each other on the paddles, rowing a half-hour each. When they were about 300 yards from the beach that gleamed around the palm covered islet, they saw what looked like another island with a single tree, then two trees. Then the second tree slid behind the first. It was a ship zigzagging in the lagoon as fishermen trolled.

Overhauled by Jap Ship

The ship spotted the raft, straightened her course, and overhauled it swiftly. Phillips threw up his hands and Zamperini waved. The Japanese, with a deck machine gun pointed at the raft and holding rifles ready, threw a rope and hauled the Americans overside, jerking them easily aboard by hauling on their shirts with one hand.

None of the 15 Japanese understood English. Cautiously, they tied the flyers' hands behind their backs and sat them against a mast. One swung a revolver lightly at Phillips' jaw, but the pilot drew back his emaciated head in time. Another playfully waved a bayonet back and forth past Zamperini's throat. Then the boat's captain made them stop such menacing horseplay and gave the captives a piece of hard tack and a cup of water—their first food and drink in eight days.

"It was delicious," said Zamperini.

After traveling 30 miles the Japanese transferred the prisoners and the raft to another boat. They were untied there, but were bound again and blindfolded as the boat reached an island the flyers later learned was Wotje. On Wotje the first orders the flyers heard was an officer saying in English as well as in Japanese, so his captives could understand, "These are American flyers. Treat them gently."

Get Good Medical Care

For three days on Wotje they were fed and cared for by a kindly Japanese doctor, slept on mattresses, and received a ration of strength-giving cognac.

And then they were transferred to Kwajalein. To them, Kwajalein

LOU ZAMPERINI, OLYMPIC STAR, CHEATS DEATH

Spends 47 Days on Raft, 2 Years as Jap Captive

became another name for hell. Zamperini clenched his fists and his eyes glistened when he was given a description of the bombardment and invasion in which most of his persecutors died.

"I wish I could have seen it," he said, and he meant it.

"We were thrown into a three room shack—Phillips and I in separate rpoms with an empty room between," he declared. "Each room was 2 feet 3 inches wide, 7 feet high, and 6 feet long. There was one wihdow opening only onto a darkeed hallway. It was a dungeon above ground."

The flyers lived in this hellhole 43 days, with little air or light and with their food consisting of a gob of rice "about midway between the size of a golf ball and a tennis ball" which the guards hurled at them three times a day, making them scramble like animals for the grains on the filthy floor.

Japs Inflict Every Pain

On this and four tablespoons of soup with each "meal" they kept life in their bodies, wasted by 47 days' starvation. Every humiliation, every pain the Japanese could imagine in their sadistic minds was visited upon the American flyers, whose heroic survival alone had placed them in a small, select company of history's men of supreme courage.

They were made to sing and dance and whistle for the amusement of the Japanese. Guards poked long, sharp sticks into their cells and goaded and teased them like animals.

Yet their trials had but begun.

Next they were placed in an old 3,000-ton transport bound for Japan. Here they were fed "decently—but we were always hungry," Zamperini said. They were treated well enough until they reached Truk.

At Truk, the military searched them. Zamperini had in his wallet a United States war bond and a prized clipping of a "Believe It or Not" cartoon which showed him in running trunks and flying garb. In 1936, said the legend, Lou Zamperini ran on the United States team in the last Olympic games in Berlin. On Christmas Eve, 1942, he was a bombardier in the historic raid on Wake island.

Jap Crew Beats Flyers

Half the transport's crew had been on Wake that Christmas eve.

"They'd seen the bloody mess we left," Zamperini said, with still a touch of pride. This revealed who Zamperini was and what he had done to Wake island and to them. Fired by alcohol, they rushed aboard the ship that night and crowded into the room shared by the two flyers. One burly fellow spoke to Phillips: "Do you think Japan will win the war?"

Phillips answered, "No."

The Japanese punched him twice in the face. Then he asked the same question of Zamperini, who made the same reply. Now wildly infuriated, the Japanese balled his fist and swung with all his might at Zamperini's nose. He hit Zamperini four more times while the others cheered and waited for their turn to beat the flyers.

Guard Stops Beating

A guard heard them beaten and put a stop to it. Zamperini's nose was badly broken, but he set it himself by holding it in place with his fingers all day and much of the night for weeks. Altho it was his fate to be beaten across the face many times again, his nose is no disfigurement, so patiently and well did he perform his self-medication.

He still has his clipping, blackened now from years in a secret compartment of his billfold which the Japanese never suspected.

Zamperini learned how the Japanese in Japan treat a gallant captive foeman the night he arrived in Yokohama—Sept. 15, 1943. They put him in the jump seat of a Chevrolet sedan. His long runner's legs would not cramp into the space. A Japanese officer, irritated, struck him across his broken nose with a flashlight—six times.

"My nose bled," Zamperini said, "but did not break again."

At the Ofuna naval questioning center he was stripped and searched. An American navy commander read him the camp rules, including one forbidding prisoners to "speak, whistle, talk to themselves, or talk in their sleep" under pain of "severe Japanese punishment."

"This," the commander interpolated, "means beating with a club."

The cruelties at Ofuna were routine and hardly worthy of remark in view of what was to come for Zamperini at the Amomori camp. His year at Ofuna was marked only by the usual beatings, slappings, kickings, and petty torments that Japan's military captives learned to take as mere daily annoyances of life.

At Amomori, Zamperini met "the Bird." This was Sgt. Watanabe, the husgy frog-headed scion of a wealthy and prominent importing and exporting family. Watanabe was not a low class Japanese by birth; however, he was by the testimony of Zamperini and many others a sadistic maniac whose narrow little eyes turned to burning coals of hate when he dealt more than a minute or two with an American. The captives learned that this tell-tale change in Watanabe's eyes forewarned them of some frantic brutality to come—and quickly, without warning.

Push-ups in Toilet

The prisoners called Watanabe "The Bird," because they did not dare speak his name aloud. He was the genius of evil who made Zamperini and others do "push-ups" across the unspeakable troughs that served as toilets—made them do push-ups on their poor, wasted arms until they collapsed of exhaustion with their faces in the germ laden human excrement, which was what "The Bird" intended.

"The Bird" filled a tub with water and told Zamperini he was going to drown him in it. When he thought he had reached the peak of exquisite torture with his threats and taunts, he said abruptly, "I've changed my mind. I'll drown you tomorrow, instead."

He wore a webbed belt four inches wide with a huge buckle; this he loved to remove and use for beating prisoners about the face. Once he beat Zamperini on the head until his ears bled. He gave the flyer tiny bits of paper to staunch the flow; when the blood ceased to run, Watanabe remarked affably, "O, it stop, eh?" and beat Zamperini some more. Zamperini was deaf in that ear for weeks.

Followed to Pesthole

"The Bird" followed Zamperini to Naoetsu, the flea ridden pesthole 250 miles northwest of Tokyo on the western side of Honshu. Here the lavatories were indescribably filthy, with maggots crawling in the corruption on the floor. Many American officers stumbled from this glutted sewers, sickened. Japanese guards inspected their shoes, found the bottoms befouled, and as punishment forced them to lick the soles with their tongues. Soon every man had diarrhea so severe that the pains of it made them scream.

"The Bird" put 98 enlisted men and five officers to work unloading coal from ships onto barges. He prefaced this with a wild scene on the docks where he drew his saber and raised it over Zamperini, screaming like an insane man:

"You don't work, I'll kill you!"

Watanabe hated officers; his favorite punishment—Zamperini underwent it many times—was to line up the officers and force each of the 98 enlisted men to walk down the line, striking each officer on the same side of the face with their fists. If the strength of the blow did not suit "the bird" he would hit the enlisted man with a club and make him punch the same officer again and again until his twisted little soul was satisfied..

"Next" Is Horrible Chant

"As each man struck an officer, 'The Bird' would say, 'Next!' and that got to be the horrid chant which was all we heard or knew of what was going on," Zamperini declared. "Next, next, next—like the tramp of feet."

Soon the officers learned to save themselves additional blows by [illegible] their enlisted men to strike with all their might the first time and get it over.

"After all," said Zamperini, "we'd rather be struck by our own enlisted men than by those dirty Jap hands. It was worse to watch a beating than to take one, for eventually you fell unconscious and knew nothing about the prolonged beating and kicking of your senseless body.

The catalog of crimes could run on and on. There was no limit to the inventiveness of the sadists at Naoetsu. "The Bird" was gone from there when the surrender came and the guards suddenly became solicitous and kind. Lt. Lou Zamperini is gone, too, but he and hundreds more will never forget. Zamperini summed up his feelings today in a single sentence. He thought awhile before he said it, and then he said it very slowly and seriously:

"If I knew I had to go thru these experiences again, I would kill myself."

ZAMPERINI WON ACCLAIM FOR HIS DEFIANCE OF NAZIS

Louis Zamperiniua becme a world-wide figure during the 1936 Olympics at Berlin. He nearly provoked an international incident by climbing a pole and tearing down a nazi flag in front of Hitler's chancellery.

In 1938, representing Southern California, he won the nation's intercollegiate mile title at Minneapolis. During the succeeding years, up to Pearl Harbor, he competed in virtually all the leading track meets and won fame especially at the middle distances.

On Jan. 2, 1942, the headquarters of the 7th air force announced the then 25 year old former Torrance, Cal., runner was a bombardier on the army air force's raid on Wake Island Dec. 24, 1941. In August of 1942 he was graduated from the Midland flying school at Midland, Tex.

HARD HITTING PT BOATS PLAY A BIG ROLE IN VICTORY

Destroy 500,000 Tons of Enemy Shipping

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8—American PTs, the navy's tiny speed-torpedo boats that hit the enemy on all seas from Pearl Harbor to the war's end, have won a permanent berth in Uncle Sam's fleet.

The story of how these 60 ton mahogany craft slammed their torpedoes into the Jap navy in the Philippines and rescued Gen. MacArthur from Bataan in the first dark days of the war has been told.

Less well known is the grave saga of the 24 PTs and their crews that virtually held the ocean alone against the Japanese fleet near Guadalcanal while many of our large warships lay disabled from the Pearl Harbor attack. And much of the fighting role the PTs played in commando raids on Europe, in the channel invasion of the French coast, and in destroying the Jap fleet when we recaptured the Philippines has gone unnoticed.

Developed Since Last War

There were no PT [patrol torpedo] boats in the United States navy in World War I., altho something of the sort was then used by the Italian, British, and German navies.

Then in the 1930s Gen. MacArthur asked the navy for 100 fast torpedo boats to bolster defenses of the Philippine Islands. The request probably hastened navy experimentation with PTs, but the first boat was not completed until 1939.

The navy first conceived the PT's primary war function was to sink enemy surface vessels, chiefly cargo and troop ships and small craft. And, while the PTs made good on this assignment, they far exceeded all naval hopes by playing a "David and Goliath" role in taking on enemy ships from battleships on down.

The PTs have sunk cruisers, aircraft carriers, destroyers, and submarines. They have damaged battleships, and shot down enemy planes. And in most cases, the 12 man crews have brought their boats back to base after the battle.

Started at Pearl Harbor

The little guerrilla boats started hitting their mark in the first minutes of the war. There was one squadron of PTs in Pearl Harbor when the Japs struck. PT crews swung their guns into action to bag three enemy planes, and are believed to have sunk two Jap submarines.

A few days later Lt. John D. Bulkeleys's little force of six PTs began making history in the Philippines. Their score before Corregidor fell was five ships sunk, including a cruiser and an aircraft tender, two cruisers and a tanker damaged by torpedo hits, and four planes shot down. Then came the daring rescues of Gen. MacArthur and Maneul Quezon, president of the Philippines, in perilous runs from the islands.

Action at Guadalcanal.

The next, and perhaps, greatest test for the PTs and their crews came in the Solomon Islands in the fall of 1942. Our marines had a toehold on Guadalcanal, but Jap naval forces were bent on landing enemy supplies and reënforcements and on shelling the American leathernecks from off shore.

Two PT squadrons of 12 boats each were handed the job of striking the Jap naval units and protecting the devildogs until our heavy fleet strength could be restored.

Night after night the "Tokyo Express," often with battleships and heavy cruisers in its force, steamed down on Guadalcanal, intent on bombarding the Yank held Henderson field and other shore positions.

Out darted the PTs, using darkness as a cover to dash in close and let go their torpedoes. They stopped the Nips and helped secure Guadalcanal. The final score for the PTs in 17 actions there included sinking one Jap battleship or heavy cruiser, two cruisers, 16 destroyers, and one submarine. Ten PTs were lost.

Valuable in Islands

As the Pacific offensive jumped from Guadalcanal to New Britain, New Guinea, and Borneo, the PTs went with it. And the Japs felt the sting of the little speeding craft as other American forces moved across the Pacific into the Gilbert, Marshall, and Marianas Islands.

In these island campaigns, the PTs dashed in ahead of the main invading forces to escort minesweepers clearing a path for the invaders. After the landings, they were assigned to patrol enemy held harbors and destroy ships seeking either to land or evacuate supplies and troops.

In these "lone wolf" forays, nearly always at night, the PTs bagged hundreds of vessels, representing thousands of tons of precious war material.

Lookout in Philippines

When MacArthur invaded the Philippines in October, 1944, there were 39 PTs in the huge American naval force supporting the operation. They were thrown across the Surigao strait as a lookout against any Jap fleet units that might try to slip thru and surprise American naval forces protecting the landings on Leyte.

Just after midnight on Oct. 25 the PTs detected the approach of a large enemy force in the straits. They flashed word by radio and dashed for cover, but not before firing some torpedoes. Thus warned, our fleet massacred the Jap force. The victory, combined with other smashes at the Nip navy in the Philippines, destroyed Japan's fleet as an effective fighting force. PT crews in the straits are confident it was their torpedoes that accounted for one sunken battleship. One PT was lost in the action.

Meanwhile, in the war in Europe, the torpedo boats were endearing themselves to the allies and making war tougher for the Nazis. They landed Commandos in daring pre-invasion strikes and reconnaissance trips on the German held continent.

Save Flyers from Sea

They were busy rescuing flyers from the sea and dropping depth charges on prowling submarines.

In the landings in Italy, PTs escorted minesweepers clearing a path for the invaders and turned their guns on Nazi dive bombers.

When the great invasion of France came in June, 1944, PTs were in the van. They crossed the channel at midnight before the dawn attack to protect minesweepers.

After the invasion they prowled the channel to help guard allied troop and supply shipments against enemy surface attacks, and to keep the Nazis from evacuating men and supplies from Cherbourg. Other PT squadrons were on similar duty during and after the invasion of southern France.

Destroy 1,000 Ships

All told, the mighty little PTs destroyed more than 1,000 enemy vessels totaling some 500,000 tons. The exact toll is unknown because most operations were at night and because the crews had to "hit and run" to survive. Only 69 PTs—4,140 tons—were lost, a hard driven bargain in exchange for one-half million tons of enemy tonnage sent to the bottom.

One PT also found time to rescue a sultan and his harem from Jap clutches in the Dutch East Indies.

The navy had about 400 PTs at the end of the war. Improved models, which have been in production for some time, are 80 feet long and have a speed of about 50 knots [nearly 60 miles an hour]. They have three 12 cylinder 1,500 horse power Packard engines. Each boat carries four torpedoes and is equipped with 30 and 40 millimeter guns for surface or anti-aircraft use, and 20 caliber machine guns. Depth charges may also be carried. Two radios, a radar detection unit, and smoke screen generators are standard equipment.

Range Over 500 Miles

The fighting range of a PT is about 500 or 600 miles, altho it can operate two or three times this distance without refueling on slow speed patrols.

Each PT has two or three officers and an enlisted crew of 10 to 12. Commanding officers are invariably from the naval reserve, with a rank of ensign to lieutenant.

Packed into the little boats are sleeping quarters for the crew, officers' staterooms, and a small galley with stove and refrigerator. Food supplies for three to five days may be carried, but PTs normally restock and refuel every day or two at land bases or from supply ships.

Mahogany was selected for the hull because of its flexibility and lightness as compared with metal. As to seaworthiness, crews report the PTs have weathered 20 and 30 foot seas.

Crewmen are Volunteers

All PT officers and crew members are volunteers, because of the hazardous nature of their operations. They are trained for three months at the Melville, R. I., naval center, where they get weeks of actual sea experience with the boats. Each officer and crewman is trained to do every other task on the boat besides his own—from helmsman to manhing a gun.

The boats are manufactured by two companies, the Electric Boat company, Bayonne, N. J., and the Higgins Shipyards, New Orleans, La. The cost is approximately $250,000 apiece.

NEW COSMIC RAY DATA SENT BY LOST BALLOONS

Information automatically broadcast by the University of Chicago's missing cluster of 67 cosmic ray balloons has proved that many fast, or high energy, neutrons exist in high altitudes, Dr. Marcel Schein, assistant professor of physics at the university, said yesterday.

When the balloons were released by physicists Thursday, automatic broadcasting apparatus was part of the equipment. Signals were received for four hours before all trace of the balloons was lost. Dr. Schein believes the balloons and expensive equipment are in Lake Michigan and he has about given up hope of recovering them.

It doesn't make a lot of difference, he added. In addition to the information about the extra vitality of neutrons high in the sky, the automatic broadcast contributed a great deal of other valuable data, now being analyzed, he said.

ROBBED BY MEN IN UNIFORM

Mrs. Josephine Dybas, 44, operator of a grocery and market at 1631 W. 38th pl., reported to police yesterday that she was robbed of $30 by two men in army uniform who threatened her with one of her butcher knives.

ICE OR GASKET? GIs CAN MAKE THEM IN JUNGLE

Pipeline Goes Thru in Spite of Perils

BY ALFRED WAGG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LEDO, Assam, Sept. 3 [Delayed]—How GI ingenuity overcame jungle tangled mountains and monsoon swoolen torrents to forge a pipeline from India to China was revealed today. Up to July 30 the pipeline, the world's longest, had delivered 120,139,142 gallons of petroleum products to allied troops in China and Burma.

Here are samples of how problems were met:

When jeeps proved to small for handling movement of personnel as the pipeline advanced, one outfit welded two wrecked jeeps together and extended the frame and crankshaft to make one vehicle capable of carrying 18 men comfortably.

Special gaskets for gate valves along the line didn't arrive, so gaskets were cut from army rubber boots.

A sawmill was built by a GI who had never seen one in his life.

One soldier found some old parts in the wreckage of Myitkyina and built an ice plant which delivered 1,600 pounds of ice to his company daily.

Rescue Themselves

In May, 1944, the party of pipeliners camped on the south bank of the Tawang river in Burma where they were cut off by monsoon rains from their base at the tiny town of Singbwiyang. Here the pipeline was faced with defeat for a time while the rescue of the men was carried out.

The boys, meanwhile found a Ford V-8 motor and stripped it from the wreckage of a Bren gun carrier, along with other salvageable parts, including armor plate. A 10 ton aluminum pontoon was begged from a nearby pontoon company. The motor was mounted in the 10 tonner then a drive shaft and a universal joint were taken from a defunct 2½ ton truck and run back thru a piece of 4 inch pipe to an improvised propeller cut from the armor plate.

From the gun carrier came the steering wheel to make up a finished amphibian monster. In a short time the marooned men ploughed across the 1,000 foot stretch of the Tawang in a boat carrying 40 lengths of pipe, 3½ tons of cargo, and 42 men.

Logger Finds a Way

The army trucks for hauling the pipe were not ideal for the job since the huge pipes overhung the rear end, putting a terrific strain on the vehicles. A GI with logging experience was convinced he could build a semi-trailer similar to those used for hauling logs in the northwest.

He welded two truck bodies together and mounted in back of the 2½ ton truck, thus completing a semi-trailer. Where only 68 lengths of pipe were handled before, an additional 178 lengths could now be transported.

DECLARES INDIA MOSLEMS SET TO END 'ALIEN RULE'

KARACHI, India, Sept. 8 (AP)—Mahomed Ali Jinnah, Moslem league president, today said Moslems had "made it clear that we are ready and willing to do all we can to put an end to any foreign domination" in India.

He urged Moslems to "concentrate every ounce of energy" in the forthcoming elections, which he said "will have a very vital bearing upon our determination to establish Pakistan" [an India divided into states according to religions].

"We do not want any one, under any pretext of an attractive label, to talk now of an interim government or emergency national central government," Jinnah said in a statement.

"There is no reason why we should not tackle permanently and finally the constitutional problem and settle it once and for all on the basis of Pakistan," he said.

"The elections will be fought on the issue of Pakistan or Akhand Hindusthan [an undivided India] and the Moslem verdict, as far as it can be ascertained by the present machinery and electorate, will have significance and effect."

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Sept. 9—Benedict Arnold Leads Heroes

ON Sept. 9, 1775, the last of the 13 companies that Col. Benedict Arnold had been promised for his Quebec expedition reached the assembly point at Cambridge, Mass.

There were about 1,100 men in all, many of whom were rugged woodsmen well acquainted with the rigors of wilderness life and travel. Their mission was such as would require their every ounce of endurance.

The first part was easy. The men marched to Newburyport, Mass., and were transported by ship to the Kennebec river, in Maine, where 200 small boats had been built for the trip north.

The expedition pushed its way up the river thru the austere wilderness. There were strong currents to stem and difficult portages to negotiate. The northern winter came early, and before the end of October snow and floating ice were encountered.

Hunger also added to the ordeals of the journey. At one time, the men gnawed the leather of their shoes for sustenance.

On Nov. 9, the expedition reached the St. Lawrence river. Soon the rigors of the wilderness were succeeded by those of war. Arnold joined Gen. Montgomery and his army, and assaulted Quebec on the last day of the year. Arnold was wounded and Montgomery killed. The Americans were repulsed. This heroic Arnold later turned traitor to his country.

THE MEN WHO COVERED THE WAR

Several days before the American army, which had to move in a more orderly and less risky fashion, reached Tokyo, six American war correspondents had installed themselves in the Imperial hotel in the surrendered capital. Three of them were from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Bob Cromie, Don Starr, and Art Veysey were only doing what Tribune correspondents have done thruout this war, all over the globe. They got to the front and got the news. THE TRIBUNE, thruout the war, has maintained one of the largest staffs of correspondents of any individual newspaper, more than twice as many men with the troops as have served any other Chicago publication.

Our correspondents have reported the war on all fronts, brilliantly and courageously. They have shared all the hazards of the firing line. They have been wounded. They have been bombed. They have been cut off in outposts by enemy attacks. They have come home wracked by tropical diseases, and, when cured, have gone back to the battle fronts. We are deeply thankful that none of them has been killed, because we realize, as we hope they do now, that very often it was good luck and not prudence that saved their lives.

These were the men who bore the brunt of covering the war for THE TRIBUNE and its readers. They are listed alphabetically:

Robert Cromie was in at the start at the battle for Guadalcanal and saw it to its bitter finish. Transferred to the European theater, he flew over Paris on the day after D-day, was attached to the 3d army and, riding tanks and jeeps in quest of news of Gen. Patton's hard riding troops, frequently took risks that other correspondents refused. Now he is back in Japan.

Hal Foust joined the 9th army shortly before the crossing of the Rhine and accompanied it across Germany. He is now writing the final chapters of the Quisling story in Norway.

Clay Gowran started at Guadalcanal, accompanied American Rangers in a secret march during the capture of New Georgia, and flew in one of the first bombing raids over Tokyo, and in another dangerous mission thru the monsoons over Burma. He was under fire in Greece and Syria, and finished the war with the 5th army in Italy.

Stanley Johnston was the only newspaper correspondent with the task force in the Coral sea which won our first naval victory. Aboard the stricken Lexington, he had his clothing torn off by explosions, and was commended for gallantry in rescuing members of the crew trapped on lower decks. His account of the Coral sea battle, one of the classic reports of this war, was made available by THE TRIBUNE to every other newspaper in this country.

Seymour Korman covered the Sicilian invasion and spent weeks in the Anzio bridgehead, every foot of which was raked by German fire. He stayed with the 5th army thru the occupation of Rome and the bitter fighting to the north, was transferred to the 7th army, with which he landed on the Mediterranean D-day, and accompanied this force up the Rhone valley, thru the bitter winter campaign in Alsace, and into Germany, where he was one of the first correspondents to reach Hitler's blasted eyrie at Berchtesgaden.

Tom Morrow got out of a hospital bed and hid in a lifeboat on the transport that was weighing anchor for Iwo Jima to avoid the surgeon who refused to certify him as fit for duty. He landed on Iwo on the first day of the assault and did not leave the front line until that bloodiest of all Pacific campaigns was finished. He was again in on the first day at Okinawa with the marines and was at the front to the end of that campaign. Marine generals wrote letters of commendation to his editors, and so did the privates whose foxholes he shared.

E. R. [Al] Noderer was stationed in Italy and Germany for THE TRIBUNE before this country entered the war, and covered the German invasion of the Low Countries and the march into Paris. After assignments in Turkey and Iran, he went to Singapore, arriving a week after Pearl Harbor, and was one of the last correspondents to leave. He finally reached Perth in western Australia, after a 2,000 mile trip on a ferry boat which never before had been out of sight of land. After covering the Port Moresby-Buna-Gona campaign, which turned the tide of the Japanese attack, Noderer was transferred to London, where he is still stationed.

Larry Rue, an American flyer in the last war, covered London during the blitz and on many nights had to crawl on hands and knees thru bomb wrecked streets to file his stories. From D-day until the end of the war he was assigned to supreme allied headquarters.

Walter Simmons followed MacArthur's triumphant advance from New Guinea thru the bitter fighting of the Leyte campaign and the liberation of Luzon. He received an official citation for exposing himself to enemy fire to get news when he entered Manila with the first armored column to battle its way into the Philippine capital.

Alex Small, for 20 years a Tribune foreign correspondent, was on the scene in Prague during the tense days of the Czechoslovakian crisis in September, 1938. He was the last American correspondent to leave Poland after its subjugation. His stories of his flight and his encounters with the Russian army invading from the east were among the finest examples of reporting of the whole war. He was in Paris when the Germans invaded there and his stories of the flight of the French also were outstanding. He was in Berlin as chief of THE TRIBUNE's bureau there when the United States entered the war. After his release from internment at Bad Nauheim in April, 1942, assignments took him to Portugal, the Belgian Congo, the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Egypt, Syria, Iraq, and India. His authoritative articles on India were the foremost among American sources of information on that country.

Harold Smith—"the Fabulous Smith," in the words of a correspondent for Yank, army newspaper—probably made more combat landings than any other American correspondent in the Pacific. He hit the beach 10 times with the first assault wave in the battles that reduced the Jap strongholds in the Pacific. From Roi, Smitty went to Parry Island, Saipan, Guam, Peleliu, Leyte, Luzon, and Okinawa. Between land campaigns he also served with Adm. Mitscher's task force.

Altho Don Starr found time to file frequent news stories from combat areas, he really went to the front as an editor. It was his job to get out the Overseas Tribune, printed from plastic plates flown across the Pacific to bring news from home to American GI's. No sooner did American troops establish a foothold in an area than Starr started salvaging and repairing old printing presses, locating stores of nondescript Japanese paper, and enrolling volunteer help, including some former Tribune mechanical employes in the army, to turn out editions of the Overseas Tribune. Wherever they were printed, they were passed from the hands of one soldier to another until they were worn out.

William Strand followed the American army from Africa to Sicily, and thence to Italy. He was wounded on the Anzio beachhead when a bomb destroyed the building in which he was quartered. His description of the destructive bombing at Mont Cassino was one of THE TRIBUNE's great stories of the war. Transferred to France and the 9th army, he went thru the perilous days of the battle of the bulge, the assault of the Rhine, and the final triumphant dash across Germany at the heels of the shattered Wehrmacht.

Jack Thompson was the first American correspondent to qualify for service with paratroopers. In the African invasion he jumped with a paratrooper force deep in Tunisia and was in the thick of the African fighting until the final collapse of Rommel's army. He went into Sicily, again with the paratroopers, and was injured and awarded the Purple Heart. He covered the invasions of Italy and Corsica and the Cairo conference. Pulled out of the Italian campaign to get ready for D-day in France, he went into Normandy with the first troops and covered the activities of the 1st army from the time it was formed until the final victory. Jack's famous beard, causing him to be known as the mobile hedgerow, was an accident. He grew it in the African desert, where he couldn't find water for shaving. Thereafter, he explained, he didn't dare shave it because none of his news sources would recognize him.

Arthur Veysey covered the Pacific war from New Guinea to Manila. He was in the attack on Cape Gloucester, flew over New Britain in hazardous bombing raids, was on Leyte and Luzon, and experienced kamikaze attacks at sea.

Henry Wales, a correspondent in the last war, who covered the peace conference at Versailles for THE TRIBUNE a quarter of a century ago, was with American troops in the invasion of Germany. After a short assignment at the San Francisco conference he went to Berlin, where he is with the American occupation forces.

A number of other members of The Tribune staff, including Frank Cipriani, Joseph Hearst, and Frank Sturdy, had assignments which took them into the war zones for varying periods. One other member of The Tribune staff should be mentioned, altho his duties never took him outside the Chicago office during the war. He is George Scharschug, the cable editor of THE TRIBUNE, who never let his correspondents forget that wherever they might go they were reporting the war for the people of Chicago and the middle west. That was why the soldiers could always identify a Tribune correspondent without introduction. He was the man who came in asking, "Anybody here from Chicago?"

These men are all still members of The Tribune staff. As the fighting stops they will turn to other tasks, some in the Chicago office of THE TRIBUNE, some in its Washington bureau, and a large number at stations abroad, telling the story of a world trying to pick itself up after the most disastrous of all wars. Wherever they are stationed, they will remember what they never forgot on the battlefield—that they are writing for Chicago and the middle west, as Chicagoans and middle westerners.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts 5 points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. America, with only 7 per cent of the world's population, consumes what percentage of the world's coffee output?
   16% 24% 39% 48%
2. Which one of these creatures is not the symbol of a fraternal order?
   Eagle Moose Elk Buffalo
3. Under which type of government is the "free enterprise" system of individual liberty most safeguarded?
   Communism Democracy Socialism Republic
4. The typical American breakfast of bacon and eggs would render which duet while on the hoof?
   Moo and Quack Ba-a and Oink
   Ma-a and Gobble Oink and Cackle
5. Kitchen aprons are usually made of which fabric?
   Percale Cambric Poplin Tweed
6. This is a Biblical problem in which you are to match the men and women named in the left hand column below with the incidents which appropriately pertain to each. You are entitled to one point for each correct judgment

[a] Lot	[v] Turned to rubber and then to salt.
[b] Samson	[w] Bore a child long after the menopause.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

[Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.: Copyright: By The Chicago Tribune]

ANSWERS

1. Forty-eight per cent of the coffee. 2. Buffalo. 3. Republic. 4. Oink and Cackle. 5. Percale. 6. [a] Lot—Father of his grandchildren [y] [Genesis, Ch. 19]; [b] Samson—Barber [x] [Judges, Ch. 16]; [c] Moses—Sailor [z] [Exodus, Ch. 2]; [d] Lot's wife—Rubber, then to salt [v] [Genesis, Ch. 19]; [e] Sarai—Baby after menopause [w] [Genesis, Ch. 21].

A TRIP ON THE LAKES

[Following is an address delivered last night by Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Tribune, and broadcast on the Chicago Theater of the Air over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system.]

BY COL. ROBERT R. McCORMICK

I have been on a lake trip to Lake Superior and, so to speak, I want to take you along with me. I left on a small ship that had been unarmed in the Atlantic for two years of the war, and then, when brought back to the Great Lakes, had been given a gun.

I had my first view of the skyline of Chicago in several years. It can only be seen from the lake and so is only viewed by a couple of hundred thousand yachtsmen and a few thousand lake excursionists. The buildings are not nearly as large as the skyscrapers of New York, but definitely their architecture is not as bad.

The atom bomb had just gone off in Japan as I left, so I loaded myself down with books on chemistry and electronics. Even the oldest of the books on chemistry told of the properties of uranium and mentioned its isotopes. With so much known about it many years ago, it seems strange that it took so long to find the exploding formula.

I found a surprise in the speed of electricity. When I studied physics, it was taught that electricity moved with the speed of light. Now I find that electricity moves only at the rate of three and a half inches an hour, but that a wire is filled with electrons, as a pipe is filled with water, and when electrons are pushed in at one end of the wire, electrons are forced out the other end, so the effect is the same as when we believed electricity moved all the way from the generator to the motor with the speed of light.

As we passed along the Michigan shore, I took what comfort I could from the observation that, if all the buildings in the world were destroyed by atom bombs, there was sand enough in Michigan to rebuild them.

I also read several works on the campaign of Guadalcanal. Unless interest has gone from this war as rapidly as it passed in 1918, I will tell you about it in a week or two.

A former visit to Sault Ste. Marie was during the depth of the depression, with almost no boats moving. My interest then was entirely historical.

I learned from a tablet that Gen. Cass, afterward governor of Michigan, pulled down the British flag in the face of angry and protesting Indians in 1838; and I saw a replica of the first canal lock which was built on the Canadian side in 1794 to accommodate canoes 38 feet long.

I had seen birch bark canoes years ago, but now I read how they were made. Of them William Cullen Bryant said: "The birch bark canoe of the savage seems to me one of the most beautiful and perfect things of the kind constructed by human art. When I looked at its delicate ribs, mere shavings of white cedar, yet firm enough for the purpose—the thin, broad laths of the same wood with which these are enclosed, and the broad sheets of birch bark, impervious to water, which sheathed the outside, all firmly sewed together by the tough, slender roots of the fir tree, and when I considered its extreme lightness and the grace of its form, I could not but wonder at the ingenuity of those who had invented so beautiful a combination of ship-building and basket-work."

Canoe building was the forerunner by centuries of steel ship construction, where steel ribs take the place of white cedar ones and steel plates that of white birch.

Birch bark canoes are now so scarce that I want to get one for the Chicago Historical society.

While at the Sault I visited a news paper mill. Only three of its five machines were operating because its management had not been industrious enough to get wood for all of them. The mill was built in 1912 and has been somewhat modernized. I believe it would be easy to increase its present capacity by 25 per cent. This is true of at least half the news paper mills in Canada. However, the incentive is not there, as efficient mills running full have to pay a subsidy to their slacker brothers for not running full.

Lakes Superior and Michigan smiled on us both ways, but they can be more violent than the ocean. This spring a ship that had been sailing on lake and ocean for 15 years was boarded on Lake Michigan by a giant sea which broke in the steel deckhouse.

Our destination was a port on the Canadian shore where we loaded pulpwood. The stowing was done by German prisoners. I do not know what Hitler may have put into their minds, as I did not speak with them, but their bodies were most impressive. I have never seen such consistently splendidly muscled men.

The Canadian army has handled them well. When they first came to work, there were a number of Gestapo and SS men among them. These had all been weeded out and sent back to prison camps. Those that remain, live unguarded in a camp of their own construction, which they keep scrupulously clean. They receive the same food as the other lumberjacks in Canada, which is better than we have in this country. Their present leader is a Lutheran minister. I was told that prisoners from American occupied Germany wanted to return home, but that prisoners from other parts of Germany did not.

This year the scene at the Sault gave me such a sense of the economic power of the United States as I had never felt before.

There are four locks on the American and one on the Canadian side of the falls. Two of the American locks can hold two full size lake steamers at once. All of them were operating continuously. One might have thought that exactly the right number of ships were sailing to keep these locks busy and yet not delay any of the carriers.

Only at the Sault and in the St. Mary's river are these ships massed. West of it they fan out to different Lake Superior ports. Eastwardly they scatter to Chicago, Milwaukee, Georgian bay, Detroit, the different ports of Lake Erie, and an occasional one or two pass thru the Welland canal to Lake Ontario.

Seeing so many of them, I was impressed that they are better designed ships than the ocean ships I have seen in New York and other ocean harbors. They were, of course, designed for a specific trade and use vastly more efficient machinery than is seen anywhere on the oceans.

Everywhere American efficiency was demonstrated. There were coal docks in the St. Mary's river at which any ship wanting coal could stop without going out of its way. There was a grocery boat which would steam alongside any vessel desiring it and furnish it not only with food but a number of other useful articles. Approaching the locks, each ship was addressed by a loud speaker and told which lock to go to. Letters and telegrams were handled at a lock post and telegraph office.

Most of the ships burn coal. Their constant belching of black smoke not only indicated that they were being pushed at their full speed, but also, I think, that their furnace design could be improved.

It is generally assumed that we cannot compete in ocean carrying after the war. I think that this is true as to tramp ships, because the competition is in cheapness, not in efficiency. On the other hand, if ships can be designed for specific routes and operated either by producers of commodities, such as our oil tankers, or by our railroads, which can assure their own ships steady frates, I believe that our superior American inguenity will overcome the cost difference represented by properly paid seamen against starvation wages.

Certainly the effort must be made. A merchant navy is essential to support our overpowering naval fleet, which we must maintain if our republic is to be preserved.

THE WONDER DRUG OF YESTERDAY

THE story of digitalis is familiar to many but few have profited by the lesson it portrays. If this drug were discovered today, it probably would share honors with the sulfonamides and penicillin. Let us hope that these are handled more intelligently so they do not meet with the fate that befell the active ingredients of foxglove 100 years after its discovery.

William Withering first introduced the remedy and applied it in the treatment of dropsy. He had selected it from a number of herbs which an old country woman had mixed and used successfully for the same purpose. For 10 years he experimented and finally published his findings along with reports of other physicians who had also been told of its power. Altho instructions were clearly stated, unfortunately many disregarded them and fatalities were observed. Hence the medicine became unpopular and, was shelved for over a century.

What happened? Others tried the preparation but neglected to follow the advice of Withering. Some employed larger doses than necessary; or they failed to reduce the amount when signs of saturation were present. Perhaps they believed in the old idea that if a little does good, more will do better. They were not aware that this potent chemical was safe only when prescribed correctly.

A few may have attempted it for conditions not indicated and when it was unsuccessful, blamed the medicine rather than their judgment. It is little wonder that this healing aid fell into disrepute and soon was forgotten. The same can apply to our modern wonder drugs, for unless they are controled and utilized sensibly, they too may fall by the wayside.

We now know that every one with heart disease does not need digitalis. It is of value in certain irregularities and in actual failure or strain. Under other circumstances, it may reduce the efficiency of the organ. Back in Withering's time it lost favor because it failed to slow the rate due to fever, toxic states of the thyroid, or in nervousness. Today we realize that an increase in cardiac action is associated with these disorders as fever is in pneumonia. When the maladies are treated properly the pulse rate returns to normal.

The ailing heart, on the other hand, responds very well to this medication. By retarding the beat and increasing muscle tone, more blood is forced into the circulation. Digitalis must be employed accurately for when too little is administered, the desired effect is not obtained. Should an excess be prescribed, nausea and vomiting may ensue. These symptoms disappear after the treatment is discontinued, but should serve as a warning that enough has been given for the time being. Because of its effect on the heart muscle, it is not advised in coronary thrombosis.

The medical profession is prone to be conservative in the use of various medications. This attitude has developed thru years of experience. "A little knowledge is dangerous" can well apply to those who are constantly prescribing for their own ills or recommending remedies to others. More often than not, these individuals do not know the diagnosis nor do they have a full understanding of the drug.

DECREASED HEMOGLOBIN

E. M. B. writes: My hemoglobin was 42 and, after a series of iron and liver injections, it rose to 55. Is there any way to raise it further? Are transfusions of value?

REPLY

Find out why you are anemic. Sources of hemorrhage must be searched for and eliminated. Different types of iron may be tried. As a last resort, transfusions may be indicated.

SQUEAKING JOINTS

B. B. writes: What causes creaking and cracking of the legs and arms when they are moved? I know that old people are usually bothered in this way, but I am only 23 years old.

REPLY

This symptom is usually associated with nondisabling joint disorders, especially when the tissues immediately adjacent to the "hinge" [cartilage, fascia, and tendon sheaths] are involved. Movements over these roughened areas result in the cracking noise.

QUEER TASTE

Mrs. A. T. writes: I like to eat sour cream and bananas every day. Is it harmful?

REPLY

No. Everyone to his taste.

BATH ITCH

W. R. writes: What causes extreme itching after taking a bath?

REPLY

Some individuals seem to be allergic to soap and water, which remove all the natural grease from the skin. Perhaps the use of cold cream after bathing will prove helpful.

NOT UNUSUAL

M. H. writes: I am 30 years old and have a strange complaint. Each month, on the day before I menstruate, I am exceedingly depressed and quarrelsome. This is the only time that I act up. Is this a serious personality derangement?

REPLY

No. Most women have similar reactions. If you understand the cause, you can call on your power of self-control to help you.

GEN. GRANT'S TERMS

Chicago, Aug. 31—New Deal spokesmen continually complain that Gen. MacArthur is treating the Japs too softly. They insist that he made a mistake in retaining the mikado. They say that we should not only punish the war criminals, but that we should also treat all of the Japanese people in an enslaving manner. Only by humiliating them, according to these would-be experts, will the Japanese people realize that they have been defeated, even tho we deprive them of all their ill-gotten gains.

The United States has had one experience along that line. Gen. Grant knew how to treat the south when he accepted the unconditional surrender from Gen. Lee. There were no animosities when Lee was told to keep his sword and send his men back to their farms and take their horses with them. But congress and the people of the north wanted the Confederates to be punished and to suffer for what they had done, so they sent the carpetbaggers to rule over the Confederate states.

That, more than defeat by the Union soldiers, imbued the southerners with a hatred for the Yankees that has not quite disappeared in the third generation even tho the south and the north have been united as one nation all this time. The Japanese will not resent for long the punishment of their war criminals, but if we mistreat the Japanese people, we shall sow seeds of hatred that will bear fruit for many generations to come. COME HOME, BUDDY; YOUR JOB FOR ENGLAND IS DONE

SHRIVENHAM, England, Aug. 26—This week-end I went to Cardiff, Wales, on a pass from the army university center here. During my stroll about that city I dropped into a cafe. The cafe was almost empty when I went in. I sat there for 10 or 15 minutes, then two British soldiers came and sat down at the same small table with me. The cafe was filling up now almost to capacity.

The waitress came and took the orders of the British soldiers, and in a couple of minutes came back with them. She completely ignored me. I stayed until every one in the cafe who had come in after I had was served. I thought there must be some mistake, but it took only a glance at the two British soldiers at my table to show that I had been completely snubbed. They became so embarrassed they could hardly eat their own food. I could have gone to the American Red Cross and had a sandwich. I might say the British soldiers are served there at the same price and they come in as often as do American soldiers.

It doesn't take a mental giant to know why they snubbed me. They [the British] have been dropped from the gravy train and are quite mad about it. I hope they get nothing more from us unless it's cash now on the line. The name of the cafe is Allies. What irony! SGT. GLYN B. HOLCOMB

ULSTER AND MR. ATTLEE

Chicago, Aug. 24—Here is an angle on the election of a socialist government in Great Britain about which I have not heard any commentator speak. I refer to the impact the election will have on the relationship between Northern Ireland [six counties] and Eire [26 counties].

The tie between Northern Ireland and Great Britain is, or was at least, mostly a monarchical, aristocratic and feudalistic tie—that is to say, loyalty to the British throne, the British house of lords, pride in the size and greatness of the British empire, a fondness for titles, great respect and a little awe for the British caste system and the British landed gentry system and so on.

If the Socialist government in Great Britain means anything different from the Churchill [Tory] government it should mean that the above mentioned will not be emphasized. Eire is supposed to be, and presumably is, a plain, democratic state, sans titles and trappings of royalty. My conclusion is that Prime Minister De Valera of Eire is smiling inwardly [I have never seen a picture of him smiling outwardly] at the predicament in which the prime minister of Northern Ireland finds himself.

WHY THE ALDERMAN IS PEEVED

Chicago, Aug. 29—I truly am "sick and tired" of the city council rushing thru without adequate consideration of important matters which have been lying on the city's doorstep for months or years. For instance, a subcommittee of the finance committee was appointed on June 12 to study and report back to the finance committee on the problem of garbage collection. It met June 18 and July 11, without any hearing on the question of free garbage cans. In fact, it received a report from the commissioner of streets and electricity June 26 specifically not recommending this.

Then, on July 19, Mayor Kelly announces that the city will buy 30,000 cans for free distribution between Division, Halsted, 39th st., and the lake. Bids are taken and request sent to finance committee by the commissioners on Aug. 17 for authority to place the contract. The committee met on Aug. 20 without any mention of this subject. The council met Aug. 21 and Chairman Bowler of the finance committee presents a proposal to transfer $75,000 to the materials and supply account to create a sum sufficient to pay $113,000 for these cans.

Dumfounded by this unexpected leapfrog procedure, I protested, and after some hastily prepared arguments by me, I was assured that this being merely a transfer of funds, no action would be taken without further authorization at a council meeting. Next, Alderman Bowler calls a meeting of the finance committee for Aug. 27 to consider the commissioners' request of Aug. 17 for authority to purchase the cans. I took the floor to present some very carefully studied considerations on this vital matter. I was heckled and subjected to abuse ranging from the accusation of playing politics to the suggestion that I should consult a psychiatrist. I answered questions and defended myself as best I could, and then was prepared to present my views on the proposed spending of $113,000. Suddenly the chairman said, "I will give you five minutes." I protested and then without more ado the committee abruptly silenced me and passed the order.

I protest that my rights as a citizen of Chicago were violated by not giving me an opportunity to present my views. This is the right of free petition which the Constitution gives to the humblest citizen. Secondly, as I am the representative of one of the 50 wards, the council has violated the fundamental principle of representative government for which our country has made such great sacrifices, by denying my right to discuss this important action. Above all, it is a poor way to solve our city problems by hasty action and denying opportunity for thoro discussion.

The city might possibly do better to use this $113,000 to give regular weekly garbage collection service than to furnish free a cumbersome 32 gallon can in one limited section of the city. How many overburdened taxpayers outside that limited section will feel that they should buy a can for themselves while they are paying taxes to give them free to taxpayers in the other section? And what is going to happen to the garbage and rats in the meanwhile in the rest of the city? Proper enforcement of our present adequate ordinances is further hamstrung by this new plan, never yet tried by any city in the country.

I did not oppose furnishing a free, proper sized can to any owner in any part of the city who will make an affidavit that he cannot afford to buy one.
JAMES B. WALLER,
Alderman, 43d Ward.

ADVICE FROM POOR RICHARD

Park Ridge, Ill., Aug. 26—Two excellent quotations will help those who are confused and surprised at the unusual ways in which our allies, Great Britain and France, express their gratitude to the United States for the favors of the last four years.

1. "Gratitude is a lively anticipation of favors yet to come."—Unknown Author.

2. "One who has done you a favor is more ready to do you another than one whom you yourself have benefited."—Benjamin Franklin.

Franklin, as you remember, spent a good part of the Revolutionary war period in France, arranging loans to this country. Maybe France loved us more than she hated England, but after gratitude had worked on us for a while we weren't sure.

This time, we are lucky to get no complaints from Russia on the termination of lend-lease. That would be admitting to the Russian home folks that the Bear has been getting help all along. The cagey Bear is discreetly silent. H. N. SCOTT

HE KNOWS GERMANS

Clinton, Ia., Aug. 30—Thank you for your cartoon, "Lady Be Careful," in today's paper, warning against sentimental treatment of our late enemies. I spent two months in the famous Dachau concentration camp myself. Both of my parents died in a nazi concentration camp. For four and a half years I served with Uncle Sam's army—and I am mighty proud of it. I landed with the 7th division on Attu against the Japs, returned to the States, and, after attending a school, I was lucky enough to be transferred to Europe. I worked for military intelligence with the 9th, 7th, and 3d armies. It gave me plenty of experience. The Germans haven't changed, believe me. Today we are their friends, tomorrow they will fight us again. How easy, if you think of the inventions made just lately. Don't forget that the German inventors always were tops.

The American people are better hearted then any other people in the world. They must be reminded again and again. Our dead gave their lives for the new and lasting peace. Our watchword should be: "No sympathy for the world's most treacherous beasts and their helpers." I ought to know, I was wounded two days after the end of the war in an engagement with one of Hitler's treacherous SS troopers in Austria.

HELPFUL POLICE

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 27—Recently while in Chicago I noticed some criticism in the newspapers of the ambulance service of the Chicago police department. I don't wish to take sides in this question but I would like to point out that my wife and I have only the highest praise for the Chicago police authorities.

On the night of July 30 I was taken suddenly ill while passing thru the city and was removed to a hospital in the police ambulance. I was not conscious of what took place for some hours after my collapse. However, my wife assures me that the ambulance was very prompt in coming to our help. She says that the two policemen in charge of the ambulance were most considerate, both in their handling of myself and in their treatment of her.

We don't know the names of the two police officers concerned, but we have written a letter of appreciation to the police chief in the hope that he can identify the men concerned and extend to them our grateful thanks for their prompt and courteous help to a couple of strangers in their midst.

Friend of the YANKS

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

H. J. K. asks: "Will a veteran who was discharged from the navy and received $200 mustering out pay be eligible for the $300 maximum if he subsequently was inducted into the army and served overseas?"

No. The maximum sum payable to any person who served in World War II. is $300. If a veteran received $200 after separation from the navy and subsequently served overseas in the army he is eligible for an additional $100 upon separation.

T. B. asks: "Now that voluntary enlistment in the regular army has been reopened can a soldier in for the duration and six months obtain discharge for the purpose of reenlisting in the regular army? If he does take a discharge and reenlists can he get the $300 mustering out pay?"

Soldiers who entered the army for the duration and six months and those regulars whose enlistment expired since Dec. 7, 1941, but was extended by the national defense act, now may apply for discharge for the purpose of enlisting or reenlisting in the regular army. War department circular 249, dated Aug. 16, 1945, says "personnel discharged and enlisted or reënlisted pursuant to this circular are not entitled to mustering out payment at this time. Upon subsequent and complete separation from the service, mustering out payments will be dependent upon statutes in effect at the time of final separation." Notation of service after Dec. 7, 1941, must be made in the old service record for possible future payment.

BELIEVE U. S. AIR POWER BALKED POISON GAS WAR

Chemicals Play Vital Role in Victory

BY WILLIAM STRAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 — Why wasn't poison gas used in the war?

The answer, according to reports in military circles, is that the enemy was reluctant to resort to the use of gas in the face of allied air supremacy, and American leaders were determined not to introduce this weapon until it first had been used by the axis.

The army chemical warfare service was ready to begin, almost at a moment's notice, the loosing of the deadliest gases conceived by science to blister, choke, and poison human beings. Huge storage depots at home and close behind the fighting fronts in Europe and the Pacific were stocked with bulk chemicals, and enough gas filled bombs, shells and grenades to start a dozen large scale gas offensives at the same time, it has been revealed.

Four arsenals and other special CWS plants, having produced vast reserves of toxic agents, were waiting to obegin additional production when needed.

Overseas Troops Prepared

Knowledge of these preparations and the protective training and equipment with which United States troops were supplied before embarking for overseas are believed to be other reasons why the enemy did not try to use gas in the second World war.

"The fact that our troops were so adequately prepared for offensive and defensive gas warfare undoubtedly deterred the axis from challenging us on that score," said Brig. Gen. R. L. Avery, commander of the Edgewood, Md., arsenal. "Chemical warfare had the men, the weapons, and the gas filled munitions ready to turn loose huge clouds of any of a dozen deadly gases by mortar and artillery shells, airplane spray tanks, bombs, grenades, and land mines."

Gas was first used in modern times by the Germans at Ypres in 1915. In the last war the Germans also introduced the incendiary bomb and the flame thrower, altho these weapons were not developed to their present deadly efficiency until the recent war.

Used Before War Started

Italy loosed mustard gas in the Ethiopian campaign before the start of the second World war and there have been many reports that the Japs used it against the Chinese.

On six occasions during the current war the allies formally warned the axis that any attempt to use gas would bring prompt retaliation. At various stages of the conflict, according to informed sources, the enemy was known to be making significant gas preparations.

But until they actually used it, according to army officials, the United States was bound by the pledge of the late President Roosevelt, who stated in 1942, ". . . We shall under no circumstances resort to the use of such weapons [gas] unless they are first used by our enemies."

American command of the air, according to some military experts, would have given our forces free use of gas weapons.

Altho gas warfare did not materialize in the second World war, the chemical warfare service saw action on all fronts and contributed a number of weapons primarily designed for gas but put to effective use in hurling other types of munitions upon the enemy. Chief of these was the 4.2 mortar intended for throwing gas shells but used in Sicily, Italy, Europe, and the Pacific to fire white phosphorous and high explosive shells in close infantry support.

Other weapons which have been developed, manufactured and supplied by CWS to other branches of the service include incendiary bombs, flame throwers, and smoke generators and pots. Thus while fire seared the enemy, smoke provided by the CWS was used to cut down American losses by concealing troop movements along the front or to eliminate enemy observation on vital installations such as the harbor at Anzio.

Chemical mortar battalions were in operation in every theater. At the same time, every front had its quota of decontamination companies available for neutralizing gassed areas; processing companies for impregnating clothing to protect troops against blister agents; field laboratory companies for analyzing enemy chemical agents and maintenance companies to service gas masks and other equipment.

CHICAGO FIRMS PLEDGE 90,600 VETERAN JOB

Industrial firms in Chicago and Illinois have pledged 90,600 jobs to returning war veterans in the "Save a Job for Joe" campaign being conducted by Industry for Veterans, an organization with headquarters in Chicago, James Simpson Jr., president, said yesterday.

Pledges have been made by 875 firms in 22 states to save 135,718 jobs for veterans. Information on the jobs is being distributed to service men thru separation centers and hospitals.

"From this information the veterans can select the type of work they want to follow," Simpson said.

EX-CHICAGOAN'S NAVY TRIANGLE CASE TANGLED

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 8 [Special].—A scheduled navy court martial of Lt. [j. g.] Lowell Wilkins, 30, former Chicago art photographer, for unseemly conduct in the alleged theft of a seaman's wife was complicated today by the disclosure that a reconciliation had taken place in the home he is accused of wrecking.

The navy learned that the divorce which Ship's Cook Jess McMurtry, 30, of Oklahoma City, had obtained July 31 from Chloe, 28, a beautician, had been set aside Aug. 30 upon the couple's joint application. Under Oklahoma law a divorce decree may be declared void within six months if the parties become reconciled.

It also was learned that McMurtry, reclaiming married status, was discharged from the navy in New Orleans, La., this week. He and his wife and the latter's beauty parlor partner are now in a Monroe, La., hospital suffered from injuries received in an automobile accident which occurred Wednesday as they were driving here from New Orleans.

Remains Under Arrest

Meantime, Lt. Wilkins remains under arrest at the naval air station at nearby Norman where he had been training flying cadets. He has been held since the domestic triangle was revealed Aug. 1. The court martial accuses him of violating naval deportment and propriety.

Seaman McMurtry testified in the divorce hearing that he came home unexpectedly after 38 months in the Pacific and found Lt. Wilkins apparently living in the McMurtry home with Mrs. McMurtry.

He said he found the officer's clothing and personal effects there, and he introduced photographs he said he found in his bedroom showing Wilkins and Mrs. McMurtry in "cozy" poses.

Stepped Out of Room

One of the photographs was a semi-nude of Mrs. McMurtry done in color, but Lt. Wilkins, who testified at the hearing, insisted that tho he posed her for the photo, he stepped out of the room while she shed the necessary clothing for an artistic effect, and that another girl pushed the camera lever.

Lt. Wilkins also said he telephoned his wife, Lillian, 27, mother of their 1½ year old son, who lives at 5820 Berteau av., Chicago, and told her of his difficulties. It was reported the officer had since submitted his resignation to the navy, but there was no official comment on that subject.

DEATH BLAMED ON OVERDOSE OF PILLS

Mrs. Bertha Dilts, 63, of 6908 Dorchester av., died in County hospital yesterday, presumably of an overdose of sleeping tablets taken Sept. 2. Doctors said the woman took the drug because of asthma.

BIGGEST PLANE IN AIR OR SEA STAYS GROUNDED

Costs U. S. 20 Million but Can't Get Near Water

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8—The story of the man who built a boat in his basement and could not get it out has been surpassed to the tune of millions of taxpayers' dollars by the company that built the world's largest flying boat and cannot get it to water.

The Hughes Aircraft company is seeking 2 million dollars of federal funds in order to bring an eight engined mammoth flying boat from a sprawling aircraft factory at Culver City, Cal., 28 miles to sheltered water at San Pedro, Cal.

The air monster, known as the Hughes Hercules, was built at a cost of about 20 million dollars. The Defense Plant corporation put up most if not all of the money. So far DPC records show $10,200,000 was paid by the government. At DPC headquarters it was said that the government had probably committed itself to pay the balance.

Seeks to Remove Parts

Now Howard Hughes, head of the aircraft company, is seeking 2 million dollars from DPC in order to remove parts of the flying boat to San Pedro harbor to see whether it can fly.

"Unexpected problems in connection with timing and moving those immense loads a distance of 28 miles thru several communities have not yet been satisfactorily solved," the Hughes comnay reports.

"Intricate arrangements with city and other authorities are now under way in order that this, the biggest overland moving operation ever attempted will proceed without danger to nearly 20 million dollars worth of engineering and construction."

The Hercules is a wooden flying boat with a 320 foot wingspan and eight 3,000 horse power engines. The 400,000 pound plane will have a top speed of 218 miles an hour and will cruise at 175 miles an hour, according to its designers.

The 4 bladed propellers will measure 17 feet from tip to tip. It will have 14 gas tanks, each holding 1,000 gallons, a total of about 42 tons of gas.

Smaller Design Changed

The plane is designed to carry a pay load of 65 tons. It could carry 750 armed soldiers non-stop from Honolulu to Tokyo, it it flies, according to the Hughes company.

The Hercules is more than twice as long as the B-29 Super Fortresses and has a gross weight almost treble that of the giant Martin Mars.

Originally three of the Hercules planes of a slightly smaller version were to be built at a cost of 18 million dollars. Later the design was changed. Construction was begun in 1943.

Already the Hughes company has announced no more such planes are to be built of wood. Reconversion to metal will involve a tremendous amount of re-designing.

NEW RADAR SET CAN SPOT SHIPS, GUIDE ARTILLERY

May Revolutionize Coast Defense

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 8 (AP)—A new radar set that will "completely revolutionize" American coastal artillery defense and also answer the problem of guiding incoming ships thru fog and darkness even tho they themselves lack radar, was disclosed today.

It was unveiled by the radiation laboratories at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which designed the apparatus for the army signal corps. Sets had been placed in operation along both our coastlines and on the coast of Iwo Jima before the war ended. The equipment is called "seacoast fire control radar."

Covers 25 Mile Area

It can detect vessels at least 25 miles out to sea under the worst weather conditions with a definition hitherto impossible with other shore-to-sea sets, the scientists said.

And, since its accuracy of detection is within 5 yards in any direction at the effective firing range of 12 miles, it enables big coastal guns to hit their targets with virtually foolproof exactness. Moreover, it allows the guns to be fired with accuracy at night for the first time, because the radar automatically "feeds" the guns information on the range and bearing of the target.

Details Are Shown

The set gives such definition that a fleet of several hundred large and small ships, detected at a distance of 30 miles, show up as separate, clearly defined dots of light, whereas previous sets would present such a fleet as a conglomerate mass on the surface of the sea, the radiation laboratory men said.

An area one mile square can be brought to such magnification that a ship five miles away can actually be "seen" to turn, and sometimes even identified as to class. The ship shows up as a light picture shaped like a vessel. The radar operator ashore can see when the vessel passes within a few feet of a marker buoy or other object. The set can even detect seagulls in flight.

Has Peace Uses Also

"There is no question but that this set will revolutionize our coastal defenses," said Dr. Ivan Getting, head of the group that developed the apparatus.

The nonmilitary use of the radar will be this:

It will allow the guiding to safe anchorage of ships which either lack radar entirely or have equipment that is out of commission.

The radar operator, having virtually a motion picture view of the incoming ship on his radarscope, will message instruction by radio telephone to the ship's commander, guiding him past all obstacles in his path.

The secret of the radar's effectiveness is its ability to transmit radio pulses of extremely short wave length, sent out in a narrow beam about one-half a degree wide—which would be only 50 yards wide at a range of 5,000 yards. By comparison, surveillance radar sets hitherto used to scan the sea from the land employed beams that were 60 to 80 times as wide.

CITY MAY RETAIN WAR-STAGGERED WORKING HOURS

A proposal to continue staggered factory and office work hours in Chicago will be considered at a meet-ing of transportation, labor union, and business representatives with Mayor Kelly at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

The staggered hours were introduced early in the war at the suggestion of the office of defense transportation to relieve excess loads on public transportation systems at 9 a. m. and 5 p. m.

Changes in working hours spread the loads over a two hour period in the morning and evening. Mayor Kelly said yesterday that the staggered schedules may be canceled after the ODT is dissolved, unless employers and employes agree to continue them voluntarily.

TRACE ATTACK ON NIEMOELLER TO WWB 'SMEAR'

Christian Century Hits Rex Stout's Board

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS

An article in the current number of the Christian Century states that the mystery behind the recent attacks on Pastor Martin Niemoller, whom the Nazis held in a concentration camp for eight years, is now cleared up. The journal accused the writers war board, headed by Rex Stout, former part owner and contributor to the New Masses, official Communist paper, and then proceeded to give its explanation of the attack that mystified Christian leaders everywhere.

The Christian Century described Stout's writers' board as having had a working relationship with a bureau of the office of war information until last June, but "since that time has continued its existence, using a name which connotes official connection after the connection has been severed."

[In 1942 the WWB used the mailing frank of the "executive offices of the President" in "the campaign of the Communists and other totalitarians to liquidate members of congress and intimidate newspapers."]

Furnish "Canned Editorials"

The religious journal stated that one of the numerous activities of the WWB is to furnish "canned" editorials to 1,600 newspapers in cities with less than 100,000 population. One of the July editorials concerned Pastor Niemoller.

"The similarity between the ideas and the phrasing in this editorial and those used by the attackers of Niemoller is too striking to be charged to coincidence," the Christian Century stated. "Whether the editorial was recast as a radio talk and sent out to commentators we do not know, but this was one of WWB's activities.

"The springboard of this editorial is suggested by its title: 'The Pastor Couldn't Fool the G.I.' According to the WWB piece, one of the reporters who stood before Niemoller in the mass interview in Rome was a representative of the Stars and Stripes. He, it was said, was not deceived by Niemoller's clerical collar. He told the truth 'with which every American civilian had better become acquainted before the German high command asks us to trust him [Niemoller] as the new leader of the new Germany.'

"What is this truth? The editorial drops the Stars and Stripes, after having used it to give the impression that what follows comes straight from G. I. Joe himself, and gives its own version."

This version, the church paper said, charges that Pastor Niemoller was a Nazi, preached anschluss [joining of Austria to Germany], made repeated efforts to return to the German navy as a U-boat commander, preached the right of Germany to the Sudetenland, the Ukraine and other areas; and asserts that he was "a confirmed and potent pan-German," and that he remained a Nazi "until Hitler attacked the church."

Chaplain's Defense Cited

"We do not pretend to know why the WWB launched this attack on Pastor Niemoller or why columnists and commentators took it up. But it is not amiss to point out how flimsy is the foundation on which it is based," the Christian Century continued.

To the charge that the Dahlem minister was a Nazi, the religious journal asks for proof, adding that "none is offered" in the editorial. The Christian Century cited a survey that showed no German Confessional pastor ever was a Nazi.

"Then it is charged that the German high command was holding Niemoller in reserve as a future leader of Germany," the religious journal continued. "How does the WWB know? Is there a shred of documentation to support its thesis? We have captured the Nazis' headquarters and have all their plans. But this plan is not in evidence."

As to the charge that the Confessional pastor preached anschluss and German aggression, the Christian Century pointed out that Niemoller's sermons have been published, and that evidence of such preaching "does not exist." After citing correspondence in The Lutheran, journal of the United Lutheran church, from Capt. David L. Ostergren, a chaplain who was with Niemoller daily for a month, and which gave an opposite view of Niemolller, the Christian Century declared the reason for Stout's WWB smear should be made public.

ITALY'S VICE PREMIER BACKS GREEK CLAIM TO DODECANESE ISLES

ROME, Sept. 8 (AP)—Vice Premier Pietro Nennin, secretary of the Socialist party, says in an editorial prepared for publication tomorrow in the party organ Avanti, that "we have no objections to Greece's claim to the Dodecanese" Islands in the Aegean sea, and "we have lost the historical right" to the 1919 Italian-Yugoslavia frontier.

The Dodecanese have been in dispute between Greece, Italy, and Turkey for years. They were under Italian control before the war, and the Germans had garrisons on them during the war.

The editorial also said: "We willingly would associate our efforts to a reorganization of the colonies tending to favor the interests of the African populations."

ITALIANS KILL 8 BRITONS IN MILAN BRAWLS

MILAN, Italy, Sept. 8 (AP)—Eight British enlisted men have died at the hands of armed Italian civilians as the result of incidents in Milan during the last week, official reports disclosed today. Six of the eight were killed in altercations in bars and restaurants. The other two were slain by partisans who declared the truck the Britons were driving failed to halt upon order and was not recognized as an allied military vehicle.

Today's announcement came shortly after a proposed trip of Gen. Clark to Milan Monday for the presentation of United States decorations to Italian Premier Ferruccio Parri and to some 60 partisans was called off, at least temporarily. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, theater commander, asked Clark not to make the scheduled visit for security reasons.

SUIT ATTACKS BRITISH TRIAL OF TYLER KENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8—Arguments have been set for Oct. 1 in the United States Court of Claims on an action indirectly challenging the surrender of Tyler Kent, a former clerk in the United States embassy in London, for trial by the British on charges of violating the British official secrets act.

Kent was sentenced to seven years in Brixton prison on Nov. 7, 1940, after being found guilty of making available information which might be useful to an enemy. It was not charged that he had given the information to the enemy.

F. D. R. Figures in Case

It was understood he made the contents of code communications between the late President Roosevelt and Winston Churchill, before the latter became prime minister, available to members of parliament.

Setting of arguments in the Court of Claims was disclosed today as Atty. Don Harlan of Detroit, Mich., filed an answer to the government's demurrer to the action. Kent is expected to be released early next month from prison on the Isle of Wight, allowances for good behavior having reduced his term.

Harlan petitioned for payment of back salary and travel expenses to Kent on the theory such payment would affirm Kent's rights under civil service and challenge his surrender as an American citizen to British courts for trial under British law.

Plea Termed Too Late

In the demurrer the government contended the action had been filed too late, that Kent was not able to perform his duties and therefore was not entitled to back pay, and that he was not a foreign service officer. The petition today answered each of the government's points.

Harlan also cited law to bolster an argument that Britain had nothing more than concurrent jurisdiction over Kent even tho this country did waive jurisdiction over him. Such concurrent jurisdiction was limited to offenses that also were offenses in the United States, and because the United States has no act comparable to that under which Kent was sentenced, he was wrongfully imprisoned, Harlan's answer contended.

GAS FOR 22,000 IS SHUT OFF BY CIO STRIKERS

Several Towns Affected in Dispute

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 8 [Special]—Gas supplies to about 22,000 users, mostly householders in West Virginia and adjacent states, were cut off today by striking CIO gas workers who turned off feeder valves along mains thruout the area.

The growing shutdown was already so serious that Gov. Clarence W. Meadows called out state police troopers to guard regulator stations and a spokesman for him promised immediate steps to protect Huntington, the state's largest city.

Among the many homes deprived of gas was that of Harry A. Wallace Jr., president of the United Fuel & Gas Co., against which the strike is directed. His wife, a Charleston society matron, cooked lunch today over an open fire in her back yard.

Six Towns Cut Off

Huntington's "millionaire row," the Park Hill district, also was without gas, as were other residential districts in the city. Domestic supplies were entirely cut off from half a dozen Kanawha county towns. All meters were off in St. Albans, a city of 5,000, and in Barboursville, famous Civil war town of 1,500.

It was estimated that about 15,000 meters had been closed down in West Virginia, about a third of them in the capital here, and about 7,000 more in the five other states—Kentucky, Ohio, Virginia, Pennsylvania, and New York—served by the United Fuel company and four subsidiaries.

The feeder valves the strikers have turned off to interrupt the flow of gas to users are mostly in isolated, unmanned stations along the mains. It is to try to guard these, as well as the larger stations, that state police were called out.

In directing State Police Supt. W. E. Burchett to deploy troopers in the strike zone, Gov. Meadows declared that public interest transcends a labor dispute.

1,300 Out on Strike

The strike began without notice Wednesday midnight. Since then about 1,300 members of locals 372 and 418 of the CIO Oil and Gas Workers union have walked off the job in the six states in which the parent company and its subsidiaries serve about 100,000 customers.

Most of the strikers were employed in West Virginia and Kentucky, the states in which the companies' plants are located.

The strike is a continuation of trouble that caused a walkout in July when the employes demanded a blanket 10 cent an hour wage increase. They went back to work on a war labor board promise to consider the matter. Their strike now is in protest of inaction on their wage demands. Also involved is an issue over the discharge of 18 union men.

EXAMINE THEORY OF PLANE FIRE BEFORE CRACKUP

Florence, S. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—Military authorities and officials of the Eastern Air lines investigating the crash of a transport which killed 22 persons near here said today the plane might have been on fire before it plowed into a swampland.

The plane, making the night run from Miami, Fla., to New York, crashed about 2 a. m. yesterday. The pilot, Capt. J. Olin King of Miami, radioed the Florence air base a few minutes before the crash that he was "having trouble" and would attempt to land there.

Military and air line investigators said the plane's stabilizer was burned but that the branch of a tree found across the stabilizer was undamaged. They believed this might indicate that the plane was in flames before it fell.

B-29 EXPLODES IN ALABAMA; '10 OR 11' KILLED

Wedowee, Ala., Sept. 8 (AP)—An army four engine bomber, identified by Sheriff G. B. Payne as a B-29 from the Gulfport, Miss., army air base, crashed and burned with the loss of 10 or 11 lives south of here last night.

The sheriff said the giant aircraft exploded when it struck the ground, and the blast could be heard for 15 miles.

The bodies were taken to Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala., this afternoon.

PLAN COLORADO WRECK INQUIRY; 50 ARE INJURED

Glenwood Springs, Colo., Sept. 8 (AP)—Plans for an inquiry were started tonight as three of the more than 50 persons injured in a collision of passenger trains remained in a serious condition.

Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad officials said the hearing to determine the causes of last night's wreck of two Union Pacific trains probably would be held at Grand Junction, Colo.

The trains were operating on Denver and Rio Grande Western tracks because of a Union Pacific railroad bridge fire in Wyoming. The collision occured when the Challenger ran into the rear of the Los Angeles Limited.

Officials said 33 of the injured still remained in hospitals. Among these was Roy Byron Rathburn, navy storekeeper 3 class, Streator, Ill., who suffered head and neck injuries. Also injured was Edward James Meister, 23, navy aviation radio man, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Meister, 2911 N. Kolmar av., Chicago, reported in fair condition.

PACIFIC VET, 19, ADMITS SLAYING 'SUNSHINE GIRL'

Uniontown, Pa., Sept. 8 (AP)—Brawny Frederick E. Hauser, 19, medically discharged sailor, signed a confession today that he beat Ann Elizabeth Dreyer, 17, into unconsciousness and then put her belt "around her neck real tight," District Atty. H. Vance Cottom announced.

The pretty waitress' nude body was found Thursday in an underbrush near a lonely country road. She had disappeared early Saturday morning after leaving the restaurant in Monessen where she was employed.

Miss Dreyer was known as the "sunshine girl" because of a health program she underwent following an attack of rheumatic fever several years ago.

Slayer's Statement Given

Cottom said the red haired Pacific war veteran would be formally charged with murder Monday. The district attorney gave this version of Hauser's statement:

"Hauser met the girl and offered to drive her home from the restaurant. They then went for a 35 mile drive thru the countryside until they reached Vanderbilt.

"Red said he continued driving until they reached a slag pile, and he pulled off the road. He said the girl got out of the car and he followed her. When he asked her to get in the back seat of the car with him, she refused, he told us, and then they got into an argument during which he hit her four or five times with his fist, knocking her unconscious.

"He picked her up and put her in the automobile and drove down the road to within a mile east of route 51, to a clump of bushes and trees.

"He said he pulled to the left side of the road, and pulled the girl out of the car. She was still unconscious, and he didn't know whether she was alive or dead, he told us.

Drives Back Home

"He took the girl's black leather belt, a man's belt, and put it around her neck real tight, he said. Then he got her clothes and threw them beside her body in the underbrush.

"Then he told us that he drove back home, arriving about 1 o'clock, and went to sleep."

Altho Hauser admitted killing the girl, he denied he had attacked her criminally, Cottom said.

Hauser calmly signed the 11 page confession, but broke down a few minutes later when his brother, Sgt. Gus Hauser, an army air corp veteran, put his arms around him.

Hauser was arrested on Leonard Hobb's Frankfort Springs farm by state police yesterday.

Recruiting of Nurses Is Halted by Truman

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—President Truman has ordered an immediate end to recruitng of student and graduate nurses. No enrollments will be made after Oct. 15. The order came in a letter to Surgeon General Parran of the public health service, made public today.

TRUCK DRIVER REPORTS ROBBERY. Raymond Smith of 2653 S. Troy st., a driver for the Midwest Transfer company, reported to police yesterday that two Negroes boarded his truck at 31st and State sts., forced him to drive to 32d and Federal sts., and robbed him of $22 and two cases of groceries.

Medical Care more accessible to the public

UNITED MEDICAL SERVICE

MEN with vision, initiative and a firm belief in their ideas become the "pioneers" of tomorrow. Progress in all fields of science and industry is built upon the determination of some man or group of men to see things through. Twenty-five years ago a young Chicago physician visualized a new form of medical practice that would provide a complete and more protective service with greater accessibility to the public. In this plan medical knowledge and medical facilities would work hand in hand under one roof . . . each supporting the other. The first attempt to initiate his ideas was made in Chicago February 1920. This effort, although confined to a highly specialized field of medicine, gained almost immediate public acceptance and within a few years became one of the largest medical organizations of its kind in the world. Its success led directly to the organization of this medical service which was opened to the public in January 1933. For more than thirteen years now, through the confidence and support of the public, it too has moved forward steadily, a major depression and vicissitudes of war notwithstanding. Completeness and accessibility of the services are among its most attractive features. Modern medical facilities such as the X-ray, electrocardiograph, basal metabolism, microscope, fluoroscope, stethoscope and other scientific instruments and laboratory procedures are as necessary to the modern physician as other precision instruments are to workers in all fields of science and industry. With these indispensible facilities our doctors can make early diagnoses of beginning heart trouble, tuberculosis, kidney disorders, diabetes, and detect conditions which if neglected may lead to cancer, apoplexy, pneumonia, appendicitis and other serious ailments. All persons, and especially those who are finding it difficult to obtain medical care, are invited to use these facilities and services. The fees are moderate and the same for all. Use the railroad trains, street cars, busses, elevated and subway trains or automobiles. Information on request.

Women Past 40
Such ailments as headache, nervousness, pains in the abdomen, irregular menstruation, frequent or painful urination need medical attention. They may result from some functional disturbance or from a more serious condition. They rarely correct themselves, especially in women past 40, when beginning cancer is a dangerous possibility. A regional examination, including the use of the colposcope, Schiller's test, microscopic study of secretions and discharges, urinalysis and blood tests, is.............. $4.50

Men Past 40
Many men begin to feel the strain of living in the early forties while others take longer. Regardless of age such symptoms as fear, nervousness, frequent or painful urination, blood in the urine, discharges, or pain and discomfort of any kind call for a thorough physical check-up. To be fully protective, the clinical examination by the physician must include microscopic examination of all secretions and discharges, blood and serological tests. Examining fee is.............. $4.50

Ear, Nose Throat
These organs are so closely related through connecting sinuses that one is rarely affected without involving all three. That is why severe colds will cause sore throat, inflammation, and infection in tonsils, adenoids, discharge from ears and other serious conditions. Lowered body resistance may account for recurring colds or they may be the result of more serious acute or chronic ailments. Our ear, nose, and throat physicians have the medical knowledge, experience, and facilities to diagnose and successfully treat these conditions. The examination will include tests for hearing, urinalysis, and blood tests. The fee is............ $4.50

Stomach Ailments
While many stomach complaints are the result of abuse and wrong eating habits, persistent cases often indicate a more serious condition. The stomach often produces the first symptoms of beginning disease, such as kidney and liver complaints, gall bladder trouble, and other serious ailments, including cancer. Therefore, never neglect a chronic stomach ailment, particularly if you are past 40 years of age. Diagnosis requires a special gastro-intestinal examination, including a physical check-up by trained physicians, blood pressure, urinalysis, a blood examination, and serological tests. The fee is.... $4.50
A fluoroscopic examination of the stomach and small bowel following a barium meal, and an X-ray film of the abdomen when necessary, is.............. $8.50
A fluoroscopic examination of the colon following a barium enema, including two 14"x17" X-ray films, one of barium-filled colon and one after evacuation, is.............. $8.50
An X-ray examination of the gall bladder is important. The fee is.............. $6.50
A laboratory examination of the gastric contents and stool is.............. $5.50

Skin Disease
Many afflictions of the skin are only temporary conditions which proper medical care will quickly heal. Others, however, require the most expert medical knowledge and skill to bring under control. Therefore, if you have a skin disorder it should be accurately diagnosed and competently treated. Many potential skin cancers have been prevented by such timely vigilance. Competent skin therapy is available here by physicians who have adequate knowledge and experience as well as the support of complete examining and treatment facilities. Examination includes urinalysis, blood and serological tests. The fee is............ $4.50

Have Your Teeth X-rayed
UNDER MEDICAL DIRECTION
When the teeth start to decay there is grave danger to health unless they are treated promptly. An X-ray of all the teeth at regular intervals will disclose their condition before serious damage has occurred. It is the only way to save your teeth and protect your health. Highly trained technicians, unexcelled facilities, insure good service and accurate interpretations. Full mouth X-ray, 14 films and a report are only.............. $2.50

Get a Physical Check-up
All persons past 40 years of age should have a complete physical check-up by the physician, an X-ray of the chest showing condition of heart and lungs, and electrocardiogram of heart, blood pressure, a basal metabolism test, a full mouth X-ray of the teeth (14 films), a urological or gynecological examination, and laboratory tests of the blood, urine and other secretions. These combined services.............. $18.50

Glasses Fitted Eyes Examined
UNDER MEDICAL DIRECTION
Such symptoms as persistent headache, dizzy spells, nervousness, etc., should call for a medical examination of the eyes without delay. These symptoms can be due to disease in the eyes or to ailments in other parts of the body. In any case treatment should begin at once. When vision is impaired and glasses are needed it is especially important to have them fitted correctly. Improperly fitted glasses can cause serious damage. Glasses fitted under medical direction provide greater protection to your eyes. This protective optical service is available here. In addition you can make your selection from beautifully engraved fulvue, gold filled mountings with excellent quality lenses for near and far vision. Exceptional values are available for as low as.......... $8.00

A Complete Medical Examination of the Eyes is.. $4.50

Rectal Disorders
are dangerous ailments. Several thousand persons die every year from cancer of the rectum. Medical authorities consider them a major disease problem. The most common or beginning type of rectal disorders are small blood tumors or varicose veins, called piles or hemorrhoids. Unless properly and promptly treated a simple hemorrhoid or pile can develop into a

Fistula or Rectal Abscess
When this occurs the physician's problem becomes more difficult and the patient's condition more serious. As soon as the abscess is opened by the physician most of the pain will cease. If it is delayed too long, however, pus may burrow into surrounding tissue, causing more abscesses and fistula tracts to form. Proper medical attention can prevent this constant menace to health. Examinations made here include the services of a competent and experienced physician as well as urinalysis, blood and serological tests. Examining fee is $4.50

Pre-Marriage Examinations
in full compliance with the Illinois State Marriage Laws by physicians practicing in all fields of medicine. Fee is $3.50

X-Ray and Laboratory Service
Under Medical Direction
X-ray of the kidneys..................$4.50
An X-ray of the heart and lungs..........$4.50
X-ray picture of the sinuses (2 views)..$3.50
An X-ray of all the teeth (14 films) and report, only..................$2.50
A basal metabolism test is............$4.50
Electrocardiogram of the heart is.......$3.50

A. W. O. L. SOLDIER SLAIN BY POLICE IN GUN BATTLE

Fires First Shot at Three Detectives in Car

Pvt. Samuel Dixon, 18, of 1151 Washburne av., a Negro, who took a .45 caliber revolver with him when he walked out of Fort Sheridan Friday night without leave, was shot to death yesterday in a gun battle with policemen at 14th and Laflin sts.

Military authorities said Dixon had been in the guardhouse at Fort Sheridan three times since his induction last May 23 for being A. W. O. L. He was transferred Friday from a special training unit to the separation center for discharge. Later in the evening he broke into an officer's locker and took the revolver, handcuffs, and a holster.

Draws His Revolver

Policemen Frank Albert, Bernard Calder, and Charles Lyons of the Maxwell st. station stopped to question Dixon when they saw him walking in 14th st. wearing the gun, but having no military police arm band. Dixon told the policemen they had no authority to interfere with a federal officer, then drew his revolver and ordered them back into the squad car, they said.

The policemen said Dixon, with his gun half drawn, walked rapidly west in 14th st. As they followed in the car, Dixon swung around and fired a shot which struck the roof of the car two inches above Lyons' head. As Dixon drew aim to fire again, Calder fired with his pistol and Albert fired with a shotgun. Dixon was killed by the shotgun charge.

Cut by Flying Fragment

In the exchange of shots Albert was cut on the chin by a flying fragment. He returned to duty after receiving first aid treatment.

Dixon was a son of George W. Dixon, who operates a newsstand at 11th st. and Blue Island av., and his estranged wife, Luna. It was said at Fort Sheridan that Pvt. Dixon was to be given a "blue" discharge —not a dishonorable discharge but one without honor.

BANDIT SEIZED AFTER STOLEN AUTO CRASHES

Ted Evans, alias Frank Montana, 34, of 2961 Warren blvd., was arrested yesterday by Policeman John McDonough and Earl Macey 30 minutes after he allegedly held up Charles Clifton, 931 S. Marshfield av., at Ashland av. and Madison st. Clifton said Evans robbed him of his automobile, his watch, and $10. Evans was driving the car when Clifton pointed him out to the cruising police squad. After a chase, Evans crashed the car into a concrete mixer at Hubbard and Paulina sts. He attempted to flee on foot, but stopped when police fired shots over his head.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Sept. 8 (AP)—Marshal Tito today accepted an offer of the people's front executive committee to sponsor at forthcoming elections a united front ticket pledged to unseat King Peter and establish a Yugoslavian democracy.

ARREST PEEPING SUSPECT SOUGHT BY SLAIN DETECTIVES

Sherwood J. Wolf, 19, of 7006 N. Pauline st., was arrested early yesterday by Rogers Park police as the "peeping Tom" who was being sought by Detectives Charles A. Brady and George H. Hellstern when they were shot to death last Sunday night at Clark st. and Lunt av.

Sherwood J. Wolf

Seized on a rear porch at 1708 Estes av. Wolf admitted he was in the vicinity of 7022 N. Paulina st. last Sunday night when police received a call that a man was peering into windows there. Detectives Brady and Hellstern were responding to the call and stopped to question a suspect who drew a revolver and shot both fatally.

Frank Leonard Hogan, 39, of 6740 N. Damen av., a cook 3d class at Great Lakes Naval Training center, who was taken into technical custody Friday night for questioning about the shooting, was turned over to navy custody yesterday after he had been cleared by a lie detector test.

A sketch of the killer, based on descriptions given by witnesses and drawn by an artist friend of Capt. Michael Ahern, was displayed at the police station last night as an aid in the search.

JAILED ON LARCENY CHARGE

John Crozier, 57, of 29 N. Ada st., who was arrested in the W. T. Grant store at 100 S. State st. while carrying a bag containing several stolen articles, was sentenced by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in Boys court yesterday to six months in the Bridewell and fined $1 on a charge of larceny.

13,000 NEEDED AS COMMUNITY FUND WORKERS

An appeal for 13,000 men and women volunteers to aid the Community and War Fund "Victory Campaign" which starts Oct. 1 with a goal of $13,040,700 was issued yesterday by Walter P. Paepcke, general campaign chairman.

Volunteer workers will canvass small business firms and residences in their own neighborhoods, Paepcke said. Approximately 140 sectional meetings over the city have been planned up to Sept. 29 to allow district captains to give workers last minute solicitation information.

Funds of the organization support activities of the United Service organizations, USO camp shows, United Seamen's service, War Prisoners aid, allied relief, and refugee services, and health and welfare agencies.

SPURNED SUITOR ADMITS KILLING DIVORCEE IN CAR

Norman G. Coppage, 23, of 1545 Fischrupp av., Whiting, Ind., a truck driver and ex-convict, admitted to Capt. Martin Zarkovich of the East Chicago, Ind., police yesterday that he shot and killed his former sweetheart, Miss Erma Leach, 21, in an automobile Friday because she had sought to end his attentions.

Miss Leach, a divorcee who lived at 4203 Homerlee av., East Chicago, was shot three times as she sat in the rear seat of a car in front of the American Steel Foundry company office at Dickey rd. and Canal st., East Chicago, where she was a secretary.

Coppage was arrested near his parents' home early yesterday by Policeman John Gajewski.

WORKER BURNED TO DEATH

Godfrey Netherland, 36, a laborer, was burned to death yesterday when fire destroyed the lath and tarpaper shack in which he lived on Dee rd. near Park Ridge. A coroner's jury decided his death was accidental.

BOLUS, AT 10 TO 1, WINS HAWTHORNE SPEED HANDICAP

THREE DOTS 2D, CHIPAMINK 3D IN $12,560 RACE

Fighting Step First in Sun Beau

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Leon Tikulski's Bolus, lightly weighted and well ridden by Billy Nichols, scored an impressive one length triumph in the $12,560 Hawthorne Speed handicap yesterday at Hawthorne before 18,443 spectators who turned out for the second day of the Stickney fall meeting.

Bolus was followed over the finish line by J. Howard Rouse's speedy Three Dots and the Silver Stock farm's Chipamink. The latter grouped with the field in the 13 horse sprint at six furlongs. The 6 year old son of Boatswain, which had beaten Three Dots in their last meeting at Washington Park, was overlooked in the betting and went postward at approximately odds of 10 to 1 as compared with the 9 to 5 favoritism of Three Dots, carrying top weight of 128 pounds, 11 more than his conqueror.

Bolus drew an outside post position, but Nichols got him away head and head with Ben Endovina's well backed Harmony Now and the two put on a spirited battle for a half mile with Three Dots two lengths in back of Chipamink at that point and the rest of the cumbersome field well strung out.

Valdina Lamar Takes Fourth

Bolus drew clear in the stretch turn, came out of the middle of the fast track and had no trouble shaking off Chipamink, ridden by Freddy Smith. As the field straightened out for the run home, Al Bodiou got everything he could out of Three Dots, but the winner hung tenaciously to a half length advantage and lengthened it another half as they passed the last 16th where Three Dots passed Chipamink and drew clear by a length.

Fourth money went to the Utopia stable's Valdina Lamar, with Billy Thompson up, after a hard pull which saw the 4 year old son of Teddy's Comet come from 10th place at the half mile marker.

Bolus rewarded his supporters with $23.20, $8.60, and $5.20 across the board while earning $8,875 for his owner. Three Dots paid $4.20 and $2.80. Chipamink returned $3.20 for the field. The winner's time of 1:11 was just two-fifths of a second off the track record held jointly by Gibbons and Myrtlewood.

Fighting Step Wins Sun Beau

Fighting Step, winner of Washington Park's American Derby, breezed to a four length victory in the afternoon's supporting feature, the $3,000 Sun Beau handicap in which seven horses started. Georgie South had the leg up on the 2 to 5 shot. Mrs. A. B. Karl's K. Doe-Doe was second and James Sand's Sunny Jack took third. The winner paid $2.09.

The daily double was worth $326 on victories by F. P. Aime's Rolls Day $48.20 and Nuckols and Sons' Halcy O'Mar $7.80. Walter Emery rode the outsider and Nichols was up on Halcy O'Mar.

The nine race program was heavily played as $1,301,814 passed thru the mutuel machines.

FRANKLIN AND MARSHALL WINS ON A PASS, 13 TO 6

Lancaster, Pa., Sept. 8 (AP) — Franklin and Marshall college defeated the Swarthmore eleven today, 13 to 6. The losers were stopped one yard from the goal line with less than a minute to play.

The winners took an early lead, scoring on a 24 yard end run by Rod Barrington, and held the advantage until the third quarter when Swarthmore marched 77 yards to tie the score. Pete Holloway made the touchdown.

A holding penalty pushed Swarthmore back to its own 1 yard line in the fourth quarter and a wobbly kick, going out of bounds on the 31, gave the Lancaster boys their advantage. Three running plays and a pass netted the winning touchdown with Barrington knifing thru tackle for the score.

CHARLES HARE LOSES TO WADE IN NET UPSET

NICE, France, Sept. 8 (AP)—Capt. James Wade of Pasadena, Cal., scored a surprise victory today over Sgt. Charles Hare of Chicago in the semi-finals of the interallied tennis tournament.

Hare, who previously had won all the army tourneys he had entered this year, was beaten 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Wade will meet a fellow Californian, Pvt. Bucge Patty of Los Angeles in tomorrow's final. Patty won his semi-final match against Robert Enbesslam, a French lieutenant, 6-1, 6-0.

Gale Retains Lipton Trophy in 'R' Race

Gale, Harry Nye Jr.'s 39 foot R class sloop, retained the Sir Thomas Lipton cup yesterday in the third and final race for the award, sailed on the Chicago Yacht club's course off Belmont harbor. The first two races were held last month.

The winning sloop covered the 12 mile quadrangular course in 1 hour, 46 minutes, and 18 seconds, one of the fastest averages of the season. Yankee, Ed Schnabel's 37 foot R boat, which fought Gale for the lead, finished only 40 seconds later. The third yacht, Dr. Adrien Ver Brugghen's Vitesse, trailed Yankee by 30 seconds.

The R's encountered a rolling sea and a moderate south-southwest breeze. Snipe class sloops competing in the world championship series, sailed a six mile triangular course off Montrose harbor.

Lively Lady Triumphs

Lively Lady, 47 foot Q class sloop owned by Otto Dreher of the South Shore [Milwaukee] Yacht club, won the opening race of the Jackson Park Yacht club's annual T. C. Lutz trophy series off Jackson park harbor. The Milwaukee yacht, defending the trophy, was sailed by George Tanger, with a crew consisting of Anthony Herrmann, Gene Tanger, James Blackwood, Herbert Jelinek, and William Dreher, the owner's son.

Winning time for the 12 mile triangular course was 1:37:19. Cara Mia, owned and sailed by L. L. [Ole] Karas, who won the Chicago-Mackinac race for the 10th time last July, was runner-up in 1:39:14. The two final races for the Lutz trophy will be sailed today.

Fletcher Takes Two Races

Dan Fletcher, 17, and his crew, Harold Brainard Jr., won the first of two races sailed off Wilmette

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS BOOK

PURDUE'S FOOTBALL STRATEGY IS SAME AS USUAL: HIT THAT LINE!

BY WILFRID SMITH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 8—At the conclusion today of the first week of Purdue's football practice, the season's forecast is equally divided between optimism and pessimism. When Cecil Isbell, head coach, starting his second campaign at his alma mater, thinks of the Boilermaker veterans, the pendulum swings to black. When he considers his inexperienced replacements, the answer is red.

Black or red, Isbell is not of the old time coaching school which sees only the worst and doubles that for publicity. Isbell has the optimism of youth—he's only 29—and it is bulwarked by a personal background which makes him tolerant of mistakes if they are not repeated.

Helped Burnham First

This is Isbell's third year on the Purdue football coaching staff. He was back field coach for Elmer Burnham when Purdue's 1943 eleven was he only undefeated and united major collegiate team in the nation. Then, Isbell, with his background of dependence on attack while a member of the Green Bay Packers, taught the same theory. He hasn't changed and today he adheres to the belief that a good attack is a team's best defense.

It is no statistical freak that the late Tony Butkovich set a conference scoring record in 1943 and Boris Dimancheff led the Western conference in scoring last year. Purdue plays that kind of football.

Purdue will continue to use the T formation which places the burden of team direction and forward passing on the quarter back. This may be the Boilermakers' Achilles tendon since Bob DeMoss, a 162 pounder from Dayton, Ky., and the No. 1 quarter back, is only a freshman.

Predicts Great Future

"This youngster will be a great football player by his junior year," Isbell asserted today. "He has the physical qualifications and he will develop. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall, a fine height for a passer."

Isbell's optimism stems partly from his belief in DeMoss and the other freshmen now assigned to this all-important position—Bill Deem, from Washington High school, Indianapolis, and George Huys, who played for Senn High school, Chicago.

Isbell is not forecasting when he turns to the full back position. In Ed Cody, one time Boston college line plunger, who played spectacularly for Purdue last fall until injured, the Boilermakers probably have the best full back in the Western conference. Cody is ready and so is George Mihal, 218 pound veteran full back whose injured shoulder was repaired after the last campaign.

Then There Is Ernie

Purdue's third full back is Ernie Dobrzykowski from Washington High school, South Bend, Ind., whose surname will cause no end of trouble for newspaper compositors as well as such rabid alumni as Cordy Hall, chairman of Purdue's alumni scholarship foundation. For Purdue, Hall probably would learn Polish.

Ends Are Green, Too

Inexperience also is a debit at the ends of Purdue's line, where freshmen are assigned. George Wachold, at left end, 6 feet 2 inches, 187 pounds, is a navy trainee from Ventura, Cal. Paul Gilbert, at right end, is a marine trainee from Mitchell, S. D. He weighs 170 pounds and is 5 feet 11 inches.

Between the ends, Purdue has its veterans. Pat O'Brien, 220 pound left tackle from Chicago's St. Phillip High school, played 502 minutes of a possible 600 minutes last season. Tom Hughes, veteran right tackle, is supported by Dick Arcaris, 250 pounds, a civilian from St. Philip's. Dick Smith, a marine returned from the South Pacific, also must be considered.

Duel for Guard Positions

Ralph Clymer, minor letter man in 1944, and Ken Glaesner, who played half of the maximum time last year, are in the early lead for the guard assignments. However, they are being pushed by Hill Horvath, discharged veteran of the Anzio attack, who once played at Butler university and excels as a punter; Walt Lenczyk, 1944 letter man; Gordon Logan, and Jack Pursel.

Joe Kodba, discharged paratrooper and former Butler player, is at center with Jim Lockwood, varsity letterman, in support.

Practice Is Limited

Purdue is limited to one practice a day because classes are in session. Contact work has been limited to blocking. Isbell prefers to have injuries occur, if they do occur, in games. He is opposed to tackling in drill.

Purdue's schedule, from consideration of its six conference games, is well arranged. Marquette, which opens in Ross-Ade stadium Sept. 22, is followed by Great Lakes at the Naval Training Center. Then come Wisconsin and Iowa, followed by Ohio State. Michigan will be met Nov. 17 and the intra-state battle with Indiana concludes the campaign. In between, Northwestern and Pittsburgh complete the program. Director Guy Mackey has queried Missouri, Bucknell, and Villanova seeking replacement for the cancellation Nov. 10 by Iowa Pre-Flight.

Truman—the Ball Fan—Has Unhappy Day

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8—The man in seat 6, box 79, a baseball fan named Harry S. Truman, was in an unhappy minority numbering only a few score persons as the Washington Senators defeated the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 1, before some 25,000 this afternoon.

It was Mr. Truman's first ball game since he became President and his appearance at Griffith stadium was attended by ceremonies resembling an opening day contest. He threw out the first ball, a left-handed heave of 25 feet which was caught by a St. Louis catcher named Hayworth. Then, for the benefit of a corps of photographers, he tossed out another which was grabbed by the Washington second baseman, George Myatt.

Arrives 10 Minutes Early

"Hail to the Chief" was played and then the "Star Spangled Banner" as the President's car was driven onto the field ten minutes before game time.

Mr. Truman apparently tried to maintain a neutral attitude but he showed his only excitement when St. Louis scored its run in the early innings after Washington had scored two in the first. He clapped his panama on his head, pulled it off, talked excitedly and happily with fleet Admiral Leahy, chief of staff to the commander in chief, on his left, and with Mrs. Truman on his right.

Brooks, Lucas on Hand

During the rest of the game, with the Washington team in complete control, the man from Missouri had little to be happy about.

A dozen senators filled the seats around the President. They included Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.], Senators Brooks and Lucas of Illinois; Vandenberg [R., Mich.]; La Follette, [P., Wis.]; O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.]; White [R., Me.], and Chandler [D., Ky.], who is also baseball commissioner. Other guests were Secretary of the Treasury Vinson, Attorney General Clark and White House Secretaries Matt Connelly, Charles G. Ross and William Hassett.

8TH PLACE ATHLETICS WIN THIRD STRAIGHT OVER WHITE SOX, 9-0

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 8—The White Sox who, with their program of doubleheaders, seem so weary that even a possible plunk into seventh place holds no terrors, succumbed to the tail-end Athletics again today in the final of the seven game series. To commemorate their first single battle after a string of six double headers, the Sox refused to trample on home plate, the cellar dwellers disporting themselves meanwhile with a 9 to 0 jamboree.

It is possible that the Sox inclination to keep themselves in a runless state for the afternoon may have been at least partly due to the presence of Jesse Flores. He held them to two hits in the first inning and one hit in each of the next four rounds, after which he wasn't disturbed by even one base runner. It's the third time this season he has done the whitewash job on the Dykes' boys, the previous by 1 to 0, and 7 to 0 scores.

Buck Ross Retires Early

Being slightly pressed for pitching talent and with five games in Washington in three days coming up, Boss Dykes gave Buck Ross his second start of the year but the former Mackman got away early. At the end of four innings he was chased out of the park, leaving a record of seven hits, four passes and five runs. The other enemy runs were compiled against Clay Touchstone, one of them the last of a series of contributions by Hal Peck. It was a homer he dropped over the right field barrier in the seventh for his fourth successive hit.

Ross's starting assignment began to turn sour when he walked Bobby Estalella to open the second inning. Doubles by Dick Siebert and George Kell came next. Later in the inning there was a single by Ed Busch on which the last of a batch of three runs scored.

Cuccinello Commits Double Error

The Macks didn't score despite a single and pass in the third but in the next inning boosted their assault to three hits and a pair of passes, two scoring. Busch singled and Flores walked with one out. Irv Hall singled but the Macks got twisted in their base running and Busch was erased. Peck doubled against the right field wall, Flores and Hall scampering home. Then Bill McGhee walked and Ross's term was concluded with Estalella flying to Wally Moses.

Touchstone would have had two out with the bases bare in the fifth if Tony Cuccinello had not committed a double error on Kell's grounder. Buddy Rosar then walked and Busch singled to score Kell. Rosar registered on Flores' out and a single by Hall sent in Busch, making it 8 to 0. The Peck homer came later.

BREWERS WIN THIRD STRAIGHT PENNANT IN A. A.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 8 (AP)—The Milwaukee Brewers defeated St. Paul, 5 to 1 tonight, and won their third consecutive pennant in the American association. Ben Cardoni was the winning pitcher in the title deciding game, marked by a three run rally in the third inning.

The winning of a third straight pennant equaled a league record first set by Columbus and later tied by Minneapolis.

The association teams are to conclude their regular season schedule tomorrow, and the Milwaukee lead is such that the Brewers cannot be overtaken by second place Indianapolis.

SWEDISH TRACK STARS LEAD IN OSLO MEET

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 8 [Reuters] —Swedish runners gained more notable successes on the second and concluding day of the international meet, watched by King Haakon and Crown Prince Olav of Norway.

Lennart Strand, conqueror of Gundar Hagg and Arne Anderson, won the 1,500 meters in 3 minutes 52.8 seconds. Lennart Strandberg, who meets Cyril Holmes at Gothenburg tomorrow, won the 100 meters in 10.7 seconds.

The Dane, Holst Sorensen, who had won the 800 meters, scored a notable double by taking the 400 meters in 48.5 seconds.

Nieminen of Finland and Duregaard of Sweden both jumped 6 feet 4¾ inches in the high jump.

BY EDWARD BURNS

The league leading Cubs, who did not suffer their fourth 1945 shutout until a week ago today, yesterday succumbed to their second blanking in successive days at the hands of the New York Giants in Wrigley field. An explosion in the ninth gave the Giants the three runs by which they won, 3 to 0, to halve the season series with the Cubs, 11 to 11. Harry Feldman administered the whitewashing, the third which the Giants have accomplished over the Cubs.

Paul Derringer was the losing pitcher after a handsome job of three hit pitching in eight innings before he blew up in the ninth. This falling apart apparently came in a burst of temperament because of a misplay by the Cubs' rookie first baseman, Regino Otero, immediately after Mel Ott had opened the final inning with a single.

Play Braves Two Today

The debacle reduced the Cubs' lead over the idle Cardinals to 3½ games [not counting the Brooklyn gumup game which will not go into the books until the final inning is played next Saturday.] The revived New Yorkers move on to St. Louis and the Braves come to Chicago for a four game series beginning with a double header this afternoon. Ray Prim and Claude Passeau, who beat the Giants in the final series, will pitch today.

Before the unhappy windup, Derringer had held the Giants to singles by Nap Reyes and Johnny Rucker in the third inning and a lead off single by Danny Gardella at the start of the seventh. Paul had struck out six, whiffing a batsman for the third out in three innings. He walked only one, Roy Zimmerman, after a three and two count in the seventh. In eight innings Derringer was accorded perfect support.

Ott Starts Big Rally

Coming up to lead off the ninth Ott had a record of a strike out in the first inning, a click in the ribs by one of Derringer's pitches, and a tap to Derringer. The Giant manager started the winning rally with a line single to center and Leon Treadway ran for him. Gardella bunted to Otero who came up with the ball after the speedy Treadway had almost arrived at second. Nevertheless Otero threw to second. Treadway was safe at second and Gardella at first.

After a conference with Coach Adolfo Luque, Ernesto Lombardi bunted. The Cub infield was playing back for the plodding Giant catcher, but Derringer made no effort to leave the mound and Lombardi, of all persons, beat out the bunt for a single, loading the bases with none out.

Three Runs Come Home

Zimmerman, who had fanned twice in addition to walking, lined a single to right, scoring Treadway and Gardella, and putting the now frisky Lombardi on third. Johnny Hudson went to third to run for Lombardi. Bill Jurges whacked a

GREENBERG HITS HOMER; TIGERS WHIP YANKS, 11-4

Hank Drives In 5 Runs; Detroit Takes Series

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—Led by hammering Hank Greenberg, the Detroit Tigers gave another display of power today as they won the season's final contest from the New York Yankees, 11 to 4, thus virtually putting an end to New York's pennant hopes.

A crowd of 28,944, which increased the total attendance for the seven game series to 143,546 paying customers, groaned as the league leaders pounded four Yankee hurlers for 16 hits, including five extra base blows, to take the series five games to two. The loss dropped the fourth place Yanks to seven and a half games from the top.

Dizzy Trout, making his second start of the series, was the winning pitcher, altho he needed assistance from Stub Overmire in the seventh. It was Trout's 15th victory against 13 defeats and his fourth in five starts against New York.

Greenberg blasted his 11th home run of the season and two singles to drive in five runs. Shortstop Joe Hoover also made three hits, including two doubles, and batted in three mates besides scoring three times himself.

double to right, Hudson scoring. Reyes was given a pass, filling the bases. Feldman and Zimmerman tried to put on the squeeze play, but Feldman's bunt was a pop up to Otero, who threw to Bill Schuster, doubling Zimmerman, who had crossed the plate. Rucker then became Derringer's seventh strikeout victim.

The Cubs outhit the victors, eight to seven, including a double by Lennie Rice. Otero knocked two singles in three times at bat and has made nine hits in 17 times since becoming the Cubs' starting first baseman last Monday.

Cubs Miss Scoring Chances

The Cubs got a runner to third in two innings, the third and eighth. In the third Derringer led off with a single, went on to second on George Hausmann's overthrow of first, and to third on Stan Hack's fly to Ott. Roy Hughes then popped to Jurges. Bill Nicholson was given an intentional pass and was forced by Harry Lowrey.

Hughes opened the eighth with a single to left and was forced by Nicholson. Lowrey singled to center, Nicholson stopping at second. The runners advanced while Lombardi was throwing out Frank Secory. After Otero was given an intentional pass, loading the bases, Rice forced Otero.

The Cubs still have won three more games than the Cards and the Cards have lost three more than the Cubs, counting the gum up game as lost. The Cubs have won 12 of their 18 games with their foes of this afternoon, the Braves. Oak Park Elks will make speeches and present a gift to a fellow member, Phil Masi, Braves catcher, before the game.

EASTERN LEAGUE NINES WILL OPEN FINALS TUESDAY

Williamsport, Pa., Sept. 8 (AP)—Playoffs in the Eastern Baseball league will begin in Utica, N. Y., home of the champion Blue Sox, on Tuesday, league president Thomas H. Richardson announced here today. The team third in the league standings will be Utica's opponent.

Second and third places depend on games to be played tomorrow. Hartford, Conn., will play two games at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Albany, N. Y., two at Scranton, Pa., and Binghampton, N. Y., two at Williamsport, Pa. Utica and Elmira, N. Y., will play a single game.

Either Albany or Wilkes-Barre will play Utica the first two games. The second and fourth place teams will begin a series at the same time.

B.B.Y.O., C.Y.O. SOFTBALL TEAMS PLAY TOMORROW

Hodge, Reid Meet in Net Final Today

Karl Hodge, top seeded in the Western Veterans tennis tournament at River Forest as a representative of St. Louis, Mo., and Kirk Reid of Cleveland, O., will meet in the singles final today.

Yesterday Hodge defeated Jacob Greenberg of Chicago, 6-3, 6-2, while Reid won from Art Kaiser, River Forest, 6-2, 6-3.

Reid teamed with Al Tressel of Pittsburgh, Pa., to win the Vets doubles title. They beat Art Kaiser and Fred Whittleder, River Forest, 6-4, 6-3.

PLAY 1ST ROUND IN NO. INDIANA BALL TOURNEY

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 8 [Special]—First round games in the Northern Indiana baseball league's annual tournament will be played tomorrow afternoon with contests scheduled for Elkhart, Laporte, Michigan City, and South Bend. The winners will advance to the second set of games on Sept. 13 with the finals to be played in Lippincott Park here on Sept. 16.

Tomorrow's schedule sends South Bend Hoosier Beers against M-Co of Plymouth in Lippincott Park, and Knights of Pythias, South Bend, against Dodge A. A. of Mishawaka, both games to be played in South Bend; Laporte's Boosters and Great Lakes Ducks at Michigan City; Laporte Merchants and Laporte Cubs, in Laporte, and Jamestown Tigers against Columbia-Biltmore of Elkhart on the latter's diamond.

The Beers won the league championship for the fifth consecutive season, losing only to the Ducks in 18 league games.

EAGLES ELEVEN FLIES TO BUFFALO TO MEET LIONS

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 8 (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles set a National Football league precedent today when the entire squad of 33 players boarded two transport airplanes to fly to Buffalo, N. Y., for an exhibition game there tomorrow with the Detroit Lions.

No other team in league history has ever traveled by air, club officials said.

Coach Earle K. [Greasy] Neale said the game with the Lions will serve as a tune-up for the Philadelphia club's home debut against the champion Green Bay Packers next Thursday in a charity game.

RAMS AND TRAIN TAKE REDSKINS FOR ROUGH RIDE

BY EDWARD PRELL

Arriving in Chicago last night, the Washington Redskins weren't sure which caused them the most discomfiture, the 21 to 0 loss to the Cleveland Rams Friday night, or the 8 hour day coach ride in 95 degree temperature from the Ohio metropolis. This landed them in the city early last evening.

The Redskins came to town for Tuesday night's nonchampionship skirmish with the Chicago Bears in Soldiers' field. The easterners will work out in the lake front arena at 11 a. m. today, while the Bears will continue their toil at St. Joseph's college near Renssalaer, Ind. The Bears will arrive in Chicago tomorrow and work out that evening under the Soldiers' field lights.

The Redskins were feeling sorry for the Bears who will play the Rams in Cleveland on Oct. 7 and in Wrigley field two weeks later.

Praises Rams' Quarter Back

"This Quarter Back Bob Waterfield from U. C. L. A. is terrific," said Sid Carroll, the Redskins' general manager. "We all agreed this is the best Cleveland team we've seen. Waterfield's replacement is Bob Greenwood from Illinois who I hear did a good job with the All-Stars against the Packers last week."

After getting the kick-off in the Cleveland game the Rams marched to the Redskins 1 yard line where they fumbled on first down. On three other occasions Washington was inside the 10, but something always popped up to stop the drives. It could have been the Rams' big, tough line. The Rams made only two first downs thru the Redskins' line and won the game by completing passes in the flat over the half backs and the safety man.

Wayne Millner, the old Notre Dame star, is back with the Redskins as a player-coach. He was a navy lieutenant in the armed guard and saw considerable action chaperoning merchant ships across the Atlantic.

2 Service Men with Redskins

Two service men are playing with the Redskins on furlough. They are Sgt. Sal Rosato, full back from Villanova, who played with the March field eleven last fall, and Navy Lt. Al Couppee, former Iowa back field star. What the Redskins need most is a fast stepping half back and hopes are held that Steve Bagarus or Dick Todd, or both, leave service in time to play this season.

One of Washington's new linemen is Al Lolatai, a Samoan from Honolulu who played at Weber college in Ogden, Utah, before the war. After Pearl Harbor he returned to Honolulu and served in the home guard until recently. He was voted the outstanding player in the Hawaiian service football league last year. He is a 215 pound tackle.

From Chicago the touring Redskins will move to Buffalo where they will play the Cardinals a week from tonight. The Redskins who trained at Georgetown university in Washington this summer will return to California next year for their exercising. They have contracted to appear in a game early in September in Los Angeles against a team to be selected.

PT BOAT ELEVEN TO PLAY OCT. 20 AT WEST POINT

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 8 (AP)—Army, whose unbeaten football team was the generally recognized collegiate champion of 1944, will play the Melville, R. I., torpedo boat training center on Oct. 20 at West Point.

The game replaces the one originally assigned to the North Carolina Pre-Flight team. The entire Pre-Flight schedule was canceled recently because of lack of man power.

The PT boat eleven is coached by Mike Holovak, All-America full back at Boston College in 1942. It uses the T-formation. Among its players are Lou Thomas, formerly of Tulane; John Hoague of Colgate, and Jack Welch of Pennsylvania.

11TH WINDY CITY SOFTBALL MEET STARTS TODAY

The 11th annual Windy City city-wide softball tournament begins today in Hilburn stadium, 5500 N. Wolcott st., with two games listed for afternoon play and two in the evening.

Thirty-two teams will vie for the City of Chicago award and the Hon. Edward J. Kaindl trophy. Two brackets, a major and a free lance, make up the field. The schedule:

4 p. m., A. B. C. Freighters vs. Irv-Oaks; 5 p. m., the Cubs vs. Delcamos; 8 p. m., Barretts vs. Mar-L's; 9 p. m., Columbus Coals vs. Stony Tires.

PIRATES SCORE IN 12TH; DEFEAT DODGERS, 6 TO 5

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 8 (AP)—In their final contest of the season today the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 6 to 5, in 12 innings.

Pete Coscarart's single scored Bob Elliott with the winning run.

Before the game Manager Leo Durocher suggested to his Dodgers that they give Umpires Tom Dunn, George Barr, and Ziggy Sears, with whom they had had trouble in the two previous games of the series, the silent treatment. Durocher's idea was carried out until the 10th when Barr, officiating behind the plate, called Eddie Stanky out on strikes. Stanky registered a protest and when he hurled his bat into the air he was ejected from the game.

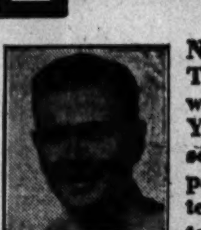
For Men Only
BUY-LINES by Phil Sasser
A Weekly Sponsored Column of Things Advertised and Interesting.



NEW YORK, Sept. 9th. C-O-N-T-A-C-T! This is my first solo flight on the wordy wings of column-formation. The target is YOU . . . and the mission is anything but secret. Rather, I'm on reconnaissance patrol in American manufacturing centers, with this column serving as a pilot-to-base "intercom" for reports on nationally advertised products. I review them at manufacturing sources and brief you about finding them in your local stores. Sorry this is for brethren only,—but my sister, Nancy Sasser, patrols the distaff side of the street. (See her BUY-LINES column in Society Section.) So this take-off is for MEN ONLY . . . beginning a regular Sunday schedule of BUY-LINES to pay off best when you let fly with Uncle Sam's paper eagles! So, gentlemen, light up—but DON'T light out! Today's briefing begins with ADVICE TO THE GROOM! Check your jitters at the church door and DON'T try to hide behind the bridal veil . . . somebody always remembers to look at the groom, too! Just relax . . . and follow wedding traditions as if they were top-sergeant orders. One of them, at least, is Adam-inspired . . . the Groom's Cake, a dark and handsome HOENSHEL Brandied Fruit Cake that's tangy with fruit and spices and moistly flavorsome with aged brandy and rare wines. It's as traditional as "something borrowed, something blue" for the bride . . . but a lot more deliciously nourishing to a timid groom! One taste proves it's THE Christmas gift for overseas,—improving with time and traveling as it ages in brandy and wine. Ask for HOENSHEL Brandied Fruit Cakes ready-to-mail at your favorite fine Food, Department or Confectionery Stores. Or write to Hoenshel Fine Foods, Inc., Sandusky, O.

STOP SHAVE-SABOTAGE! Don't use a razor blade that yells, "Bear down, brother!" at every whisker! I recommend a PAL Hollow-Ground Razor Blade that gives the famous "feather touch" shave! It's the hollow-grinding that makes the difference. A PAL Hollow-Ground is flexible in your razor, follows the contours of your face with no "bearing-down." PAL pioneered, perfected and patented the hollow-ground razor blade, as different from an ordinary razor blade as a modern B-29 is from a 1918 single-seater! Take my tip and try a PAL . . . they shave better, they last longer and they're rust-resistant. PAL Blades are only 10c for 4, 25c for 10, single or double edge. Try them!

LAY YOUR BETS . . . on either yourself or Jack Frost this Fall. Who's going to win the Shiver 'n Shake Handicap depends entirely on how you pick the underwear winner that will beat the season's cold race. If you take my tip, you can't lose . . . for OTIS Underwear makes a Winter-Weight Underwear which has just that little more weight and warmth to win! Exactly what you need . . . neither too heavy nor too light, but figured to health and comfort specifications as the most proper underwear for the winter season! Ask at your favorite store for "Winter-Weights" bearing the OTIS label, this week . . . tell your wife about them, if she does your shopping.

"DON'T FENCE ME IN"! Office moles know more about this fenced-in business than a world of crooners! That's why men in business say SEAFORTH Shaving and Toiletry Preparations win hands down over other brands . . . they bring the pick-up of outdoors INSIDE! The SEAFORTH Shaving Mug, Lotion, Talc, Cologne and Soap exhale the bracing freshness of Scotch heather and fern,—served up in sturdy stoneware jugs and mugs that are as masculine as a Hillbilly's demijohn! $1 each makes as good "Scotch" sense as naming them after the famous Scotch Regiment, The Seaforth Highlanders.

BUBBLE-DOUBLER TIP! Here's quick and cooling relief when sun-hexed friends mutter hints at what the Governor of North Carolina said to the Democrat nabob from South Carolina. Yes, you've guessed it . . the "pin-point carbonation" of CANADA DRY Water that points up the flavor of the rarest throat tickler with longer-lasting bubbles. CANADA DRY is the mark of a good host because it puts the most zest into whatever you're serving. It's a good idea to remind Friend Wife of that . . . she'll want to keep the BEST for guests!

FEET ON FIRE? Then call for DR. SCHOLL'S SULFA SOLVEX to deal a knock-out blow to Athlete's Foot! Ask your Druggist, Shoe or Department Store for this remarkable new formula containing Sulfathiazole and sprinkle on at the very first sign of itching, cracking, rawness, or peeling, soggy skin between your toes. DON'T WAIT . . . for this wonderful powder quickly relieves intense itching, kills fungi on contact, helps make perspiration conditions of the feet less favorable to attack, aids in preventing spread of the infection and promoting natural healing of the skin. Cost is only 50c . . . get DR. SCHOLL'S clinic-tested SULFA SOLVEX Powder for Athlete's Foot today. Use as directed. Certain states require prescription.

CONNERS STARS IN ALL-WILDCAT PRACTICE GAME

Veteran Sets Up 1 Score, Makes Another

Northwestern' football team climaxed the first week of practice with a spirited intra-squad scrimmage yesterday, in which the tentative first team scored two touchdowns.

While the first scrimmage under game conditions produced the usual amount of mistakes, the overall performance was satisfactory.

Veterans and newcomers sparkled in the two touchdown barrage unleashed by the first stringers. Dick Conners, a letter man, dashed 30 yards off tackle to set up the first score. He advanced the ball to the 5 yard line, from where Don Laser, freshman quarter back, carried it over. A 25 yard run by Bruce Bairstow, second year half back, followed by Laser's 20 yard end run set the stage for second touchdown. Conners' carried it over from the 3. Four teams saw action during the course of the afternoon.

BADGERS ROLL UP SCORES

Madison, Wis., Sept. 8 [Special]—The University of Wisconsin football squad completed its first week of fall practice with the first and second elevens romping over two reserve teams by eight touchdowns in the longest scrimmage of the week.

The Badgers were only mildly impressive despite the way they rolled over their opposition. It was the weakness of the reserves rather than power of the 1945 varsity that brought the heavy scoring.

Ben Bendrick and Dan Orlick were standouts among the backs. There were few outstanding performances among the linemen on either the first or second teams.

MICHIGAN BLUES WIN

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 8 (AP)—University of Michigan's football squad today concluded heavy contact work in preparation for its opening game here next Saturday with Great Lakes with a full length game in which the Blues routed the Whites, 39 to 0.

Horace Coleman, a half back who last season played with Western Michigan, returned a White punt 58 yards for one of the Blues' touchdowns. Other touchdowns were made by Half Backs Walt Teninga and Jack Weisenburger, and Full Back Dan Dworsky.

ILLINI TEST OFFENSE

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 8 [Special]—The Illinois football team closed its first week of fall practice today with a scrimmage, the first in which the varsity kept the ball all the time.

Open field running by Charley Starkes, Charlestown, W. Va., and Jack Pierce, Pontiac, Mich., was satisfactory from a back field viewpoint. The downfield blocking by Les Bingaman, Gary, Ind., guard, was outstanding among the linemen.

The first string half backs, Eddie Bray and Eddie McGovern, worked only briefly and appeared to be in good form.

Mac Wenkunas, center; George Weberling, end, and Bill Van Horn, guard, rejoined the squad today.

Spartas and Schwabens to Meet Today

BY OFFSIDE

Two matches highlight today's opening of the National Soccer league's fall schedule. The Schwabens and the Spartas will meet at California av. and Roscoe st., and the Chicago Sport club and the Vikings will be opponents in Winnemac park stadium, Foster av. and Leavitt st. The league leading Hakoah-Centers, who already have inaugurated their season's play, will be idle today.

A victory for the Schwabens will put them in third place in the league standings, while a defeat for the Vikings will be advantageous to the Hakoahs.

The Viking's management late Friday night announced the signing of Danny Dawson, former Celtic ace who played last week-end on the King Edward club team of Canada. Dawson probably will take his place in the Vikings' lineup this afternoon at right half.

Manager Frank Adler of the Schwabens has rounded up one of his strongest teams for the Sparta encounter. John Csonka, star goal keeper, will defend behind the two veteran full backs, Ernie Schaaf and Alois Thiet. The only new player will be Vic Absil, who returns after two years' absence.

Fekker Will Play Goal

The Spartas, who finished the spring schedule with only seven points, will have only one important change. Werner Fekker, who formerly played with the Hansas, will be goal keeper behind veterans Tom Scott and Laddi Mrnka.

The Chicago Sports club, not satisfied with the signing of George Marchetich of the Brooklyn Hispanos, is angling with other stars to bolster the team. The Marchetich signing was one of the biggest player deals of recent years. George was a standout last spring when he scored four of his team's five goals against the Chicago All-Stars in Wrigley field.

Vikings Make Changes

The Vikings, who must win to remain a leading contender, have rearranged their starting lineup. Paul Myellenberg takes the outside right position, Nels Brostrom moves to the inside spot, and Butch Anderson gets his chance at left half. For the first time in years Al O'Hare will be the first reserve. Lineups:

DOLE VALVE won the championship of the men's division of the Grant Park Recreation association's softball tournament of champions by defeating the North Western railroad's "400" club, 17 to 16, in an extra inning game Wednesday in Grant park. The girls' finals, also scheduled for last week, have been delayed because of a protest involving one of the tournament games. The Illinois Central girls have qualified as one of the finalists, with the American Coedds, Milwaukee Railroad, and Republic Drill and Tool bidding for the other place.

The Dole Valve men's team was the survivor of a field of 10 starters in its division of the tournament, all of them champions of various Chicago park district leagues. The winners represented Altgeld park, while the runner-up North Western entry qualified by winning the Welles park championship.

In the championship game the score was tied at 14 to 14 after the regulation seven innings. North Western scored two runs in the first half of the ninth, but Dole came back with three after two were out in its half of the inning.

Link Belt [Caldwell plant] beat Stewart-Warner, 12 to 11, in the consolation game and took third place in the tournament rankings. In the semi-final round Tuesday, Dole beat Stewart-Warner and North Western eliminated Link Belt.

TRY, TRY, TRY AGAIN!

Week after week thru the regular schedule of the North Av. Y. M. C. A. Industrial Softball league season, the National Scientific company team strove valiantly without achieving its first victory. Finally, the regular season ended with the boys still painfully aware of that zero in the won column after their name in the standings. However, they still had one more chance, the play-offs between the two divisions of the league, and cashed in on it, beating Industrial Pattern, last place team in the other section, 19 to 13, Monday night.

Wabash av. alleys, with 16 teams as members. The league is sponsored by the Association of Commerce Fellowship forum. The teams are:

Apple Cole company, A. R. Barnes & Co., Cardox corporation, Globe-Wernicke company, Graver-Dearborn corporation, Hohman & Hill, Inc., Illinois Bell Telephone company, Kemper Insurance company, La Salle hotel, Pyott Foundry and Machine company, Railway Express agency, St. Clair hotel, Savoy Drug and Chemical company, Thompson Elevator and Electric company, Verson Steel Press company, and Workman Calculating service.

Illinois Central Employes to Hold Golf Meet Saturday

The Illinois Central System Employes' Service club will hold its first championship golf tournament next Saturday at the Cherry Hill Country club, Flossmoor. The 18 hole blind bogey handicap tournament is expected to attract at least 150 I. C. employes and executives. In the evening there will be a dinner in the clubhouse, at which a large assortment of prizes will be awarded. Stanley J. Siedlecki, D. D. Thoren, and P. H. Lehman are in charge of the day's program.

Another first on the recreational program of the Illinois Central employes' organization is a 10 team girls' bowling league which will operate this year. Siedlecki, in charge of recreation for the service club, says the league is all set to start activities Sept. 19 in Hyde Park recreation, 51st st. and Lake Park av.

32 Golfers Will Compete Today in I. A. G. A Tourney.

THIRTY-TWO golfers who turned in the low individual scores in the third team championship tournament of the Industrial Amateur Golf association two weeks ago will compete today in the first I. A. G. A. individual tourney. The event will be held at the Briargate Country club in Deerfield and is open to all players who had scores of 84 or better in the team event at the Itasca C. C.

Today's 36 hole tournament will start at 7:40 a. m. and looks like a wide open affair on the basis of the 18 hole scores turned in by the leaders in the team tourney. Ed Slobe of Johnson Motors set the pace at Itasca with a 75, followed by Joe Sisolak, American Steel & Wire, 76; Charley Slobe, Johnson Motors, 77; Florella Orsi, Douglas Aircraft, 78; Frank Ogrin, American Steel & Wire, 78; Art Sweet and John Gertenrich, Douglas, 79; Rudy Topper, Galvin Manufacturing, 79; Art Kilponen, North Shore Lines, 79, and Norando Nanini, Douglas, 80. In addition, there'll be 22 others out to prove that they were just a little off form in the preliminary competition.

The Industrial Amateur Golf association will close the books on the 1945 season Tuesday night with a dinner and prize distribution session in the Como Inn, 546 Milwaukee av. At that time at least 114 players will share in the team and individual awards.

TWO MARQUETTE ELEVENS GIVEN EVEN RANKING

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 8 [Special]—A thoro offensive review marked this morning's workout of the Marquette university football team, and Coach Tom Stidham gave the athletes a rest this afternoon as he headed for a high school clinic in Chicago.

Heavy scrimmage had been held every day this week in the Marquette camp, but today's session was devoted to ironing out the rough spots which showed up in the earlier drills. Stidham continued to alternate two varsity elevens and thus far has given no indication of any of his starters in the Purdue opener in Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 22.

Marquette guard stock was boosted today as Ray Metscher, Sheboygan, Wis., navy trainee and a first team star last fall, reported for the first time. Jim Doucette, a freshman end from Racine, Wis. was another recruit.

GOLFERS WILS, ESPOSITO MEET IN SEMI-FINALS

Kameczura, Baggio Also Win in C. D. G. A. Event

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The newly formed public links section of the Chicago District Golf association, whose first tournament enters its semi-final and championship phases today at Jackson park, has come up with a meet which bids fair to be just what the boys on the public parks courses have needed these many years.

The semi-final quartet, which will tee off at 9 o'clock this morning, brings together in the first match two able gents in Alex Kameczura of Mid-City and Lou Baggio of the home club, while the following argument, leading to the title battle at 2:30 p. m., involves Harry Wils of Lincoln park and Lou Esposito of Columbus park.

Esposito Only Title Holder

The only championship holder in the penultimate foursome is Esposito, the Franklin park stationery huckster, who won the Midwest amateur crown last year. Lou gained this morning's semi-finals in convincing fashion by eliminating Harry Andreason, one of the home club's perennials, 2 and 1, the same margin he used to dispose of Ed Dammann of Mid-City in his second round afternoon match.

Wils moved along by pitching a 71, one over par, at Burt Nugent, the hustling Jackson Parker who has made the new event one of the better conducted shows of the season. Harry wound up a 2 and 1 victor. Then Wils, Midwest champ and runner-up for the county title last summer, fired ten consecutive pars at Tom Barton of Jackson Park to win by 9 and 8, most decisive margin of the tourney.

Kameczura Breaks Par

Kameczura, bespectacled 27 year old sign painter from Mid-City, was one under par in the 15 holes he required to put out Joe Cabon of Jackson Park, co-medalist with Esposito, 4 and 3. His opponent of this morning, Baggio, 30 year old mechanic who plays his golf over the ancient Jackson park links, won a 3 and 2 decision from Ernie Bones, one of the home club's elders, then won a 4 and 3 duel from Ed Mansfield of Jackson Park, who had to work 19 holes to score over Ed Wiech, the Columbus park club's secretary.

The winner and runner-up in today's final will qualify for the second annual All-Star public links tournament, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and the Chicago park district. This is an 18 hole medal play event to be held next Sunday at noon in Jackson park, matching the champions and second men in the City, County, Midwest, and Public Links events for 1945. It will bring together Dante Vicini of Ottawa, County and Midwest titleholder this season, and the two golfers who were runners-up to him—Capt. Dene Zahn Jr. and young Earl Liff, and Chick Evans of Edgewater and Larry Kraay of Burnham Woods, city finalists.

First round results:

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT

Joe Cabon, Jackson Park, beat Joe Morris, Jackson Park, 5 and 4.
Alex Kameczura, Mid-City, beat Lou Hunter, Mid-City, 3 and 2.
Lou Baggio, Jackson Park, beat Ernest E. Bones, Jackson Park, 3 and 2.
Ed Mansfield, Jackson Park, beat Ed Wiech, Columbus Park, 1 up, 19 holes.
Lou Esposito, Columbus Park, beat Harry Andreason, Jackson Park, 2 and 1.
Ed Dammann, Mid-City, beat Dr. Larry Mertes, Jackson Park, 3 and 1.
Harry Wils, Lincoln Park, beat Burt Nugent, Jackson Park, 2 and 1.
Thomas Barton, Jackson Park, beat John Moore, Jackson Park, 1 up, 19 holes.

FIRST FLIGHT

Frank Schickel, Jackson Park, won by default from Frank McNamara, Jackson Park.
Gunnar Gabrielson, Mid-City, drew a bye.
William Buehrer, Jackson Park, drew a bye.
Al Pady, Jackson Park, drew a bye.
Chick Edwards, Jackson Park, drew a bye.
John Labus, Jackson Park, beat Hugh Littrell, Mid-City, 3 and 1.
Jerry Reilly, Jackson Park, drew a bye.
Lee Springer, Mid-City, beat Harry Schulner, Jackson Park, 8 and 7.

Second round results:

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT.

Kameczura beat Cabon, 4 and 3.
Baggio beat Mansfield, 4 and 3.
Esposito beat Dammann, 2 and 1.
Wils beat Barton, 9 and 8.

FIRST FLIGHT

Schickel won by default from Gabrielson.
Buehrer beat Pady, 5 and 4.
Edwards beat Labus, 4 and 3.
Reilly beat Springer, 5 and 4.

HOLD FUNERAL RITES TUESDAY FOR PAUL PALOSKI

Funeral services for Paul Paloski, 49, former Chicago wrestler, who owned a gymnasium in the loop in 1936, will be held Tuesday morning from the chapel at 1123 N. Noble st. to Holy Trinity church. Burial will be in St. Adalbert's cemetery in Niles, Ill.

Paloski, who was night manager of the Brevoort hotel, died on Friday after taking sick at his job. He is survived by his widow, Angeline; his son, Steve, and a daughter, Mrs. Irene Jakubowski.

Steve, a private with the 5th army in Italy who received the Purple Heart for being wounded at Salerno, may be unable to attend the funeral. The Red Cross has been trying without success to get him an emergency furlough since his father became seriously ill three months ago.

QUIST EXPECTS NEXT DAVIS CUP PLAY IN 1947

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 8 [Reuters]—Adrian Quist, Australian Davis cup tennis star, who teamed with Jack Bromwich in 1939 to win the trophy in a final against the United States, said today he did not think the United States would challenge for the Davis cup until 1947. An earlier announcement from Melbourne by Australian lawn Tennis association officials said the United States had challenged for the trophy this year but Australia had refused to play until 1946.

Quist intimated he did not believe the United States would be able to present a representative team until 1947 and predicted the challenging combination at that time would be Jack Kramer and Ted Schroeder, both in military service.

harbor for the Sheridan Shore-South Shore interclub junior match title. Skipper Fletcher sailed his Triton, representing the Sheridan Shore Yacht club. Robert Blackwood of the South Shore [Milwaukee] Yacht club, was second. The final race will be sailed today.

Don Cochran of the Clearwater [Fla.] Yacht club, won the second race of the International Snipe class sailing championship yesterday on the Chicago Corinthian Yacht club's six mile course off Montrose harbor. With his crew, Ted Kamensky, Cochran sailed the six mile windward-leeward course in 56 minutes and 36 seconds. They sailed Joe Ilmberger's Samoa, one of the 16 Chicago Snipe fleet sloops lent to the visiting skippers.

Wind Dismantles Jerk

Victor Schneider, representing the Crescent Sail Yacht club, Detroit, Mich., placed second in 58:07.

One of the 15½ foot sloops, Jerk, being sailed by Ted Wells of Wichita, Kas., was dismasted by a strong gust of wind from the south-southwest. Skipper Wells was in fifth place at the time. He is vice commodore of the Wichita Sailing club and vice president of Beech Aircraft company.

Third and final race for the world Snipe championship will be sailed off Montrose harbor at 2 p. m. today.

Albert Jones, from the Newport Yacht club, Rochester, N. Y., won the opening race for the national junior Snipe class championship, sailed yesterday morning off Montrose harbor. Tom Jenkins, Gull Lake, Ind., was his crew. Robert White and his sister, Betty, of Balboa, Cal., winners of the first race Friday for the international championship, finished second in the junior event.

Skipper and Crew Rescued

Nancy Shanahan of the Chautauqua, N. Y., Lake Yacht club, and her crew, Mary Hough, who were sailing in fourth place withdrew when the rudder on their sloop broke. The boat later capsized, losing the centerboard and rudder, but the skipper and crew were rescued unharmed.

The second and final race of the junior series will be held at 10:30 o'clock this morning. Summaries:

Hospitalized GIs in Need of Fly Tying Kits

BY BOB BECKER

Fly tying has become a popular hobby with thousands of convalescent GI's, sailors and marines in military hospitals all over the country. In one big army hospital in the middle west fly tying also has been rated as a valuable activity of occupational therapy. Thousands of fly tying kits have been donated for the patients but the demand still is big, so fishermen who have any surplus materials are being asked to contribute them.

The Marquette Anglers club of Chicago is one organization that has promoted a fly tying program for many months. According to R. J. Kelling, president of the club, the big difficulty is finding enough outfits to fill all requests. The club contacted manufacturers of chenille, tinsel and thread [important materials in the manufacture of some artificial flies] to purchase these items in quantity, but such materials are not available.

Club Seeks Materials

So, if you are a fly tyer and can spare materials for the fellows who are whiling away long hours in military hospitals, please write to Kelling at 5435 S. Christiana av., Chicago, and tell him what you have. The club will be delighted to obtain these materials for the kits which it is mailing to convalescents.

It takes only one visit to any big military hospital and a glance at their recreational and sports programs to see what a big part sports and hobbies mean to most of the men. We have been visiting quite a few of the hospitals around and in Chicago during the past few months thru the courtesy of the Red Cross to talk about dogs and explain the personal appearances and work of Squire and Skipper, two shepherds, handled by Boy Scouts John Fortman, Hinsdale, and Charles Buntgens, La Grange. So we've been able to see men in fly tying classes, on fishing trips, watching dog shows, and taking part in other activities.

From one navy hospital comes the report that fishing trips for the sick and wounded are the most popular sports participation events of the welfare and recreation program. This department, which helped organize fishing trips for the men in the Great Lakes Naval hospital, has seen the fun the sailors and marines have on these trips. Most of the fellows, at that, have to use old fashioned cane poles due to a shortage of fly and bait rod casting equipment.

Dogs Appeal to GI's

Dogs that are either obedience trained or sporting breeds trained for hunting also seem to have a big appeal to the veterans. A week ago we accompanied Martin Hogan, noted sporting dog trainer and judge, and his assistant, Mrs. Julie Meyer of Barrington, to Vaughan General hospital for an outdoor exhibition of obedience and training with five trained spaniels.

It was the first exhibition of its kind given at any military hospital around Chicago and was watched by more than 200 GI's. We were impressed by the questions the men asked after the show, such as the value of spaniels in hunting as compared to setters and pointers and how long it takes to train a spaniel.

NATIONAL GIRLS LEAGUE PLAYS 4 GAMES TONIGHT

In National Girls Ball league play tonight the Chicks will play a double header against the Bluebirds in Bidwell stadium, 1900 E. 75th st.; the Sparks will play the Music Maids in Rock-Ola stadium, 4200 N. Central av., and the Queens will play the Bloomer Girls in Parichy Memorial stadium, Harlem av. and Harrison st. The National league next Sunday will wind up its second season of play. In 1944 the teams, then a five team league, played an 80 game schedule. The season of the six team circuit plays a 100 game schedule. Shaughnessy playoffs will begin Sept. 18 with the Music Maids, Bluebirds, and Queens certain to be playoff participants, and the Sparks as the favorite for the fourth spot.

Sammy Snead Takes Lead in Dallas Open

Dallas, Sept. 8 (AP)—Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., carded a three under par 69 today to pass Harold [Jug] McSpaden in the battle for the Dallas open golf tournament, reaching the three-quarters mark with 208—one stroke ahead of the field.

McSpaden, who started today's play two under Snead, three putted No. 18 to take a five and finish with an even par 72 that gave him a total of 209. Snead had come in an hour before.

Sensational Iron Shot

The putts were dropping well for Snead who turned in four tournament victories this year. He finished the first nine with a 34, scoring birdies on 2, 4, and 9, and showing five one-put greens. The only hole he was over regulation figures—No. 7—he missed a five foot putt.

But there were few other times the Virginian stylist failed. On No. 18, he turned in a sensational iron shot, going under and over trees 175 yards to land at the edge of the green where he pitched to six feet of the hole and sank a six footer for his par.

Nelson in Fifth Place

Two strokes back of McSpaden came Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., who shot a 69 to bring his score for 54 holes to 211, one better than Vic Ghezzi of Deal, N. J.

Byron Nelson of Toledo was one under par to retain his fifth place stand of yesterday with a total of 213, one stroke below Johnny Bulla of Atlanta, Ga.

The final 18 holes of the $10,000 tournament will be played tomorrow. The leading scorers:

Oise All-Star Nine Wins GI Crown, 2 to 1

NUERNBURG, Germany, Sept. 8 (AP) — The Oise Base All-Stars smashed across a run in the last half of the ninth inning today to defeat the 3d army's 71st division nine, 2 to 1, and capture the ETO baseball championship, three games to two.

Some 50,000 spectators basked in the sun of Soldiers' field, formerly the nazi party stadium, and watched the final.

Each club made four errors and Pitcher Ewell Blackwell, property of the Cincinnati Reds, contributed to his own defeat with a pair of costly bobbles, one of them coming in the ninth.

Bob Keane, a Brooklyn semi-pro, took over the Oise mound chores from Sgt. Sam Nahem, a St. Louis Cardinal chattel, in the fourth with the bases loaded and only one out. He blanked the 3d army in that inning and went the rest of the way for the victory.

FELIX KOLK IS NEW SPORT HEAD AT TOWN CLUB

Felix Kolk

Felix Kolk, assistant coach of the 1942 Chicago Tribune Golden Gloves team in intercity competition with New York and athletic director of the Illinois Athletic club prior to entering the army, has been named athletic director of the Town club, it was announced yesterday by Robert E. Kendler, club vice president. He will assume his duties tomorrow.

Kolk previously was connected with the Madison Athletic club and later with the Mid-West Athletic club. He handled the Central A. A. U. handball meet for a five year period and was the originator of the first State Indoor Casting meet.

He received a commendation from Gen. Sommerville and Maj. Gen. Danielson for setting up the conditioning program and handling sport tournaments while stationed at Fort Riley, Kas. He succeeds Dave Cheneaux, now in service, as sport head of the Town club.

Elkhart Victory News Phoned to Nelson Abroad

Elkhart, Ind., Sept. 8 [Special]—Sgt. Earl L. [Bus] Nelson, former Elkhart High school football captain, received an overseas report on his alma mater's opening 45 to 13 victory over Fort Wayne Northside Friday night, three hours after the game was played here. While in London on furlough from Stuttgart, Germany, he talked on the long distance telephone with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Nelson. He is a former North Central [Naperville, Ill.] football player.

WAR JEEP WINS AT AQUEDUCT ON BOBANET'S FOUL

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—War Jeep, Chief Barker, and Buzfuz were named winners in the first running of the $25,000 added Discovery handicap at Aqueduct today after officials studied two sets of photos and upheld a claim of foul that cost Bobanet, a 49 to 1 shot, the race.

Bobanet, owned by R. Bruce Livie, drifted wide down the home stretch and troubled Buzfuz and Chief Barker. Stewards hoisted the foul claim sign even before the jockeys dismounted.

Jockey Draws Suspension

The officials disqualified Bobanet, first to cross the finish line by a head, and elevated Mrs. Elizabeth Graham's War Jeep to the winner's circle. Chief Barker, from the B. F. Whitaker farm, was named second, and Buzfuz, from the Sunshine stables, third.

Francis Thacker, up on Bobanet, was suspended for 10 days, effective Tuesday.

War Jeep, ridden by Arnold Kirkland, took $20,100 of the purse and raised his earnings for two years of racing to $108,325. The War Admiral colt recently arrived from Chicago where he was second in the American Derby and won the Constitution handicap.

Gallorette Finishes Seventh

W. L. Brann's Gallorette, the 2 to 1 favorite, wilted steadily thru the stretch after being third at the six furlong post and finished seventh. Buzfuz and Bobanet fought it out for the lead in the early stages of the race.

War Jeep paid $8.60, $4.50, and $3.40. Time for the mile and an eighth was 1:51 2-5.

MILCAVE PAYS $17.40

Camden, N. J., Sept 8 (AP)—Milcave, owned by J. L. Friedman, Baltimore, Md., was an easy winner of the one mile and a sixteenth Vineland handicap, one of two feature events on today's closing day program of the most successful meeting in the history of Garden State Park.

Milcave, which had run as early as last year at Charles Town, W. Va., with an $800 claiming tag attached to her and later sold to Friedman for $3,000, today earned $19,800.

Milcave paid $17.40 and ran the one mile and a sixteenth over a fast track in 1:44 4-5, 2 1-5 seconds slower than the track record.

Milcave, with Lee Haskell up, finished the five lengths ahead of Brookmeade stable's Dare Me. Dare Me beat Cain Hoy stable's Good Morning three lengths, and another length back in fourth place was Col. C. V. Whitney's Flyweight.

Sydney Jennings, Kopla, outsprinted seven of the best short-distance runners in the east and won the $10,000 Princeton handicap by two and one-half lengths. Apprentice Don Padgett rode Kopia, which stepped the six furlongs in 1:11 1-5 over a fast track and earned $10,275. He paid $23.40.

Runner-up honors in the Princeton went to Brownie, which beat Quien Es by a head. The Apache finished sixth.

The mutuel handle was $2,483,209. Total attendance, 33,189.

COLELLA, AGNONE SPARK TWO HOUR IRISH WORKOUT

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 8 [Special]—In an attempt to sharpen Notre Dame's running attack, Coach Hugh Devore devoted the entire drill today to ground plays. A half hour scrimmage, climaxing the two hour session, was sparked by Half Backs Phil Colella, freshman from Rochester, Pa., and Johnny Agnone, a junior from Youngstown, O.

BREEZING ALONG

BUSHER, the sensation of the Arlington Park-Washington Park meeting, has arrived at Hollywood Park in Inglewood, Cal. . . . The brilliant 3 year old filly which won two of the five $50,000 added races at the Homewood course, the Arlington and Washington Park handicaps, will be pointed next for the $50,000 Hollywood Derby on Sept. 29, and the $75,000 Gold Cup on Oct. 20. . . . The famous daughter of War Admiral is a cinch to surpass Top Flight's money winning record of $275,900. . . . To date she has earned $270,120 in purses. . . . She has started 17 times and has finished out of the money only once. . . . The sensational filly, which was purchased last winter by Louis B. Mayer, the Hollywood big wig, for $50,000, has won 13 races, finished second twice, and third once.

Jessop, on Day Off, Will Ride Tomorrow at Hawthorne

You have heard the old saw that goes like this: "What does a mail man do on his day off? . . . Why he takes a walk, of course." . . . What do jockeys do on their days off? . . . Sure, that's right, they ride horses. At least, that is what Job Dean Jessop, the nation's leading rider, will do tomorrow. . . . The Nibley, Utah, star booter inner will arrive at Hawthorne from Fairmont Park. . . . And since there is no racing at the Collinsville, Ill., track on Mondays, Jessop will fill in the day accepting mounts at Hawthorne and return to Fairmont Park Tuesday. . . . Did you notice who the one-two-three horses were in the $64,000 Hopeful stakes at Belmont Park last week? . . . They were Star Pilot, first; Inroc, second, and Revoked, third. . . . All of them were winners during the record breaking Arlington Park-Washington Park meeting. . . . Nice price on Star Pilot, too, $42.50 for $2. . . . Doug Dodson, the Calumet farm's contract rider, who led all of the riders at the Homewood track, is now booting 'em home at New York. . . . Johnny Longden, George Woolf, Hedley Woodhouse, and Tony Skoronski, who also rode at Washington Park, are now riding at Hollywood Park.

SALE OF MART WILL PAY ALL FIELD'S DEBT

Means Redemption of 19 Millions

BY THOMAS FURLONG

Marshall Field & Co. will pay off its entire funded debt of 19 million dollars with the proceeds of the sale of the Merchandise Mart, it was reliably reported yesterday. Sale of the property to Joseph P. Kennedy, Boston capitalist, is expected to be completed about Dec. 1 under a contract entered into last July.

With retirement of the existing 19 millions of bonds the company will have paid off in approximately 15 years a total of 47 million dollars of debt. After completion of the Mart in 1930 the company's debt was 32 million, highest in its history. This was subsequently paid down to 14 millions and increased again in 1939 when the company purchased for 15 million dollars the land on which the State st. store and annex are situated. The store building had been acquired 15 years earlier for 12 million dollars.

Leaves Store Owned Outright

Completion of the program will leave the company free of debt and in outright ownership of its State st. store, the annex in which the men's store is located, and its 11 manufacturing plants in North Carolina, Virginia, and Illinois. The company also owns its Oak Park and Evanston store properties, the latter situated on a site under long term lease. The Chicago Heights and Lake Forest stores and the New York retail division operate in leased quarters.

The only important fixed charge to remain will be yearly dividend requirements on the 15 million dollars of 4¼ per cent preferred stock, amounting to $637,500. Common stock capitalization consists of 4 million authorized shares of which there are 1,943,763 outstanding.

Altho the sale price of the mart has not been made public it is known to be much below 19 million dollars. However, tax credits arising from the sale will bring actual proceeds to about that figure, it is estimated.

Cost 31¼ Millions

Construction of the mart was completed in 1930 at a cost in land, air rights, and building of 31¼ million dollars. At the end of 1944 the property was carried on the company's books at depreciated cost of 21⅛ millions.

Since construction of the building, the world's largest privately owned structure, the character of the company's business has undergone a major change. The wholesale branch, formerly located in the mart, has been liquidated, leaving the company with a large investment in real estate for which it had little use in its regular business. By the sale the company disposes of this investment and gets funds that enable it to lift all debt liens against other property used in its regular business.

BATT HEADS NEW COMMITTEE ON RUBBER POLICY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—A top government committee to deal with the problems of rubber, including a likely "serious surplus," was created today by Reconversion Director Snyder.

William L. Batt, WPB vice chairman for international supply, will head the group as representative of the office of war mobilization and reconversion.

Snyder directed the committee to survey natural, synthetic, and reclaimed rubber problems and recommend a national policy to stabilize prices and supply, encourage the development of synthetic, and guard against the possibility of another war time shortage.

Studebaker Grants Wage Workers 12 Cent Raise

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 8 (AP)—The Studebaker corporation today announced a wage increase of 12 cents an hour for all hourly rated workers, effective Monday. The CIO auto workers' local said it had accepted the offer with the stipulation that whenever automobile workers in the Detroit area are granted post-war wage increases Studebaker will match them.

SEC's Report Held Unfair on Traction Value

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK

The recent report of the securities and exchange commission, recommending valuations for the surface and elevated lines for sale purposes, is assailed in a series of objections prepared for filing in federal District court by attorneys representing a group of junior bond holders.

The prospective purchaser of the two transit properties is the newly formed Chicago metropolitan transit authority. It proposes to unify and operate the combined properties under public ownership. Its offer is 75 million dollars for the surface lines and 12 millions plus for the elevated.

Attorneys Challenge SEC Views

The SEC advised the court that the offer could be made fair for the surface system by increasing the distribution to its bondholders by about 6 million dollars. The "L" offer was adjudged fair.

The findings of the SEC were challenged by the attorneys who drafted the objections, William R. Morgan and John E. Gavin. Representing B bondholders of the Chicago Railways company, one of the Chicago Surface Lines' financial corporations, they asserted that the SEC had erred on many points and that its recommendation lacked feasiblity. They indicated its valuations were not fair to the surface lines in relation to the L.

The objections stated that the transit authority had not shown that it could borrow the money to buy the systems and that it was not legally able to design a reorganization plan for the properties.

Surface Lines Have Millions

The petition argued the surface lines had "force and vitality" enough to modernize service if reorganized separately; that they have 25 million dollars to be used only for renewals and equipment.

Judge Michael L. Igoe, who is in charge of the bankruptcy of the two companies, was urged to ignore the SEC, determine a fair price for the surface lines, and to order separate reörganization. The petitioners also asked that the street car lines be ordered to buy at once 800 cars and 1,800 buses, in addition to those already on order.

Arguments on the SEC report and other features of the traction problem are set for Sept. 24 in Judge Igoe's court.

BYRD ATTACKS PLAN OF 30 HOUR FEDERAL WEEK

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—The proposed 30 hour federal government work week was assailed today by Sen. Byrd [D., Va.] who asserted it would mean "all private industry will be forced to do the same." He estimated the shorter week would cost the government 2 billion dollars a year.

"The first step in the downfall of France was the 30 hour week," Byrd said. "America cannot become a nation of drones and maintain economic stability."

The 30 hour week was proposed in a bill by Sen. McCarran [D., Nev.]. It was referred to the civil service committee of which Byrd is a member. McCarran asked Chairman Downey [D., Cal.] for early hearings.

Asked if he agreed that industry would have to follow if the government went on a 30 hour week, Downey replied: "It would seem that very serious consequences would flow from it and that it would require careful study."

U. S. ESTIMATE OF COTTON CROP IS CUT SLIGHTLY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—The department of agriculture today forecasts a 1945 cotton crop of 10,026,000 bales of 500 pounds, gross weight, based on conditions prevailing Sept. 1. The forecast a month ago was 10,134,000 bales and last year's crop was 12,230,000 bales. Production for the 1934-'43 period averaged 12,293,000 bales.

The yield per acre was estimated at 267.2 pounds, compared with 269.7 pounds estimated a month ago and with 293.5 pounds harvested a year ago. The acreage was estimated at 10,008,000.

WEST. ELECTRIC PLANS RECORD PEACE VOLUME

Provides Materials for A. T. & T.

Western Electric company, manufacturing subsidiary of American Telephone and Telegraph company, expects its volume of business in the immediate post-war years to exceed any in its peace time history, C. G. Stoll, president, said yesterday.

In addition to large backlogs of orders for telephone equipment, switchboard apparatus, cable, and other products, Western Electric will be called upon to provide the major part of the equipment and materials required in the 2 billion dollar A. T. and T. construction program, Stoll said. This will provide proportionately larger employment.

Rush Plant Reconversion

Reconversion is being speeded at the large Hawthorne works in Chicago and at other plants thruout the country. A large part of the company's facilities has been used for the manufacture of military telephone equipment, radar, and related products.

"Reconversion involves the complete dismantling of many war shops and the reinstallation of equipment for peace time manufacture," Stoll said. "Every available mechanic capable of performing this kind of work is engaged on a seven day basis to shorten the reconversion time, speed production of telephone instruments, switchboards, and cables, and create the maximum of peace time jobs."

Limited Output Resumed

The company is resuming limited output of pre-war products. In quarters rented in St. Paul, Minn., last fall to supply essential civilian needs, the company is turning out 35,000 telephone instruments a week and expects to increase output soon. Capacity production, however, must await complete reconversion of the Hawthorne works.

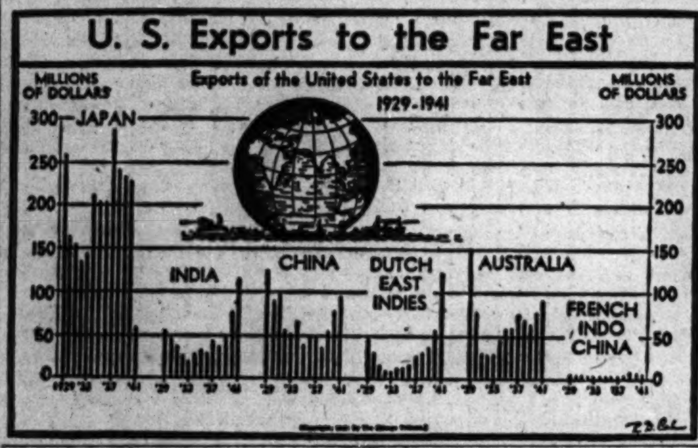
Other scarce items which held up civilian phone installations, including central office switchboard facilities and telephone exchanbe cable, also are being manufactured in limited quantities. Three of Western's four switchboard shops and one of its two exchange cable shops were completely dismantled for war work.

Employment at Hawthorne, subject to future war contract cancellations, totals about 20,500, compared with 23,000 on Aug. 1, and 13,000 on Aug. 1, 1940.

ARMY WILL GET ALEUTIAN ROUTE OF N. W. AIR LINES

New York, Sept. 8 [Special]—Northwest Airlines today announced the route it flew 3½ years for the army air transport command thru Canada, Alaska, and the Aleutians would be continued under army operation.

The air line, which operates from New York to the Pacific northwest, disclosed that its flights at one time included three round trips daily between Minneapolis and Attu Island.



Stock Market Closes Mixed; Trade Small

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—Specialties were strong again in today's stock market after a week in which the industrials and utilities established peaks for more than eight years.

In the first short session since the Saturday summer suspensions of July and August, mail orders and soft drinks were popular with gains running to two points or more. Many leaders among rails and other groups were stalled by light selling. The result was that declines and advances were about evenly divided at the close.

Dealings slowed when opening orders had been recorded. Transfers of 370,000 shares compared with 660,000 in the last short session of June 20.

In the new high division were Sears Roebuck, up 2⅛; Canada Dry, up 1⅜, and Pepsi-Cola, up 1. Talk of the sugar situation easing propped the soft beverage section.

BONDS CLOSE UNEVEN

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—The bond market ended irregular today with most railroad issues off slightly. Carriers were down 0.1 point in the Associated Press average. Among losers were Central of Georgia Convertible 5s, Milwaukee 5s, Florida East Coast 5s, Illinois Central 4¾s, and most Baltimore and Ohio and Missouri Pacific issues. Gains were made by Northern Pacific 5s of 2047 D, Pennsylvania 3⅛s, Great Northern 5½s, and most New Haven liens.

Commonwealth Edison 3s, International Hydro-Electric 6s, New York Edison 3¼s, and Western Union 5s of 1960 were improved and Consolidated Edison 3½s and Detroit Edison 4s were slightly lower.

Sales were $1,404,000.

CHICAGO LIST UNEVEN

Prices were mixed yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange in turnover of 18,000 shares. Among most active stocks were Chicago corporation, United Light and Railway, and Sinclair Oil, all unchanged; Commonwealth Edison and Utah Radio, each up ⅛. Kimberly-Clark closed at 51¼, up 1¼ to a new 1945 high.

Name of Chicago Area Sally Stores Changed

The names of 19 Sally stores in the Chicago area will be changed to Spiegel, effective tomorrow, Spiegel, Inc., announced yesterday. The chain of 46 Sally stores was purchased by Spiegel last year. Sally stores outside the Chicago area will adopt the new name within a few months.

MORE THAN 40 INDUSTRIES HIT BY WALKOUTS

Three States Bear Brunt of Strikes

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The total of idle thru strikes was 121,000 yesterday, affecting more than 40 industries and businesses thruout the country, but concentrated largely in Michigan, Ohio, and Pennsylvania.

Michigan's idle, totalling some 43,000, were centered in the Detroit motor industry. Ohio listed 28,000 idle and Pennsylvania 17,000.

The Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company strike of 4,500 in Detroit tied up production in Ford Motor company plants in eight cities. Spokesmen for Ford said 22,000 of the 30,800 Ford workers made idle by the Kelsey-Hayes strike would return to work Monday. Officials said arrangements had been made to obtain parts from other sources.

Halts Goodrich Production

In Akron, O., where a strike of 15,000 CIO-United Rubber Workers and 780 foremen halted production in six B. F. Goodrich company plants, a federal labor conciliator reported the dispute had reached the deadlock stage. The conciliator said company officials refused to confer with him on eight grievances presented by the strikers. The proposals included requests for shorter working hours and protection against lay-offs.

Other Ohio disputes affected plants in Cleveland and Toledo and one in Warren, involving 3,000 General Motors employes.

Some 12,000 white collar workers of Westinghouse Electric corporation voted to strike Monday. They are members of the Federation of Westinghouse Independent Salaried Unions, and are employed in 14 plants in five states.

Threatens Wide Idleness

H. C. Jones, federation secretary, said if the strike "lasts more than a few days" it will affect between 75,000 and 80,000 Westinghouse employes who cannot work unless the clerical employes work.

Plants affected are in Cleveland, Baltimore, Buffalo, N. Y., Sharon, Pa., Newark, N. J., and Lima, O.

Two new Pennsylvania work stoppages involved miners at six pits of the Pittsburgh Coal company, and typographical employes of the Reading, Pa., Times and Eagle newspapers. Some 2,100 miners took a one day holiday in a dispute over overtime pay, but were expected to return Monday. The typographical workers, whose absence suspended publication of the papers, requested increased wages and inclusion of union laws in a new contract.

Lack of Cars Causes Peach Grower Loss

Benton Harbor, Mich., Sept. 8 [Special]—An acute shortage of railroad refrigerator cars is costing southwest Michigan peach growers thousands of dollars as their yields glut the market awaiting transport, trade spokesmen said today.

Movement of Michigan's 3½ million bushel peach crop is expected to reach its peak tomorrow or Monday, if promised cars are made available, and shipments should continue heavy for about 10 days. Much spoilage may result if more shipping space is not provided immediately, it was asserted.

Lack Help to Ice Cars

Car shortages have become most pronounced in the last three days as the harvest approached its peak. The inability to supply enough space has resulted partly from the shortage of railroad help in Niles, Mich., where most of the cars are iced.

Last Thursday 191 carlot equivalents were moved, and 156 were shipped yesterday. The movement this week totaled 764 carlot equivalents, the largest amount being shipped by truck. Truck hauls were started for such distant points as Tampa, Fla., Houston, Tex., and Pittsburgh, Pa.

Market Prices Slump

Top quality peaches which sold on the market Labor day at $2.50 to $3.50 a bushel have dropped to $1.50 to $2, with most going at $1.75 to $1.85. Thousands of bushels have been stored by growers waiting for the market to strengthen. Spokesmen said prices should not have dropped more than 25 cents a bushel under ordinary market conditions.

The millionth bushel is expected to leave Benton Harbor Monday. Tho Michigan's 1945 crop was not a record breaker, it contributed substantially to the country's estimated record production of 50 million bushels, about 25 per cent larger than in a normal year.

WALLACE, CED ESTIMATE JOBS AT 53½ MILLION

New York, Sept. 8 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Wallace tonight joined with the committee for economic development, a non-political organization of business men, in predicting as a "best guess" that approximately 53½ million jobs would be available in the first year after reconversion.

The job estimate was made in a radio broadcast by Thomas G. Mac Gowan, head of the CED's marketing committee and in charge of marketing research for Firestone Tire and Rubber company. Wallace, who participated in the broadcast, said the estimate was "confirmed by a recent survey of the investments planned by manufacturers, made by the department of commerce."

Mac Gowan based his prediction on a survey among 1,400 manufacturers.

LIFT CONTROLS ON SLAUGHTER OF LIVE STOCK

Means More Meat for Civilians

Washington, D. C., Sept. 8 (AP)—All limits on the slaughter of live stock ended today with a big increase in the total of animals going to market. This action by the OPA permits slaughterers to kill as much live stock as they wish.

It means more meat for civilians, and, while no authoritative official makes such a prediction for quotation, it may be a step preliminary to end of meat rationing soon.

"Now that the period of acute scarcity has been passed and with increased numbers of live stock being sold, we want to be sure there are no obstacles to prevent the slaughter of every animal that is marketed," Price Administrator Bowles said.

More to Inspected Plants

The slaughter control program, in effect since April, was designed to route more of the limited live stock supply into federally inspected plants and less to plants not under federal inspection.

The plan was to make more meat available for the fighting forces and other government requirements. Meat produced in plants not under federal inspection could not be shipped across state lines.

Congress later permitted some modification of that ruling, so meat could be diverted to civilian hardship areas.

Bowles said the slaughter controls, along with a "fair distribution plan," worked well. The distribution plan, also terminated today, required slaughterers to follow the same geographical distribution pattern they followed in the first quarter of 1944. Its purpose was to aid areas experiencing the most acute meat shortages.

View on Rationing

Despite "marked improvement" in the supply of meat available to civilians, Bowles said it is not sufficient to assure good distribution "without the help of rationing controls."

Bowles did not indicate, in view of the increased marketing of live stock, how long he thought rationing would be necessary. Some predictions place the end of rationing as early as Oct. 1.

91 Pct. of Federal Funds in Savings Firms Repaid

Savings and loan institutions at the war's end had returned to the government 91.2 per cent of government capital invested in their shares to help a home building revival in the 1930s, the United States Savings and Loan league reported yesterday.

SUPERB NORTH SHORE RIPARIAN ESTATE

OVER 9 acres of magnificently landscaped bluff land, ravine and wide sandy beach. The stone residence of moderate size is modern, in perfect condition and of unexcelled construction. It is an architectural masterpiece. The grounds and the improvements thereon, including the furnishings, which may be purchased, represent an investment of over $750,000.

Due to owners' change of residence the property is for sale at the sacrifice price of $185,000 without furnishings.

The property lends itself to division into a number of fine homesites which can be readily sold, thereby reducing the capital investment for the main residence and remaining acres. Terms if desired.

The Most Important Period in 100 Years—Ahead!

We have ahead of us in this country probably the most important period in 100 years . . . a "Good Times" era.

This period will witness a great industrial boom that will sweep us on to a higher standard of living than we have yet experienced. World trade will revive. New products will attain mass production. Venture capital will come out of hiding.

Washington will again encourage business. Labor will become more conservative as its responsibilities grow. Prosperity will be built on a sound monetary system.

All of this makes for a strong stock market. Indeed, we may witness buying and selling of securities on a scale that has not been approached since the days of pyramided margin accounts.

Why Prompt Action Should Enable You to Profit in the Second Phase of the Bull Market Which Appears Ahead

There are tremendous forces in existence which will spur this country into peacetime prosperity.

Anticipated buying power and demand of the American people will be translated into terms of corporation earnings which, in turn, are reflected in higher stock prices. Wise investors will appreciate this and lay the foundation now for future profits from common stocks.

ARMY'S TRUCKS, LOCOMOTIVES TO ASSIST EUROPE

Many Items to Be Sold to Governments

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

PARIS, Sept. 8—The United States army has 528,382 motor vehicles, approximately 45,000 railway cars, and between 1,000 and 2,000 locomotives in the European theater of operations, which excludes the Mediterranean area.

A large part of this valuable transportation material is being released for sale to European governments to relieve the difficult transport situation. This process may be accelerated by the end of the Japanese war.

Col. Thomas H. Nixon, ordnance chief, said the 528,382 vehicles, many of which are in bad condition, include 118,492 quarter ton jeeps and 124,321 2½ ton trucks.

May Go Into Surplus Pool

About 20 per cent of these vehicles had been adjudged in good enough condition for immediate shipment to the Pacific, but they may be added to the pool of surplus equipment and offered for sale.

Before the end of the Japanese war it was estimated between 100,000 and 150,000 United States army vehicles would be turned over to the European governments. United nations relief and rehabilitation administration is bidding for trucks to help its relief work. More than 100,000 vehicles will be required for occupation purposes.

Col. Nixon and Maj. Gen. Frank S. Ross of the army transportation corps believe it would be uneconomical to send the vehicles back to the United States because of packing and shipping costs and depreciation in condition.

Governments' Aid Sought

To aid the effectiveness of the emergency European transportation system effort, are being made to induce the European governments to recondition vehicles already accumulated in assembly areas.

Col. Nixon's department is helping them master the art of "cannibalizing" trucks—taking parts from the most depreciated vehicles to repair those in better shape. Efforts also are being made to recondition used tires. Man power and facilities for these tasks are available in many countries and factories originally set in motion to aid the United States army are being turned back to civilian use.

PARIS HOLDING FIRST INDUSTRY FAIR IN SIX YEARS

PARIS, Sept. 8 (AP)—The first Paris fair in six years opened today. Most of the displays were the machinery with which France will make the goods she needs to fill her depleted homes and shops and with which she hopes to bid again for world trade.

Industrial equipment—centrifugal pumps, stamping machines, power saws, diesel tractors with synthetic rubber tires, industrial sewing and weaving machines, drills, and presses—filled most of the space.

Aluminum is going back in production and there were aluminum bicycles and baby carriages. Much electric equipment was shown, stoves, vacuum cleaners, and heaters, but the public eyed them skeptically for prices were high.

... No joke, according to The Wall Street Journal. For Diesel-powered trucks and buses are expected to take to the roads in greatly increasing numbers . . . with light oil in their tanks where gasoline used to be.

On long hauls and for heavy loads, Diesel power promises fuel savings of 25% to 30%.

In reporting this prospect to its readers, The Wall Street Journal pointed out the difference between Diesel and gasoline engines . . . told how the petroleum industry is preparing for huge peacetime consumption of Diesel oil . . . and why the industry foresees demand soaring eventually over even peak wartime requirements.

That's the way The Wall Street Journal, the complete business daily, does its industrial reporting. Gives you the important particulars. Every field of industry is constantly watched and studied to keep you promptly informed of significant developments.

DUTCH, BRITISH SIGN MONETARY PACT FOR TRADE

Set Up Guilder-Sterling Rate of 10.691

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Sept. 8—Holland and the Dutch empire joined the British sterling bloc this week-end after discussions lasting nearly a year. The agreement, signed in London, fixed the sterling-guilder rate and prepared for restoration of trade between the two empires as quickly as possible.

The official rate of 10.691 Netherlands guilders to the pound will be applied to the whole Dutch empire with the exception of the Netherlands East Indies where the existing rate of 7.60 will continue.

The agreement means that Britain possesses a network of monetary pacts covering western Europe, British mandated territories, British protectorates, Egypt, Sudan, Iraq, Iceland, and the Faroe Islands.

Linked in Sterling Area

Linked with the sterling area by recent agreements are Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Belgium, Holland, and France. Norway and Portugal are expected to join soon but, because of her political regime, some doubts were expressed by financial interests that Spain will be invited.

A speedup in British trade with Holland and the Netherlands East Indies was predicted as the immediate outcome of the new agreement. Commentators expressed confidence that Singapore, after 3½ years of Japanese occupation would speedily be restored as a commercial center, distributing imports and exports of British and Dutch possessions in the far east. Stockpiles of tin, rubber, oil, sugar, etc., left behind by the Japs may be shipped from Singapore, untrammeled by exchange restrictions, they said.

Make Currencies Available

All the agreements contain a clause whereby countries involved agree to make their currencies available for multilateral payments as soon as possible. Neither Britain nor any western European country, however, has any dollars to spare, the London Times said, adding, "Until sufficient credits or other forms of assistance in dollars has been given to tide over the transition and until there has been some revival of western European export trade, there is little hope of implementing multilateral clauses in practice."

GRAINS RALLY TO END MIXED; RYE IS STRONG

Grain markets rallied from early weakness on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday to end mixed. Rye showed individual strength, closing up ⅞ to 1¼ cents a bushel after short covering had pushed the September future about 2 cents higher at one time. A broker who frequently acts for distillers absorbed offerings near the close.

Wheat finished unchanged to ¼ cent higher. Corn declined ⅛ to ½. Oats closed ¼ lower to ⅛ higher and barley ¼ higher to ½ lower.

YEAR-END DIVIDENDS

Ordinarily corporation directors in deciding dividend policies are influenced in part by section 102 of the revenue code, which imposes a penalty tax as high as 38½ per cent on "improper accumulations of surplus." The purpose of the penalty is to discourage retention, beyond the reasonable needs of the business, of profits which if paid in dividends would be taxable income to the stockholders.

With the ending of the war more will be heard of section 102, and in some instances it may have the effect of liberalizing year-end dividends or it may be among factors leading to an increase in the regular dividend rate if earnings warrant. During the war the section was leniently applied and many corporations made large additions to surplus or created large reserves from earnings, apparently without penalty. The government recognized the need, especially of war industries, for increased working capital and cash for plant expansion, reconversion expense, and other contingencies.

Because of the changed situation resulting from the collapse of Germany and Japan and the additions to surplus and reserve already effected, it is predicted that the revenue bureau will examine more closely the retention of current profits by corporations.

As recently as last December, the treasury gave assurances that "no operating company accumulating surpluses and using them in the business in which it is engaged should be apprehensive." The rule still stands, but it may now be interpreted more strictly. The regulations exempt from penalty surpluses needed for business expansion, but not for entering unrelated undertakings or for investment in securities.

Altho some companies, flush with war earned cash or the equivalent, may adopt more liberal dividend policies, no general change in this respect is to be expected immediately. Corporations face varying conditions and sales prospects. Some of course merely continue their customary activities. Others are getting ready to resume them after a relatively simple shift from war production. Still others must undergo extensive and expensive reconversion of plants.

Thus it is not certain that the tax collectors will seek to apply section 102 on a widespread scale to 1945 earnings. Another possible obstacle is that all war contracts will not have been finally settled or renegotiation liabilities fixed. However, in normal times corporations which have not distributed at least 70 per cent of the year's profit in dividends are subject to treasury scrutiny.

WIDOW OF SLAIN HAPSBURG SCION DIES IN HUNGARY

Princess Stephanie Bereft by 1889 Tragedy

LONDON, Sept. 8 (AP)—The Brussels radio reported tonight the death of former Crown Princess Stephanie of Austria-Hungary — a Belgian princess whose husband, the Hapsburg crown prince, died in circumstances that shocked the royalty of Europe in 1889.

Princess Stephanie

The broadcast said the 81 year old daughter of King Leopold II. died in Hungary a few days ago. Her death means that the true circumstances surrounding the death of her husband, the young and dashing Crown Prince Rudolph, and his beautiful mistress, the Baroness Marie Vetsera, may never be known.

In 1935 the former crown princess published her memoirs in which she said that her husband and the baroness, whose bullet pierced bodies were found in the royal hunting lodge at Mayerling, died in a suicide pact.

"Loved Him Blindly"

She charged that her husband, heir to the throne of Emperor Franz Joseph, had associated with many women, plotted political moves and had threatened suicide.

"He didn't want to die alone," she wrote, "and Vetsera loved him so blindly she went with him."

Quickly after the memoirs were published censors in Austria banned their distribution. Monarchists feared the story reflected on the Hapsburg family, whose restoration they were seeking.

The prince, eight years after his marriage to Stephanie, developed suddenly into a Don Juan. After a series of affairs, he became infatuated with the baroness, daughter of a Greek woman and a wealthy father who was accepted by Viennese aristocracy.

Few Reasons for Suicide

It was on the evening of Jan. 29, 1889, that the bodies of the two were found in the hunting lodge. Suicide in a lovers' pact seemed obvious, but the paucity of reasons started a flood of wild rumors.

One said the prince was slain by a forester whose wife he had betrayed. Another said he died in an affray that followed a drinking bout.

One speculation was that he had been assassinated by political enemies who had hoped his death would set the stage for a coup d'etat aimed at removal of his father.

Stephanie was rewed in 1900 to Prince Elemer Lonjay of Hungary.

MISCELLANEOUS For Sale

$300,000,000.00 WORTH OF NEW AUTOMOTIVE PARTS!

Available NOW for immediate delivery to DISTRIBUTORS DEALERS SERVICE GARAGES FLEET OPERATORS

READ THIS CAREFULLY!

It tells you what we have to sell, method under which we sell, and how you can qualify for buying.

PARTS FOR ALL CARS

We have parts for practically every make and type standard car and truck manufactured in the U. S. since and including 1939. Every part from a cotter pin to an engine. Blocks, transmissions, axles, differentials, spark plugs, etc. If it is a part of an automobile or truck we have it for sale.

NEW SALES METHOD

Effective September 10, 1945, all new automotive parts are sold on a standard price list basis instead of on a bid basis.

TERMS

No deposit required. All sales handled on a 30 day payment basis.

WE PAY SHIPPING COSTS

Full freight allowed everywhere in the U. S.

MINIMUM ORDER

To limit handling costs, the minimum order for parts we can accept is $500.00 NET [after your discount is deducted]. It is anticipated that small dealers who cannot use the minimum quantity of parts will be serviced by their distributors.

HOW TO QUALIFY

We are now sending to our entire list of distributors, dealers, service garages, fleet operators a complete broadside together with a qualification blank. If you do not receive this notice within a few days, write your regional office. Trade discounts apply at all levels.

WRITE

Do NOT CALL or PHONE your local surplus property regional office. Our staff workers can handle applications quicker and more efficiently by mail than any other method. PLEASE COOPERATE.

NORTHBROOK

ORDER NOW YOUR 1946 HOME

Have it built on the North Shore—in one of our professionally planned, carefully restricted, well built-up, fully improved, and permanently maintained Glenview or Northbrook communities—near everything—on a ⅓ to 2 acre knoll.

Make the building of your house a joy instead of a worry. This you can do by centering the complete responsibility for its design, its financing and its construction in this long established organization—noted for the quality sites and homes it has provided to two generations of discriminating North Shore families.

The combined costs of such a superb site and superlative house, to be built from your choice of distinctive Rancho, Provincial, Colonial or Cape Cod designs, begin at $10,500 and $12,500—$3,000 in cash, balance in monthly payments, covering everything, and at less than rent for comparable space—FHA terms.

We are nearing the end of our possible 1946 delivery commitments to qualified families. Priority on our construction schedules necessarily is determined by the date of purchasers' orders. There still is time—but not too much.

If planning to live on the North Shore, come in to our loop offices, or write or phone for a typical house design of the kind you prefer and for plats of sites—free.

This week-end one of the most famous Mid-West architects has authorized us to exhibit three of his prize-winning designs in the Contemporary motif.

Drive out this evening or this week-end: North on Skokie-hwy., R. 41, to Dundee-rd., R. 68, West to Waukegan-rd., R. 42-A, to Information House.

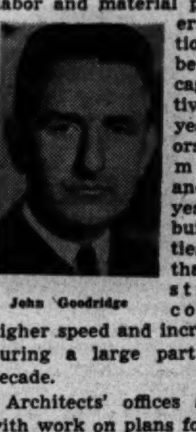
VAST BUILDING PREDICTED FOR CHICAGO IN 1946

Higher Costs, U.S. Curbs May Cause Delays

BY AL CHASE
[Real Estate Editor.]

Unless slowed up by mounting labor and material prices and government restrictions, 1946 will be one of Chicago's most active construction years, contractors, material manufacturers, and dealers said yesterday. Most building authorities predicted that new construction will continue at higher speed and increasing volume during a large part of the next decade.



John Goodridge

Architects' offices are congested with work on plans for big, modern industrial plants for the city and suburbs; many construction firms already have been awarded contracts for factory jobs and expect many more; and the home building industry is set to go ahead on a vast scale if present federal barriers are removed and contemplated restrictions abandoned.

Many Enlarge Facilities

Many building material manufacturers, in expectation of record construction years ahead, are enlarging their facilities.

John Goodridge, president of Illinois Brick company, said he contemplates a production of common brick next year three times larger than in 1945. Twice as much concrete block will be produced in 1946 as in 1945. A concrete block plant recently was purchased and another big one is to be built on the south side to provide additional material.

Goodridge said he expected three to four times as much volume next year in face brick, paving brick, glazed tile, and other clay products handled thru dealers, as in 1945.

Most of Chicago's construction companies specializing in industrial and commercial and other nonresidential building were optimistic over prospects for 1946 and for the next few years.

Home Building Threatened

Home building companies, however, pointed out that altho all federal restrictions on industrial building had been removed, residential construction was threatened with even more stringent supervision.

Martin C. Huggett, executive secretary of the Chicago Metropolitan Home Builders' association, said if home construction bars are lifted probably 30,000 new homes will be built in the Chicago area in 1946, with 40,000 or 50,000 units annually thereafter as the industry gets into volume production.

Joseph H. Beuttas, president of the B-W Construction company, said he was receiving more inquiries about industrial building than he had ever had. He expected his 1946 business to be about 5 million dollars larger than 1945.

Predicts "Marvelous Year"

J. Soule Warterfield, a realtor-builder, and former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, said 1946 will bring a large amount of new industrial and commercial work, a tremendous amount of remodeling, and if federal restrictions are lifted a vast volume of home building.

If labor and material prices do not get too high Chicago construction will show a big increase next year and a building boom will continue for six years, said G. J. Steitz of the Henry Ericsson company. tion company said construction volume will be large in 1946 and the next several years.

TRUSTEE SELLS BIG APARTMENT ON SOUTH SHORE

The 16 story Shoreline apartment building, at 2231 E. 67th st., facing Jackson park, was purchased yesterday by Harold Ginsberg and Joseph and Benjamin Greenberg, for $363,000, reported Landau & Perlman, broker for the seller, the Chicago City Bank & Trust company, trustee. L. L. Sachs & Co. was broker for the buyers. The apartment, built in 1928, contains 50 six and seven room suites and a 10 room penthouse, and a 48 car garage in the rear of the first floor. Mayer, Altheimer & Kabaker and Ginsberg were attorneys.

Patten Tractor Company to Build on Bellwood Site

Work will be started soon in Bellwood on a $250,000 one story building Patten Tractor and Equipment company, now at 1056 N. Kolmar av. Designed by Architect Erwin G. Fredrick, it will be 185 by 220 feet. The site is on the west side of 25th av., south of Washington blvd. The company sells and services Caterpillar Tractor company products.

De Lugach Buys 20 Acre Tract for Subdivision

Frank DeLugach yesterday bought 20 acres at the northeast corner of 88th av. and 103d st., two miles north of Palos Park, from Daniel Crandall. The property will be subdivided into 100 by 300 foot lots and marketed by the Frank DeLugach Real Estate company. He said this would be his 71st subdivision.

Realty Miscellany

Milton H. Callner, president of Milton H. Callner & Co., yesterday announced the removal of his offices from 33 N. La Salle st. to larger quarters at 209 N. La Salle. The firm occupies all of the second floor. The entire building will be modernized, he said. Callner also announced the appointment of E. R. Daggy, design engineer, formerly with the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, to supervise design in building projects of the Callner firm. Margaret Furez, of the University of Chicago, was made head of the Callner research department.

E. R. Daggy

The Chicago Real Estate board will hold its first dinner meeting of the fall season Wednesday night in the board rooms at 105 W. Madison st. Neil H. Jacoby, vice president of the University of Chicago, will speak on "Prospects for Business." Ralph W. Martin, the board's new business manager, will attend. Tribute will be paid to John A. Werr who has been with the board 25 years.

OIL, RADIO FIRMS START BUILDING 2 BIG PROJECTS

The start of two big building projects, involving several million dollars, was announced yesterday by Chicago companies. The Standard Oil company [Indiana] has started work on a petroleum research laboratory to occupy two city blocks in Hammond, adjacent to its Whiting refinery. Designed by Holabird & Root, the project will include a main administration building, general laboratories, three pilot-plant buildings, and a cafeteria.

Later an engine laboratory, a greenhouse for insecticide work, additional pilot-plant buildings, and other research facilities will be erected, said Robert E. Wilson, board chairman, and A. W. Peake, president.

Vets to be Taken Back

Two hundred of the company's technologists and most of 260 other research workers now in the Whiting plant will be employed in the new laboratories. The company plans to take back 179 laboratory employes still in military services without dismissing any of their temporary replacements, it was said.

In addition to the work on improved fuels and lubricants, part of the research facilities will be used in connection with the company's recently established chemical products department.

Hallicrafters company, producer of high frequency radio equipment, has broken ground for a $600,000 plant at the southwest corner of Kostner and 5th avs. The company operates six manufacturing plants and several warehouses on leased premises, said William J. Halligan, president.

To Be Air Conditioned

The new plant, fronting 457 feet on Kostner and 312 on 5th av., will be air conditioned. It will have a dining hall, development laboratories, and, in addition to production facilities, will house the general offices. It was designed by A. Epstein, and is being built by the Poirot Construction company. Arthur L. Hellyer, of Ward Farnsworth Management company, was broker in the site acquisition.

Hallicrafters went from war production directly into the manufacture of high frequency radio receivers for civilian use. It had no reconversion problems because its standard line of high frequency models was produced thruout the war for the army, navy, and high priority orders. The Echophone division of the company will develop its peace time line of home radio models in the new plant.

Long Term Lease Signed on Devore Clothing Store

Charles Devore, west side clothier, has signed a long term lease for the store at 4000 W. Washington blvd., containing 2,000 square feet, with the Guyon Hotel, Inc., lessor. J. F. Butler company represented both parties and Louis A. Sherman was the attorney.

LIGHT HEARTED ROOKIES EXPECT PICNIC IN ARMY

Look Ahead to Free Trip to Japan

BY CARL WIEGMAN

The typical post-war army rookie is a light hearted youth, who is looking forward to a free ride to Japan and regards his army service as a kind of picnic, officers at the Fort Sheridan reception center said yesterday. They explained that all men now being drafted are less than 26 years old, most of them are unmarried, and that these factors probably account for the higher spirits of the peace time draftees.

Approximately 300 men are being received daily at the Chicago induction station, 166 W. Van Buren st., which serves all of Illinois. Early this year the station was handling from 2,000 to 2,500 men daily. State selective service officials said they were not permitted to reveal figures on draft quotas and calls, because these still are regarded as military secrets.

At Fort Sheridan, Maj. W. J. Wenger, commanding officer of the reception center, said the only difference between the war time rookies and the peace time crop is the tendency of the peace time group to think army life will be easy.

Bear Down on Them

"We give them a little training in marching before sending them to basic training camps and many of them were inclined to think this training was just good, clean fun," he said. "As a result, we had to bear down on them."

In other respects, the rookies are much like the men who passed thru the reception center a year or two ago, officers said. They noted that the men are still buying and sending home all the souvenirs, army insignia, and miscellaneous trinkets they can acquire at the post exchange.

As a concession to peace, the army has gone on a 40 hour week, which has improved the rookies' chances of getting home on weekends. Formerly men got passes effective late Saturday. Now they are released Friday night.

Still Screening Men

The army also has revised its "orientation" lectures, which during the war emphasized the theme, "Why We Fight." Now the rookies are being told they were taken into the army to relieve other men who have served for years, and that there is still need for large military forces to do police work.

The army is still screening men to determine their military occupation specialty [MOS in army jargon], but almost all of them are being sent into basic infantry training, and most of them are expected to land in military police units.

At the Chicago induction station, Capt. Ray S. Miller, head of the psychological testing section, said he expected that when the war ended draftees would gripe more than they did. The station has not had a single AWOL case since V-J day.

Given Literacy Tests

Capt. Miller agreed that the youthfulness of the new men and their confidence that they will not be likely to see combat service explained their relaxed attitude. All draftees who are not high school graduates are given a 15 minute written test to determine literacy and intelligence. The proportion of the men being exempted from the test is now somewhat higher because younger men have had more chance for schooling, Capt. Miller said.

A typical group accepted for army service was taken into a small assembly room at the induction station, where Capt. Miller stood on a platform beside an American flag. He told the men to remove their hats, stand erect, and to take one step forward when their names were called. Some shuffled forward and responded "Here" in an embarrassed voice. Others took a brisk step and spoke up smartly.

Most of Them Grin

Capt. Miller then gave them the oath, and the men earnestly repeated the solemn words.

"You're in the army now for sure," said the captain, smiling.

A few men snickered. Several shook hands with their neighbors or slapped their neighbors on the back. Most of the men grinned. A few minutes later they were on their way to Fort Sheridan.

CHICAGO DOCTORS ASSAIL WAGNER BILL AS 'MONSTROSITY'

German doctors working under government restrictions resembling those proposed by Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.] were giving the German army care 20 years behind that given the American army, the Chicago Medical society charged in an editorial in the society's Bulletin issued yesterday.

The editorial attacked the Murray-Wagner-Dingell bill as an "economic monstrosity." It read in part:

"One gathers the impression from their [proponents of the bill] unfair criticism of the American Medical association, that these groups propose to accomplish part of their good deeds by protecting the public from the machinations of the American doctors. . . . These are the same doctors who have given the American army the best health and the lowest mortality rate ever attained by any army."

AND NEWS PICTURES IN COLORS

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, as the illustrations on this page disclose, has achieved the distinction of reproducing the swiftest of action in its true, natural colors. The illustrations are produced from action photographs made by The Tribune's color camera.

Up until not a great while ago color photography was limited to still life, posed portraits, and the like, owing to the lack of speed of cameras and photographic plates or films. Now manufacturers, however, have speeded up the sensitiveness of their plate and film emulsions. The Tribune has had filters made which permit its color camera to take full advantage of the speedier plates or films.

The Tribune color camera makes three negatives with one exposure. This is done by means of mirrors that use reflected and transmitted light.

Filters with which the color camera originally was equipped were not made to handle the more modern and speedier films and plates, but a national manufacturer of photographic equipment, at the suggestion of The Tribune, stepped into the picture and created filters capable of high speed work and improved mirrors to complete the exposure.

The filters, three in number, it should be explained, are tinted or (Continued on page eight)

NEVADA—Fabulous State

This is another article in a series on regional America, written by a Tribune man who has spent most of the last 20 years in Europe as a foreign correspondent. His viewpoint, therefore, is more detached than that of a stay-at-home. The opinions expressed here do not necessarily coincide with those of The Tribune.

By ALEX SMALL

NEVADA from its beginnings has been the poor relation among the 48 states. It has steadily had the least population, and since its surface is enormous (sixth in rank, with nearly 110,000 square miles)), it has just as steadily been the state with the thinnest population. It has attained fame, or notoriety, of a sort on account of its divorce laws and the divorce colony at its largest settlement of Reno. For the rest, since it is traversed by the main transcontinental railways, both to Los Angeles and to San Francisco, it has been to most travelers just so much arid ground which had to be passed over.

The pulsation of the mighty war boom along the Pacific coast swelled up the inland valleys, over the Sierra mountains, up onto the plateau of Nevada, where it acts like a backwash. The result is that Nevada, too, is having a boom—one not commensurate with its capacity, but enough to be distinctly felt. The state now boasts a record population of about 136,000 and for the first time will appear in statistics of population density with more than one human being to the square mile.

This pocket size boom has been caused in part by the location of some overflow war industries at certain points. Most important was the plant of Basic Magnesium, between Las Vegas and Boulder City, said to be the largest enterprise of its kind in the world. Said to have been would be more accurate, for at this writing it already was practically closed. More important than industry, so near as I could see, was the circumstance that people who can afford to live where they please have been squeezed out of the madhouse which the Pacific coast is today and have sought tranquillity and distraction in Nevada.

For in spite of government exhortation and objurgation, in spite of gasoline rationing and the discomfort of trains, plenty of people have been moving about the United States. Most probably convinced themselves their journeys were necessary, but the flimsiest of pretexts serve as excuse. An idea of this condition may be had in looking at the packed ranks of automobiles in any park at Las Vegas. You see license plates not merely from California (and that ordinarily means a journey of about 300 miles), but ones from Nebraska and Kansas, Texas and Louisiana, Illinois and Michigan.

The sample of Nevada I got was at Las Vegas, now the second largest community of the state (after Reno) with its estimated 18,000 population. If you want to add to your experience of the variety possible inside the United States I can recommend it. Except maybe Reno, it can truly be said there is nothing else quite like it.

You will probably wonder how the place ever came into being. At first sight there was no principle of selection in taking this spot for a town rather than any other on this endless arid plain. But there was, the most compelling of all reasons—water. Las Vegas is in a valley which is a desert oasis; its artesian wells yield an adequate supply of water of excellent quality.

Here, and in all Nevada, you will realize more keenly than anywhere else the compelling truth of that saying so common west of the Rockies, "Water is the life blood of a people." In a region of abundant water, like Illinois, that has no meaning. Water—or rather the lack of it—explains why Nevada is what it is—a few settlements around wells, lakes, or the rare streams, and the rest an empty wilderness. For lack of water, even efficient mining cannot be carried on in most of Nevada. Hence the state is full of ghost towns. When a lode is worked out by summary methods the mines are abandoned.

At Las Vegas you can see cattlemen in their high-heeled, spurred boots, and some mining still goes on in the vicinity, but if that were all the activity of the town, or the state, its population would be less than half what it actually is. Besides these, there are a certain number of railway workers, for Las Vegas is a watering point on the Southern Pacific.

The main occupation of Las Vegas would be called nonproductive; that is, it is pure diversion, or allied to it. Some people are in residence to escape the tax laws of other states, for Nevada is tender to corporations and to millionaires. It is, or should be, a place for rest. There is plenty of natural beauty of a strange, savage sort — wide open, limitless plains covered with sparse sagebrush, and on the horizon the mountains, which at sunrise and sunset take on the harsh, vivid colors of a crude chromo. Fatigued bodies and minds get new snap from this crystaline air. And it is only the landscape which is primeval. In the resort hotels of Las Vegas you will find a lavish and refined luxury hard to match anywhere.

Somehow I doubt if many of the visitors to Las Vegas work hard at their resting. Those dining rooms packed full every evening with hectic people trampling on each other's toes, taking in the jangled music and floor shows of any metropolitan night joint, do not suggest neurotherapy. My own reaction after three days was to want to find some place to rest up from Las Vegas.

The great majority of the visitors there have rather come to engage in the most nerve-racking of all human pursuits—gambling. Probably you have heard that Nevada is a "wide open" state—I believe the only one of the 48. So the resort hotels, if you look behind the facade, are just high class lodging houses built around gambling dives.

You can risk your money in practically any way you like. At all places, expensive and cheap, I judged that craps was the favorite game. After that, the more snobbish places offer only roulette and blackjack. It is a scene you are not likely soon to forget—the serried rows of tense faces bent over the crap tables, the whirr and click of the dice, and opposite, behind their piles of silver cartwheel dollars, the croupiers and money changers, impassive, jaded, cynical, and world weary, like so many electroplated Buddhas.

The tony joints are out of town, on the highways, where they will catch only the carriage trade. The main street of Las Vegas proper is lined with the more plebeian gaming houses. These latter offer supplementary attractions—poker and panguingui, faro, and race horse keno (the same kind of bingo game which in Montana is called Chinese lottery).

State-employed inspectors insure the suckers of as even a break as the rules of any game allow. You may see one of them walk up to any blackjack table at random, pick up the pack being dealt, and put it in his pocket. Actually there is little need for this protection. The chances of any game are so heavily in favor of the house, on the average, the usual profit is so enormous, that none but a fool would risk losing his license with any underhanded jugglery. Besides, the corporation of master gamblers is on the watch for any black sheep. They realize that this Pactolus stream of theirs might be dried up at any moment by act of the state legislature, that there is constant pressure both inside and outside Nevada against their industry. So they exhibit a Caesar's wife complex and give their customers the satisfaction of being fleeced in strictly honorable, legal fashion.

"After all," one of them told me, "we give them a better break than they get on the stock market."

Then there are slot machines. They are everywhere. In the avowed gaming houses you find them ranked in battalions, with slots for all coins from nickels to cartwheel dollars. No dive is so pretentious as not to have plenty of them. But then you find them everywhere else—in drug stores, at bootblack stands, in grocery and butcher shops, in ones which sell women's hats or men's haberdashery, even in the anteroom of dentists' offices. I have seen a woman who had wheeled a perambulator into a general market reach for a can of tomatoes with one hand while with the other she slipped a dime into a slot machine.

They seem to form a kind of neutral but suggestive background to the more serious and exciting activities of Las Vegas. Slot machines serve as an incidental filler for odd moments. They prevent the citizen of Las Vegas from being bored, and enable him to keep his hand in, as it were almost absentmindedly, at times when the humdrum motions of living distract his attention from concentration on real gambling.

Starting from Las Vegas, you may make a trip to Boulder dam and to the Grand canyon of the Colorado. The latter you will see from an approach which is still unusual—that is, you see it from the river level, looking up—but it will certainly become immensely popular after the war.

The trip as I made it (thanks largely to the courtesy of officials of the national park service) lasts two full days, but you may take as many more as you please. Boats start off (that is, they will when the service is definitely established) from Hualapai Lodge, an inn and camp on the shores of Lake Mead about five miles north of Boulder dam. Lake Mead, in case you have not heard of it, is the Colorado river backed up behind the dam for 115 miles, thru and beyond the Grand canyon. This trip over this ultramarine water (for the river silt drops to the bottom, leaving the lake surface a dazzling blue) thru this primeval lunar landscape I found a unique experience, offering no points of comparison for description. The silence is at times hallucinating. No life seems to stir on those gnarled crags, but it is there just the same. Once, on one of the rare sandy shelves, we saw a troop of wild burros, and those who have luck may occasionally see far off a desert bighorn. Naturalists also have found in the area, now a national park, several species of mice, rats, skunks, rabbits, deer, and coyotes, besides 17 varieties each of snakes and lizards.

Within a few hours we passed thru Boulder canyon and saw the site which was first chosen for the dam. Later plans shifted it farther downstream to a point judged more advantageous, in Black canyon, and there it actually stands. The original name, however, has remained.

We reached the Grand canyon at the end of the first day's trip, but could not take the launch up far inside it, because it was the season of low water. People who know told me this perspective from the river level looking up is quite different from the more usual one from the southern rim. It is said of the Grand canyon, tritely and rightly, that it is beyond words. So fully am I in agreement that I shall not attempt something which at best could only be inadequate and strained. Good photography, perhaps painting, might give an idea of it, but I doubt if the grandiose scope of the spectacle and the crushing sense of awe it rouses can be translated into terms of any human art. There is no substitute for seeing the Grand canyon.

The officials of the park service (rangers) I found beyond praise as helpful, intelligent guides and as enlightened, urbane company.

★ Here is a popular type of telephone table of modern design with a built-in seat and a shelf for the directory. The complete drawings for this easy-to-build two-piece unit are on Craft Pattern 255.

★ The portable snack bar is quickly set up, and it folds compactly to put away. It is easy to build with Craft Pattern 902. A larger built-in bar for the game room is detailed on Craft Pattern 900.

★ Two Craft Pattern sheets of valance board designs have been prepared, to suit different tastes and to accommodate different draperies. They are Craft Patterns Nos. 120 and 122. Each sheet has four designs and shows how to cut the board, top and end pieces, how to assemble the cornice and how to fasten it to window trim.

★ The window greenhouse requires no alteration of wall. Indeed, the window sash need not be removed. Three sash of stock size, a floor, a roof and shelves are assembled as on Craft Pattern 328.

★ For working drawings and instructions for building the above projects for the home, send 10 cents each, in coin, plus 2 cents each to cover mailing cost, for Craft Patterns 120, 122, 255, 328, 900 and 902. NEW VEL MAKES ILLINOIS HARD WATER ACT SOFT!

Without the aid of a water softener . . . Vel makes instant, thick suds in hardest water!

HARD WATER can leave a cloudy film on your lovely sheer stockings. But not when you use Vel. Vel leaves no pesky hard water soap scum. Stockings rinse out sparkling clear. Vel is wonderful for colors too . . . keeps them bright and fresh. Vel is not soap. It is a new washing discovery scientifically known as a neutral hydrophylic detergent. Because of present-day conditions, your grocer may not always have Vel. But keep your eyes open . . . Vel is worth looking for.

SAVE MONEY!

You need only about half as much Vel as granulated soap or flakes to make thick, rich suds in hard water. That means a real saving!

INSTANT SUDS IN HARDEST WATER!

NO MORE DISH WIPING!

Dishes washed in Vel rinse clear . . . drain sparkling bright without wiping. Vel is kind to your hands too. For Vel contains Coco-Cerol . . . an ingredient used in hand lotions.

It's NEW! BETTER!

Said Mary Jones to Betty Brown:
"Don't let faded dresses get you DOWN,
Re-dye them ALL and go to TOWN—
Use new ALL-FABRIC TINTEX."
So Betty Brown went out to buy
That new ALL-FABRIC TINTEX dye.
Now all the men give her the EYE—
*Thanks to new ALL-FABRIC TINTEX!

These gay Tintex lyrics are being sung on radio stations from coast to coast*

All-fabric TINTEX
America's Quality Tints & Dyes

A Scientific Miracle! Dyes every fabric made! —even "Celanese"!

YOU can be "eye-catching," too—even in last year's wardrobe—if you re-dye those faded wearables with the new, better, All-fabric Tintex! This modern dye is guaranteed to dye every fabric made, even "Celanese." One dye that dyes all fabrics . . . ends fabric confusion and guesswork! Over 50 colors! Many Report Losing 20 Lbs. and More!

- No Reducing Drugs!
- No Exercises! No Laxatives!
- No Strict Diet Menus!
- Absolutely Harmless!

MEN and women all over this country are reporting remarkable results in losing weight easily. Many report losing 20 pounds and more. They are following the Easy Reducing Plan of Dr. Edward Parrish, well-known physician and editor. Dr. Parrish's Easy Reducing Plan makes reducing a pleasure, because it has NO STRICT DIET MENUS, requires no exercises; HARMLESS, too, because it calls for no reducing drugs.

Here is Dr. Parrish's Easy Reducing Plan exactly as given over the air to millions: For lunch take two teaspoonfuls of CAL-PAR in a glass of juice, water or any beverage. Take nothing else for lunch except a cup of coffee, if desired. For breakfast and dinner EAT AS YOU USUALLY DO, but eat sensibly. Don't cut out fatty, starchy foods; just cut down on them. By following this simple, easy reducing plan you cut down your daily caloric intake, thus losing weight naturally. CAL-PAR is not a harmful reducing drug. It is a special dietary product, supplying extra amounts of certain essential minerals and vitamins. A great many overweight people report they have been helped by Dr. Parrish's Easy Reducing Plan. Try it! Your friends may marvel at the vast improvement in your figure. Get CAL-PAR today. First box must satisfy you or MONEY BACK.

USERS SAY:

LOOKING AT HOLLYWOOD WITH HEDDA HOPPER

(Copyright: 1945: The Chicago Tribune)

Hollywood

THE MOVIE of tomorrow will be crammed with sequences featuring animal actors. Sports events will be included more and more as an integral part of the story. And star names of consequence will be cast in straight "whodunits."

All of which proves that war shapes our destinies more definitely than peace. The returned soldier who has had to live without household pets won't be able to get enough of them. Sports have always been popular with the male portion of the audience, and they will be even more so to men whose only sport has been limited to stalking the enemy. And the whodunit, which has built up an enormous following with the foxhole group—being one diversion they can sometimes indulge in—has a huge public ready and waiting, thanks to pocket editions.

Right now animal actors are in big demand. The supply is scarce since war has cut off importation of talent from foreign lands. But the group of what movie men list as subhuman talent, a motley array ranging from trained fleas to laughing camels, are kept busy 52 weeks of the year.

One of the big laughs in "The Bells of St. Mary's," which Bing Crosby, Ingrid Bergman, and Leo McCarey have recently finished, comes when a turtle ambles across the floor. It's no ordinary turtle, because Bing's straw skimmer takes the place of its shell. This neatest animal trick of the year is pulled by Rosie, a reddish kitten which Animal Trainer Harry East considers one of his most promising feline stars. Another cat who gets his name into the cast of characters is Tige, the big tortoise shell in Universal's "Naughty Nineties," where you'll also find the names of Bud Abbott and Lou Costello. Tige remains a star because he stays put and does what he's told. Whitey, a cat from the same trainer, shared honors with Deanna Durbin in "Lady on a Train."

Animal casting is done right on the lot. The trainer brings his talent to the director, puts them thru their paces where they are to work. It matters little what far-fetched type the script calls for, chances are one of our providers of subhuman talent can furnish it.

When talkies first came into vogue all the furred and feathered actors currently working envied parrots, cockatoos, and myna birds. Now they know better. There is nothing a director dreads more than a bird which actually talks. It seems they improvise when things don't go according to their notion, and what they've been known to say—well, it would rock the Hays office right back on its heels.

So the most popular bird in the business is Curly Twiford's Lizzie, a 65-year-old parrot which has never been known to open its face but which can pull as good pantomime as Harpo Marx. Since human voices are always dubbed in for bird talk anyway, it's in the running for every job.

Cinema's Dave (Curly) Twiford likes to train obscure and unknown type animal actors—met his Waterloo when 20th Century asked for a trained sea gull for "Captain Eddie," Rickenbacker's story. Even he didn't have such talent at hand. So the studio experimented with a mechanical gull for the dramatic scene on the raft where the bird lights on Rickenbacker's head at the conclusion of the desperate men's prayer for food. But results were unsatisfactory. So a distress call went out again to all animal trainers. In the meantime Twiford had found a gull on the beach at El Segundo. It was ill and unable to fly, and Twiford took it home and nursed it back to health. He named it Frosty, and the bird was so grateful it followed Twiford around like a kitten. He had no difficulty in training Frosty to light on Fred MacMurray's head when the director wanted it to.

G. B. Glick, another trainer, can furnish you with Satan, the tiger that's very camera wise, or Dynamite, a black leopard which looks ferocious but is pretty tactful. He has the spitting camel with the delightful name of Satchelfoot—all of them featured in Universal's "Night in Paradise." And you've probably seen Toby the bear, which often wrestles with the Three Stooges and which shares honors in "Girl Rush" at RKO with a trained skunk named Dainty because it likes lace paper doilies from confectioners' boxes in its nest.

When the casting wagon goes out to the studios from Frank Weatherwax's ranch there are not only stars to be tested by the director but some fellow travelers which go along for the ride to develop the sophistication necessary in a good animal actor. The famous Weatherwax collie, Lassie, is the greatest animal actor since Rin Tin Tin. Another notable from this kennel is Rip, a German shepherd, which does a fine job as a war dog in "Jungle Marines."

Of the small-sized fry, Rommie, an indeterminate breed with great versatility, is in great demand. It was drafted into a career thru a strange fluke. Weatherwax brought some dogs to the studio to show Cecil B. De Mille. Rommie, scarcely more than a pup, came along for the ride. But De Mille looked the dogs over, pointed to Rommie, and said, "That one." Weatherwax explained that it wasn't trained, was merely along with its pals. "Then take it home and train it," said De Mille. So at 3 years of age Rommie is a two role man. Groomed and trimmed, it plays the role of a thorobred cairn. Roughed up, it is the ideal vagabond mutt. It was a more important actor in "The Uninvited," with Gail Russell and Ray Milland. It was a hit in "Sunday Dinner for a Soldier," wowed 'em in "Destination Tokyo" (it barked every time Hirohito's name was mentioned), and is currently working at 20th in "Enchanted Voyage," on which it was sent to Louisiana.

Red and Arcturus, two gamecocks belonging to Henry East, are the real stuntmen of the bird actors. They stage a sham fight, make passes at each other which throw the audience into jitters. The feathers fly, but the cocks come out of it without a scratch. This is considered a great achievement in animal training and on a par with human stuntmen.

All of these star types carry high insurance. They'd need to, as some tragedies have resulted among the subhuman group. I remember when Claudette Colbert was making "Zaza" a circus of trained fleas, highly insured, was on the set. They were installed in a gay little fleahouse, freshly varnished inside. The trainer left them there for the night, and in the morning the fumes had done their deadly work—not a flea survived.

A great many centuries ago, horses were domesticated to practical use by man. They continue to be the mainstay of studio acting. They are photogenic, carry tremendous appeal in that nearly every one has wanted to hide a horse, if he hasn't done so. Among some 700 horse actors stabled near Hollywood, Harvester and Reaper are probably the biggest money earners. They are a pair of perfectly matched palominos owned by Jim Fagan. The last time Universal used them in a picture they were insured for $20,000.

The swans in this scene from "Night in Paradise" have been trained not to eat the goldfish and not to hiss during sound takes. The camels are among a few dozen left in Hollywood.

Whitey, the trained cat, has an important role as George Coulouris' constant companion in Deanna Durbin's picture, "Lady on a Train."

Roughed up, Rommie is an ideal mutt. He was a hit with Bobbie Driscoll and Charles Winninger in his scene from "Sunday Dinner for a Soldier."

VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Miss Tinee: The popular stars are plenty O.K., but I'm sticking by my favorite star, now in service, Capt. Ronald Reagan. And also his lovely wife, Jane Wyman, who finally is coming into her own as a star. They're one of Hollywood's few happy marriages, and that's another reason they rate tops with me. Could you possibly print a picture of Ronald for me? Thank you very much.

A REAGAN FAN

Ronald Reagan

Of course we'd love to print a picture of Ronald for you, and we're hoping, as you must be, that he will be out of service soon, to once again thrill his fans on the screen.

Dear Miss Tinée: My friend and I disagree that "I'll Be Seeing You" is a sequel to "Since You Went Away." I don't believe it is, and she says that it is.

E. GRANT

No, these two movies are not in any way connected, excepting, of course, that Shirley Temple appeared in both.

Parents Have Their Say

By SHEILA JOHN DALY

(Copyright: 1945: The Chicago Tribune)

YES, my darling daughter! You're sweet, you're neat, and there's not much doubt that almost every fellow in the senior class would trade his best plaid sport coat, and his bright new tie, too, to share a Friday evening with you. You cut a mean caper on the dance floor and you know your way around a tennis court. You can do more in a pool than dangle your toes and look pretty, and you measure up to Roy Rogers when you're topside a horse.

You're the chairman of the decorating committee for the school prom, you're the live wire of the debating team, and any gal is happy to count you as a friend.

From almost every angle you come as close to being a perfect specimen as any one, and manage to look pretty cute at the same time.

But comes the revelation! It seems that you aren't always the sweet young thing that you seem to be, that occasionally some one finds a complaint to make. And some one even claims that you're hiding a sharp pair of horns under that fluffy feather cut. So we consulted those people who seem to know you best, your dad and mother, and here are a few of the enlightening little accusations that they make. If you're really interested in becoming that sterling little character you've seemed to be, give them the once-over-lightly. How do you match up against them?

"Even tho my daugther is very reasonable about the expense of clothes and uses her suits, sweaters, and jumpers in smart and ingenious combinations, she will not take the responsibility for their care. Everything needs cleaning at some impossible moment, and she simply has to have a certain sweater washed and dried in a few hours.

"She seems to have no understanding of the difficulties of getting cleaning done quickly. She's also a little unreasonable about adjustments in clothes and thinks that I should notice when they are needed. I believe she's old enough to bring these things to my attention in a calm voice in time to have them repaired, rather than being cross at the moment she wants to wear them.

"From her attitude you would think that we deliberately shrank her sweaters, while in reality the shrinkage was caused by the hard rubbing they required because they were so soiled. Often she rolls on the floor with her dog or cleans her room in her best pink sweater and then expects it to be returned to its original fluffiness. Her older brother says, 'Don't worry about her—one year away at college and she'll learn to take care of her clothes!' but in the meantime we'd all be happier with a little consideration and coöperation in the clothes line!"

"This is a very minor complaint, but it is annoying to see broad red grins leering at you all over the house. My daughter blots her fresh lipstick on everything from facial tissues to the best guest towels and her latest V-mail. They turn up in the most unexpected places, and it's almost frightening sometimes. Even a box of tissues on her dressing table doesn't seem to be hint enough."

"My youngest daughter is very popular with the young fellows from her school. She is called very frequently for dates and often doesn't care to go out with some of those who call. Instead of finding a more charming and tactful way of refusing, she bluntly says, 'My mother doesn't want me to.' I'm sure the boys' feelings must be hurt sometimes, and I'm also afraid I will soon have the reputation of being an old tyrant."

"We're comfortably well off and don't have any financial worries—yet! But if my daughter keeps spending as recklessly as she has been we'll soon have trouble. We have always tried to teach her the value of money, but she doesn't seem to understand. As we have charge accounts at most of the stores in our small town, she is able to purchase anything from a sweater to a new Vaughn Monroe record without mentioning it. Then when I receive our bills at the first of the month, quite a large percentage of them are surprises to me. I'll probably have to put a notice in the personals, 'I will not be responsible for debts contracted by my daughter,' if things get any worse!"

"No matter how far ahead of time my daughter knows that something is to be done, she never starts to work on it until the last minute. She let her history term paper go until the week before it was due and then drove the whole household mad when she stayed up till the wee hours of the morning working on it. Her history mark might have been higher if she'd started working on it earlier, too."

So there you are, my darling daughter! If you can read thru the list and say "not guilty" to every one, perhaps you are that sterling young character after all!

WILL DAVIDSON

ALWAYS a band leader, never a sideman. That is the unusual story of Jerry Wald. Actually, of course, Jerry did sit in with some bands, but not in the way most name leaders did. He was an adept clarinetist at 7, and by the time he was 10 he was doing solos and sitting in with orchestras on broadcasts over his home town station of WOR in Newark. It was not until he entered Los Angeles City college, however, that he found a group of young musicians whose ideas coincided with his, and organized a band to play for special parties and events. His pianist was Stan Kenton. Wald's first big date was at the Rosemont ballroom in New York, but a fire cut that run short. A few months later, however, he landed at the Roseland ballroom, was on his way.

Jerry Wald

Currently MAJESTIC is featuring two Wald disks, "The Continental"—"Someone to Watch Over Me" and "Clarinet Hi Jinks"—"A Friend of Yours." The former is pretty standard, altho Jerry's clarinet is good and the ensemble backs him up well. "Clarinet Hi Jinks" is his trademark, and he does it with a vengeance. This is a loud one, with a good backing. "A Friend of Yours" features Dick Merrick, Jerry's full-voiced and capable vocalist.

About as good a contrast as you could ask is the current VICTOR release of Tommy Dorsey, "There You Go" and "Boogie Woogie." The former is modern Dorsey, a pastoral sort of ballad with strings and a Stuart Foster vocal. If you like Dorsey's string period this will satisfy you. "Boogie Woogie" is a reprint of an old jazz classic, and as for me you can have the modern Dorsey any birthday now. The Pinetop Smith score gets elegant ensemble treatment from a group that includes one C. Spivak in the trumpet section. The beat is wonderful, and a mighty piano comes out of a brass and wood antiphonal—then the brass takes over with a mean breakaway, and finally, with the piano weaving in and out of the ensemble, Dorsey's horn gives a great demonstration of what made him famous. This is one for the treasure vault.

DECCA has a fair new Johnny Green disk—"The Steam Is on the Beam"—"From Out of Nowhere." Features his piano.

TOPS AMONG TEENS

FRANKIE KUEBELBECK, cowboy composer.

AND WHAT has Big Time Cowboy Roy Rogers got that this boy hasn't got? Well, let's see. For Frankie Kuebelbeck, handsome 15-year-old, six foot sophomore from Ward high school in Kansas City, Kas., has his own guitar, his own cowboy band, his own cowboy regalia—and from the profits of his first song, recently published, he can even buy his own horse!

"No, it wasn't difficult to make up words for my song," says the young composer. "I just thought of the way my mother sings my little brother, Davy Joe, to sleep, and there they were." And the melody—well, to a ballad-humming maestro who's been playing the guitar since he was 12 years old "that just came natural." "While My Mother Sings Her Baby's Lullaby," Frankie's first song, was introduced a few weeks ago over a national network and was an immediate hit. The tall, lanky musician and his six piece band, the Melody Gang, play for local dances almost nightly, always accompanied by either Frank's mother or father. On week-ends and odd evenings Frankie did his patriotic turn by taking the band to entertain for U. S. O. shows thruout Missouri. Earnest and hardworking, he manages above average grades, with special interests in English and geometry, besides his extracurricular activities with the pick and strings.

"My plans for the future are to keep on composing popular songs and western lyrics," says Frankie. "Cowboy songs go best with the guitar, and there's good American feeling in that music. Who knows? Some day maybe I'll be up there with Roy and Trigger."

And for ambition and talent like young Frankie's, Roy Rogers can make room on the range for another big white horse.

Discovery by Noted Veterinarian

STOPS DOG-ITCH

For years, veterinarians were baffled by a common skin disease that caused untold agony to dogs and cats. Starting as a burning itch, it soon develops dandruff-like scales and brownish edged sores with a mouldy odor in ears, on paws, under-body, back or around tail. Treatments for mange, fleas, allergy or faulty diet result only in costly care or actual loss. Now, noted veterinarian, Dr. A. C. Merrick, has positively identified this disease as a fungus infection comparable to "Athlete's Foot." He has named it "Fungitch" and has also developed SULFADENE, a treatment proved amazingly effective in thousands of clinical cases. Applied externally, Dr. Merrick's SULFADENE stops the itch in a few minutes—scales and sores vanish in a few days. Buy today where you get pet foods or remedies—or send $1.00 for generous treatment; money back if it fails to give complete satisfaction. Address Brookfield Laboratories, Dept. HOUSE WORKOUT FOR BEAUTY

By ANTOINETTE DONNELLY
(Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

YOU HOUSEWIVES who do your own housework have a chance to turn what may to you seem drudgery into exercise which can take the place of the daily dozen at home, the treatments in beauty salons, or workouts in gyms. And when we say chance we mean that unless the housework chores are done in a certain way the benefits possible to health and figure will not be fully realized.

There are two ways of performing the menial household tasks such as floor scrubbing, sweeping, vacuuming, making beds, dusting, and the like. One way is to take the line of least resistance and avoid strenuous bending and stretching wherever possible. The other way is to make every housework act an exercise. If you do this you'll find yourself thinking less of the tedium of the chores you are doing and concentrate on the waist line you are reducing and the rolls you are taking off your hips.

If you stoop to pick something up from the floor, bend from the waist without bending the knees, and bend farther than you really need to to reach the object. Get your whole palm right down on the floor.

Or you can use another valuable exercise when picking things up from the floor. Place feet apart, with arms out at the side. Twist the waist to the right and reach down with the right hand to the left foot to pick up the object. This is done, of course, with unbent knees. Reverse the waist twist and hand for the next picking up operation.

When you are wielding that broom don't sweep with short, choppy strokes that are propelled from the elbows. Bend sideways at the waist like the start of a golf swing. You don't have to let the dust fly. Control the length of the broom stroke, but get in that waist movement.

When running the sweeper or vacuum cleaner, propel from the waist and pull arms back and forth to feel the stretch from the shoulders.

When you are running the vacuum cleaner propel those motions from the waist, too. Pull your arms back and forth so that you feel the stretch from the shoulders.

Scrubbing floors gives another fine opportunity for an arm and waist work-out. Reach out as far as you can and put plenty of elbow grease into the effort. The floor will turn out good and clean and you'll be losing unbecoming bulges.

Washing the bathroom floor provides an excellent chance to twist and bend if you do it the right way. There are usually corners hard to get at. Go after these by bending from the waist, and keep knees straight.

If you have the radio going while doing the housework, and the right kind of rhythm is being played, you'll find that getting into the swing of the music will give added enthusiasm to your combination of work and beauty treatment.

Bend from the waist in doing such household chores as this and give yourself a slimming exercise at the same time.

Youth on the Summer Campus

By ELEANOR NANGLE

Saugatuck, Mich.

INEVITABLY this little Michigan town, a bit less than 150 miles from Chicago, is frequently referred to as the Provincetown of the middle west. For a third of a century Saugatuck, simple, rustic, and strikingly reminiscent of a New England village serene beneath magnificent trees, has been an art colony of note.

Here in a vacation setting is located a most professional art school, the Summer School of Painting, a magnet for artists, which has just closed its 35th season. The school is associated with the Art Institute of Chicago, its credits are accepted by the school of the institute, and its director is Francis Chapin, one of the foremost contemporary Chicago painters. On its faculty and boards are some of the most distinguished midwestern men and women in the field of art.

The students in this summer school are of all ages. Some are established artists; more are young men and women trying to enlarge their horizons under the coaching of good art educators and to perfect their technique by working with master craftsmen. Some 60 students—the number is necessarily limited by facilities—live and work during the summer at Ox-Bow Inn, operated by the school.

For artists summering in the village—and they are numerous—there are additional classes each morning and afternoon in what is known as the downtown studio near the Saugatuck ferry. The inn, or the school proper, lies in the midst of several hundred acres of high wooded dunes and fragrant forests.

Around Ox-Bow, along the Kalamazoo river and the lake, and in the adjoining farmlands, students concentrating on landscape painting work and learn "on location." During the morning from June until Labor day there are classes in painting and drawing from models posed out of doors or in the Ox-Bow studio. There are also classes in lithography and such crafts as various therapy skills, block printing, weaving.

Saugatuck is "arty," but not in the painful self-conscious sense. At the Summer School of Painting only the models pose; the students are avidly at work in class or in private practice all day five days a week. Every Saturday morning there is a review of student work. Thruout the summer there are rotating exhibitions at the Ox-Bow gallery, and every now and then during the season there are extra lectures and demonstrations by some of the distinguished authorities who come, faithful as the season itself, to Saugatuck each summer.

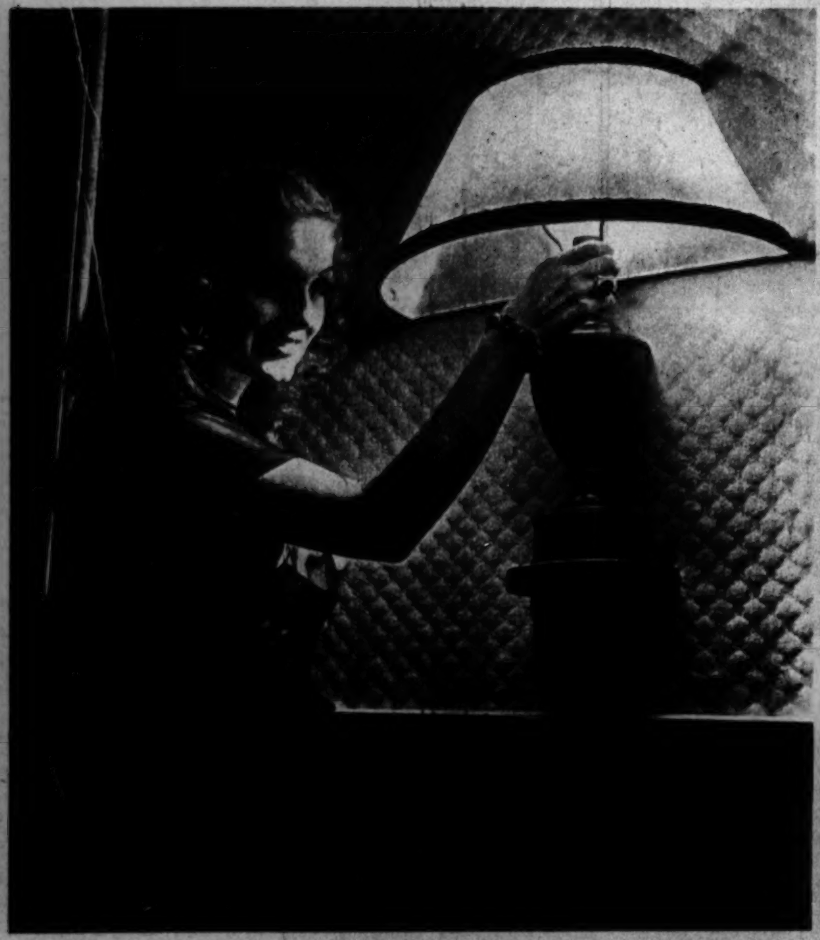
CONSTANCE MOORE

Hollywood camera study by Louis Wolf



In the playroom of her rented home Constance Moore displays a trick wall lamp that seems to float in midair. She likes to have many people around her, and the people like it, too.

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA

CONSTANCE MOORE had been the singing star of a radio show in Dallas when a talent scout for Universal made a stop there between planes. The 16-year-old girl talked fast, and before the agent continued his trip she had signed a contract to go to Hollywood. They quickly discovered that they had a star who could sing, dance, act, and look beautiful. She played 23 leads in 23 class B pictures.

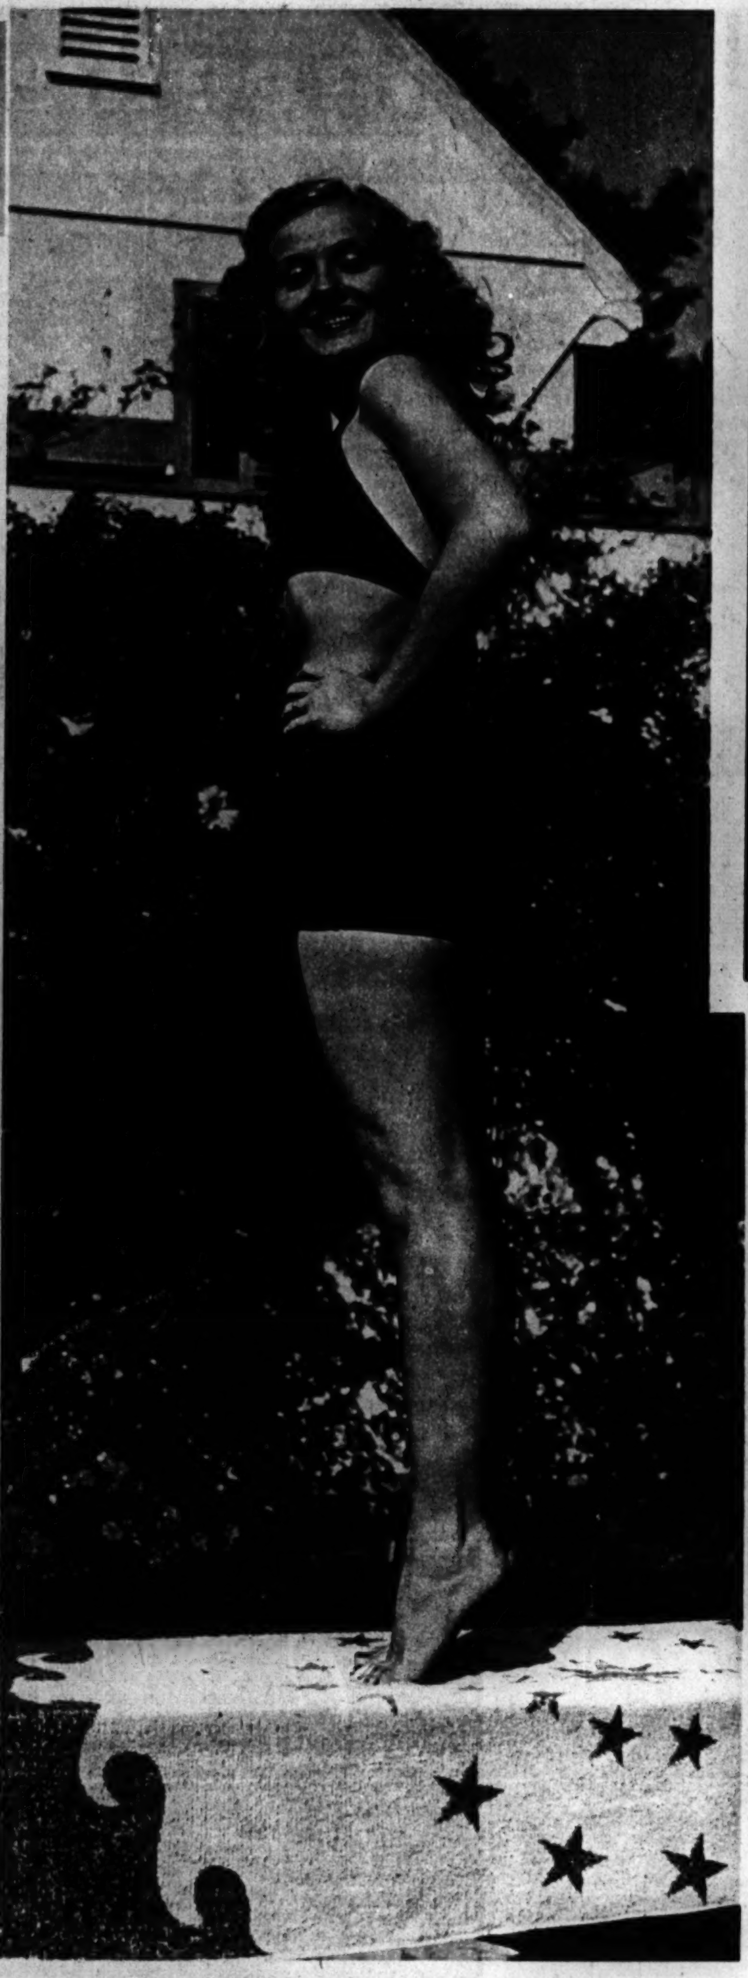
Then after making three pictures for the Paramount studios she sang the leading role in "By Jupiter" on Broadway for Rodgers and Hart, and scored a real hit. She is back in Hollywood again, free-lancing. She makes two pictures a year for RKO and has a regular Sunday evening radio program.

When working Constance maintains a very rigid sleeping schedule. On Thursday, the cook's day off, she will come home early, do all the shopping and several other errands, then whip up a dinner that almost puts the family cook to shame. She likes Mexican dishes and salads.

In her estimation the greatest luxury there is is to have breakfast in bed and then go back to sleep until noon. She shampoos her hair twice a week at home to save time.

At present she is waiting for her new home, "The Acre," to be built.

Connie is married to Johnny Maschio, actors' representative. She is 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 110 pounds. Among other well known pictures her fans will remember her performance in "I Wanted Wings" and "Take a Letter, Darling." Her latest picture, yet to be released, is "Mexicana," produced at Republic studios.



A good swim is Miss Moore's favorite exercise and relaxation, altho she and her husband also take long rides thru the Hollywood hills and get in a few sets of tennis.

Constance and Gina, her 3-year-old daughter, whose real name is Mary Constance. Gina is a real mimic.

These hostess harem pajamas were styled by Howard Greer, studio designer, who makes many of Constance's clothes. But she's a shrewd buyer in the fashion marts, too.

In addition to this caricature of Gloria Swanson, Constance has one of William Powell in her playroom. Van Johnson, Cary Grant, Anne Shirley, and the Denis O'Keefes are among her closest friends.

What... FEED YOUR BABY HOT DOGS?

OF COURSE NOT! . . . AND THE SAME GOOD JUDGMENT SHOULD DETERMINE HIS MENTAL DIET!

MY BOOK HOUSE FURNISHES A PRACTICAL FORMULA TO FIT YOUR CHILD'S MENTAL AND EMOTIONAL NEEDS

My Book House Plan of Child Training is as carefully worked out to fill your child's mental needs as a formula is to meet his physical. You can rely on its advice . . . apply it easily to the individual needs of your child. It includes a comprehensive book for parents, "In Your Hands", that shows you how to give your child progressive guidance from babyhood to adolescence . . . know what behavior traits to expect at each stage of his development. Why not send the coupon below today and learn all about this amazingly practical Plan? Remember, the earlier you start—the more effective it will be!

● One of the very first things a mother insists upon for her infant is a prescribed feeding formula . . . a formula that will give him everything he needs to grow strong and healthy. Still, this isn't enough . . . for it takes more than a sound body to build a human being. The development of personality and character are vitally important, too . . . and must be instilled in your child just as early and as carefully as his eating habits.

In fact, My Book House Plan of Child Training shows you how to begin to form his future self right from the day he is born. During your child's pre-school years he is so completely dependent upon your love and companionship . . . his mind is so pliant . . . that right then is the time to set the mental and emotional pattern of his entire life! And with My Book House you can eliminate all "guess work" . . . mould him into the adult you dream he will be.

"No More Partings," you said

We've had so little time together, my dearest.

Always, for you, there were "orders"—that took you away from me.

And, then—oh, darling—at long last, the blessed, blessed order that finally brought you home. Home for good!

"Home to you, sweet," you said. You pressed my hands to your face. "Always such darling hands, so soft," you whispered.

What would I ever do without my Jergens Lotion? Jergens is the way I keep my hands so soft. The work I do takes the natural softeners from my skin, you see; but using Jergens Lotion my hands don't roughen.

So I'll go on with Jergens, darling. For all our lives, I want you to tell me, "I love your hands."

NEW YORK MODELS—SUCH LOVELY GIRLS—USE JERGENS LOTION, NEARLY 5 TO 1.

Your own hands deserve this protection. Remember—Jergens furnishes a softness-safeguard for your skin. Even neglected hands soon become unforgettably smoother, more feminine; 2 ingredients in Jergens Lotion are the same as many doctors order. Simple, quick. None of that oiliness; no stickiness. 10¢ to $1.00 (plus tax).

SALAD DAYS AREN'T PAST

By MARY MEADE

MOST OF US are beginning to think in terms of fall, but let's not put aside all summer thoughts. There are a good many warm September days when we'll appreciate our summer favorite, a hearty main dish salad.

For a satisfying supper salad bowl, combine thinly sliced frankfurters with macaroni and crisp vegetables. Any left-over cooked meat, canned luncheon meat, or bologna, cubed or cut in strips, may be used in place of the frankfurters. The salad will be more flavorsome if the blended ingredients are allowed to chill several hours before serving.

SUPPER SALAD BOWL
(Serves six-eight)

- 2 cups frankfurters, thinly sliced
- French dressing
- 2 cups cooked macaroni (1 cup uncooked)
- 1 cup celery, sliced
- ¼ cup cucumber, diced
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, diced
- 3 tablespoons green pepper, finely chopped
- 2 tablespoons onion, grated
- 2 tablespoons parsley, chopped
- ½ teaspoon celery seed
- Salt and pepper
- Salad dressing or mayonnaise

Marinate meat in a small amount of sharp French dressing for about a half hour. Add macaroni, eggs, vegetables, seasonings, and enough salad dressing or mayonnaise to moisten. Place in a bowl lined with salad greens and garnish with a radish rose and a carrot slice in a nest of parsley.

Salami slices are more than sandwich filling these days. Try them with lightly browned muffins and filled egg halves for an ingenious supper main dish.

Serve with spiced pears, radish roses, a hot vegetable, chiffon pie, and coffee for a meal distinctive enough for friends as well as the family.

EGGS BENEDICT WITH SALAMI
(Serves six)

- 3 eggs, hard-cooked
- ¼ cup mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- Salt and pepper
- 3 English muffins or soft round buns
- 6 slices salami
- 1½ cups seasoned medium white sauce
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Halve eggs lengthwise, remove centers and mix with mayonnaise, mustard, salt, and pepper. Refill egg whites. Split muffins, slice salami, arrange on heated broiler rack, and broil until salami and buns are hot and lightly browned. Arrange salami slice on each muffin half, top with filled egg half, sprinkle with parsley, and serve with hot sauce.

At left: When served with broiled salami slices and cream sauce, eggs benedict star as a supper dish.

TODAY'S $5 PRIZE RECIPE

CARROT RAISIN BREAD
(Makes two loaves)

- 1 cup milk, scalded
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1½ tablespoons shortening
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 1 cake yeast
- 1 cup lukewarm water
- 6 to 7 cups flour
- 2 cups grated raw carrots
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ teaspoon allspice
- ¼ teaspoon cloves

Combine milk, sugar, salt, and shortening, stirring until dissolved. Cool to lukewarm. Add egg and blend. Soften yeast in lukewarm water and add to milk mixture. Combine remaining ingredients and add to yeast mixture. Turn out on floured board and knead until smooth and elastic, adding additional flour if necessary. Place dough in greased bowl and brush with melted shortening; cover and let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk. Knead, shape into loaves, and place in greased bread pans; brush with melted shortening, cover, and again let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk. Bake in hot oven, 400 degrees, for 20 minutes; then reduce heat to moderate, 350 degrees, and bake 40 minutes longer.—MRS. E. ROTH, R. R. 1, New Albin, Ia.

ACTION IN COLOR

colored glass plates designed to admit certain colors and block out other colors. The orange-red filter, for example, absorbs the blue, thus giving a negative record from which a positive blue print is made. The green filter absorbs the red, giving a negative record from which a red positive is made. The blue-purple filter absorbs the yellow, providing a negative record from which the yellow positive is made. These three primary colors, blue, red, and yellow, in various strengths and combinations, make all colors.

Color photography of swift action not only thus has been made possible in natural light by faster photographic films and plates and improved camera filters, but it has been made possible at night or in interiors lacking sufficient light by the development of speedier flashlight equipment. In making the color photographs of Sonja Henie, the celebrated skater and actress, and Mario and Floria, the dancers, which appear on page one, motion had to be stopped instantaneously by flashlight equipment. The flash used in color photographs such as these is synchronized with the shutter of the camera, the two working simultaneously in that split second of time.

Under the procedure employed before the new films and new camera filters were developed a color portrait often required as much as a full second's exposure, which made it necessary for the subject to pose absolutely still. This frequently resulted in the appearance of rigidity.

Action color photographs now are taken at speeds varying from one 35th of a second to one 32,000th of a second, depending upon the speed of the subjects in action. Sonja Henie and the dancers were photographed at one 32,000th of a second; the fire photograph reproduced on page one was taken at one 75th of a second.

High speed color action photography such as achieved by The Tribune would be lost to its readers were it not for its parallel development of color printing. Starting with the aforementioned three negatives made by the color camera—blue, red, and yellow—the Tribune color engraving department, for use in stereotype printing, produces three printing plates, one for each of the three colors. In addition it makes from the blue negative, by bringing out dark lines and shadows in a more contrasting manner, a plate for printing with black ink. This is called a key plate. Without an impression in black ink, along with those in the three primary colors, the finished picture would lack depth and character.

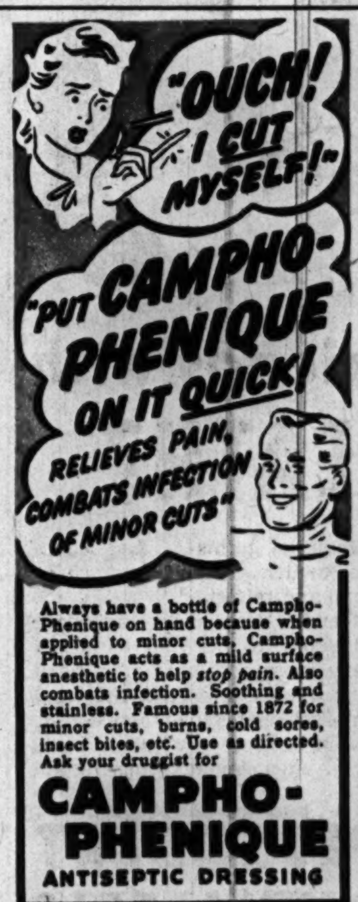
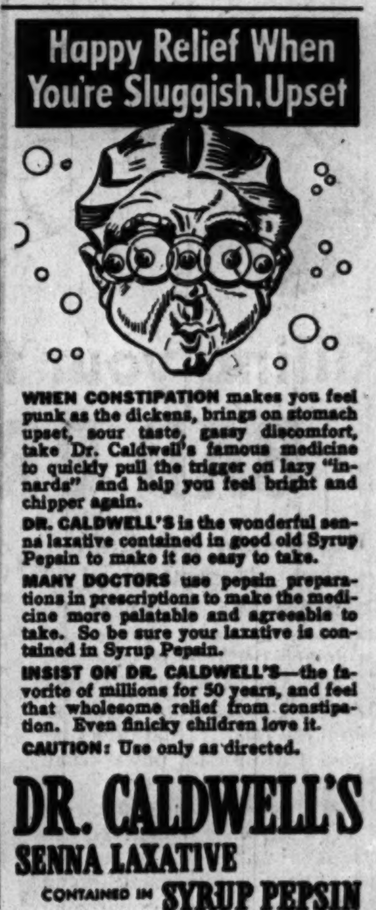
In rotogravure printing, the process which produced the pictures on page one, and in fact this entire section, the method is similar, except that instead of printing plates, engraved copper cylinders are used for printing. One cylinder makes the blue impression, another the red, and still another the yellow, while the fourth produces the black or key impression.





AMERICAN HEROES OF WORLD WAR II.

This is another of the series on outstanding American heroes of World War II. Subjects are heroes who have been decorated for valor. Illustrations are by Clara Fargo Thomas and Alexander Varnak.

By JOHN A. MENAUGH

IT REQUIRES an extraordinary kind of courage for a man to hurl himself upon a live grenade. The odds against his surviving are so great that they are scarcely worth consideration. Yet a heroic member of the marine corps actually smothered a grenade in this manner to save the lives of two comrades—and still is very much among the living.

It was at Peleliu Island on the afternoon of Sept. 15, 1944, shortly after the American landing there, that 1st Lt. Carlton R. Rouh, 25, of Lindenwold, N. J., performed the daring feat, for which he was decorated with the medal of honor (congressional medal).

Lieutenant Rouh, of the 5th regiment of the 1st marine division, was in charge of a mortar platoon that was pinned to the beach by Japanese fire. With several of his outfit he advanced inland toward some coral ridges in which groups of the enemy were concealed. Soon they came under fire of Japanese hidden in a cave. While his men took cover about 20 yards in front of the cave, Rouh rushed ahead, firing his carbine as he advanced. A bullet from a Japanese rifle struck him in the stomach as he was a mere five yards from the cave.

As he grabbed himself at the spot where he was wounded and started to stagger away, several of his men rushed forward to assist him. At the same moment one of the Japanese in the cave hurled a hand grenade at him. Rouh saw the grenade upon the ground, saw the men coming forward so rapidly that they could not stop. In a twinkling he threw himself into the path of the two of them who were closest, blocking them off as a football player blocks opponents, and with the same movement he flung himself upon the grenade. The explosion followed immediately, everything happening within the space of three or four seconds. Lieutenant Rouh was desperately injured by the blast, but his rugged health, plus excellent medical treatment, pulled him thru.

Earlier in the war he had been wounded at Guadalcanal, where he won the silver star and was commissioned in the field for his gallantry. He received the medal of honor from President Truman in a ceremony at the White House in Washington on June 15 for the valor he displayed on Peleliu Island.

JOAN BENNETT is only 35 (she was born in Palisades, N. J., on Feb. 27, 1910), but she is a real veteran of the stage and screen. Now enjoying her greatest popularity after such pictures as "Woman in the Window" and "Nob Hill," her most recent release, she has been working steadily in pictures since that first role about 15 years ago. It was as Phyllis in Ronald Colman's "Bulldog Drummond." She followed that with "Three Live Ghosts" and then "Disraeli," with George Arliss. Her career was assured from then on. The latest plans for her include a role opposite George Brent in "Desirable Woman."

Joan got her first professional acting job thru her famous father, Richard Bennett. She had married and divorced (1926-'28) John Marion Fox, was the mother of a year-old daughter, Diana, and had not succeeded in establishing her long-desired interior decoration shop. She needed money, so she took a role in Bennett's "Jarnegan," and did such natural acting that Hollywood stepped in and took her away from the stage.

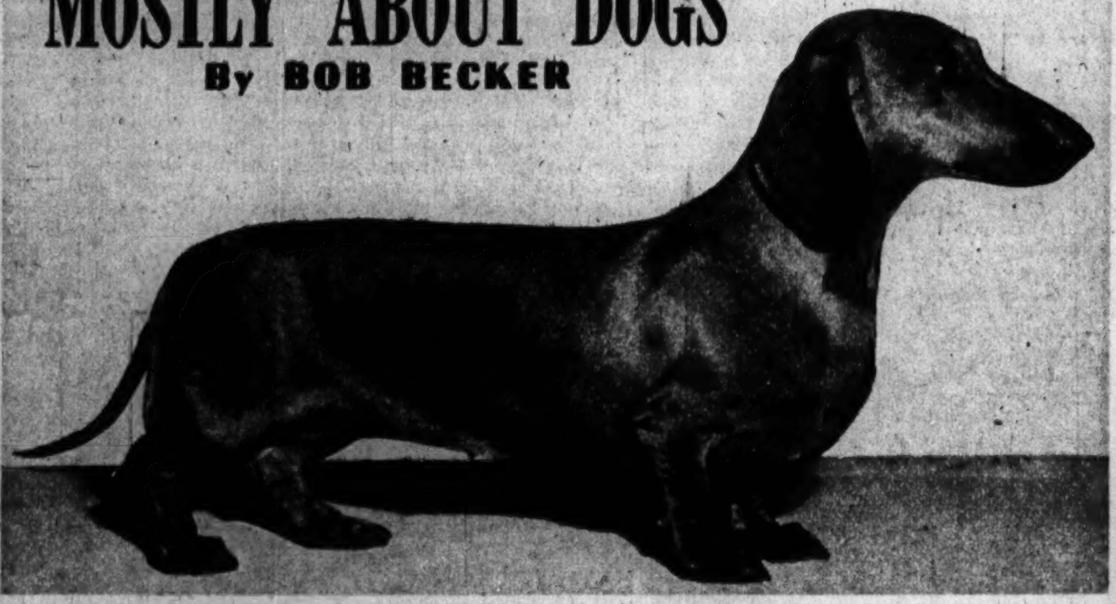
Joan's marital life has been varied, to say the least. She married Gene Markey, the famous author, playwright, and producer, on March 16, 1932. Two years later a daughter, Melinda, was born, and in June of that same year the Markeys were divorced. She married Walter Wanger, movie producer, on Jan. 12, 1940.

Joan is small, weighing 110 pounds, standing 5 feet 2 inches in height.

MOSTLY ABOUT DOGS

By BOB BECKER



IN TRAINING a dog to mind and have good manners all of us owners have to keep in mind routines that do not make the pet afraid of our hands. This is especially true of those lively young pups which may be disciplined or handled in the wrong way because the owner doesn't know how to correct his pet the right way.

We have seen terriers which would crouch when some one put his hands near them. The first time we noticed this behavior in gay and naturally bold dogs we were puzzled. Then we discovered the answer. The owner made a practice of picking up a dog by just grabbing it by the loose skin of the neck. Instead of reaching down slowly and gently and using both hands, one under the chest and the other under the stern of the animal, and then lifting it, he'd seize the pup by the back of its neck and swing it into the air.

It was only natural that some young dogs became afraid of that rough treatment, because there were times when a quick grab would hurt a pup. If this pup were hurt even a little time after time it naturally crouched in fear when you stood over it and thrust out a hand. The animal knew what was coming and hated it.

Another example of how an owner may cause a dog to fear hands is in disciplining or training it not to jump on people. A dog that jumps up as part of its greeting to you and is so glad to see you that he just can't help bouncing all over the place is doing this to please you primarily. And he thinks he is doing the right thing. (In most cases of misbehavior the dog thinks he is instinctively doing the right thing.)

Naturally when the pup jumps on you (muddy paws and everything), he is mystified when you slap him in the face and push him away. His world revolves around you. Therefore he's really shocked and hurt a little when he is cuffed, because he can't understand this behavior. And he continues to be puzzled when other people treat him the same way. It's always a swinging hand and slap when he jumps on members of the family.

In time the dog that is cuffed may learn not to jump on you as part of his greeting. On the other hand, this "slap 'em down" routine might have some unfortunate kick-backs. For example, would it not be natural for this dog to become conscious of the fact that he has to be on guard against hands? Hands have meant slaps and cuffs, so he has to be careful. The pet also might in time come to the conclusion that in self-defense he ought to growl or snap at strangers who thrust out their hands.

That is why certain trainers do not like the idea of slapping a dog when it jumps on you. Some suggest grabbing the dirty front paws of the pet and talking to him in a tone of voice that indicates you do like him and are glad to see him. But quietly and carefully you put the toe of your leather shoe on one of his rear feet and bear down a little.

At first the pet will not associate that uncomfortable pressure on his toe with you. He may think it's just some peculiar circumstance that caused that pain in his foot. When he jumps again you repeat the routine. After a few more tries the dog finally figures out that jumping up on anybody always seems to cause that trouble with a rear foot. Then we wonder if the dog doesn't come to this conclusion: He notices that he gets the same pain in the rear foot when he jumps on other people. So the dog finally decides he'd better ditch that routine of jumping on people and just stand in front of them and wag his tail instead of rearing up on his hind legs. He notices that this gets a big cheer from his boss. He's given not only praise but a rubbing behind the ears.

This training routine often is speeded up if the owner will bend over to greet the dog so he'll have little inclination to leap. After all, the dog would like to be petted. He wants the encouragement from your hands. If at first (when he is young) hands are extended slightly to him, he has no desire to jump up. And after petting him a little it's quite easy to teach him to sit in front of you as you praise him and talk to him. One Chicago trainer has tried this system on young dogs with much success.

Can BORDERLINE ANEMIA* Steal a Woman's Beauty?

YES, Borderline Anemia is stealing the beauty of women everywhere. Thousands have lost the fresh glow of youth — look "washed-out" — frequently feel "ready-to-drop."

It's a medical fact — a Borderline Anemia is robbing as many as one out of every two women of their good looks and their vitality!

Healthy Red Blood Cells Needed to Release Energy

It's a shame that people who ought to feel radiantly alive should have a ferro-nutritional deficiency of the blood, a Borderline Anemia. Their red blood cells aren't big enough, rich enough, healthy enough to keep them feeling and looking fit. The blood alone supplies energy to your body—nothing can take its place!

Ironized Yeast— To Build Up Blood and Energy

If your color is poor—if you lack pep—you need Ironized Yeast Tablets! They give you the vital elements that, doctors say, 50% of us ordinarily don't get in amounts needed to build healthy, red blood cells. Ironized Yeast Tablets go to the cause of Borderline Anemia.

Of course, your condition may stem from other causes, so your doctor should be consulted regularly. But in a Borderline Anemia—take I. Y. Tablets to build up your blood, to improve your energy. At all drug stores.

*Resulting from a ferro-nutritional blood deficiency.

Energy-Building Blood

This is what the doctor sees through his microscope looking at blood rich in energy elements. Note big, plentiful red cells that carry oxygen to release energy to every muscle, limb, tissue.

Borderline Anemia

Thousands have blood like this—and never know it. Note puny size and irregular shape of red cells. Blood like this can't generate the energy you need! Only sturdy blood can give you top energy.

THEY USED TO CALL HER FATTY

Almost unbelievable loss of weight is possible for most overweight people through a pleasant, absolutely harmless reducing method. While eating plenty, it is possible to take off as much as three to five unsightly pounds a week. No exercise, no starvation diet, no reducing drugs or cathartics are necessary for those who seek to regain a graceful, youthful figure. In fact, the Tremett Way is so confidently recommended that you may try Tremett without risking a penny. You and your friends must marvel at the exciting improvement in your appearance; you must get the results you seek in 30 days, or your money will be refunded in full. Easy-to-follow directions with every package. Ask for Tremett at Walgreen's, Ford Hopkins', Stineway's, Notcher's Boston Store, Goldblatt Brothers, Liggett Drug Stores, and drug and dept. stores everywhere.

NEW 2-second method

For Underarm Perspiration

PROTECTS YOU 1-7 DAYS*

It's an utterly different way to treat perspiration problems—so of course it gives different results! So quick because you use no messy creams or liquids. So easy—just pat underarms once with tiny, perfumed pad. Sounds like magic and works like magic, too! For instantly, perspiration is controlled, underarm odor prevented. And protection lasts up to 7 days* depending on you and the climate.

Kinder to clothes, too. Just follow directions and it's utterly safe for even delicate silks and rayons. Try this better, worry-free way today. It's economical—35 pads in jar. May last many nearly 6 months. At your drug or department store.

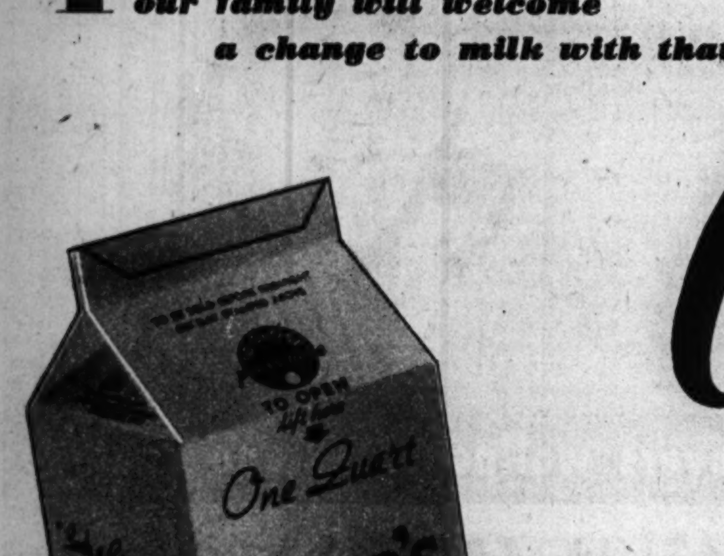
Your family will welcome a change to milk with that

Country Charm

Dean's Milk is bottled in the Country with All the Cream left in



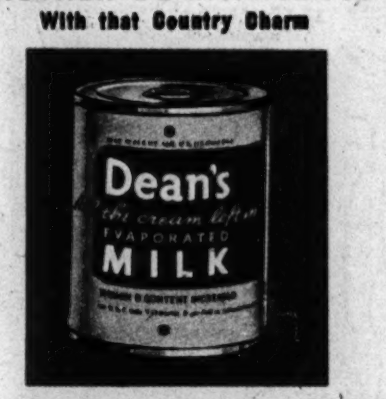
COMPARE DEAN'S GOODNESS WITH ANY OTHER MILK AND YOU'LL CHANGE TO DEAN'S FOR GOOD!

A new experience will come to your table when you first try Dean's. A new experience and a pleasant one. You will learn the difference between country-bottled milk and city-bottled milk.

Certainly you would enjoy milk that is extra satisfying because of extra richness. And milk which never has a tired out taste but, instead, delights you with its fresher flavor. Creamier wholesomeness! Flavor that's so clean and pleasing! It is these two qualities that tens of thousands of families talk about the most—and praise the most—when they speak so enthusiastically of Dean's.

Then, there's purity—that's important, too. Dean's milk is country-pasteurized, which means pasteurized immediately upon receipt at dairy. Dean's is not tank-trucked 50, 60 or 70 miles before pasteurization. And, in addition, all Dean's is homogenized. . . . If you are missing real country charm in the milk you are using today—you'll find it in Dean's if you'll try it tomorrow!

ANOTHER DEAN PRODUCT
With that Country Charm



It's Dean's EVAPORATED Milk. So good that physicians recommend it for baby feeding. So good because it's HOMOGENIZED. So good because it contains added VITAMIN D. So good because it contains TWICE as much CREAM as the same amount of fresh milk.

NO MOUTH-STRETCHING is needed when you use this new improved toothbrush with its angle-bent small head. You can get after every "nook and cranny" in your mouth with surprising ease. The result is that you don't skimp the highly important job of cleaning your teeth. And the whole secret is in the unique design of the Squibb Angle Toothbrush—a design developed by a practicing dentist after long study. Your choice of hard or medium bristles.

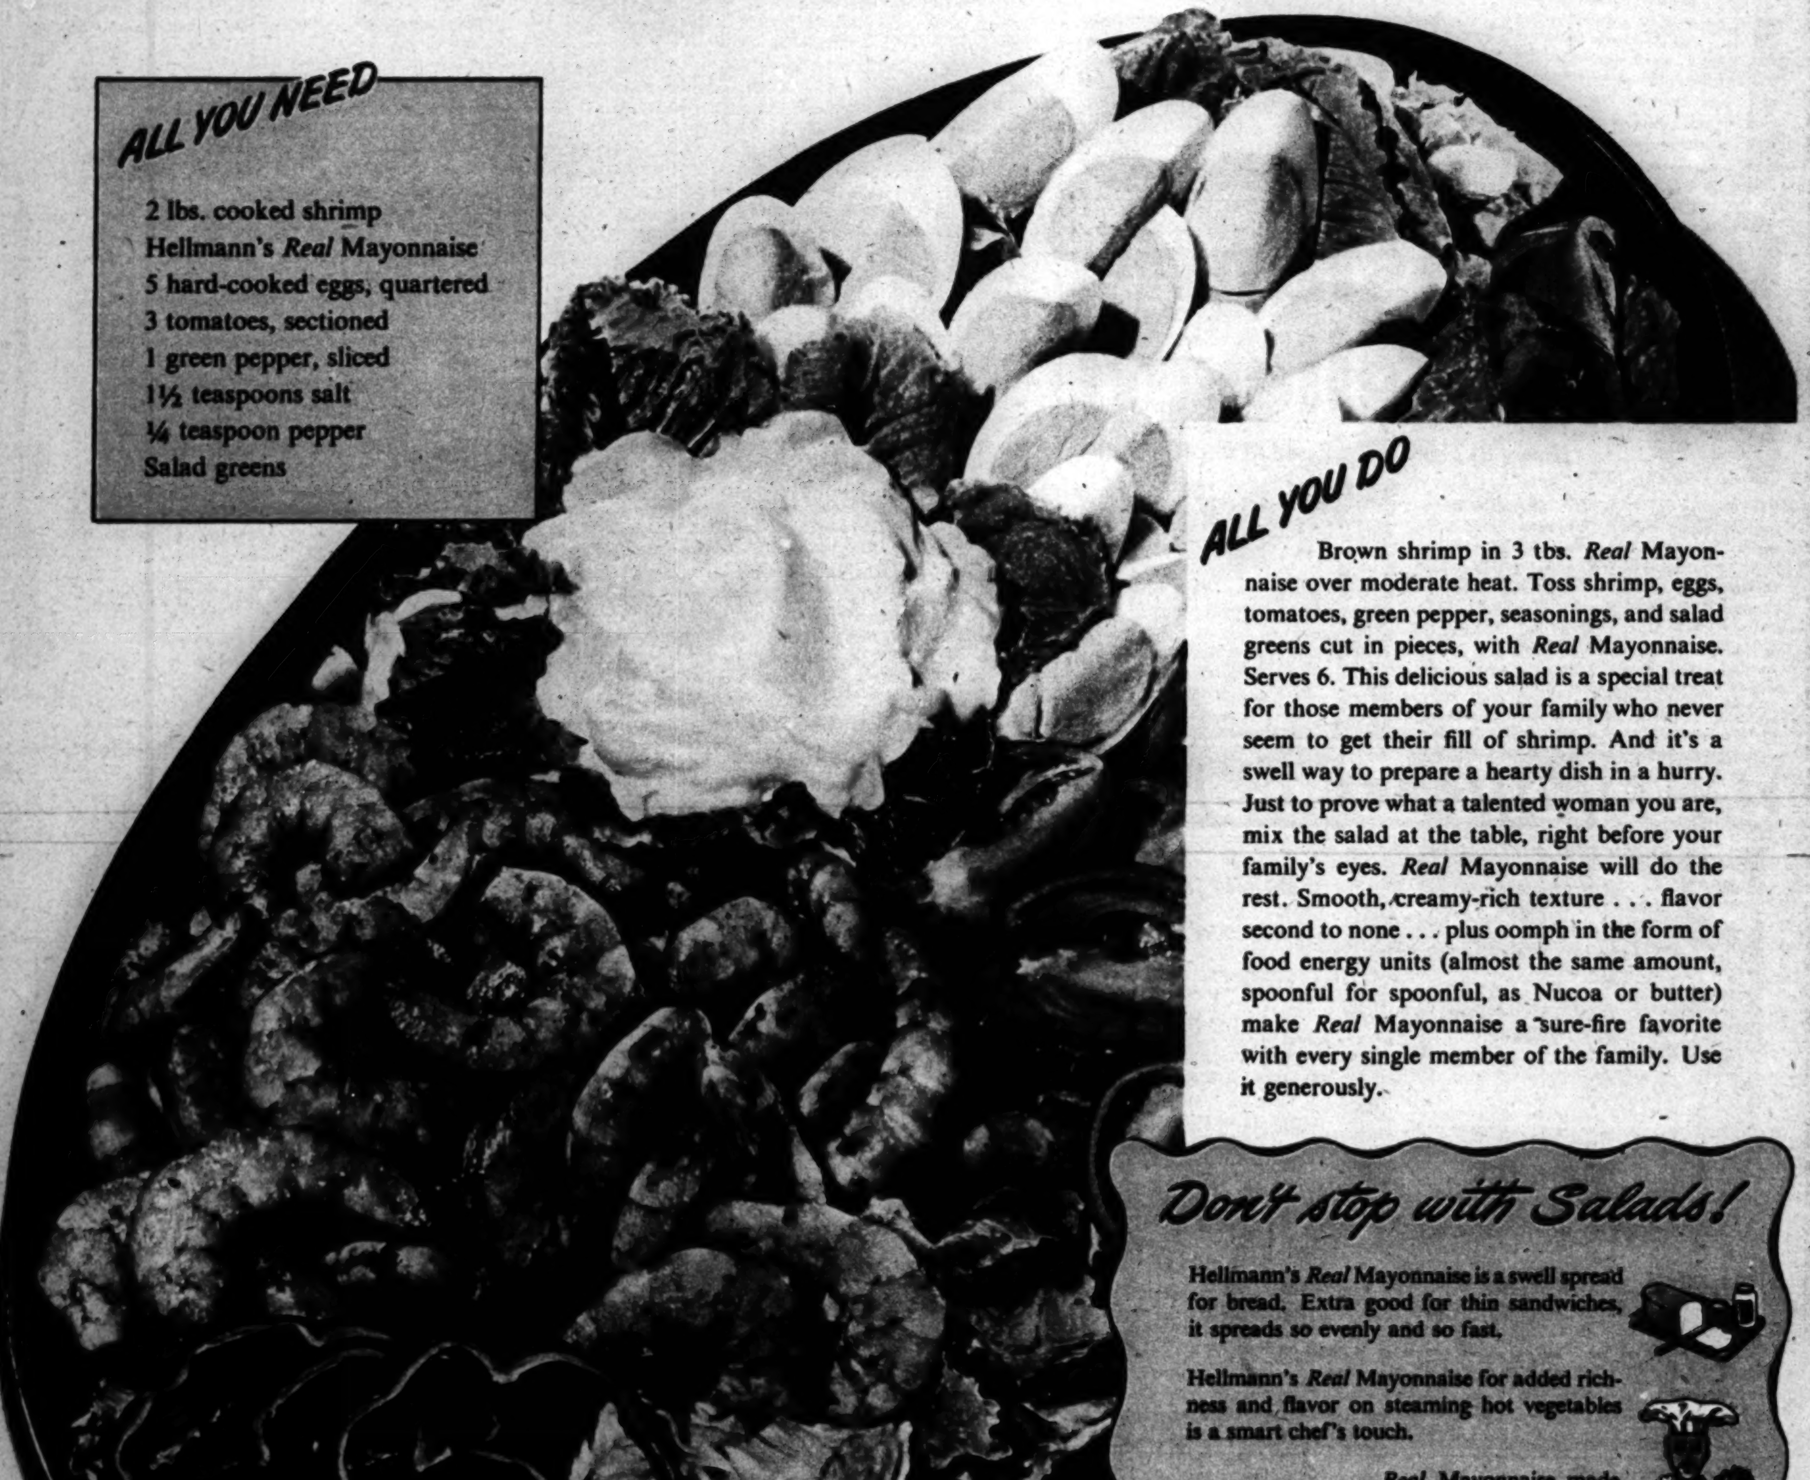
Shrimp in a salad you TOSS..."

extra tasty with Real Mayonnaise



ALL YOU NEED

2 lbs. cooked shrimp
Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise
5 hard-cooked eggs, quartered
3 tomatoes, sectioned
1 green pepper, sliced
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Salad greens

ALL YOU DO

Brown shrimp in 3 tbs. Real Mayonnaise over moderate heat. Toss shrimp, eggs, tomatoes, green pepper, seasonings, and salad greens cut in pieces, with Real Mayonnaise. Serves 6. This delicious salad is a special treat for those members of your family who never seem to get their fill of shrimp. And it's a swell way to prepare a hearty dish in a hurry. Just to prove what a talented woman you are, mix the salad at the table, right before your family's eyes. Real Mayonnaise will do the rest. Smooth, creamy-rich texture . . . flavor second to none . . . plus oomph in the form of food energy units (almost the same amount, spoonful for spoonful, as Nucoa or butter) make Real Mayonnaise a sure-fire favorite with every single member of the family. Use it generously.

Don't stop with Salads!

Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise is a swell spread for bread. Extra good for thin sandwiches, it spreads so evenly and so fast.

Hellmann's Real Mayonnaise for added richness and flavor on steaming hot vegetables is a smart chef's touch.

Real Mayonnaise made the Hellmann's way contains only eggs freshly broken from the shell . . . added egg yolks . . . our own exclusive "Fresh-Press" salad oil . . . mild vinegar . . . spices—all double-whipped to a delightful smoothness.

2-SECOND DISINTEGRATING ACTION... FOR FAST HEADACHE RELIEF!

3 STEPS INSTEAD OF ONE result in Bayer Aspirin's remarkable 2-second disintegrating action!

Even though aspirin powder can be obtained from outside suppliers, it is not used in Bayer tablets. Instead, every grain of Bayer aspirin is made in Bayer's own laboratories. Similarly, even though aspirin tablets could be made from aspirin powder in its original state, the process Bayer uses requires three steps instead of only one:

1. Bayer makes its own aspirin powder, tests it, compresses it into giant tablets (like the one above), 18 times larger than normal.
2. These "giants" are reduced again to powder—which is passed through a fine screen.
3. After the "binder" is added the familiar Bayer tablets bearing the famous cross are made.

This painstaking 3-way operation gives Bayer Aspirin astonishingly fast disintegrating action—an action so swift Bayer Aspirin starts to work almost instantly!

The relief of ordinary headache, neuritic or neuralgic pain begins in your stomach—when the tablet you take dissolves. By dropping a Bayer Aspirin in water, you can see how quickly it goes to work in your stomach. Within two seconds, it starts the disintegrating action that means you get the fast relief you want.

Only Bayer Aspirin gives you all the benefits of over 45 years of scientific aspirin experience. Its swift relief is one of these. And reliable relief is another. Bayer alone, of all aspirins, has been successfully used by millions for nearly half a century.

When you buy, always ask for Bayer Aspirin —by name—never by the name "aspirin" alone.

Always ask for Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN

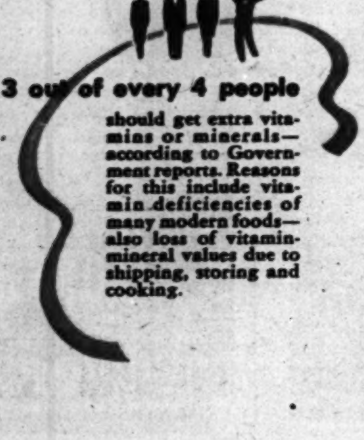
Follow this new trend in taking VITAMINS FOR BETTER RESULTS!



3 out of every 4 people should get extra vitamins or minerals—according to Government reports. Reasons for this include vitamin deficiencies of many modern foods—also loss of vitamin-mineral values due to shipping, storing and cooking.

Take them in fortified food—the delicious Ovaltine way!

Of course, the whole subject of vitamins is new. We learn more about them every day. And today, millions of people are learning a new and better way to take their extra vitamins—a more modern, more natural way that can do more good. Discarding earlier methods of taking vitamins alone, they now take their extra vitamins in fortified food!

For latest evidence shows that vitamins do not work alone. They work most effectively in combination with certain other food elements—which are absolutely necessary for best results.

This is the reason so many people are changing to Ovaltine. A specially-fortified food, it contains—besides vitamins—nearly every precious food element needed for good health. Especially, those elements necessary for vitamin-effectiveness.

For example, Vitamin A and protein are both necessary in cell-building—and they're both in Ovaltine. Vitamin B_1 and fuel-food also act together for vitality—and they're combined in Ovaltine. Vitamin D, Calcium and Phosphorus can't work without each other—and you get them all in a glass of Ovaltine made with milk!

So why not change to Ovaltine, as so many people are doing? If you eat normal meals, including citrus fruit or tomatoes, 2 glasses of Ovaltine daily should give you all the extra vitamins and minerals you need for robust health.

YOUR PROUD POSSESSION OF A PARKER "51"

You know, of course, that Parker 51's are scarce. There are reasons. The "51" is not hastily mass-produced. It is a precision instrument, created by men trained in a 56-year-old tradition of craftsmanship. And today, with Parker working first to produce vital equipment for war, we build but a fraction of the 51's we could sell. ♦ Happily, more of these "most wanted" pens are coming. We hope the day is not far off when you may own a "51". ♦ Then you'll touch that protected point to paper . . . and find it starts instantly! Agile as your own forefinger, the Parker "51" keeps pace with your thoughts. No effort—no tiring. So smooth is the tip of costly Osmiridium, it seems to float above the paper. ♦ And look! Like magic, each word dries as you write! For this pen—and only this pen—has the design and construction which permit satisfactory use of the world's fastest drying ink, Parker "51" Ink. Naturally, any ordinary ink may also be used. ♦ Such a pen is well worth waiting for. The best step to take is to place a reservation order with your Parker dealer now. ♦ The "51" colors are Black, Blue Cedar, Dove Gray, Cordovan Brown. Pens, $12.50 and $15.00. Pencils, $5.00 and $7.50. Sets, $17.50 to $80.00. World-famous Parker Vacumatic pens, $8.75. Pencils, $4.00.

Notes from PYREX WARE FANS!
I'm from Missouri when it comes to cooking. I like to see what I'm doing - and you can watch food brown just right with Pyrex ware!
My husband is a scientist and he says food cooks faster in Pyrex ware and you save fuel because glass transmits radiant oven heat. (It must taste better, too, because he always eats his plate clean!)
Thank you-thank you for dreaming up the double-duty Pyrex casserole. I use it almost every day either as a covered casserole, an open baking dish, or a pie plate. It's a real find!
You ought to tell people in your ads how easy it is to wash Pyrex ware! Even sticky foods wash clean in a jiffy. Like magic!
NOTE TO YOU from PYREX WARE!
ONE OF THE NICEST THINGS about Pyrex ware is that you can use every dish so many ways. The Double-Duty Casserole above can be used with cover for stews, baked beans; as an open baker for chicken pie, scalloped vegetables; cover alone makes pie plate or shallow baker. The handiest utensil in your kitchen! Three sizes. Two quart size . . . . only 75¢
JUST REMEMBER to look for the familiar orange Pyrex ware label and the circular trade-mark pressed in the bottom of every Pyrex dish.

YOU CAN SEE THE DIFFERENCE!

Tests show it... Millions know it!

No matter what leading tooth powder you are using now... Pepsodent Tooth Powder with Irium will make your teeth brighter!

Pepsodent makes this unqualified promise to you, without fear of contradiction... because test after test proves: Pepsodent Powder with Irium makes teeth far brighter.

Tests by impartial laboratories... tests with photoelectric devices... tests by identical twins... by dental clinics, by dentists themselves... produced overwhelming evidence for this one unshakable fact:

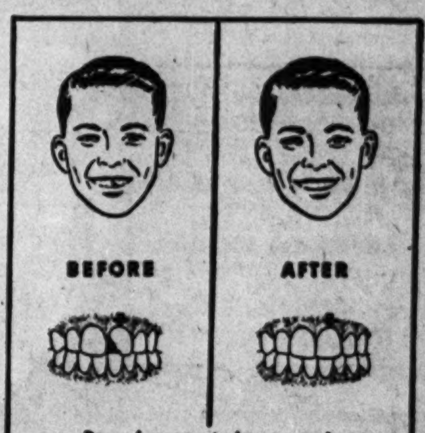
Pepsodent Powder produces a lustre on teeth twice as bright as the average of all other leading brands... brighter than any of them—bar none!

Change to Pepsodent Powder—the only powder containing Irium, the exclusive cleansing ingredient. Use it twice a day... and see it make your teeth brighter!

You can see the difference in one week!

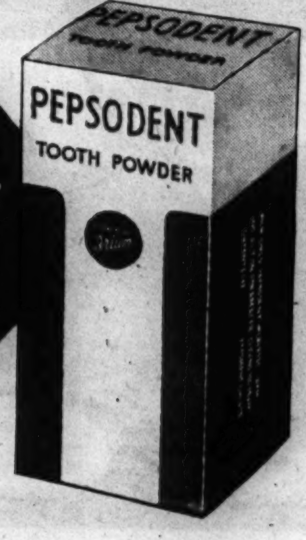
Don't let a broken tooth make your smile self-conscious!

There's nothing so ruinous to your smile as a broken or defective front tooth. It spoils your looks... even spoils your poise. Yet there's no need to let it handicap you permanently. Your dentist can make a jacket crown (just as they do for movie stars) exactly matching your other teeth in color and shape. Once he's fitted it over the injured tooth... no one would ever guess which one it is. And what a difference it makes in your looks! Today modern dentistry can work miracles to make your smile more attractive. And Pepsodent Powder with Irium can make your smile far brighter.



Drawn from an actual case record

ONLY PEPSODENT CONTAINS IRIUM



For the safety of your smile, use Pepsodent twice a day... see your dentist twice a year.

PEPSODENT WITH IRIUM MAKES TEETH FAR BRIGHTER

TAIL GUARDS

THERE was no use trying to make Ginky pull the new cart the Teenie Weenies had made He was a conscientious objector to all and any kind of work, and so the little people let the lazy mouse stay in jail The General tried to hire a pair of the respectable mice to pull the cart, but he could only find one mouse who was willing to work, for good times had come to the neighborhood in the form of a spoiled cheese which had suddenly been dumped onto the mouse market back of a grocery store.

The Teenie Weenies had dug their potatoes, and they had five large ones to haul to their storehouse for winter use The little people had built a sturdy cart, but they were a bit doubtful whether one mouse could haul the big potatoes Fortunately, the Teenie Weenies had made the cart so that either one or two mice could pull it, and now that only one mouse could be hired, the men fixed the shafts to the cart

"If the potato is tied securely to the center of the cart, so that the weight doesn't shift, I believe one mouse can pull it," said the Cowboy, who is an expert mouseman.

The cart had been loaded with a big potato the night before, and while the Teenie Weenies were waiting for their breakfast the General told Gogo and the Dunce to carry the mouse harness to the potato field

"If the mouse is there," said the General, "just tell it to wait, and we will come as soon as we have eaten."

Gogo and the Dunce carried the harness to the field, and when they found the mouse waiting there they decided it would be fun to hitch it to the cart and haul in the first potato. They quickly put the frog skin harness onto the mouse, hitched it to the cart, and climbed up on top of the potato. The Dunce shook the lines and the mouse started to pull The big potato made a mighty heavy load, but the mouse was a strong one, and he managed to pull the cart along until his tail happened to get under one of the wooden wheels He let out a squeak, leaped forward, and the potato shifted toward the back of the cart That lifted the shafts and pulled the mouse off its feet into the air, while Gogo and the Dunce tumbled off the potato

The mouse's loud squeals brought several of the Teenie Weenies to the spot, and they quickly unhitched it The mouse was terribly upset, and it refused to do any more hauling until tail guards had been put on the wheels

Larry Hastings, 16, of Kenosha High, Kenosha, Wisconsin. Elected Junior Class President. Head of the Student Council. Picked by a Chicago radio station as "A Citizen of Tomorrow"—for outstanding character, high scholastic rating, his numerous school activities.

Larry is Business Manager of his school paper—also its star advertising salesman. He's varsity quarterback. Coaches at the "Y"—where his baseball, football teams were city champions.

Summers Larry Carries Ice to help keep fit. Active in church work, Larry was chosen Senior Sunday School president. A star debater, he plans to use this talent later as a lawyer. Will study law at Univ. of Wisconsin.

Larry Hastings says:

"Life may begin at 40 for some folks, but for me it begins at breakfast! I always eat a good, substantial breakfast, because morning is the busiest, 'workin'est' part of the day.

"I like to get going with KIX!

"As a breakfast starter, KIX is mighty easy to take. It's crisp to bite into—and man, that flavor's 'super'!

"For an A.M. treat, give me KIX—and plenty of it! It sure wins with me!"

We'd NEVER say:

that eating KIX made Larry a winner. But—like lots of other winners—Larry knows that a winning breakfast helps make a winning day! For the heart of that breakfast, Larry turns to that famous American energy grain, Corn—the grain that sustained the early pioneers.

KIX is nutritious Corn in a grand new form! Corn popped into toasty, tasty "Crunchy Puffs." With a "come-on" Corn flavor that's malt-sweet, honey-smooth.

Be smart—eat an energy breakfast. "Kick off" with lots of KIX—that energy breakfast cereal. You'll say: "It's a WINNER!"

WINS ON TASTE: All the golden goodness of sun-ripened corn, blended with nut-sweet malt!

WINS ON CRISPNESS: It's extra crisped... popped into toasty-brown "Crunchy Puffs"!

WINS ON NOURISHMENT: Brings you corn's two vital "B" vitamins. Important Iron. Food energy!

Betty Crocker says:

"Syrup can pinch-hit for half the sugar!"

"...AND OUR NEW METHOD CUTS MIXING TIME 1/2!"

IMPORTANT: Use only Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Enriched Flour with this recipe.

Betty Crocker "NEW METHOD" 2-IN-1 CAKE

Have all ingredients room temperature (70°-75°). (Shortening should be soft, not melted). Pre-heat oven to 350° (mod.). Grease and dust with flour one 8½" square pan (2" deep) or two 9" round layer pans (1¼" deep) or one 8" x 12" oblong pan (1¾" deep). Sift GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Enriched Flour before measuring. Measure all ingredients accurately (level) before mixing.

Sift together into bowl.....
- 2 cups plus 2 tbsp. sifted GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Enriched Flour
- *1½ cups sugar
- 3½ tsp. double-action baking powder
- 1 tsp. salt

Add............
- ½ cup high grade vegetable shortening
- 1 tsp. flavoring
- 1 cup milk

Beat vigorously with spoon for 2 min. by clock (about 150 strokes per min.). You may rest a moment when beating by hand; just count actual beating time or strokes. OR MIX with electric mixer on slow to medium speed for 2 min. Scrape sides and bottom of bowl frequently.

Add............
- ½ to ⅔ cup unbeaten egg whites (4 large)

Continue beating 2 more min., scraping bowl frequently.

Pour about ⅔ of the batter into prepared pan or pans.

To remaining batter add....
- 1 sq. (1 oz.) unsweetened chocolate, melted

mixed with...
- ¼ tsp. soda
- 2 tbsp. warm water
- ¼ tsp. red food coloring, if desired

Mix until well blended (about ½ min.). Pour chocolate batter here and there over white batter. Cut through batter several times with knife for marbled effect. Bake square cake 50 to 55 min.... oblong cake 35 to 40 min.... layers 25 to 30 min.... in mod. oven (350°). (Square cakes of this type often rise slightly in center and "crack".) Delicious served uniced, warm from oven, or frosted when cool with Glossy Chocolate Icing (recipe in sacks).

(See recipe folder in sack for adjustments for Self-Rising Flour. If you live at altitude over 3,000 ft., write to Betty Crocker, General Mills, Minneapolis 15, Minn., for recipe adjustments.)

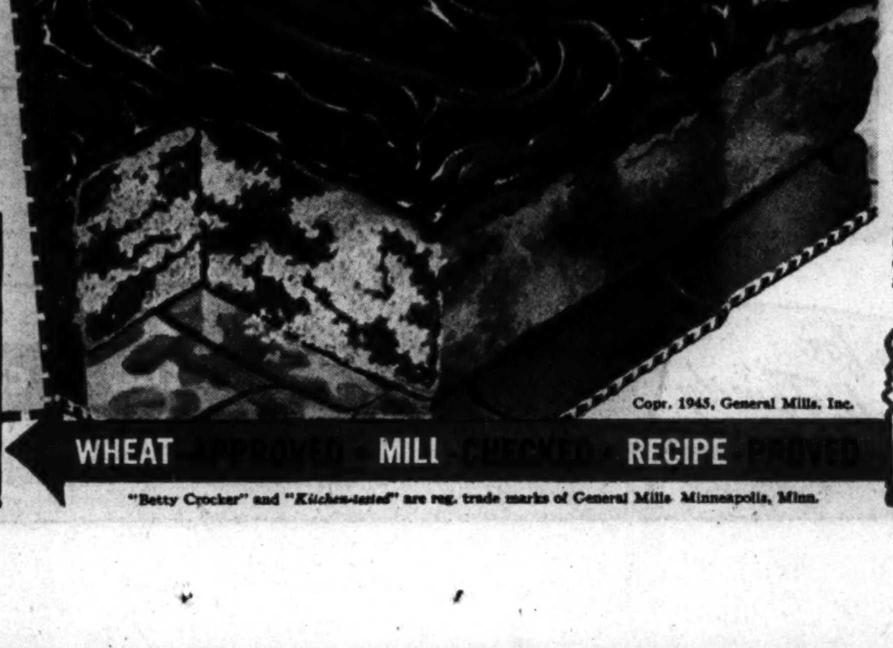
SAVE ON SUGAR: Use ¾ cup sugar and ¾ cup white corn syrup in place of 1½ cups sugar in cake. Reduce milk to ¾ cup plus 1 tbsp. Add syrup with milk to dry ingredients.

SEE RECIPE FOLDER in sack for other Betty Crocker recipes for pies, rolls, cookies, etc. Recipes changed frequently.



WHEAT ... MILL ... RECIPE ...

EXPECT MUCH... the Betty Crocker New Method with Gold Medal Flour won't disappoint you! Expect a cake that's even finer-textured, lighter... more deliciously moist than the Gold Medal cakes you've known before. That tastes simply heavenly!

You'll get these superior results without creaming shortening... without beating eggs! In less than half the mixing time! Using only one bowl!

The delicious "2-in-1" Cake at the left is a New Method cake, perfected by our General Mills Betty Crocker Staff. It combines luscious white and delicious chocolate... in intriguing marbled effect. It's a real man-pleaser. Try it! General Mills

Warning! Recipe at left has been developed only for Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Enriched Flour. Don't attempt to use it with another flour! Measurements given are "tailored" especially for Gold Medal. It's truly an "all purpose" flour!

NEW SCHEDULE IS EFFECTED AS LOYOLA OPENS

Classes Return to Peace Basis

With the opening of its freshman program at 10 a. m. tomorrow on the lake shore campus and registration in the downtown schools Loyola university again will swing into a peace time schedule. Classes will be returned to a semester basis, two year certificates programs for veterans are to be initiated and classes in teaching of Braille have been added to a training program for teachers of handicapped children.

Julia O'Malley

Registration for upper classmen will begin Thursday on the lake shore campus 6525 Sheridan rd. Downtown registration will be held from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. tomorrow thru Friday and from 9 a. m. to 2 p. m. Saturday at 28 N. Franklin st.

List Faculty Changes

Recent appointments to the faculty include that of Miss Julia O'Malley as dean of women to succeed Mrs. Helen Langer May, who has been dean of women and professor of Romance languages since 1931. An instructor in the university six years, Miss O'Malley also will serve on the downtown campus as counselor to women and superviser of an expanding social activities program.

Miss O'Malley received a bachelor of science degree in psychology from Northwestern university in 1931, and since 1937 has worked with Chicago public schools in the fields of specialized counseling, vocational guidance, and placement. Her home is at 123 Custer av., Evanston. Mrs. May will continue her work in Romance languages at Loyola. Also appointed to the faculty is the Rev. John Downey, who will teach mathematics.

University college on the downtown campus, which has operated on an accelerated program since its organization in 1914, will change from a quarter to a semester basis this fall for the first time. The north shore college of arts and sciences, which last spring taught classes on both a quarter and a semester basis, will complete its return to a peace time schedule by operating entirely on a semester basis.

College Offers 200 Course

About 200 courses will be offered by the university college, graduate school, and schools of social work and commerce on the downtown campus. The school of education will expand its training for specialized teaching by including classes in Braille techniques and advanced Braille in the eight courses offered.

Students will learn to read Braille as well as methods of teaching. Laboratory work will include use of machines for transcribing English into Braille and much practice work in transcription. Teachers will be Dr. Richard Gamble and Ethel Wright of the public schools board of education.

Other classes will include such subjects as "Educational Diagnosis of the Unadjusted Child," "Introduction to Oral Teaching of the Deaf," "Psychology of the Mentally Handicapped," and "Methods of Teaching Slow Learning Children." University officials predicted an enrolment of at least 250 in this program, which they said is the most complete of its type offered by Chicago area schools.

Aid Returning Vets

In an effort to give the most extensive education possible to men and women attending college under the GI bill and the veterans rehabilitation act, Loyola will grant two year certificates in accounting, industrial relations, inter-American affairs, journalism, public administration, public personnel administration, social administration, and sociology.

Requirements for a certificate include completion of five courses in each of four consecutive semesters and two courses, in intervening summer sessions. Admission is determined by examination or previous education. Vocational preparation is emphasized in the courses, but basic liberal arts subjects are included.

MOTION PICTURE TRENDS SUBJECT FOR PTA MEETING

Mrs. J. R. Chesser, president of the Better Films council of Chicagoland, will discuss "General Trends in Motion Picture Work" before Amundsen PTA at 1:30 p. m. Thursday.

Mrs. F. E. Blake, president, said the program theme for the year will be "Today's Youth in Tomorrow's World." Other officers are Mrs. H. L. Throop, Mrs. J. M. Halversen, and Miss June Stamm, vice presidents; Mrs. J. C. Burger and Mrs. Warren Flint, secretaries; Mrs. William Schafer, treasurer; Mrs. W. E. Rutenberg, historian, and Miss Irma Swanson, auditor.

Committee chairmen are Mrs. George Jenkinson, Mrs. A. M. Earle, Mrs. Alfred Ryder, Mrs. A. R. McArthur, Mrs. C. M. Spencer, Mrs. G. C. Jacobs, Mrs. William Leineweber, Mrs. R. T. Coyne, Mrs. W. R. White Jr., Mrs. J. B. McMillan, and Mrs. P. K. Larson.

Artists Watch Son Skippy, 5, Grow in World of Brush and Canvas

Directed by a mind wherein fact and childish imagination are strangely united, this picture of undersea life was executed by the skilful brush of 5 year old Norman D. (Skippy) Miller. Skippy, son of Artists Edgar and Dale Miller, 800 Tower ct., opened his fourth annual one man exhibit on his birthday anniversary Aug. 21. He has been using a brush since he was 7 months of age. When holding his infant son, Edgar would allow Skippy to stroke in the plain background of murals he was painting.

Holding a plate of his favorite color, magenta, Skippy prepares to work on his favorite story pictures—the Teenzer Boy, character of his imagination.

National College Alumnae Will Give Tea for Seniors

North shore alumnae of National College of Education will entertain seniors and faculty members at a tea from 3 to 6 p. m. Sept. 21 in the home of Mrs. Norman Dwight Harris, 1134 Forest av., Evanston. Miss Edna Dean Baker, college president, will be a guest. Mrs. J. R. Bush, alumnae president, will be assistant hostess.

Neither Edgar Miller, sculptor, portrait artist and architect, nor his wife, Dale, whose field is portraiture, has attempted to coerce Skippy into painting. He does it because he enjoys it and when he pleases. Possessing great concentration ability, Skippy is interested in undersea fish and plant life, the solar system, dinosaurs, and his imaginative Indian characters—the Teenzers, Eenzers, and Onzers. The elder Miller, seen with his wife, is working on a portrait of Devi Dja, the dancer, who is teaching Skippy to speak Malayan.

OPEN NATIONAL COLLEGE SEPT. 17; SIX JOIN STAFF

4 New, 2 Others Back After Leaves

When National College of Education opens Sept. 17 with registration for college students four new teachers will assume their duties. Two others will resume work after a year's leaves of absence. Classes in the children's school will begin Wednesday.

Leonard Freese, who was discharged from the naval reserve last summer after serving in Cuba and the West Indies, will teach biology and hygiene. He received a master of arts degree from the University of Colorado at Boulder and formerly taught in a Texas military school.

Artist Only 5 Merges Fact with Fancy

BY GENEVIEVE FLAVIN

Land of Teenzers, Eenzers, and Onzers—Imagination is a wonderful thing! It is thrice wonderful when linked to 5 year old Norman D. [Skippy] Miller who weds fact to fancy and translates all to paper or canvas with a skilful brush.

Skipp, son of artists Dale and Edgar Miller, 800 Tower ct., is concluding his fourth annual one man art exhibit, which opened Aug. 21, his fifth birthday. Included in the pieces are those indicating the recurrent Teenzerland theme, world of Skippy's creation, which is compounded of Indian mythology and physical accuracy.

Therein dwells Teenzer Boy of the black hair and magenta skin, surrounded by tepees, totem poles, and ritual masks of his kind. Skippy absorbed factual data indicated in these works while visiting the Natural History museum. This institution and the aquarium, Lincoln Park aviary, and planetarium share Skippy's designation as "the best places in all the world."

Consult Doctor Once

Born to his art, Skippy was truly an unusual baby. Tho most 6 month olds cannot concentrate for more than a minute at a time, Skippy, given a pencil with which to sketch, would remain bent over his task two hours at a stretch. This occasioned the first and last consultation by the Millers with a doctor concerning the unusual endowment of their son.

Assured Skippy was among the fortunates, possessed of a highly coordinate and creative mind, they decided to "just let Skippy grow." He first used a brush at 7 months of age. When held in his father's arms he stroked in the plain sections of murals the elder Miller was painting.

This led to dire results. Having completed a mural for the children's playroom of a large department store, Miller, confining Skippy to his play pen, closed his eyes for forty winks. He awoke to havoc. Skippy had scaled the confining play pen railing and added his touch to the painting. The entire lower length of the 40 foot canvas was defaced.

Dinosaurs His Favorite

This splashy entrance into the art world, resulted in his receiving his own paints and materials. On his first birthday anniversary he opened his first one man show.

By the time his third birthday exhibit rolled around, Skippy had discovered dinosaurs. These have been his favorite subjects ever since.

Bending his curly, golden head to whisper in a bed time story tone, the blue eyed youngster confided: "And I've seen a real, live dinosaur." And he had. While visiting in Washington, D. C., during his second summer, he had been introduced to the dinosaur displays at the Smithsonian institute. He also was shown the living varanosaur, species of the lizard family, found on the Island of Komodo, off the Celebes.

This lizard was then 7 feet long. When mature it reaches 14 feet in length and can raise itself off the ground 12 feet. This is the only such specimen in the country.

Knows About Deep Sea Life

Inspired by the dinosaurs, he has employed it as a motif for design. It is one of his patterns for place mats, from the sale of which he has realized several hundred dollars.

Skippy has a knowledge of deep sea fish life and knows the components of the solar system. His current literature includes his favorite "Animals Without Backbone," an introductory textbook in biology by Ralph Bush of the University of Chicago.

Various specimens of deep sea fish and vegetation appear in his paintings. He also has several sketches based on molecules and the evolution of matter.

Also shown in this exhibit are books of bird sketches. Before he was a year old, one of Skippy's favorite books was the Audubon collection of bird illustrations. When 18 months old he could recognize and say the names of 150 birds housed in the Lincoln park aviary—birds which he had seen in the Audubon book.

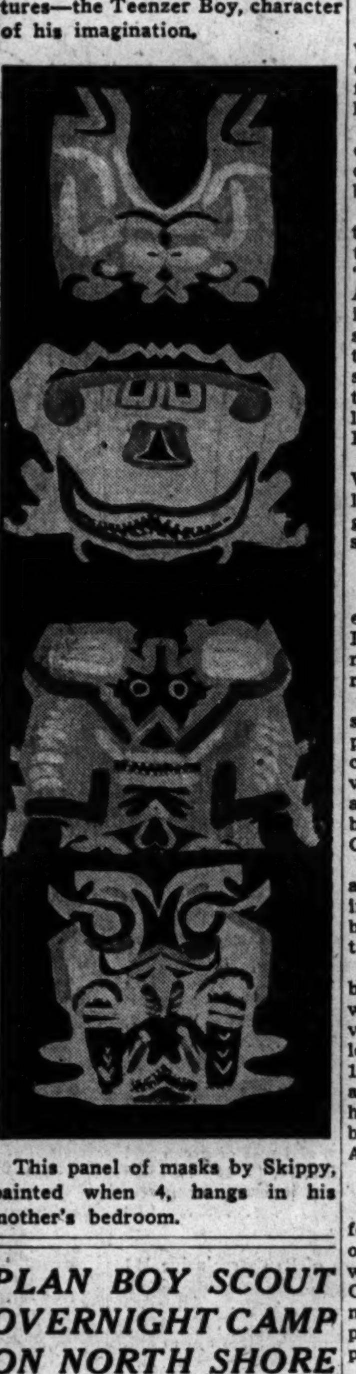
Writes Tunes for Piano

Skippy also composes little tunes for the piano. After three months of instruction, he knew and could write the major and minor scales. Of completely creative nature, he now would rather compose his own pieces than learn standardized compositions.

Fascinated by the rhythm of dancing, of the musical nuances of languages, Skippy learns easily and quickly, but never under duress from his parents. They merely supply information as his mind demands it. Right now he is learning to speak Malayan from Devi Dja, Javanese dancer, and the members of her troupe.

He was invited when 2½ to appear on the Quiz Kids show, but his parents declined the invitation. Skippy, despite his many endowments, acts his age most of the time. "I'm sure," he said, "that if I had been born a dinosaur, I would be a very good boy."

But he was born just Skippy Miller.



This panel of masks by Skippy, painted when 4, hangs in his mother's bedroom.

PLAN BOY SCOUT OVERNIGHT CAMP ON NORTH SHORE

The North Shore area Boy Scout district has announced plans for the rehabilitation of the group's summer camp, Ma-Ka-Ja-Wan, near Elkorn, Wis., and the establishment of an overnight camp within the north shore region.

The Ma-Ka-Ja-Wan camp, which did not open for the first time in 16 years this summer, will be reconditioned. New sewage and water supply system and housing, cooking, dining, and food storage facilities will be installed before the opening of next year's camping season.

The proposed overnight camp will cost in excess of $15,000, and will be located so as to be easily reached by troops from Glenview, Northbrook, Northfield, Deerfield, and Libertyville, which comprise the North Shore area Scout district.

The new camp will bear the name of the late Henry Fowler of Wilmette, who with other Scout leaders raised $30,000 for the construction of the Wisconsin summer camp 16 years ago and financed the North Shore area unit.

Legion Post to Entertain World War II. Veterans

Each member of Verdun American Legion post will bring two veterans of World War II. to the informal meeting Tuesday night at the Hotel Continental.

AUTO TEST LANE IN EVANSTON TO REOPEN SEPT. 17

Because of a steep increase in automobile accidents in Evanston since the abandonment of gasoline rationing, the city's testing lane at Clark st. and Maple av. will be reopened Sept. 17, Ald. John B. Emery [6th] has announced.

The lane has been closed since Jan. 1, 1942.

Emery said Police Chief Carl Ekman estimates that renewed operation of the lane will eliminate nearly one-third of unsafe cars from Evanston streets.

CATHOLIC HIGHS WILL OPEN WITH MORE STUDENTS

Schools to Expand Study Work

Increased enrollments, additions to faculties, and the opening of a new co-educational high school at 849 Hudson av., mark the beginning of fall terms in north side Catholic high schools. The end of war has had small effect on curricula and accelerated programs, since schools with speed up schedules are maintaining them until the end of the draft. Classes will begin tomorrow in many schools.

An increase of more than 2,000 over last year's record enrollment of 36,116 in Chicago's 92 parochial high schools has been predicted by the Very Rev. Msgr. Daniel F. Cunningham, director of schools. North side schools have reported capacity registration and several have long waiting lists.

Seventy Freshmen Enroll

Sister Mary Patrize, is principal of the new St. Dominic High school on Hudson av., which has enrolled 70 freshmen and will begin classes tomorrow. Special courses this year include music, and art and orchestra will be added to the curriculum next year. St. Dominic's is the former Adams public school which was purchased recently.

Changes in faculty, curricula, and interior decoration have been made in both the boys' and girls' divisions of St. Michael Central High school, 1640 Hudson av., which will open with high mass at 8:45 a. m. tomorrow in St. Michael's church, 1633 Cleveland av. The Rev. Edward Fastner will be celebrant.

Sister Enrico, formerly of Messmer High school, Milwaukee, Wis., will begin work as principal of the girls' school. Other new faculty members, former homes, and the subjects they will teach are: Sister Evangeline, Milwaukee, English; Sister Euphrasia, Laurium, Mich., commercial subjects, and Sister Ethelred, Chippewa Falls, Wis., home economics. Sister Cassilde, who taught some subjects last year, has expanded her work to include both mathematics and Spanish.

Expands Music Department

Sister Mariangela, music director, has added three classes in fundamentals of music to her program and will enlarge the glee club.

Floors in the boys' school have been sanded and refinished, the gymnasium floor has been resurfaced, the band room has been redecorated, and a public address system has been installed. Semi-microchemical techniques used in performing laboratory experiments, which the science department adopted last year, will be continued.

The music program will be enlarged and interest in choral work will be encouraged. Brother Hamm, who last year came from St. Mary's university, San Antonio, Tex., to be principal of the boys' school, has announced the following faculty appointments: Brother Joseph Haefner, San Antonio, physics; Brother William Siemer, St. Louis, Mo., athletic director and chemistry; Brother Frank Mueller, St. Louis, choral work and freshman counselor; Brother Eugene Becker, St. Louis, sophomore home room, and Brother Robert Davenport, St. Louis, freshman home room.

Students Have More Money

At De Paul academy, 1010 Webster av., the Rev. Edmund Vohs, principal, believes a 200 increase in enrollment is due to vacation war jobs which enabled students to earn money for school. The academy, which opened last week with 800 students, will continue its accelerated program this fall and the boys themselves will decide when to return to a peace time schedule—depending on the draft, Father Vohs said. Three laymen and three priests have been named to the faculty. No changes have been made in the curriculum, which is mainly college preparatory.

Loyola academy, 6525 Sheridan rd., also will continue its accelerated program, in which a student's ability to speed up is determined chiefly by his scholastic standing. Officials pointed out that since each subject covers a maximum of ground, acceleration at Loyola is within the subject rather than within the program. The academy also follows a policy of graduating honor students in three years. In June, 30 out of a class of 110 were honor graduates. The school opened Friday with a capacity enrollment of 654 and a waiting list.

List New Faculty Members

New Jesuit faculty members and their subjects are: The Rev. J. B. Amber, English; the Rev. A. E. Loveley, religion; the Rev. F. B. Rabaut, Latin and assistant student counselor; J. R. Dempsey, Latin and history; H. C. Gelin, Latin and pre-induction science; T. P. Hopkins, Greek and Latin; T. M. Shields, mathematics, and R. L. Zeitz, Latin and English.

St. Scholastica academy, 7416 Ridge av., also has a capacity enrollment of 740 in the elementary and high schools, Sister Laura, principal, reported. New faculty members are Marie Tully, 1342 Greenleaf av., art; Bernardine Hayes, Oak Park, dancing; Laurette Keshen, 5746 Glenwood av., physical education; Jeanne Coughlin, 723 Monticello st., Evanston, home economics; Sister Walburg, chemistry and mathematics; Sister Catherine, speech and dramatics, and Sister Evelyn, Latin.

Immaculata High school, 640 Irving Park rd., will begin classes tomorrow with an enrollment of 1,050 and one new teacher—Anna Mae Jobgen, Dubuque, Ia., who will teach English and voice. Sister Mary Josine is principal.

START BUILDING, JUBILEE PLANS AT ORPHANAGE

Raise ⅔ds of $500,000 Goal in Lake Bluff

Having passed the two-thirds mark in their building fund drive for $500,000, the Lake Bluff orphanage committee is formulating plans to celebrate the 50th anniversary of its founding with a ground breaking ceremony in October.

Gifts totaling $140,000 already have been received and bequests total an additional $200,000. The committee expects to fill the quota before the anniversary date.

The fund will be used to build a $200,000 recreational center, and a $100,000 residence for the 40 administrative workers and faculty members of the institution. The remaining $200,000 will go into an endowment maintenance fund.

Plan Three Story Buildings

Following the architectural pattern established 30 years ago for the campus, the structures will be of New England colonial design. Each will be three stories high.

The gymnasium will be in the basement of the recreation center. Game rooms, a dining hall for children and staff, kitchen, commissary, and apartments for domestic help also will be included in this unit. The frame dining hall, erected in 1900, will be razed to allow enlargement of the playground area.

The first building on the campus, Hobbs hall, donated in 1895 by Mrs. Marilla Hobbs and now used by the administrative staff and faculty, will be replaced by the personnel home.

Rented Cottage First Home

Idea of the orphanage was born in 1894 when the Methodist Deaconess synod felt the need for such an institution for homeless of the Chicago area. The following October seven children were housed in a rented cottage in Lake Bluff. Hobbs hall was opened in 1895.

During the ensuing years 2,800 children have been cared for by the Lake Bluff institution. There are at present 100 children at the orphanage and 60 in foster homes.

EDGEMERE CLUB BRIDGE TO AID GIRLS' SCHOOL

The Edgemere Woman's club will give a benefit bridge luncheon at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Green Briar Community house, 2650 Peterson rd.

Mrs. Frank Ahlborn is arrangements chairman. On her committee are Mrs. Robert W. Hepner, Mrs. Walter Hughes, Mrs. Edward O'Malley, Mrs. Edgar Van Sant, Mrs. Jesse Waters, Mrs. Walter Evans, Mrs. Edward Morton, Mrs. R. G. Enright, and Mrs. T. W. Passailaigue.

Mrs. William Queeny, president, will preside. The party will benefit the Park Ridge School for Girls.

CHICAGO K. OF C. UNIT TO HONOR ITS WAR DEAD

A memorial plaque honoring service men members of World War II. will be dedicated at 8:15 p. m. Wednesday by the Chicago Knights of Columbus chapter at the clubrooms, 32 W. Randolph st.

The Rev. Francis Lawler, state chairman of the K. of C. post-war activities committee will conduct the ceremonies which will be attended by representatives of all Chicago area chapters.

Chicago chapter trustees will convene at 7:15 p. m. for a business session preceding the dedication.

Women in Service

Staff Sgt. Jean E. Thompson, 7664 Greenview av., has charge of WAC personnel and pay roll records at a service forces headquarters, Rheims, France. She entered the army almost three years ago and has been overseas since April, 1944. Sgt. Thompson was stationed in England before being sent to France a year ago.

After 11 months as a surgical nurse in the European theater, 1st Lt. Rita V. Wilhelm, 18 E. Elm st., is awaiting reassignment at the Miami Beach [Fla.] redistribution station. She entered the army nurse corps in May, 1943.

WAC Pvt. Helen Cichon, sister of Miss Annette Cichon, 4441 Magnolia av., is stationed at Camp Atterbury, Ind., after completing basic training at Fort Des Moines, Ia.

Evelyn Forman, daughter of Mrs. Lena Forman, 1321 Estes av., recently received a discharge after serving 11 months with the WAC. An office worker before entering the army, she served at Barksdale field, La., and at 2d air force headquarters, Colorado Springs, Col.

Heading the administrative department of the 2629th WAC battalion, largest WAC installation in the Mediterranean theater, is Tech. Sgt. Trudee Melsack, 121 E. Oak st. The battalion is stationed at Caserta, Italy.

Y LOOP CENTER ADDS PERSONAL CHECKUP COURSE

Sign for Workshop Study Tomorrow

The way you walk, talk, think, look, and do, will be considered in the personal inventory classes offerred in the curriculum this fall at the Y. W. C. A. Loop center, 59 E. Monroe st.

Based on the belief that the key to personality is self, the course will offer study in the speaking voice, appearance, manners, clothes, hair arrangement, and make-up.

It includes a medical examination for determinating whether faults spring from health deficiency or lax habits. Registrants will be given close-up pictures of their postures and gait, and will be instructed in the fundamentals of human reactions.

Register Tomorrow

Registration for the personal survey, as well as for other classes of the education workshop series at the Loop center, will start tomorrow. Classroom work will begin Monday, Sept. 24. Registration in an evening education program also is open at the McCormick center, 1001 N. Dearborn st.

Both centers will hold an open house and preview of activities Monday, Sept. 17.

Crafts employing plastics and synthetics will be given in the workshop series at the Loop center, with other creative classes spanning demands from interior decoration, puppetry, writing, drama, to cooking.

Explain Cooking Course

The cooking clinic will provide beginners with a basic education in cooking, and will entail round table discussions on food problems from the nutrition angle, a summary of the facts and fallacies about food, low cost food lists, meat substitutes, and the planning of weekly menus. This clinic also will be conducted at the McCormick.

Another discussion class will be held at both centers on the subject, "The Woman Asks the Doctor." It will cover topics of health interest to women.

Classes of 45 minutes at both centers will be offered several nights weekly.

North Town Red Cross Unit to Resume Meetings

Resuming its weekly schedule, the Red Cross unit of North Town Woman's club will meet from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Thursdays at Indian Boundary park fieldhouse. Mrs. R. S. Marimon is general chairman, and Mrs. Alfred Simandl, arrangements chairman.

Northbrook Legion

The George William Benjamin American Legion post and auxiliary of Northbrook will hold a joint installation of officers Wednesday night at Suel tavern in the suburb.

HIGHLAND PARK SERVICE PAPER HAS PROBLEMS

Editor Can't Reach All Her Readers

A one woman newspaper staff is Miss Arlene Mett, Highland Park, whose weekly publication, The Contact, has a mailing list of 500 service men and reaches approximately 250 men each week. "Addresses change so unexpectedly and so fast," the editor explained, "that The Contact can't contact every one every week!"

Sponsored by the Girls' Service organization of Highland Park U. S. O., the mimeographed sheet keeps up friendships begun at the U. S. O. center by giving news of the center and persons who may have met there.

Miss Mett, a secretary in Chicago by day, writes the two page, two column newspaper each Wednesday night. Saturday morning she cut the stencil and runs off copies. Saturday afternoon is mailing time. Editor Mett spends about eight hours a week on the project.

"The Contact," Miss Mett declared, "will remain in print until men on its mailing list return to civil life and as long as the U. S. O. center remains in operation, which will be at least another year."

The newspaper will celebrate its first anniversary last month. During the year it has doubled in size and Miss Mett hopes that in another year it will have grown to booklet form. She assumed the editorship last February.

MANY AREA PTAs WILL HOLD FIRST FALL MEETINGS

Programs Will Include Talks and Playlets

Talks by school principals and PTA membership chairmen, playlets, and receptions for teachers and new members will compose programs as many north side PTAs hold their first fall meetings this week. Program themes for the year will be discussed and plans for benefit entertainments will be considered.

Hayt—Dr. Milton A. Saffir, director of the Psychological Guidance center and psychologist of the board of education bureau of child study, will discuss "Everyday Problems of the Everyday Child" when Hayt PTA meets at 1:15 p. m. Tuesday. Board members will be hostesses and Mrs. James Mason, 1525 Granville av., will have charge at a reception for teachers and new members. Mrs. Lee Beechy, 6356 N. Paulina st., program chairman, has planned the year's meetings around the theme, "Home—A Proving Ground for Democracy." Mrs. W. J. Brown, 1423 Thome av., is president.

Kilmer—"Building for Unity" will be the topic of Mrs. Hope W. Graham, retired principal of Kilmer school, in an address before the PTA at 1:15 p. m. tomorrow. Mrs. Abraham Saperstein, north side council president, will talk on membership. Eighth grade pupils will give a group of folk dances and Boy Scouts will present colors. Mrs. Rose Corcoran, acting principal, and Mrs. H. M. Cooper, president, will greet the assembly.

Senn—Mrs. E. E. Jester and daughter, Judith Ann, will sing a duet, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. D. A. Batchelor, before Senn PTA at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday. Principal David M. Davidson will speak on "Temptations Upward." Mrs. E. H. Maier, program chairman, will announce the year's theme, "Reconstruct and Plan Ambitions."

Jahn—"We Look Ahead" will be the theme of Jahn PTA, which will hold its first meeting at 1:15 p. m. Thursday. Mrs. Jennie McCormick, membership chairman, will talk, and a tour of classrooms will conclude the meeting.

Trumbull—A playlet written by Mrs. Roger F. Melton, 1434 Winona st., will introduce new chairmen to Trumbull PTA members at 1:15 p. m. tomorrow. A salad demonstration will be given also.

Stone—Lester J. Schloerb, director of the board of education bureau of occupational research, will lecture on "Helping Young People to Prepare for the Future" before Stone PTA at 1 p. m. tomorrow.

Hamilton—Miss Margaret Fitzgerald, principal, will talk on "Back to School" when Hamilton PTA meets at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. Members will present a membership playlet as the opening of the annual membership contest. The group will sponsor a party Wednesday at 4120 N. Kostner av.

Rogers—A harvest festival with awards for vegetables and canned goods will be sponsored by Rogers PTA at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. Mrs. Joseph Berkenbilt will talk on membership and Mrs. Harry Higbee will have charge of a musical program.

MORE WOMEN SOUGHT TO AID WOUNDED VETS

Need Growing, Says Red Cross

With the growing influx of wounded veterans the Red Cross has issued an urgent plea for more volunteers in the staff assistants and the nurses aid corps. North shore residents with free day time hours would be assigned as staff asistants at the Great Lakes naval hospital.

Former business women with typing and shorthand ability, and girls studying commercial courses are required. They will work under trained hospital administrators, type case histories, answer questions of service men, and frequently interview patients in preparing government pension claims.

Stress Day Time Needs

Volunteers demonstrating native psychological knowledge, and students of the field, will be assigned to the field director's office where service men take their personnel problems.

Need for Red Cross volunteer aids, especially for day time service in civilian hospitals, has become urgent since the fall of Japan. Mrs. Perkins Bass, vice chairman of the nursing corps, stated, "More husbands of trained nurses serving in civilian hospitals are returning from overseas. Naturally these women who have given long and faithful service want to return to their homes."

Urged to Apply Now

Meanwhile, those professional nurses serving with military units at home and abroad will not return to the domestic hospital, since they signed for service to extend six months after the war, or as long as they are needed.

Women 18 to 50 are asked to register for training in the volunteer nurses' aid classes immediately. Application may be made at the Chicago chapter headquarters, 529 S. Wabash av.

START RITUALS OF YOM KIPPUR ON NEXT SUNDAY

Yom Kippur, Day of Atonement, will begin at north side synagogs with Kol Nidre services next Sunday evening. The holy day, which lasts until sundown Monday, is considered the most sacred in the Jewish calendar. It is frequently referred to as the Sabbath of Sabbaths.

Rabbi Solomon Goldman and Rabbi Nathan Gaynor will preside at rituals conducted at Anshe Emet synagog, Pine Grove av. at Grace st. Kol Nidre services will begin at 6:30 p. m. next Sunday. Yom Kippur services opening at 7 a. m. Monday will continue thruout the day.

Cantor Moses Silverman assisted by a choir of 50 voices, directed by Hyman Reznick, will chant the liturgy.

Albert Elazar of the Hebrew school will conduct the children's observance at 10 a. m. Monday at the Essex theater, 717 Sheridan rd.

"Enlarge Thy Borders" will be the subject of Rabbi Jacob Singer at the Kol Nidre services at 6:30 p. m. Sunday at Temple Mizpah, 1615 Morse av.

The day long observance of Yom Kippur will be conducted Monday by Dr. Singer at the Adelphi theater, Clark st. and Estes av. Memorial services will be held during the afternoon with the temple choir, directed by Abba Leifer, organist, chanting the traditional music.

At 10:30 a. m. next Sunday special Day of Atonement services for the Mizpah children will be held. Charles Simon will officiate, assisted by the Junior choir, directed by M. B. Silverman.

Yom Kippur observance at North Park Congregation Shaare Tikvah, 3314 Bryn Mawr av., will be held in the auditorium of North Park college, Sawyer and Foster avs., with the opening of Kol Nidre at 6:30 p. m. next Sunday. Rabbi David Graubert will speak on the "Role of the Synagog in a World of Peace."

Services will be held at 8 a. m. Monday and continue thru the day. Memorial rites will be conducted at 11 a. m. Dual services will be held at North Park college and in the synagog anditoriums.

GAMMA PHI BETA ALUMNAE WILL VIEW ANTIQUES

LESSONS OF WAR WILL IMPLEMENT R.O.T.C. COURSES

Announce Staff Changes for North Side

With peace a reality, lessons learned in the war will be passed on to the R. O. T. C. units in 29 public high schools during the present year, Lt. Col. Oscar N. Taylor, acting professor of military science and tactics, has announced.

Changes in methods of instruction as well as in subject matter will give cadets a closer understanding of the military system, he said. Col. Taylor, whose retirement was announced last July, is carrying on in the absence of his successor, Col. Hans G. Minuth, who is on overseas duty.

Will Exhibit Weapons

Col. Taylor plans to exhibit machine guns, mortars, carbines, and bazookas and other weapons developed in this war at each school. Many of the new instructors have had overseas combat experience. All R. O. T. C. officers recently attended a special army course at Fort Benning, Ga. A similar course was offered enlisted instructors at Camp Ellis, Ill.

Two new military supervisors have been announced for north side schools. Lt. Capt. Jack K. White will be in charge at Sullivan and Senn. Capt. Fred D. Sauter will handle Amundsen, Lake View, Lane, and Waller.

Name New Instructors

Military instructors newly assigned include: Sgt. Robert J. Lenz, Waller; Sgt. George B. Epperson, Sullivan; Sgt. James P. Iatropulos, Senn; Sgt. Alford D. Lee and Sgt. William F. Fallon, Lake View; Corp. Lowell G. Fassett, Amundsen, and Sgt. Edward F. Frisch, Sgt. George R. Baxter, and Corp Sam C. Britt, Lane.

City-wide enrollment of cadets is expected to equal last year's figure of 9,580. Authorized enrollment of uniformed cadets for the first semester is: Waller, 150; Sullivan, 180; Senn, 320; Lake View, 375; Amundsen, 160, and Lane, 1,000. Number of nonuniformed cadets which may be enrolled at each school will be fixed by the supervising officer depending on the available facilities.

THUNDERBOLT PILOT HOME FOR NEW JOB AFTER 100 MISSIONS

After completing 100 missions as a Thunderbolt fighter pilot over Italy, France, and Germany, 1st Lt. Roy M. [Bud] Yauch has returned to the United States and is awaiting further assignment in Santa Ana, Cal. He served 13 months overseas.

Lt. Yauch

Lt. Yauch's wife lives at 6614 N. Campbell av. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Martin Yauch, 2718 Farwell av. The lieutenant holds the air medal with six clusters, six battle stars, and a Presidential unit citation.

He received his wings at Eagle Pass, Tex., in February, 1943. The officer attended Wright Junior college and Northwestern university.

SCOUT OFFICIALS TO CONFER THIS WEEK AT CAMP

More than 60 north shore Boy Scout commissioners will attend the eighth annual Chicago Boy Scout Commissioners' conference opening at 4 p. m. Saturday and continuing thru next Sunday at Camp Kiwanis, Willow Springs.

C. D. Reed, 1245 Fletcher st., north shore district commissioner, is on a planning committee for the training sessions. Speakers will include Anthony Inorio, C. Y. O. Scout director, and E. U. Goodman, national Scout program director.

North shore community commissioners who will attend include Grover Simpson, 6600 Bosworth av., Rogers Park; Walter H. Noyes, 5620 N. Rockwell st., Northtown; David Blake, 4501 Malden st., Ravenswood; Capt. Albert Leight, 425 Surf st., East Lakeview, and James Michael, 2059 Belmont av., West Lakeview.

Osteopathic Auxiliary to Open Season Sept. 19

The auxiliary of Illinois State Osteopathic society, district 1, will open the club season Sept. 19 in Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. tea room. Miss Jane Pritchard will speak on "Interior Decoration with Personality." Mrs. Douglas D. Waitley, 2235 Wesley av., Evanston, will preside.

PICTURES TELL STORY OF NAVY LIFE IN PACIFIC

For families of more than 100 officers and men aboard an LST in the Pacific the story of military life has been told in pictures as well as letters.

A Christmas celebration on Manus Island, Yanks on shipboard, air fights and naval battles, natives in outrigger canoes, island huts, barracks, chapels, and religious services are recorded in 100 photographs taken by Lt. [j. g.] Marvin E. Moss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max H. Moss, 2714 Lunt av.

Mother Distributes Pictures

Mrs. Moss was responsible for delivery of the photos to relatives. For a week she turned the Moss home into a small scale mail order house. Each man in the crew had requested prints and the result was an order for more than 8,000 pictures.

Lt. Moss, who is supply officer of the ship, sent the order with a check for $700 to cover costs to his mother and wrote a letter explaining the situation to the company which made the prints. Mrs. Moss grouped the 100 views separately and then arranged each sailor's order. Furthermore, with the help of a younger son, Bennett, she identified many of the pictures with a rubber stamp.

"Pictures requested most frequently were those of the Christmas day celebration," Mrs. Moss said. "Officers and men split into two groups, one of which spent eight hours ashore one day and the other the next. They grilled steaks, drank beer packed in dry ice, and took pictures!

"I've received so many letters of appreciation from the boys' relatives that I feel well repaid for my work," she declared. The relatives may not know it, but thanks also are due Miss Elaine Kraus, 3750 Sheridan rd., Lt. Moss' fiancé, who gave him a camera when he went overseas more than a year ago. "Photography wasn't particularly his hobby then, but it certainly is now!" Mrs. Moss said.

ARMY PROMOTES 2 NORTH SIDERS TO CAPTAINCIES

Donald C. Nygren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Nygren, 6029 Winthrop av., is one of two north siders recently promoted to captain. He is assigned to the statistical control unit of 20th air force headquarters on Guam.

Capt. Nygren was graduated from Denison [O.] university. He entered the army in July, 1942, and received his commission in Miami Beach., Fla., in August, 1943.

Jerry J. Mahoney, whose wife lives at 1512 Lunt av., received his promotion at Pope field, N. C. A former professor in Loyola university, Capt. Mahoney received a doctor of philosophy degree from the University of California at Berkeley and entered the army Sept. 30, 1942.

BRONZE STARS TELL STORY OF VALOROUS ACTS

Engineer on Way Home After 3½ Years

It was a long trek from Africa to Germany via Sicily, Italy, and France for Sgt. David Cunningham Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. David Cunningham, 3818 Lakewood av. The

Sgt. Cunningham

Col. O'Brien

sergeant traveled with the combat engineers and earned eight battle stars, the Purple Heart, 128 points, and his latest award, the bronze star.

But the trip back will be a matter of days, for he is flying from Germany by way of Africa, Brazil, and Florida, to visit Chicago for the first time in three and a half years. Sgt. Cunningham received the bronze star for service early this year in France and Germany.

Sherman B. Lans, technician 5th grade, of 1242 Argyle st., member of an infantry medical detachment, was awarded the bronze star for bravery at Uffenheim, Germany. He twice gave first aid under heavy fire to wounded men and helped evacuate them to a safe place. Lans was vice president of his graduating class in Lane Technical High school and was a pre-medical student in Loyola university when he enlisted.

Col. O'Brien Honored

Other north siders who have received bronze stars include Lt. Col. George M. O'Brien, son of M. J. O'Brien, Wilmette, who as quartermaster of the 12th air force in Italy played a major role in equipping ground and combat troops. A Phi Beta Kappa, Col. O'Brien was graduated cum laude from Northwestern university and was a law student when he entered the army. He went overseas in June 1942.

For his courage and persistence in delivering rations and ammunition single handedly after a mule driven ration train broke down in the Italian hills, Pvt. August J. Kowalski, whose wife lives at 1232 George st., received the bronze star.

Stays at Radio Post

Attempting to detour an area under fire at the base of the hill which was its objective, the train moved into a mine field and three mules and two drivers were killed. Kowalski led the remaining pack mules to the summit. He went back to the mine field, stripped the dead animals of their packs, and made 10 trips up the hill to transport these supplies.

Tho flying shrapnel fragments from German mortar fire dented his helmet and infantry men sought cover in foxholes, Sgt. Leon J. Sidell remained at his post to radio fire direction orders to a field artillery forward observation party of the 65th infantry division. For his service, which took place at Regensburg, Germany, the radio operator received the bronze star. His mother is Mrs. S. D. Sidell, 424 Melrose st.

FALL SESSIONS OF EVANSTON'S SYMPHONY BEGIN

The Evanston Symphony orchestra will resume rehearsals at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at First Methodist church in Evanston, when John W. Dragomier, newly appointed conductor, will discuss the season's plans. The first concert is scheduled for Oct. 10. Those interested in joining the organization should apply with their instruments at room 37 tomorrow night.

WEEK FOR FRESHMEN AT MUNDELEIN BEGINS SEPT. 17; SENIORS AID

Freshman week at Mundelein college will begin Sept. 17 with orientation lectures, tests, and selection of counselors. Registration for upper classmen will be held Sept. 18 thru 20 and for freshmen Sept. 21. A total enrollment of nearly 1,000 is expected.

Mary Padden

Mary Frances Padden, 1512 Touhy av., senior class president, heads the list of student hostesses who will assist freshmen. Others will be Patricia Hellahan, 6433 Glenwood av.; Louise Pesut, 6361 Sheridan rd.; Francine Lamb, 5700 Kenmore av., and Georgianna McGregor, 1345 North Shore avenue.

Joan Mullaney, 1020 Sheridan rd.; June Saunders, 1908 Estes av.; Margaret Moncton, 907 Wrightwood av.; Betty Jane Crawford, 5700 Kenmore av.; Patricia Meany and Frances Maher, Wilmette, and Dorothy Gaffney, 357 Belden av.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

A VACATION trip to the Straits of Mackinac provided an interesting souvenir and living room decoration for Harry J. Reid, 1232 Orchard st. While swimming in Torch lake, near the straits, he saw a piece of wood several feet long, shaped like an airplane propeller. Bringing it home, Reid planed and polished the wood and used it as a frame for the electric clock over his mantle. Other souvenirs, including an Indian doll purchased for his wife, were attached to the wood.

H. J. Reid

Herman Stein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman W. Stein, Kenilworth, has been appointed an assistant advertising manager of the Dartmouth Log, weekly student newspaper at Dartmouth college, Hanover, N. H.

QUINCY MOORE, 1405 Central st., who has retired after 45 years with the Evanston Bus company and earlier transportation lines, was guest at a dinner given by his associates recently. Moore recalled his first job as conductor with Consolidated Traction company, when he worked approximately from 1 a. m. to 1 p. m. and received $1.50 a day. The fare was a nickel and the line ran from Diversey av. in Chicago to Bennett av. in Evanston.

The Seadog's baseball club, a north side group of 13 to 15 year old boys, won second place in the Welles park minor league, which last month concluded its series of summer games. LETTERS HELP YANK WHO MADE FORCED LANDING

Remember how you groaned when your high school French teacher gave you the name of a French school boy or girl and told you to begin a correspondence, with you writing in laborious French and your correspondent replying in stilted English?

Lt. John Sloan

And no doubt you grumbled, "What good'll this ever do me?" Second Lt. John T. Sloan, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. D. Sloan, 1345 Argyle st., learned the answer when he became one of the first Americans to enter Antwerp, Belgium.

Forced Down at Antwerp

Navigator on a Liberator bomber, Lt. Sloan was returning from a mission over Magdesburg, Germany, when his crippled ship was forced to land at an Antwerp airdrome a few days after Polish and Canadian troops had freed the city.

While other crew members were greeted by the population, Lt. Sloan hurried away to look for his prewar correspondent. With little trouble he found the boy, now a man and a leader of the Belgian resistance movement. Germans, who had fired on the B-24 as it circled to land, were still on the outskirts of Antwerp, but the Belgians saw to it that the American crew received the best treatment to be had.

Billeted at Best Hotel

Because of Lt. Sloan's connections, the Americans were billeted at the best hotel and their social life was not neglected. Three days later they were sent to Brussels on an army truck and then returned to their base.

After completing 30 missions, for which he received the air medal with six clusters and five battle stars, Lt. Sloan returned to this country and is taking advanced training at Ellington field, Tex. He enlisted in the Canadian air forces in August, 1942, and served as an RCAF navigator until July, 1944, when he was transferred to the United States army air forces. Lt. Sloan also wears the Canadian Foreign Service medal with one silver maple leaf.

Volunteer Workers Help Highland Park Hospital

Volunteer workers at Highland Park hospital gave 315 hours of service in June and 300 hours in July, Mrs. Alfred Sihler, chairman of workers, has announced. Volunteers still are needed to carry breakfast trays from 7 to 8 a. m., she said.

THEATER GUILD REVIVES ATOMIC DRAMA TONIGHT

Burgess Meredith Stars in First Show

BY LARRY WOLTERS

The Theater Guild embarks on its first radio series tonight with Burgess Meredith playing the lead in its revival of "Wings Over Europe," a fantasy first produced by the guild back in 1928. Meredith will play the part of a British scientist who discovers a formula for the control of atomic power. The part the atomic bomb played in ending the war prompts the play's use for the premiere of the series tonight.

Burgess Meredith

Lawrence Langer, director with Theresa Helburn of the guild, will introduce the play and players over WENR-ABC at 9 tonight. He will also join in an exchange of greetings with several outstanding performers who have been associated with the guild in the past—Oscar Hammerstein, Richard Rodgers, Annabella, Philip Barry, Elia Kazan, Rouben Mamoulian, William Bendix, Edward G. Robinson, Helen Menken, and Rosalind Russell.

Other shows are returning and new ones bowing in. Truth or Consequences and the Life of Riley got back on NBC last night. Helen Hayes started off her new series at 6 p. m. last night in the role of Madame Curie. The Shadow with Steve Courtleigh in the title role returns to W-G-N-Mutual at 4 p. m. today, and Quick as a Flash, a mystery quiz with cash awards, comes back on the same network at 5 p. m.

Frank Sinatra will be back on the air with his own show at 8 p. m. next Wednesday over CBS. The Pied Pipers quartet, singing group, has been signed up for regular performances. . . . Mary Boland, the movie comedienne, will be a regular on the Rudy Vallee show. . . . Martha Tilton will join the Paul Whiteman Hall of Fame as singing hostess on Oct. 7. . . . Meredith Willson, lately out of the army, is the musical director for the Burns and Allen series which comes on NBC at 7 p. m. next Thursday.

John Hodiak and Bob Bailey, two former Chicago radio actors who have both made good as movie leading men, will return to radio for the Cavalcade of America broadcast over WMAQ-NBC at 7 p. m. tomorrow in "Sawdust Underground."

Miss Margaret Truman, daughter of the President, is expected to join in the choir singing when the Trinity Episcopal church services are aired on the WBBM-CBS Church of the Air at 9 a. m. to 9:30 today. The Rev. Harold B. Whiteman, the rector, will discuss "The Post War World and My Share In It."

The United Home Finding service which coöperates in presenting the program "I Want a Home" on WCFL at 9:15 p. m. Mondays reports that around 136 requests for child adoption and placement have been received as a result of the broadcasts. The stories of two children who need a home are dramatized on each broadcast.

Star Theater Guests

James Melton will welcome Mary Martin and Alec Templeton as guests on Star Theater over WBBM-CBS at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Songstress

Carol Stewart handles vocals on the Beulah show, a comedy series starring Marlin Hurt aired over WBBM-CBS Sunday nights at 7 o'clock.

DEBUSSY SHOW DELAYED; SET FOR SATURDAY

The "Debussy Fantasy," which was to have been given last night on the Chicago Theater of the Air, will be presented at 9 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N, WGNB and Mutual. The surrender ceremonies aboard the battleship Missouri, broadcast the night of Sept. 1, caused a postponement of the presentation of "The Prince of Pathos" which was aired last night instead. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak next Saturday. Marion Claire and Angelo Raffaelli will be the vocal soloists, singing several Debussy works. Henry Weber will conduct the orchestra and chorus.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Sept. 10

As fall approaches it is necessary to think about getting all plants that must be protected from frost under cover. It is time, too, that those bulbs requiring early planting be obtained and planted. These include lilium candidum, for it makes an early growth.

Narcissus bulbs also should be planted as soon as they can be procured. Crocus also delight in early planting.

Tuesday, Sept. 11

If there are everlastings that can be dried, gather them when they are partly open and not when in full bloom. Gladiolus corms should be carefully labeled and placed in boxes according to variety.

If an increased number is wanted, save all the bulblets no matter how small and store them for next season's planting. Discard poor flowering varieties.

Wednesday, Sept. 12

Altho the new insecticide DDT has received much publicity, and is very effective when properly used, it should be used according to directions and for the purpose intended.

Many cocoons are noticed on the trunks and branches of trees, but if removed and destroyed there will be fewer pests next season.

Thursday, Sept. 13

Many gardeners wonder what plants to use in hanging baskets or to decorate the side of pots. There are a number of interesting plants than can be used for the purpose, such as ceropegia woodii, a nice slender stemmed plant that has small heart shaped leaves, dull gray in color.

Friday, Sept. 14

Make the lawn now if it has not been done for it is during the cool, autumn days that new grass grows rapidly, making deep roots. Spade the area to be sown to grass, rake off all clods, burying them in a corner, and sow at the rate of one pound to 250 square feet.

Saturday, Sept. 15

Do not delay moving poinsettia plants, gardenia, Christmas cactus, and other house plants indoors before the weather turns cool.

If plants need repotting thru breakage or other causes, use a clean pot and a soil mixture consisting of two parts good loam [rich vegetable soil will do], one part leafmold or peatmoss and one part torpedo sand.

One part of well decayed cow manure may be added to each bushel of the mixture for general use.

GARDEN HOMES TO BEGIN 25TH JUBILEE FRIDAY

Service Men Will Be Honored Sunday

Residents of the Garden Homes community will hold a three day program celebrating the development's 25th anniversary beginning Friday. The community, which contains 175 homes, is located between 87th and 89th sts. and State st. and Michigan av.

Opening the festivities at 8 p. m. Friday will be a street dance on 88th st. between Wabash and Michigan avs. Music will be furnished by recordings loaned by residents. Members of the Garden Homes Improvement association, the group sponsoring the affair, will string the street with floodlights. There will be a refreshment booth and one for victory bonds. Many bonds are sold in the community for it has sent 125 men to the services.

Children's Program Saturday

Saturday afternoon there will be events for children from 3 to 15 years, with races, games, and a pie eating contest. Saturday night there will be a treasure hunt for adults followed by a box social. Proceeds will be used for the improvement of the community's recreation center.

At 2:30 p. m. Sunday the community's honor roll will be dedicated at the flagpole at 88th st. and Michigan av. The Gardiner General hospital band will play and Col. John R. Hall, head of the hospital, will speak. The Rev. Thomas Mulcahey of St. Thomas the Apostle church will officiate. Sponsoring this observance will be Liberty American Legion post, commanded by Marty Battles, who also will speak. Robert Shebilla will be soloist.

Reception for Former Residents

Following the program there will be a reception for former residents of the center. Members of the anniversary committee have decorated the community house with old pictures and programs, reminiscent of various happenings and people known to most or all who ever resided in Garden Homes.

The project was built in 1920 to help east just such a housing shortage as exists today and was originally only for families with children. Eight different types of homes were built so as to avoid monotony. It was named Garden Homes after the English village from which it was copied.

Name Committee Members

Thirty-eight of the original 175 families still remain, some of them now raising their third and at least one, its fourth generation. The center has a portable school building.

Members of the anniversary committee include Mrs. Frank Felber and Arnold H. Strauss, chairmen, and Harold Jacobs, Jesse Becker, Mrs. Russell Wright, Mrs. Carl Kingsbury, Mrs. Harry Branch, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bard, Mrs. Carl Bodine, Arthur McKay, Mrs. George Coleman, Mrs. Victor Johnson, Mrs. Barnard Harrington, Mrs. Richard McCully, Donald Branch, Mrs. Joseph Storey, Mrs. Kurk Graulich, Clyde Flaks, Carl Giesen, Erick Lipsch, Victor Julian, Paul Chaplick, William O'Brien, Frank Ambler, Peaslee Street, Mrs. Joseph Colvin, Mrs. D. H. Weitzenfeld, and Pvt. William Austin.

BUSINESS MEN'S GROUPS TO GOLF ON WEDNESDAY

The annual golf tournament between the Woodlawn Business Men's association and the Grand Crossing-Chatham chamber of commerce will be held at 1 p. m. Wednesday at the Lincolnshire Golf and Country club. The Woodlawn organization will act as host. At this year's Victory tournament one of the main attractions will be a one club match between John Hayes, past president of the business men's association, and Bud Singman, past president of the chamber of commerce group.

Three War Fund Divisions Open Drive This Week

South side leaders of the Community and War Fund drive which will open Oct. 1, have attended meetings of three solicitation divisions which will begin their campaigns this week.

Morton Bodfish, chairman of the initial gifts division, explained the general plan of solicitation to more than 100 region chairmen, section chairmen, and solicitors. Jack Dreyfus, 5466 Everett av., and Joseph B. Hurley, 7146 Prairie av., south side directors, were among those attending.

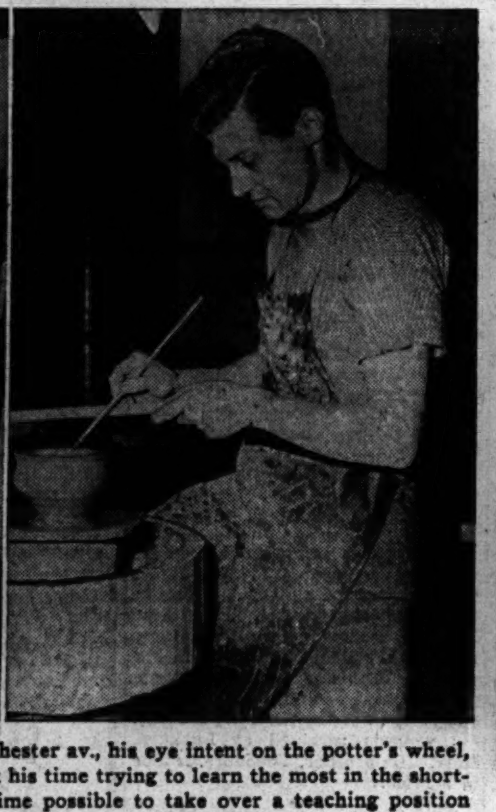
South siders at the meeting of the men's special gifts division included Hamilton Loeb, 4812 Kimbark av., Frank L. Sulzberger, 1015 Hyde Park blvd., J. C. Vorhauer, 2373 E. 70th st., and Harold S. Russell, 6901 Oglesby av.

At the meeting of the women's special gifts division, which will attempt to raise $300,000, south siders included Mrs. Henry T. Ricketts, 5607 Kenwood av., and Mrs. Clifton M. Utley, 5827 Blackstone av., south side chairmen. Others attending include Mrs. Morris Fishbein, 5543 Blackstone av.; Mrs. Edwin O. Jordan, 5801 Dorchester av.; Mrs. Dallas B. Phemister, 5621 University av.; Mrs. Otto F. G. Schilling, 4846 Kimbark av.; Mrs. David L. Shillinglaw, 5801 Dorchester av.; Mrs. Sydney Stein Jr., 5537 Woodlawn av.; and Mrs. C. Arthur Howe and Miss Jane Dubbs of the South Shore Country club.

U. of C. Arts and Crafts Classes Entice Student and Hobbyist

They came from all over the country, for credits, or as a hobby, with talent and without, to attend classes in workshop techniques in the arts and crafts held each summer at the University of Chicago. Two of the most enthusiastic students in clay modeling were Edward L. Collier (left), 6724 Champlain av., and Orville Hanchey, ex-navy teacher, of Natchitoches, La. Collier, who is working on his doctors degree in education, is assistant principal at the old La Salle school, 41st st. and Michigan av. Hanchey is working on his doctor of philosophy degree.

Students may learn to weave, carve in wood, work in marble, stone, or clay, as well as study painting and designing. A St. Joseph sister from St. Paul, Minn., with the help of Mrs. Elizabeth Hibbard, 1201 E. 60th st., instructor, designed and carved a holy water fount. The water bowl is made of clay. William Garrison Whitford is director of the workshop.



"The hardest part of weaving," commented Lillian Sposta, 3421 Aberdeen av., "is threading the loom. Takes me three weeks to thread it, and about one week to weave it." When finished it will be an attractive multi-colored rug. Jerry Bosch, 5757 Dorchester av., his eye intent on the potter's wheel, spent his time trying to learn the most in the shortest time possible to take over a teaching position in Macon, Ga., his home town.

When finished by Miss Margaret Swords, 5748 Blackstone av., this block of stone will be an elephant, her second completed work in marble. The first was exhibited at the Art institute. Inasmuch as she was the first student in the course to be advanced enough to work in such a medium, every one watched the progress of her mallet and chisel with interested eyes. "It's an awfully slow process," she smiled, "but it's worth it, and will go toward my masters degree."

Wood was scarce at the workshop this year, so old tenpins from the recreation room at Ida Noyes hall were received with glee by the workshop. Their arrival gave Frances Chamberlin, 9300 Pleasant av. (left), a chance to carve that "clay" fish. It also gave Anna Bell Robinson, 1309 W. 112th st., just the right shape for the head of an Etheopian woman she wanted to carve. Miss Chamberlin is working toward a bachelors degree and Miss Robinson, a teacher in the Altgeld Garden grammar school, on her masters.

SUB WATCH SEES NIP BATTLESHIP KONGO GO DOWN

Sealion's Chief Tells of Pacific Saga

When the submarine Sealion sank the 30,000 ton Japanese battleship Kongo off Formosa last November Roy J. Williams, chief pharmacist's mate, literally had a front seat during the battle. He declared, with a snap of his fingers, that the man o' war went down "just like that."

At the time the action occurred last November Williams was on look-out duty. "Sheets of water were pouring over the bridge and I was nearly knocked out when hit on the head by a fish which washed up on me," he recalled.

Ship Looses Torpedoes

Williams went below briefly, then returned to the bridge. "We made our first attack at 3,000 yards, firing six torpedoes," he said. "Then we came about and fired four more from the stern tubes. We stood off a ways while the Jap destroyers milled around, shooting in all directions, then started to close in again. I was looking astern when all of a sudden I saw a flash. The whole sky lit up. I thought at first it was a searchlight. Then I looked at the Kongo. She was sinking fast."

Concussion of the Kongo's explosion was so great that the Sealion's officers and crew 2,500 yards away feared their sub had been discovered and hit. The force of the pressure wave caused a suction in the submarine which pulled loose papers and stray caps up the hatch.

Saw Another Sinking

Chief Williams, who wears the bronze star, the navy and marine corps medal, and the Presidential unit citation, also was on the Sealion last September when she sank the Ryukyu Maru, Jap transport carrying English, Australian, and some American prisoners of war to Japan. The Sealion returned to pick up survivors.

"I really was busy for several days," he recalled. "Those prisoners were in bad shape. We picked up 54 men, but had to go away and leave the rest for some of our other submarines." Sealion crewmen recall that Williams worked almost without rest for four days and nights tending the survivors.

At present Williams and his wife, Mary Ann, who have been residing at 8221 Clyde av., are in San Francisco, Cal., where the sub is being overhauled.

Neighbors in Loud Squawk; Torsos Vanish

BY JANET PECK

Something has been missed of late by commuters on the Illinois Central.

Not the bizarre glasshouse at 40th st., or the gallant figure of Stephen Douglas perched atop a high pedestal at 35th st. The missing is the pair of two ton torsos [dubbed by riders, Adam and Eve] nudely standing in the back yard at 49th st.

For the last three years these hefty stone figures have delighted, shocked, or at least stirred curiosity among the commuters, and when the pair disappeared one morning more than one rider felt an explanation was in order.

Now Comes the Expose

Investigation reveals that:

Adam and Eve [that proved to be their real names] were created by Egon Weiner, sculptor, on commission, in his attic studio at 4847 Lake Park av. Quite unknown to the artist, the purchaser decided to use wooden Indians instead. Scarcely the afternoon had gone by after their delivery when he found the pair back on his doorstep.

Being too big and heavy to lug up three flights of stairs, Adam and Eve were destined to spend an indefinite period in the back yard, and thus practically became a couple of large, graceful landmarks. There they stood in the rain, snow, and sunshine, their stubs of arms raised, their amputated limbs rather suggesting they were about to run like mad for one another.

Weiner exhibited Adam at the Art institute sometime during that period and he was, according to the sculptor, favorably received. Many train riders, however, not understanding the intricacies of art, often have wondered how come Eve had a head and Adam didn't. The artist offered the possible explanation that a man in love often loses his head.

Now Comes Trouble

Came the maelstrom, however, in the guise of a couple of new neighbors. They—neither art patrons nor I. C. commuters—claimed to see something insidious in the nudity of the cold stone image [or part of an image] of the first man and woman. They insisted Weiner either put clothes on the pair or get them out of the back yard.

So the harassed artist, who really wishes nothing better than to be let alone with his chisel and mallet, hastily did the best he could in a hurry—for after all he couldn't very well lug them up to his third floor studio, could he?

Commuters now see, not two stone torsos in their birthday suits but two clumps of foliage, modestly standing several feet apart. Investigation revealed they covered the headless Adam, and the supposedly sinful Eve.

Now Comes Weiner

For the sake of both the neighbors and the commuters, here let it be known, that Weiner is a recognized sculptor. Born in Vienna, but now an American citizen, he began his apprenticeship as a wood carver at 14. Subsequently he attended the School of Arts and Crafts, a technical continuation school, and the Academy of Plastic Arts in Europe.

His first work as an independent sculptor consisted of commissions for works in public buildings and portrait busts. During his last seven years in America, however, critics say he has abandoned academic formality, and has striven for greater simplification. Consequently his work has become more abstract and symbolical. This fall he has been invited to teach at the Art institute.

12 FROM SOUTH SIDE COMPLETE COURSES AT N. U.

South side residents were among 350 students who received degrees and diplomas at the conclusion of the summer session of Northwestern university recently. Graduate degrees were conferred on the following: Margaret Cecilia Annan, 1440 E. 66th pl., doctor of philosophy; the Rev. Elias Albert Coffey, 6428 Dante av., master of arts; Alice Seefer Gordon, 5302 University av., master of arts; John Henry Ivy, 8158 Merrill av., master of science, and Shirley Jeanne Latham, 7532 Paxton av., master of arts.

Bachelors degrees were granted Robert E. Klinenberg, 7452 Chappell av., bachelor of science in business administration; Pierre Long, 5050 Blackstone av., bachelor of music; Colette Marie McCarthy, 7808 Clyde av., bachelor of science in journalism; Ruth Eleanore Renberg, 7537 Phillips av., bachelor of science in journalism; Louis Francis DeSitter, 7932 Clyde av., bachelor of science in business administration; Richard Hocking, 8436 Cregier av., bachelor of philosophy, and Patricia Pugh, 7000 South Shore dr., bachelor of science in journalism.

No graduation ceremony was held. Diplomas were sent by mail.

B-29 Radio Operator Home from Nip Raids

Sgt. Sylvan E. Yates, 454 E. 80th st., is home on furlough after having spent 16 months overseas as a radio operator on a B-29. His crew was one of the first to participate in B-29 action over Japan. He wears the D. F. C., Presidential citation, air medal with four oak leaf clusters, and five battle stars. His wife lives at the 80th st. address.

South Siders to Sponsor Benefit Carnival Saturday

Residents of the area between 72d and 73d sts. and Merrill and Paxton avs. will hold a carnival Saturday night in the block's alley. Proceeds will be used to give $25 to each of 30 veterans returning to the block.

CATHOLIC HIGHS REPORT RECORD ENROLLMENTS

Add New Teachers on South Side

Reports from six South Side Catholic high schools indicate that enrollment has reached its peak this year. In several schools it has been necessary to turn students away for lack of facilities.

At De LaSalle High school 3455 Wabash av., where classes began last week, the following new teachers were added: Brother Patrick, formerly principal at St. George High school, Evanston, mathematics; Brother Peter, formerly principal of Cretin High school, St. Paul, Minn., history; Brother Pius, formerly of St. Mary's college, Minona, Minn., history; Brother Fidelius, also of St. Mary's college, English; Brother Damian, released from a Jap prison camp near Manila, physics, and Brother Richard, formerly of De La Salle High school in Kansas City, Mo., English.

Plans of Mount Carmel

At Woodlawn Loretto academy, 1447 E. 65th st., which opens tomorrow there also has been an increase in students, and a new teacher has been added, according to Mother Mary Denise, principal. She is Mother St. Margaret who comes from Loretto college, Toronto, Ont., and will teach English and Latin.

February graduations will be continued at Mount Carmel High school, 6428 Dante av., said Father Alexis McCarthy, principal, as long as there is need for an accelerated program. He also reported that 200 boys had to be turned away. For the last three years, emphasis has been placed on science courses, but Father Alexis said that such courses in high school can really do little more than whet the student's interest.

St. Thomas Adds Teachers

Three new teachers have been added to the faculty at St. Thomas High school, 5467 Woodlawn av. They are Sister Marie Lillian, who will be librarian, Sister Marie Cecilia, who will teach senior classes Latin and Spanish, and Sister Mary Teresita, art teacher. Sister Mary Alberto, principal, stated that Sister Mary Jude, science teacher, will place special emphasis on microchemistry in her classes this year.

A new assistant principal, Sister Joel, three new teachers and a new bookstore manager, Sister Augustine, will be on hand when classes start tomorrow at Mercy High school, 8130 Prairie av. Sister Inez will teach Latin and American history, Sister Cansilda will teach commercial subjects, and Sister Petro, sciences.

At Aquinas High school, 2105 E. 72d st., enrollment is up. However, no new subjects have been added to the curriculum. Several new teachers have been added. Their names will be announced later,

SAILOR HONORED FOR RISKING LIFE TO SAVE MARINE

For risking his life to save a wounded marine on Iwo last March, Joseph M. Ozretich, pharmacist's mate 1st class, son of Mrs. Ann Ozretich, 13611 Brainard av., recently was presented with the silver star medal at Naval hospital, Farragut, Idaho.

Ozretich, a patient, expects to receive a medical discharge some time this month. He was not injured in the action for which he was cited, but later suffered concussion from a heavy shell explosion.

He attended Mount Carmel High school and prior to entering service was a car inspector for the Chicago, West Pullman and Southern Railway company.

Women in Service

Betty Etten, daughter of Mrs. Clara Etten, 7921 Ingleside av., recently was promoted to captain at the air transport command base in Fairbanks, Alaska. Cousin of Nick Etten, New York Yankees' first baseman, she is playing manager of the WAC softball team at her base. Capt. Etten was appointed commanding officer of a WAC detachment last April when the first group of WACs were assigned to that base.

Two south side WACs recently reported for duty with the transportation corps at the San Francisco port of embarkation. They are Pvt. Arminnie E. Taylor, daughter of Mrs. Vinella Williams, 4445 Dearborn st., and Pvt. Hattie Jackson, formerly of 2614 Rhodes av.

Lt. Ellen C. Carden, 7958 Wabash av., a nurse, recently was assigned to Deshen General hospital at Butler, Pa. Lt. Carden received her commission in May, 1943, and served nearly a year in England.

Recently completing a course for medical and surgical technicians at Gardiner General hospital were Pvt. Mattie Mercer, daughter of Mrs. Mahala Williams, 6014 Prairie av., and Pvt. Catherine J. Hunt, daughter of Alphonse Hunt, 4511 Vincennes av. Both have been in the WAC nearly six months.

Lorraine Zimmerman, daughter of Mrs. Esther Zimmerman, 7123 Euclid av., who recently completed boot training in the WAVES at Hunter college, New York City is stationed at Corpus Christi, Tex., as a radio technician. She has twin brothers in service: Sgt. Fred, in Belgium and Corp. Edward, in the South Pacific.

'MAD' RUSSIANS FOUND MADDEST WHEN IN PLANE

A Fort Navigator Looks Back on War

BY JOHN THOMPSON

Altho most 15th air force flyers preferred to bail out behind Russian lines rather than in any other section of Europe, it was as hazardous to fly an American bomber over the Russians as over any German positions. Despite recognition flares and other signals, Russian ground troops and occasionally Red fighter planes delivered intense fire against almost every American bomber that came within range.

This addition to the hazards of combat flying was described by 2d Lt. Bert Morton, 22, of 5134 Harper av., a Flying Fortress navigator who returned home with 35 combat missions completed. Morton went to Italy last fall and completed his duty tour in May, but was not given transportation home until a few weeks ago.

He wears the Presidential unit citation of the 2d bomb group for a February raid on Vienna when the Florsdorff refinery was destroyed. Morton also wears the distinguished flying cross, Purple Heart, and air medal with three clusters.

Two Medals in One Day

He won the D.F.C. and Purple Heart on the same day, April 5, when he was wounded in the right shoulder by flak, in an attack on the Udine airdrome. Despite his wound, incurred at the start of his bomb run, Morton remained on the job. When his ship was forced to leave the formation he navigated it safely back to the Foggia, Italy, air base.

"I never had to bail out myself," said Morton, "but the other boys who came back after a parachute landing told us about the Russians. All of us were informed that the Russians had been alerted for our planes and our recognition signals. But something went snafu. The Russians opened up with everything they had when we came over in crippled ships or out of gas. Some of the boys said the Russians even fired at them as they were coming down in parachutes and killed one flyer.

"But after our pals reached the ground and identified themselves, they always were treated royally. Much vodka and plenty to eat. On the ground every one got along well, altho our boys thought the Russian flyers were crazy. They never warmed up their engines before take-off and flew in a wild manner that would have washed them out at any of our schools."

Well Treated by Tito

Morton said American flyers also were treated well by Tito's Yugoslav Partisans. But the Yanks always were warned to avoid bailing out in Yugoslav territory held by Mihailovitch forces, by the Ustachis, or by 10,000 renegade Russian Cossacks, who were both anti-Red and anti-German, Morton declared.

Unlike the early days of air war over Europe, when we had relatively few planes, and crews became attached to one ship, Morton said he saw no more than six planes which bore names. Airmen worked together as single crews, but would fly in any ship of the group. New ones were being sent over constantly.

Sees Flyer "Blow Top"

Morton said he saw only one crew member "blow his top" with combat fatigue, a tail gunner who started screaming about enemy fighters and then opened fire on two P-51 fighters who were escorting a crippled bomber home. Altho the fighter planes were hit, the pilots brought their ships in safely. Other airmen were relieved of duty when physicians realized they were too far gone with combat fatigue to be of any use.

"Early in the game, too, I knew I was going to be hit sometime. But I also knew that after I was hit nothing more would ever happen to me. And nothing did. I was jittery about those last five missions [he was hit on his 30th] and, like every other flyer, I was scared to death. We were scared all the time. But I knew that now it was all right.

"The strangest thing was that I felt the safest when we were going into our bomb run approaching the target. I was always the most jittery on take-offs and landings. So many things could happen when a flock of big bombers was taking off and landing one right after the other. You get caught in the prop wash of the plane ahead and there isn't much you can do with a B-17. But I must say that the 17 is a beautiful ship, far better we thought than the B-24."

Morton intends to return to the University of Illinois to complete his senior year. He has one more semester before graduation, but, like many other veterans, he hates to go back to school alone. None of his classmates has returned yet, and the present crop of seniors were freshmen when he left Urbana.

LESSONS OF WAR TO IMPLEMENT R.O.T.C. COURSES

Tell of Staff Changes for South Side

With peace a reality, lessons learned in the war will be passed on to the R. O. T. C. units in 29 public high schools during the present year, Lt. Col. Oscar N. Taylor, acting professor of military science and tactics, has announced.

Changes in methods of instruction as well as in subject matter will give cadets a closer understanding of the military system, he said. Col. Taylor, whose retirement was announced last July, is carrying on in the absence of his successor, Col. Hans C. Minuth, who is on overseas duty.

Will Exhibit Weapons

Col. Taylor plans to exhibit machine guns, mortars, carbines, and bazookas and other weapons developed in this war at each school. Many of the new instructors have had overseas combat experience. All R. O. T. C. officers recently attended a special army course at Fort Benning, Ga. A similar course was offered enlisted instructors at Camp Ellis, Ill.

Two new military supervisors have been announced for south side schools. Lt. Abbott C. Combes III. will be in charge at Hyde Park, Tilden, Du Sable, and Bowen. Lt. Joseph P. Adducci will handle South Shore and Hirsch.

Name New Instructors

Military instructors newly assigned include: Sgt. Frank Vareschi, Bowen; Sgt. Claude L. Shelton, Du Sable; Sgt. Harold D. Alexander, Hirsch; Corp. Oscar F. Hartman, and Corp. Joye J. Ellis, assistant, Hyde Park; Sgt. David Seaholm, South Shore, and Sgt. Thomas M. Fletcher and Corp. Thomas A. Zaremba, assistant, Tilden.

City-wide enrollment of cadets is expected to equal last year's figure of 9,850. Authorized enrollment of uniformed cadets for the first semester is: Bowen, 225; Du Sable, 300; Hirsch, 175; Hyde Park, 385; South Shore, 150, and Tilden, 420. Number of nonuniformed cadets which may be enrolled at each school will be fixed by the supervising officer depending on the available facilities.

Special Attention to Flowers
Our staff is especially trained in the handling of flowers from the moment they are received at Colonial Chapel. Careful, skilled attention is given the arrangement of floral tributes in the chapel, or at the church, and at the cemetery. We keep a careful record of all flowers received and provide engraved cards to acknowledge them.

THEATER GUILD REVIVES ATOMIC DRAMA TONIGHT

Burgess Meredith Stars in First Show

BY LARRY WOLTERS

The Theater Guild embarks on its first radio series tonight with Burgess Meredith playing the lead in its revival of "Wings Over Europe," a fantasy first produced by the guild back in 1928. Meredith will play the part of a British scientist who discovers a formula for the control of atomic power. The part the atomic bomb played in ending the war prompts the play's use for the premiere of the series tonight.

Burgess Meredith

Lawrence Langer, director with Theresa Helburn of the guild, will introduce the play and players over WENR-ABC at 9 tonight. He will also join in an exchange of greetings with several outstanding performers who have been associated with the guild in the past—Oscar Hammerstein, Richard Rodgers, Annabella, Philip Barry, Elia Kazan, Rouben Mamoullan, William Bendix, Edward G. Robinson, Helen Menken, and Rosalind Russell.

Other shows are returning and new ones bowing in. Truth or Consequences and the Life of Riley got back on NBC last night. Helen Hayes started off her new series at 6 p. m. last night in the role of Madame Curie. The Shadow with Steve Courtleigh in the title role returns to W-G-N-Mutual at 4 p. m. today, and Quick as a Flash, a mystery quiz with cash awards, comes back on the same network at 5 p. m.

Frank Sinatra will be back on the air with his own show at 8 p. m. next Wednesday over CBS. The Pied Pipers quartet, singing group, has been signed up for regular performances. . . . Mary Boland, the movie comedienne, will be a regular on the Rudy Vallee show. . . . Martha Tilton will join the Paul Whiteman Hall of Fame as singing hostess on Oct. 7. . . . Meredith Willson, lately out of the army, is the musical director for the Burns and Allen series which comes on NBC at 7 p. m. next Thursday.

John Hodiak and Bob Bailey, two former Chicago radio actors who have both made good as movie leading men, will return to radio for the Cavalcade of America broadcast over WMAQ-NBC at 7 p. m. tomorrow in "Sawdust Underground."

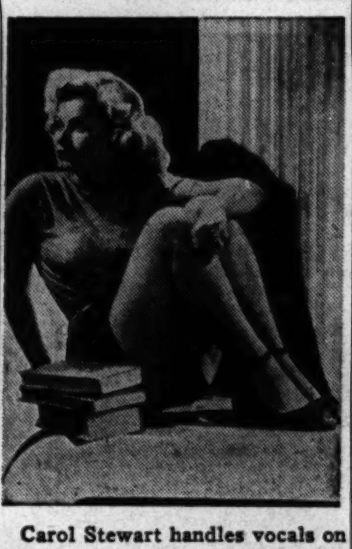
Miss Margaret Truman, daughter of the President, is expected to join in the choir singing when the Trinity Episcopal church services are aired on the WBBM-CBS Church of the Air at 9 a. m. to 9:30 today. The Rev. Harold B. Whiteman, the rector, will discuss "The Post War World and My Share In It."

The United Home Finding service which coöperates in presenting the program "I Want a Home" on WCFL at 9:15 p. m. Mondays reports that around 136 requests for child adoption and placement have been received as a result of the broadcasts. The stories of two children who need a home are dramatized on each broadcast.

Foreign Trade Topic on U. of C. Round Table

The University of Chicago Round Table over WMAQ-NBC at 12:30 p. m. today will discuss "How Can We Trade with Foreign, State-Controled Economics?" Neil Jacoby, Prof. Nathaniel Peffer, and Lauchlin Currie will participate.

Songstress



Carol Stewart handles vocals on the Beulah show, a comedy series starring Marlin Hurt aired over WBBM-CBS Sunday nights at 7 o'clock.

DEBUSSY SHOW DELAYED; SET FOR SATURDAY

The "Debussy Fantasy," which was to have been given last night on the Chicago Theater of the Air, will be presented at 9 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N, WGNB and Mutual. The surrender ceremonies aboard the battleship Missouri, broadcast the night of Sept. 1, caused a postponement of the presentation of "The Prince of Pathos" which was aired last night instead. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak next Saturday. Marion Claire and Angelo 'Raffaelli will be the vocal soloists, singing several Debussy works. Henry Weber will conduct the orchestra and chorus.

Hail Military, Shore Police on W-G-N Show

Your America over W-G-N-Mutual at 3 p. m. today will pay tribute to military police and shore patrols. John Keeler, president of the National Industrial Traffic league, will speak.

Star Theater Guests

James Melton will welcome Mary Martin and Alec Templeton as guests on Star Theater over WBBM-CBS at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Sept. 10

As fall approaches it is necessary to think about getting all plants that must be protected from frost under cover. It is time, too, that those bulbs requiring early planting be obtained and planted. These include lilium candidum, for it makes an early growth.

Narcissus bulbs also should be planted as soon as they can be procured. Crocus also delight in early planting.

If the soil is poor, it is best to build it up by adding decayed manures. Therein lies the value of a compost heap, for when decayed it is humus in the raw and may be spaded under.

Tuesday, Sept. 11

If there are everlastings that can be dried, gather them when they are partly open and not when in full bloom. Gladiolus corms should be carefully labeled and placed in boxes according to variety.

If an increased number is wanted, save all the bulblets no matter how small and store them for next season's planting. Discard poor flowering varieties.

Wednesday, Sept. 12

Altho the new insecticide DDT has received much publicity, and is very effective when properly used, it should be used according to directions and for the purpose intended.

Many cocoons are noticed on the trunks and branches of trees, but if removed and destroyed there will be fewer pests next season.

Thursday, Sept. 13

Many gardeners wonder what plants to use in hanging baskets or to decorate the side of pots. There are a number of interesting plants than can be used for the purpose, such as ceropegia woodii, a nice slender stemmed plant that has small heart shaped leaves, dull gray in color.

The small flowers suggest a Dutchman's pipe; these are follow by little gray tubers which may be used for propagating purposes.

Friday, Sept. 14.

Make the lawn now if it has not been done for it is during the cool, autumn days that new grass grows rapidly, making deep roots. Spade the area to be sown to grass, rake off all clods, burying them in a corner, and sow at the rate of one pound to 250 square feet.

Gently draw the rake over the new sown ground, and if it is done just before a rain so much the better. Fall rains are sufficient to give a fine growth, and weeds will grow very little.

Buy the best lawn mixture for a sunny lawn and a special shady mixture for a shady area.

Saturday, Sept. 15

Do not delay moving poinsettia plants, gardenia, Christmas cactus, and other house plants indoors before the weather turns cool.

If plants need repotting thru breakage or other causes, use a clean pot and a soil mixture consisting of two parts good loam [rich vegetable soil will do], one part leafmold or peatmoss and one part torpedo sand.

One part of well decayed cow manure may be added to each bushel of the mixture for general use.

Other plants may be grown in such an area, such as lily-of-the-valley, spurge, or grave myrtle [vinca minor].

GARBAGE CANS NOW AVAILABLE IN 20TH WARD

Clean Alleys Aid in War on Rats

A cleanup campaign has been launched in the 20th ward by the West Side Community committee to meet a health and sanitation problem aggravated by war time conditions. Since Pearl Harbor, 55 gallon oil drums, formerly used as refuse receptacles, have been urgently needed by the army, navy, and war industries, thus making their purchase practically impossible.

Now that oil drums again are available the committee is determined to carry on its former all-year program of keeping streets and alleys clean.

Containers Now Available

Garbage containers may be obtained by visiting the committee at 1035 W. Polk st., or phoning Monroe 8412. Cans will be delivered at the cost of price of $1 each.

Anton Denemark, ward superintendent, has offered the resources of the ward yard in carrying on the current program.

Scarcity of garbage cans in the last few years has increased the rat population in the community, authorities said. While garbage containers will aid in preventing further increases of rodents, it will not solve the current rat problem. Rat poison will be provided free to any resident by the ward yard.

Ask Coöperation of Residents

Residents of every block are urged to organize and make arrangements with the committee to secure poison. Denemark has arranged for workmen to administer gas treatments where rats have gone underground.

Individuals and organizations are requested to volunteer to serve on the ward-wide cleanup committee to be organized shortly.

SURFACE LINES GROUP TO SEAT NEW OFFICERS

The Chicago Surface Lines unit 146 will install new officers at 8:30 p. m. Saturday in their clubrooms, 3350 Jackson blvd. Mrs. Lucille Heldt is the incoming president.

GI FINDS FAMILY SAFE AFTER NAZI RULE OF 5 YEARS

Meets Wife's Folks in Next Town

It was a real homecoming for Corp. Jerry H. Sus of the 12th armored division's 134th ordnance maintenance battalion when he obtained a pass to Monchtin, Czechoslovakia, recently.

At Monchtin Corp. Sus was reunited with his mother, father, sister, and brother whom he had not heard from since he left them five years ago after the Nazis took over the country.

Neighbors Give Party

Corp. Sus' homecoming was the occasion for a community celebration, for he was the honored guest at a surprise party given by the entire neighborhood.

It didn't take Corp. Sus long to brush up on his native dances with the help of his sister. His brother, 21, was preparing to join the Czech army.

Visits Wife's Family

Corp. Sus showed his family a picture of his wife, whom he had met and married in Chicago. To his surprise they recognized her as the daughter of a farmer in the next village, and Corp. Sus also was able to visit his wife's family before the end of his furlough.

Corp. Sus entered the army from Chicago in 1942. His wife, Mildred, lives in Cicero.

Optimist Luncheon

Edward F. Stegen, associate administrator of the national physicians committee for extension of medical service, will address the Austin Optimist club at noon Tuesday at the Austin Y. M. C. A., 501 N. Central av.

B'NAI B'RITH LODGE OF LAWNDALE SEATS LEADERS WEDNESDAY

David Kovin, 3535 Douglas blvd., will be installed as president of the Chicago Lawndale B'nai B'rith lodge Wednesday night in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House. He is a charter member of the organization.

David Kovin

Benjamin Samuels, past president of district grand lodge 6 will preside, and Rabbi Jacob J. Weinstein of Kehilath Anshe Mayriv temple will deliver the address. Invocation will be said by Dr. Moses M. Landau of Temple Judea. Lt. Col. Jacob M. Arvey, founder of Lawndale lodge, who recently returned from overseas duty, will be a guest.

Other new officers include Harry Baron, Philip Lozowick, and Leon Zimmerman, vice presidents; Irving Luskin and Emil Gollubier, secretaries; Jacob Polin, treasurer; Hyman Goldberg, chaplain, and Joseph Fuchs, warden. Judge Oscar S. Caplan, past president, will be chairman of the evening. Past President Sidney D. Deutsch is chairman of the program committee.

Railway Mail Women to Open Fall Program

Chicago West Towns auxiliary of the Railway Mail association will begin its fall program with a spaghetti dinner at 6:30 p. m. Friday in the American Legion hall, Maywood. Mrs. Frank Schmaus, philanthropy chairman, is in charge of arrangements.

BROTHERS APART 3 YEARS MEET AT ARMY CLUB

Get Reacquainted Doing Paris

At the American Expeditionary Forces club in Paris Corp. Mickey Di Venti and his brother, Vincent Di Venti, technicians 5th grade, met recently for the first time in three years. Details of their reunion were given by Vincent in a letter to his father, Philip Di Venti, who operates a barber shop at 3011 5th av.

Vincent stated that upon receiving a pass to Paris, he was directed to the AEF club where he could meet other American service men. He was having a snack and a cup of coffee at the club when a soldier came up and slapped him on the back, shouting, "Hello, Vince!"

The brothers spent three days of their furloughs together in Paris, during which they combined sightseeing and getting reacquainted.

Vincent is a veteran of the 451st anti-aircraft division, having taken part in the campaigns of Africa, Italy, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, and Austria. Mickey, a radio technician with the 9th air force, saw action in France and Germany.

MAYWOOD PAYS BATAAN HEROES TRIBUTE TODAY

4th Rites to Recall Price of Victory

Maywood American Bataan day will have its fourth observance today and its first observance after victory. It is the hope of Maywood leaders that the day will continue to be an annual event, paying tribute to members of the 192d tank corps battalion that fought so valiantly at Bataan and to men and women of the Maywood community who served in World War I..

Services appropriate to the day will be held in Maywood churches this morning.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon there will be a parade in which military units, civic organizations, veterans groups, Boy and Girl Scouts, and service men and women will take part. There will be victory bond floats.

Veterans to Parade

Flags will float along the line of march of the parade which will form between 15th and 19th avs. and move east on Washington blvd. to 5th av., then north on 5th av. to Maywood park.

Lt. Matthew MacDowell who served at Bataan and was released from a Jap prison camp last spring will be in charge of the parade unit of discharged veterans of World War II. and service men and women at home on leave or furlough. Capt. D. W. Duda will be marshal.

In Maywood park gold stars will be placed on the village honor roll, and Gold Star mothers will be given a place of honor in the reviewing stand.

Green Proud to Attend

For the fourth year Gov. Green will give the Bataan day address. In accepting the invitation from Louis E. Nelson, general chairman of the American Bataan day committee, Gov. Green wrote:

"I shall be happy to participate in this program. It will be an honor to pay tribute to the heroic members of the Maywood tank corps and the others from Maywood and Proviso township who are in the service of their country."

Representatives of the army and navy also will speak. They will be introduced by Le Roy Allen, president of school district 89, who for the fourth time will be master of ceremonies.

Bugle Corps to Compete

Tonight, 18 drum and bugle corps of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars will compete in a contest at the Proviso High school stadium.

An estimated 75,000 persons attended the first American Bataan day observance. Rain fell during the second and third programs.

The slogan for this year's observance is "A date to remember, Sunday, Sept. 9, 1945."

Serving with the committee of which Louis E. Nelson is general chairman, are Kenneth Richardson, Allen Wright, and Arthur J. Wartha, co-chairmen; Ferrin O. Kaapke, treasurer ,and Altha Bendell, secretary.

FUNDS ENABLE RIVERSIDE TO OMIT CAMPAIGN

Because of sufficient funds in the treasury, no solicitation campaign for Riverside Community funds will be made this year, according to a recent announcement by Frank E. Hodek Jr., president of the Community fund.

Fund directors have considered appeals of the various agencies and a budget for the 1945-'46 distribution will be announced later.

Action of the directors in calling off the campaign this year was made possible by the accumulation of funds from surplus contributions over the years.

Board of Trade Legion Post Names Officers

Newly elected officers of Chicago Board of Trade post of the American Legion are Alfred J. Cattorini, commander; Harold Hobson, senior vice commander; Fred Von Hof, junior vice commander; William M. Schwartz, finance officer; Roman J. Weglarz and August C. Hennig [advisory capacity] service officers.

J. O. BRADY, WHEATON, NAMED LIEUTENANT COMMANDER IN NAVY

James O. Brady, whose wife, son, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Brady, live in Wheaton, has been promoted to lieutenant commander in the naval air forces. In five years he has flown 3,000 hours, a fifth of which were combat hours.

Comdr. Brady

Lt. Comdr. Brady was a member of the original Ventura bomber squadron formed at Alameda, Tex., in 1943. Sent to the central Pacific in the fall of that year he participated in 67 missions during which he bombed Kwajalein, Wotje, and Eniwetok, never losing a plane altho he brought one in with 80 holes in the engine.

Now on his second tour of duty in the Pacific, Lt. Comdr. Brady is executive officer of his squadron

COLLEGE READY IN ELMHURST TO GREET STUDENTS

Two Army Vets, WAVE Plan to Attend

Two army veterans and a former WAVE are among those enrolled for the fall semester at Elmhurst college where freshman orientation days will start Thursday at the 75 year old institution.

Under the GI bill the government will pay a maximum of $500 for tuition, fees, and books in an ordinary school year. In addition, the veteran will be paid $50 per month for living expenses if single and $75 if married. Thus, it is explained by the college, for one year at Elmhurst an unmarried veteran would be eligible for a maximum of $950.

Former Student Back

David Roger of Villa Park, who saw overseas service in the army, will enter as a freshman. Marvin K. Hunt of Lakeville, Ill., a student at Elmhurst in 1935-'36, who was with the army in the South Pacific will return to the college. Hunt dropped out of college and went to work in 1936. Mrs. Jane Vandemere of Glen Ellyn, who was in the WAVES, tok summer work at Elmhurst college this summer and will continue her studies there this fall.

Veterans will be given credit for work done in formal service courses and schools. Recommendations of the American Council of Education will be followed in evaluating this work. Credit also will be given for correspondence courses taken from the United States Armed Forces institute.

Classes Start Sept. 19

The orientation period at Elmhurst will continue four days. New students will register Sept. 17. Returning students will register Sept. 18. Opening services will be held at 9 a. m., Sept. 19, and classes will start at 10:20 o'clock. There will be an enrollment of 270, an increase of 30 over last year. Both the men's and the women's dormitories will be filled to capacity.

Dr. O. F. Hoffman will come from the government relocation center at Topaz, Utah, to be associate professor of sociology, succeeding Carl W. Strow.

Lyons Girl to Wed

LOIS MARTINEK

The engagement of Lois Martinek to Sgt. Paul R. Pavlinek Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Pavlinek, Riverside, has been announced by her mother, Mrs. Margaret Martinek, Lyons. Miss Martinek is a graduate of Nazareth academy, La Grange. Her fiancé recently returned to the United States from the European theater, where he served as a B-17 radio operator with the 8th air force.

ORGANIZE CIVIC WELFARE CLUB ON WEST SIDE

Members of the disbanded district 4 of OCD community 3 have organized the Joseph G. Kohout Booster club to formulate plans for the welfare and improvement of the neighborhood.

The community is bounded by Western av., the south branch of the Chicago river, 16th st., and the drainage canal. The club was named after Kohout in recognition of his services during the war on the ration board and civic committees.

List Club Aims

Objectives of the club, as explained in its constitution, are to unite residents interested in civic, educational, and recreational activities, to spur the completion of community projects already begun, and to enlist public support for other projects beneficial to the community.

Temporary office of the club is the home of its president, Walter G. Sobieski, 1327 18th pl. Other officers are Lucas V. Mastalerz and Emil Brvenik, secretaries; Theodore Maschek, treasurer, and John Duller, sergeant at arms.

Name Committee Chairman

Work of the club will be supplemented by a woman's auxiliary. A membership drive, under the direction of Mrs. Walter Sobieski, is now under way for the woman's group.

Invite Northwest Siders to Attend Library Course

Northwest side residents interested in registering for the great books course on basic problems to be given this winter at Hild library, 4544 Lincoln av., should register now, Miss Jessie Reed, librarian, has announced. The course will begin at 8 p. m. Oct. 16. Discussions will be held the first and third Tuesdays of each month thru May.

WEST SIDE Y. W. WILL PREVIEW COMING EVENTS

Career girls are invited to attend "What, How, and When" evenings at the West Side Y. W. C. A., 101 S. Ashland av., tomorrow and Wednesday to preview the fall and winter program of the business and professional women's clubs which meet at the center Monday and Thursday nights, beginning Sept. 17 and Sept. 20.

Club members go to the center from work and read or relax until 6:15 p. m. when dinner is served for a nominal fee. Programs are held from 7 p. m. until 8:30 p. m.

List Program Subjects

Programs include parties, speakers, singing, and discussions. Interest groups are held from 8:30 p. m. to 9:15 p. m. and members may choose these from classes in gymnasium, arts and crafts, millinery, psychology, or public affairs.

Members also participate in outside activities, such as camping out week-ends, theater parties, skating, hayrides, picnics, and serving as junior hostesses at the U. S. O. Mrs. Trevor Jackson is president of the Thursday Business and Professional Women's club and Miss Lauretta Wendt is president of the Monday group.

Offer New Classes

In addition to the regular health program under direction of Miss Eleanor Schafer, this season the center will offer swimming instruction for children and younger girls. Another new feature are the day time classes for home women, which include volley ball, physical fitness, skating, and swimming. Jitterbug dancing will again be offered, as well as ballroom dancing, modern dancing, and rhythmic fundamentals.

Registration for the new fall class schedule entitled "Keys to Your Personality," will be held at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow and Thursday.

Plan Hobby Show

Prize winning model airplanes of the Arlington Heights Sky Wolves club will be displayed at the community's antique and hobby show Sept. 26 at the Methodist meeting house.

ENROLLMENT OF 4,678 STUDENTS AT MORTON HIGH

Morton High school has opened with an enrollment of 4,678. The number is about the same as last year, but a thousand short of peak years because many students entered the service or industry during the war.

"With the war over," said Supt. W. P. MacLean, "our curriculum must be changed from one of acceleration which met the war emergency to one of enriched courses in each department."

Morton is making every effort to coöperate with the Armed Forces institute, thereby enabling former students now in service to further their education thru correspondence.

8 Villa Park Residents Win Gladioli Honors

Eight members of the Men's Garden club of Villa Park won honors in the recent Illinois gladioli show at Garfield Park conservatory. They are Glenn L. Pierce Jr., who was chairman of the show; L. N. Bunce, Joseph Cools, Viegil Goetz, R. F. and Walter Overbay, Lawrence Pelc, and Edward Hoffman.

RIDING CIRCLE OF GLEN ELLYN WILL GIVE SHOW

In a setting that is unbelieveable except for those who explore beyond tree-lined Crescent blvd. to where the hills dip to a grassy meadow that has been found ideal for a fourth of a mile track, the second annual Glen Ellyn Horse show will be held Saturday afternoon.

Site for the show is Glencrest Acres, 780 Crescent blvd., Glen Ellyn, home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Swanson. Participants in the seven classes of events—colt, pleasure horse, western, pony, pair, horsemanship, and the costume parade—will be, for the most part, young riders of the Glen Ellyn, Lombard, and Wheaton communities.

Trophies Are Donated

There will be four ribbon awards for each event. Trophies have been donated by business firms in the area. Austin Selz, well known horseman of Crystal Lake, will be one of the judges. A loud speaker will announce the program that starts at 1:30 o'clock.

Proceeds from the show will go to the Glen Ellyn Service Men's canteen.

Miss Carol Sittler is in charge of entries for the show which will be more pretentious than the successful show held for the first time at Glencrest last year. She will enter her own horse, My Dark Choice, a 3 year old, in the contests.

Other members of the arrangements committee are Miss Elsie Meyers, Miss Barbara Bennett, and Miss Leone Laurence, Glenbard students.

Popular with Young Riders

Mr. and Mrs. Swanson, both much interested in horses, came to Glencrest Acres more than two years ago and since then the place, with its seven acres, its stable, and its ring, has been popular with the younger set with a love for riding horses. The Swanson's own Cloverdale Jim, Col. Peavine, and Glencrest Lady.

Many of the young riders who use the ring at Glencrest have their own horses. All are spurred by the desire to improve their equestrianship.

Mrs. Gordon Saint Clair is assisting Mrs. Swanson in guiding the young group in its horse show plans. The scene at Glencrest Acres Saturday will be reminiscent of "Old Kentucky."

Garson Menu Collection to Be Exhibited in Capital

Riverside Flyer Seeks Original Eagle Members

Flight Officer R. H. Sabel of the Royal Canadian air force would like to hear from other members of the Original Eagle, an organization of American citizens who fought with forces other than those of the United States. Sabel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Sabel, Riverside, has been in service since May, 1941, and is awaiting discharge. He is planning the formation of an Original Eagle group in the Chicago area.

LESSONS OF WAR WILL IMPLEMENT R.O.T.C. COURSES

With peace a reality, lessons learned in the war will be passed on to the R. O. T. C. units in 29 public high schools during the present year, Lt. Col. Oscar N. Taylor, acting professor of military science and tactics, has announced.

Changes in methods of instruction as well as in subject matter will give cadets a closer understanding of the military system, he said. Col. Taylor, whose retirement was announced last July, is carrying on in the absence of his successor, Col. Hans C. Minuth, who is on overseas duty.

Will Exhibit Weapons

Col. Taylor plans to exhibit machine guns, mortars, carbines, and bazookas and other weapons developed in this war at each school. Many of the new instructors have had overseas combat experience. All R. O. T. C. officers recently attended a special army course at Fort Benning, Ga. A similar course was offered enlisted instructors at Camp Ellis, Ill.

Two new military supervisors have been announced for west side high schools. Capt. Vincent A. Meredino will be in charge at Austin and Marshall. Lt. Curtis L. Evans will handle Crane and Harrison.

Military instructors newly assigned include Sgt. Gayle B. Saxton, Austin; Sgt. Julius R. Levin and Sgt. Charles G. Hawk, Marshall; Sgt. John Delaney and Corp. Fullerton T. McGough, Crane, and Corp. Duncan M. Simpson, Harrison.

Cadet Number Unchanged

City-wide enrollment of cadets is expected to equal last year's figure of 9,500. Authorized enrollment of uniformed cadets for the first semester is: Austin, 375; Crane, 400; Harrison, 200, and Marshall, 300. Number of nonuniformed cadets which may be enrolled at each school will be fixed by the supervising officer, depending on the available facilities.

Brother James Luke, director of St. Mel's High school, has announced the return of the last year's R. O. T. C. instructors staff. Maj. John F. Gardiner will supervise and direct, assisted by Sergeants Patrick J. Kelly, Emmett Heekin, and Joffre J. Roland. The unit expects to have a total of 1,500 cadets in uniform.

Catholic Women

The Catholic Woman's club of St. Isaac Jogues church, Hinsdale, will hold a luncheon meeting at 1 p. m. Thursday at Hinsdale community house.

RISKS OWN LIFE TO AID WOUNDED; STAR IS REWARD

Crawls 30 Yards Under Fire to Give Help

For gallant action and "superior devotion to duty" the silver star was awarded to Corp. Angelo Volpe, 516 S. California av., during a retreat parade ceremony held recently at Fort Sheridan.

Corp. Volpe

Corp. Volpe served 48 months in the Pacific with a medical unit attached to the 24th infantry division. The award was bestowed for heroic action on Leyte in the Philippine Islands.

Disregards His Own Safety

Japanese infiltration of the headquarters battery of a field artillery battalion had resulted in the wounding of a private. Corp. Volpe volunteered to crawl 30 yards under fire across an open area from the first aid station to the command post tent to render first aid.

After treating the soldier's wounds, Corp. Volpe found that additional morphine was necessary to ease the patient's pain. Again disregarding his own safety he left the command post tent, located the morphine, and returned.

Corp. Volpe enlisted Feb. 4, 1941, and went overseas with a medical unit in March of the same year. He took part on D-day on Dutch New Guinea in April, 1943, and in D-day on Leyte in October, 1944.

Another Wins Silver Star

The silver star also has been awarded Corp. James Dodaro, 1015 S. Damen av., for heroism while serving with the 5th army in Italy.

Corp. Dodaro and two comrades were searching for a chief of nazi SS forces in Italy who had been hunted for months, his citation said.

Breaking into a house the three soldiers surprised the SS chief and demanded his surrender. The hunted man whipped out a pistol and fired, wounding Corp. Dodaro's companions.

Rushing the nazi officer, Corp. Dodaro was wounded seriously in the stomach, but in spite of the pain he returned the fire, killing the SS chief.

Oak Park Third Tuesday Club to Hold Luncheon

The Third Tuesday club of Oak Park will hold a luncheon at 1 p. m. Sept. 18 at the Oak Park Arms hotel. Officers for the 1945-'46 season are Mrs. Harry E. Kerwin, president; Mrs. Jerome C. Latus, vice president; Mrs. Frank T. Karthelser, secretary, and Mrs. James L. Reynolds, treasurer.

Women in Service

Janice Van Hees, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Van Hees, 839 S. Clarence av., Oak Park, has been promoted to first lieutenant in the army nurse corps. She recently completed a course at Soissons, France, and is now in the Marseilles staging area awaiting furthur assignment. Lt. Van Hees was sent to France a year ago. She was supervisor of tent wards in army hospitals.

Promotion to captain in the WAC has been announced for Ann Kveton, daughter of Frank A. Kveton Sr., Cicero. Capt. Kveton is on duty at headquarters of the army air forces training command at Fort Worth, Tex. Commissioned in July, 1943, she was stationed at Randolph field, Tex., until last March. A graduate of Morton High school, Cicero, she is a former student of the University of Illinois.

WAC Pvt. Anna M. Kastner, 2631 S. Springfield av., has been transfered from Paine field, Wash., to Ephrata [Wash.] army air base. She is a motor pool driver.

Two west siders recently assigned to Camp McCoy, Wis., for training in the army nurse corps are Lt. Frances M. Heinicke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Heinicke, Elgin, and Lt. Ethel Herda, daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Herda, 1529 18th pl.

Pvt. Dena Panos, daughter of Andrew Panos, 268 N. Hamlin av., has been assigned to Fort Mason, Cal. Her brother, Sgt. Harold, is in the army medical corps.

Pvt. Betty M. Fenn, 110 W. Austin blvd., Oak Park, is a member of the transportation corps school WAC detachment at New Orleans, La., which has been designated a meritorious service unit. A graduate of St. Patrick's High school, Pvt. Fenn enlisted Nov. 22, 1944.

Campus Clothes Present Problem

where he was wounded. He has been awarded the Purple Heart and a gold star. A graduate of Marshall High school, he enlisted in October, 1943.

Resno J. Vannelli, 2126 24th st., was commissioned a second lieutenant recently upon completion of the officer candidate course at Fort Benning, Ga. He is a former student of Harrison High school, and the University of Illinois.

Lt. Vannelli

Promotion to lieutenant, senior grade, was announced recently for Philip Lewis, 3920 Grenshaw st. He is personnel officer for the aviation radio man's school at the naval air technical training center, Memphis, Tenn. Lt. Lewis received his bachelor's and master's degrees at De Paul university. Before entering service he was an industrial arts instructor at South Shore High school.

A bronze service star for participation in the western Pacific campaign has been awarded Lt. Henry F. Heckman, 4258 Maypole av., who is serving at a Guam air depot. Lt. Heckman is commanding officer of a quartermaster truck company. He entered service July 9, 1941.

Amadeo Marino, 3416 Grenshaw av., was promoted to corporal recently in Italy. He was a gunner with the 5th army.

SALVATION ARMY CENTRAL AREA HEAD PROMOTED

John J. Allan, 1019 N. Elmwood av., Oak Park, commander of the Salvation Army in the 11 states of its central territory since January, 1942, has been appointed full commissioner by order of Gen. George L. Carpenter of London, international commander.

John J. Allan

Commissioner Allan has been an officer in the Salvation Army 39 years. Prior to coming to Chicago, he was public relation's secretary for the organization's eastern territory eight years, divisional commander for various eastern corps, and served in the chief chaplain's office of the United States army in Washington 18 months. A chaplain in World War I., he was awarded the croix de guerre by the French government.

Two other west side Salvation Army officers will take new assignments in the army's office, 719 N. State st., tomorrow. They are Maj. Charles Langley, 822 S. Lombard av., Oak Park, who will be assistant property secretary, and Maj. Maude Hanson, 951 N. Latrobe av., former assistant property secretary, will be legal secretary.

SERGEANT ENDS 34 MONTH AIR FORCE CAREER

Has 121 Points and Silver Star

After 34 months in the Pacific, where he participated in the battles of Papua, East Indies, New Guinea, Solomons, and Bismark sea, Sgt. Victor Ceryanec, 1848 23d st., has returned to civilian life. An aerial engineer in the Grim Reapers, 3d bomb group, he merited 121 points for his services overseas. He has been awarded the silver star and five bronze battle stars.

Victor Ceryanec

Ceryanec merited the silver star during a bombing raid over Lae, New Guinea. The B-25 on which he was engineer became separated from its formation upon its return trip and was intercepted by eight Japanese Zero fighters.

During the engagement one of the Zeros was shot down. A bursting cannon shell, however, injured the upper gunner and the radio operator on the B-25. Sgt. Ceryanec applied first aid and repeatedly revived the radioman. He also stopped the flow of blood from the gunner's wounds.

The aircraft's landing gear had been put out of order, necessitating a crash landing at the base. When the landing was made, his citation says, Ceryanec held the two wounded men in his arms to prevent further injury to them. His action, in addition to his prompt administration of first aid, is credited with saving their lives.

Ceryanec returned to the United States last November, and until his recent discharge was stationed in Tampa, Fla., where he was in charge of transient aircraft. He is married to the former Virginia Lee Oliver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Oliver of Savannah, Ga.

SCOUT OFFICIALS WILL HOLD 8TH ANNUAL MEETING

Charles Jones, 503 N. Laramie av., Boy Scout district commissioner for the west side, is one of the officials planning the 8th annual Chicago Boy Scout Commissioners conference. The conference will open at 4 p. m. Saturday at Camp Kiwanis, near Willow Springs, and will close Sunday.

More than 60 Scout neighborhood commissioners from the west side will participate in the training sessions. E. Urner Goodman, national director of programs for the Boy Scouts, will speak.

The Rev. Ralph H. Collis, chairman of the Protestant Relations committee, will participate in the Saturday evening discussions. Anthony Inorio, director of Scouting for the C.Y.O., also will speak.

LEGION OF MERIT HONORS OFFICER KILLED IN CRASH

Lt. Col. Cyrus B. Stafford, whose widow, Mrs. Mary Willis Stafford, lives at 240 S. Maple av., Oak Park, has been awarded the Legion of Merit posthumously for "exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services" in the Mediterranean theater of operations from Oct. 20, 1944, to May 1, 1945.

The late Col. Stafford was an operational engineering officer with the 12th air force in Italy until his death in an aerial accident early this year.

He earlier had been awarded the distinguished flying cross, the air medal with two oak leaf clusters, and four battle stars.

Laud Technical Knowledge

The citation accompanying the Legion of Merit commended Col. Stafford's outstanding technical knowledge and comprehensive grasp of operational requirements. "He effected highly significant improvements in combat aircraft and equipment and solved numerous complex engineering problems," the citation said.

When A-26 type aircraft arrived in the Mediterranean they required extensive and difficult modification by tactical units. Col. Stafford set up specifications and speedily effected required changes in the aircraft before their assignment for combat use.

Cite Aircraft Improvement

He was responsible also for highly important improvements in equipment for P-47 type aircraft, one innovation eliminating a dangerous gasoline hazard in the pilot's compartment.

Commissioned a second lieutenant in May, 1940, Col. Stafford had been employed previously as an engineer-designer by a Chicago firm. He is a graduate of Purdue university at Lafayette, Ind.

Bride of Fighter Pilot

LT. AND MRS. HOWARD COSYNS

The marriage of their daughter, Bonnie Lou, to Lt. Howard Cosyns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cosyns, Lombard, has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence C. Choyce, Glen Ellyn. The wedding ceremony took place at Glen Ellyn Congregational church. The bride attended Mexico City university and Northwestern university. Lt. Cosyns, a fighter pilot, has flown more than 100 missions.

AWARD MEDAL TO CHIEF NURSE OF MERCY SHIP

Captain of Elmhurst Lauded by Army

For heroic action aboard the army hospital ship Emily H. M. Weder on which she is chief nurse, the bronze star was awarded recently to Capt. Ruth C. Tubergen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Tubergen, Elmhurst. The presentation was made shortly after the Weder arrived in the port of Los Angeles with 599 patients from hospitals on Leyte.

As chief nurse, Capt. Tubergen demonstrated outstanding qualities in support of combat operations during the period from August, 1944 to March, 1945, her citation said.

In Many Theaters

In the invasion of southern France, in the Italian combat zone, and later in landings on Leyte and Luzon in the Philippines, "a heavy responsibility was placed on the nursing service of the Weder," said the citation.

Her organization of the nursing service was credited to matchless energy and effort. Much of the time she worked day and night with little rest, in dangerous waters, and under air attack.

Former City Health Nurse

Capt. Tubergen entered active army duty Aug. 1, 1942. After service in Illinois, Virginia, and New Jersey, she was assigned to the hospital ship on July 2, 1944.

A former public health nurse in Chicago, Capt. Tubergen was on the staff of Lutheran Memorial hospital for three years, after which she took post-graduate work in physiotherapy at Northwestern university.

New Bensenville Pastor to Give First Sermon

The Rev. Erwin H. Heldorn, newly installed pastor of Zion Evangelical Lutheran church, Bensenville, will deliver his first sermon today.

NORTH CENTRAL WILL OPEN WITH 200 FRESHMEN

Total enrollment will be more than 400 at North Central college which starts its 85th year tomorrow. The freshmen class of more than 200 will be the largest in the school's history. Fifteen new students are ex-service men who come under the GI bill.

The housing situation has been relieved by the donation of Kroehler hall to the college. The 19 room brick mansion and five acres is a gift to the college from Delmar Kroehler, president of the Kroehler Manufacturing company, in honor of his father, Peter Kroehler, founder of the firm. Twenty-eight senior girls will occupy the building which will be ready for occupancy about Nov. 1.

TINKLE OF BELLS FILLS RIVERSIDE HOME WITH SONG

Marilyn Superak, 14, Has Collection of 70

Marilyn Superak, 14, started collecting bells four years ago and today she has more than 70 of them in the cabinet of the dining room in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Superak, Riverside.

Marilyn Superak

The bells have come from all parts of the world. Each has a different tinkle. Marilyn first became interested in the hobby when the family resided in the Canal Zone, where her father was the designing engineer for the Junior college building at Balboa.

Tiny bells from the orient were to be found on the store shelves in the Canal Zone. They were of enamel and had been used for ceremonials. Marilyn had never seen anything like them before. Her pleasure in them became known to her friends.

Bell Tied to Monkey

Gradually the collection grew. It includes bells from Java, England, Germany, Belgium, Italy, Greece, France, Iran, and Portugal.

The Javanese bell is tied to monkeys to warn householders that the animal is about. There are porcelain figurines from England, California mission bells in a cluster of three, and a cut glass bell from Belgium.

The smallest bell is of silver and came from Mexico. Altho less than an inch in size, it has a faint tinkle. The Greek bell is of brass. Bells from France and Italy are similar in their decorations. The bell from Iran has a rooster on its top. The bullock bell from Java is made of wood. Portugal has provided the cow bell of the collection.

Favorite 100 Years Old

The New Orleans bell has a Negro mammy for decoration. The Niagara Falls bell contains a picture of the falls.

Marilyn has difficulty deciding on her favorite bell, but she thinks it is the school bell that was tapped by a teacher in Germany more than 100 years ago. It was given to Marilyn by the school teacher's granddaughter.

The collection indicates how important has been the art of bell making in foreign lands.

THREE DIVISIONS START WAR FUND DRIVE CANVASS

Prefacing the Oct. 1 opening of the Community and War Fund's victory drive, three solicitation divisions of the campaign will begin activities this week to assist in raising an over-all total of $13,040,700. Early workers are in the initial gifts group of the city division, the men's special gifts and the women's special gifts divisions.

The city division's initial gifts group held their kick-off meeting at the Palmer House last week. Kenneth Putman, Elmhurst, is co-chairman of the group.

At the men's special gifts luncheon in the Palmer House last Thursday, instructions were given to more than 300 section chairmen and workers. Gordon Hattersley, 401 N. Linden av., Oak Park, is assisting with the work of this division.

More than 200 section chairmen of the women's special gifts division will solicit for $300,000 from women in the Chicago area within the next few weeks.

DYEING AT HOME BECOMES EASY AND FASCINATING

BY LOUISE BARGELT

Today there is a product for practically every home dyeing need. One can now dye acetate rayon as well as other rayons, nylons, and mixtures. You can dye lace trimmed silks, tinting the silk and leaving the lace its original color. You can restore whiteness to wools, silks, and all other materials.

There is nothing really new about dyeing. More than 25,000 years ago men were transferring color to the walls of their caves and garments dyed with indigo have been found which date from about 3500 B. C. Fabric dyes derived from vegetable and mineral sources were developed and used by most of the dominant civilizations of antiquity.

Most Drudgery Removed

But never before has dyeing been as simple as it is at the present time. Back in pioneer days a housewife could dye a garment or home furnishing, but it meant long hours over steaming kettles and much dipping and wringing and dipping again. And then if one wanted a color that wasn't a straight red or yellow or blue the chances were not the best that the color could be achieved.

Now it is not difficult to take a color out of a dyed fabric if the article has faded unevenly or a lighter shade is desired on a dark material, or if an entirely new and different color is needed. Home dyes can be brought into play to obtain harmonizing shades needed for wardrobe or home decorations. They often afford an opportunity to obtain colors which one cannot even buy in new materials.

Rugs Dye Easily

Practically every item in a wardrobe from dresses and coats and gloves to hosiery, lingerie, felt hats, sarongs, sweaters, beach robes, and swim suits can be dyed or tinted at home. The same is true for home decorations. You can dye your hooked rug or your scatter rug, your quilt or auto robe, your shower curtains, cushion covers, curtains, and drapes.

The dyes which can be used on all types of fabrics, the synthetic as well as the natural, have opened a wide field of possibilities for the home owner who wishes a change of color for some garment or household decoration.

OUR TOWN

THREE parties were given for Inez Rubin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rubin, 5528 Congress st., when she celebrated her 16th birthday anniversary. At the beginning of the fall semester Miss Rubin will return to Whitworth college, Brookhaven, Miss., where she is a senior in the high school department.

THEATER GUILD REVIVES ATOMIC DRAMA TONIGHT

Burgess Meredith Stars in First Show

BY LARRY WOLTERS

The Theater Guild embarks on its first radio series tonight with Burgess Meredith playing the lead in its revival of "Wings Over Europe," a fantasy first produced by the guild back in 1928. Meredith will play the part of a British scientist who discovers a formula for the control of atomic power. The part the atomic bomb played in ending the war prompts the play's use for the premiere of the series tonight.

Burgess Meredith

Lawrence Langer, director with Theresa Helburn of the guild, will introduce the play and players over WENR-ABC at 9 tonight. He will also join in an exchange of greetings with several outstanding performers who have been associated with the guild in the past—Oscar Hammerstein, Richard Rodgers, Annabella, Philip Barry, Elia Kazan, Rouben Mamoulian, William Bendix, Edward G. Robinson, Helen Menken, and Rosalind Russell.

Other shows are returning and new ones bowing in. Truth or Consequences and the Life of Riley got back on NBC last night. Helen Hayes started off her new series at 6 p. m. last night in the role of Madame Curie. The Shadow with Steve Courtleigh in the title role returns to W-G-N-Mutual at 4 p. m. today, and Quick as a Flash, a mystery quiz with cash awards, comes back on the same network at 5 p. m.

Frank Sinatra will be back on the air with his own show at 8 p. m. next Wednesday over CBS. The Pied Pipers quartet, singing group, has been signed up for regular performances. . . . Mary Boland, the movie comedienne, will be a regular on the Rudy Vallee show. . . . Martha Tilton will join the Paul Whiteman Hall of Fame as singing hostess on Oct. 7. . . . Meredith Willson, lately out of the army, is the musical director for the Burns and Allen series which comes on NBC at 7 p. m. next Thursday.

John Hodiak and Bob Bailey, two former Chicago radio actors who have both made good as movie leading men, will return to radio for the Cavalcade of America broadcast over WMAQ-NBC at 7 p. m. tomorrow in "Sawdust Underground."

Miss Margaret Truman, daughter of the President, is expected to join in the choir singing when the Trinity Episcopal church services are aired on the WBBM-CBS Church of the Air at 9 a. m. to 9:30 today. The Rev. Harold B. Whiteman, the rector, will discuss "The Post War World and My Share In It."

The United Home Finding service which coöperates in presenting the program "I Want a Home" on WCFL at 9:15 p. m. Mondays reports that around 136 requests for child adoption and placement have been received as a result of the broadcasts. The stories of two children who need a home are dramatized on each broadcast.

ON SHORT WAVES

The North American service of the BBC from London includes the following programs today. The frequencies [in megacycles] employed after 4:15 p. m. are: 11.93, 9.58, 9.82, 6.11, 7.26, 9.51. 4:45 p. m.—News. 6:30 p. m.—Radio newsreel. 8:15 p. m.—Sunday service. 8:45 p. m.—Science Notebook. 11:30 p. m.—News reports.

Songstress

Carol Stewart handles vocals on the Beulah show, a comedy series starring Marlin Hurt aired over WBBM-CBS Sunday nights at 7 o'clock.

DEBUSSY SHOW DELAYED; SET FOR SATURDAY

The "Debussy Fantasy," which was to have been given last night on the Chicago Theater of the Air, will be presented at 9 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N, WGNB and Mutual. The surrender ceremonies aboard the battleship Missouri, broadcast the night of Sept. 1, caused a postponement of the presentation of "The Prince of Pathos" which was aired last night instead. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of The Chicago Tribune, will speak next Saturday. Marion Claire and Angelo Raffaelli will be the vocal soloists, singing several Debussy works. Henry Weber will conduct the orchestra and chorus.

Hail Military, Shore Police on W-G-N Show

Your America over W-G-N-Mutual at 3 p. m. today will pay tribute to military police and shore patrols. John Keeler, president of the National Industrial Traffic league, will speak.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Sept. 10

As fall approaches it is necessary to think about getting all plants that must be protected from frost under cover. It is time, too, that those bulbs requiring early planting be obtained and planted. These include lilium candidum, for it makes an early growth.

Narcissus bulbs also should be planted as soon as they can be procured. Crocus also delight in early planting.

If the soil is poor, it is best to build it up by adding decayed manures. Therein lies the value of a compost heap, for when decayed it is humus in the raw and may be spaded under.

Tuesday, Sept. 11

If there are everlastings that can be dried, gather them when they are partly open and not when in full bloom. Gladiolus corms should be carefully labeled and placed in boxes according to variety.

If an increased number is wanted, save all the bulblets no matter how small and store them for next season's planting. Discard poor flowering varieties.

Wednesday, Sept. 12

Altho the new insecticide DDT has received much publicity, and is very effective when properly used, it should be used according to directions and for the purpose intended.

Many cocoons are noticed on the trunks and branches of trees, but if removed and destroyed there will be fewer pests next season.

Thursday, Sept. 13

Many gardeners wonder what plants to use in hanging baskets or to decorate the side of pots. There are a number of interesting plants than can be used for the purpose, such as ceropegia woodii, a nice slender stemmed plant that has small heart shaped leaves, dull gray in color.

The small flowers suggest a Dutchman's pipe; these are follow by little gray tubers which may be used for propagating purposes.

Friday, Sept. 14.

Make the lawn now if it has not been done for it is during the cool, autumn days that new grass grows rapidly, making deep roots. Spade the area to be sown to grass, rake off all clods, burying them in a corner, and sow at the rate of one pound to 250 square feet.

Gently draw the rake over the new sown ground, and if it is done just before a rain so much the better. Fall rains are sufficient to give a fine growth, and weeds will grow very little.

Buy the best lawn mixture for a sunny lawn and a special shady mixture for a shady area.

Saturday, Sept. 15

Do not delay moving poinsettia plants, gardenia, Christmas cactus, and other house plants indoors before the weather turns cool.

If plants need repotting thru breakage or other causes, use a clean pot and a soil mixture consisting of two parts good loam [rich vegetable soil will do], one part leafmold or peatmoss and one part torpedo sand.

One part of well decayed cow manure may be added to each bushel of the mixture for general use.

Other plants may be grown in such an area, such as lily-of-the-valley, spurge, or grave myrtle [vinca minor].

OPEN LUTHERAN CHURCH TODAY ON MEDILL AV.

Bishop Will Speak at Dedication

Dedication services for the Medill Avenue Lutheran church, 4917 Medill av., which recently was completed and furnished at a cost of $60,000, will be held at 3:30 p. m. today. Bishop Martin Anderson of the eastern district of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America, will speak on "The House of God, the House of Gladness." Sixteen clergymen will participate in the dedication. The Rev. Ariel R. Molldrem is pastor.

Two services this morning with the Rev. Boral R. Biorn, former pastor, speaking, will initiate the activities of the week-long dedication festivities. A specil service for children will be held at 9:30 a. m. Regular worship services will begin at 11 o'clock. The Rev. Mars A. Dale of LaCrosse, Wis., a former pastor, will speak at the fellowship service at 7:30 p. m.

Building in Gothic Style

The new Lannon stone structure, completed with leaded stained glass windows and walnut stained furnishings, is designed in the Gothic style as applied to an English country church.

The main worship room has an open timber truss effect in the ceiling and will seat 235 persons. The side walls and ceiling are finished in light buff, trimmed with light walnut stained woodwork and furnishings. The windows depict the story of the life of Christ.

The chancel at the north end is fitted with an Italian marble altar with a background of red fabric. The organ console and choirs are located in a side transept. The choir loft seats 30 persons.

Designer Will Speak

The adjoining chapel will seat an additional 100 members. The first floor plan also includes the pastor's study and church office. Confirmation classes will be held in the only second floor room. The fellowship hall is located on the ground floor.

Monday night has been designated by the Rev. Mr. Molldrem as community night. Hugo C. Haeuser of Milwaukee, designer of the church building, will speak. Music will be presented by the Medill string trio composed of Mrs. Ruth Hutchinson, pianist; Liv Solvig, cellist, and Alfrons Olson, violinist. Greetings will be given by community leaders.

The Rev. Mr. Biorn, pastor from 1936 to 1942, under whose ministry the project for a new church building was begun, will speak Tuesday and Wednesday nights. The Rev. John P. Gaardsmoe of Grace Luthern church, Harlem and Schubert avs., will sing Tuesday night. Gudrun Thorson Harr will be in charge of music Wednesday night.

Will Confirm Class

A musical presented by the church choir Thursday night will honor 74 men and women members in military service. Mrs. Hutchinson is director. Chaplain Jennings Feroe of the navy will speak on "The Song of the Flag."

The first confirmation services will be held at 11 a. m. next Sunday. The class includes Georgeanne Anthony, 2234 Kilpatrick av.; Marilyn Doll, 2147 Lamon av.; Arnold Grasser, 2005 Lamon av.; Gloria Jamieson, 4908 Belden av.; Janice Kramer, 2231 Latrobe av.; Harry Jensen, 2212 N. LaPorte av.; Mary Joan Jacobs, 4711 Shakespeare av.; Robert Kyllingstad, 4724 Montana st.; Lois Sandberg, 2234 La Porte av.; Joan and Jack Scanlan, 2032 Leamington av.; Tor Solvig, 4932 Belden av., and Norlin Spiers, 2143 Lamon av.

The organized history of the church began June 23, 1927, when the congregation was incorporated with 14 charter members. Since that time services have been held in a one story frame building on the site of the new building. Membership is 400.

Church Class to Show Old Styles for Brides

The Friendly class of Arlington Heights Presbyterian church will present "The Parade of the Brides," a costume show of what brides wore in previous years, at 2 p. m. Sept. 19 in the church. A tea will follow.

SGT. J. S. ZARAZA WINS SILVER, BRONZE STARS FOR TWO DAYS' WORK

Sgt. Joseph S. Zaraza, 1516 Augusta blvd., received both the silver and bronze stars at Wakeman General hospital, Camp Atterbury, Ind., recently. Veteran of four major engagements he also wears the Purple Heart award with two oak leaf clusters.

Sgt. Zaraza

The new awards recognized acts of heroism two days apart while he and his outfit were isolated in France last year by heavy enemy attacks. The group had to be supplied by air, and many of their supplies fell into enemy occupied areas. With a companion Zaraza volunteered to retrieve the supplies and in the fighting that ensued the two destroyed a machine gun nest and killed its crew.

On the following day Zaraza won the bronze star when he led his squad in a charge to wipe out a German machine gun nest.

With 11 in Family Red Points Vanish Faster than Snow on Kitchen Stove

There's steak, pounds and pounds of it, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hausen, 7620 Foster av., but with nine children reporting promptly for the meal the meat soon will be just a pleasant memory. Rationing hurts just as much in a big family, Mrs. Hausen finds, and days of spaghetti and soup will have to make up for the red point treat.

With six teen-age Hausens living across the street Farmer Bernhard von Bergen knows the labor problem only as something other truck farmers talk about. Jack, 12 (left), and Robert, 14, helped with all farm crops, and still remain enthusiastic as they line up for an onion pulling race.

Corinne, 21, learned early to be philosophical about the family's share-the-work program, and finds shirts get ironed just as quickly with a smile as a frown. The pleasant task of taking their pedigreed Afghan dog for an airing falls to Charlotte, 16.

While big brother William is off with the marines, Roger, twin brother of Robert, sees that dust doesn't collect on the elaborate set of drums Bill left behind.

When William (right) returned to California after marine duty in Hawaii he was able to give brother Arthur a bit of technique on dealing with the Japanese. Following their California meeting Arthur went to Okinawa, while William was assigned to Cherry Point, N. C.

A family fight might mean a free-for-all in less well regulated households, but with the Hausens it's all in fun. While demonstrating with boxing gloves the art of self defense, Jerry (left) and Jim are refereed by Jack, with the family unofficially seeing that all's fair. Onlookers in family group include (from left) father William, Erla Mae, Robert, Charlotte, mother Cora, Corinne, and Roger.

Mother of 14 Rations Jobs Around Home

BY EDNA CARROLL

As the mother of 14 children, nine of them red heads, Mrs. William Hausen is a bemused spectator of the passing show—and at her home at 7620 Foster av. the performance is continuous.

Robert tramped in to get his gardening tools. His twin, Roger, was fixing the screen door. Carrot-topped Jack was trying to make the dog enjoy her bath. Others paraded thru the house on errands of their own devising. All of this as Mrs. Hausen sat down for a comparatively quiet afternoon.

There are only nine children at home now. Four boys are in the marines and Dorothy, the oldest girl, is married and living in Yorkfield. Mrs. Hausen admitted it was like a tomb around there these days.

Rules by Suggestion

A young looking woman, Mrs. Hausen's rule of suggestion gets the same effect as the iron hand. Keeping house is a coöperative enterprise which enables the members to carry on outside activities, such as Mrs. Hausen's meetings with the auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Her husband, red haired William Hausen, is a sergeant of the guards at Victor Adding Machine company.

Eldest of the Hausen children is Dorothy, 29. Next is Arthur, 27, then the first of four sets of twins, Shirley and William, 22. Following them are Corinne, 21; Erla Mae, 19; George and Charles, red headed twins, 17; Charlotte, 16; Robert and Roger, the black haired twins, 14; Jack, 12, and last, James and Jerry, 9.

Four Join Marines

William, a sergeant at Cherry Point, N. C., entered the marines in April, 1943. Arthur, now on Okinawa, joined the marines in June, 1943. George and Charles joined the marines last June. Their father was in World War I., in the army.

The Hausen family gets everything in the large economy size, including trouble with red points. Time was, Mrs. Hausen recollected wistfully, when the menu almost always listed a seven or eight pound roast or its equivalent. Now, spaghetti [four pounds for a meal] and meat balls [about three pounds] is the standby.

Bread—14 Loaves a Day

Besides the spaghetti entree, the shopping list for one meal runs something like this: a peck of potatoes, four cans of peas, two cans of carrots, six packages of jello. Butter goes at the rate of two pounds, milk at three gallons, and bread at 14 pound and a half loaves a day. Fifteen dozen eggs last slightly less than a week—if they go easy. Fresh vegetables from the garden supplement the list. The food is cooked in kettles like grandma used to stir the apple butter in, and served in dishes she brought out only to feed the harvest hands.

The boys, trained to be as handy around the house as the girls, patch their pants and iron their shirts as the need arises. On occasion they have been known to whip up a cake. Few, indeed, are the hardy souls who would remark about the burnt

CHURCH WOMEN WILL HOLD TEA ON WEDNESDAY

The Woman's club of the Irving Park Christian church, 4300 N. Kedvale av., will have a missionary tea Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. L. Conlon, 4327 N. Keeler av. Officers include Mrs. Roy L. Holmes, president; Mrs. C. E. Black, 1st vice president and program chairman; Mrs. Frank Erickson, 2d vice president and membership chairman, and Mrs. J. G. Southwell and Mrs. W. W. Abbott, secretaries.

Invite Northwest Siders to Attend Library Course

Northwest side residents interested in registering for the great books course on basic problems to be given this winter at Hild library, 4544 Lincoln av., should register now, Miss Jessie Reed, librarian, has announced. The course will begin at 8 p. m. Oct. 16. Discussions will be held the first and third Tuesdays of each month thru May.

CATHOLIC GROUP TO HONOR NEW PASTOR TODAY

Holy Name society of Immaculate Conception church will honor the new pastor, the Rev. Richard Hughes, C. P., at a breakfast following the 8 a. m. mass today in the clubrooms of the church, 7263 Talcott av.

Father Hughes will be presented by John J. O'Connell, president. Arthur C. Lenzini, program chairman, has arranged for Samuel B. Bosley to make the address.

The Holy Name mass celebrated at 8 a. m. will be offered for the late Father Albert Drohan, C. P.

New Bensenville Pastor to Give First Sermon

The Rev. Erwin H. Heidorn, newly installed pastor of Zion Evangelical Lutheran church, Bensenville, will deliver his first sermon today. The Rev. Mr. Heidorn was previously pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran church in Hoxie, Kas.

George (left) and Charles, twins, enlisted in the marines last June, and still are following twin careers while training in Parris Island, S. C.

C. A. P. SQUADRON WILL ENTERTAIN VETERANS GROUP

Civil Air Patrol squadron 611-5 will be host to the Veterans Corps 2d infantry, composed of former members of the 132d infantry division, and their families today at a basket picnic at Camp Sauganash, 4500 Foster av. A parade of the squadron commanded by Capt. J. E. Day will begin the festivities at 11 a. m.

The girls' drill team from flight C of 611-5 will compete with the girls' team of squadron 613-6. Races, games, dancing, and aerial maneuvers and acrobatics will be included in the program.

SCHOOL YOUTHS SEE GLAMOR OF JOB DISAPPEAR

Enrollments Up as Classes Open

Another peace time conversion "problem" may be checked off the list.

Hundreds of youthful wage earners have turned their backs on the immediate advantage of pay checks and returned to high schools, it was revealed in a survey of northwest side Catholic high schools following their opeuing last week.

Almost every school counted increases in enrollment ranging from 10 to almost 100 per cent over last year's figures. Requests for work permits have decreased correspondingly. Some schools plan on abandoning the accelerated programs in which summer school and condensed courses enabled students to graduate in three years.

Will Offer Aeronautics Again

At Holy Trinity High school for boys, 1443 Division st., enrollment reached nearly 600 compared to last year's enrollment of 245. As a reflection of war time needs interest still remains high in science, mathematics, and business courses. Next spring the school will offer courses in aeronautics and radio which had been innovated during the war years. One of the three new faculty members is Brother Rex who was among the Americans held prisoner in the Santo Thomas prison camp in the Philippines.

Among the girls' schools, Good Counsel High school, 3800 Peterson av., is typical in its reflection of the new peace time school personality. Enrollment there increased from last year's 285 to 340, the maximum the school can handle. Commercial courses which gained in popularity during war years remain favorites among elective subjects, and conversely enough, clothing classes are equally popular.

The Red Cross unit organized as an extracurricular activity will still be popular, a faculty member theorized, since relief work will still be a considerable item in the postwar years.

Add 12 Faculty Members

At Weber High school for boys, 1456 Division st., an enrollment increase of 375 students from last year's 285 will be met by a faculty addition of 12 members. Nine new members will teach in the social science department and three will be added to the mathematics staff.

The three year accelerated course, necessitating summer school, was in force two years, but was discontinued when the school completed its summer program last year.

In three of the girls' Catholic high schools the spurt in enrollment is considerable. At Resurrection High school, 7432 Talcott av., enrollment showed a gain of 30 students for a figure of 170; Holy Family academy, 1446 W. Division st., showed an estimated 10 per cent increase with 480 enrolled; Alvernia High school, 3901 N. Ridgeway av., enrolled 890 students, a gain of 50 over last year. Typical of all is the interest the girls show in science courses and business training.

Will Enlarge Business Training

At Holy Family academy three new faculty members were added, with two teaching in the secretarial department. In pre-war years the school maintained only seven or eight classes in business training, but now plans on 15 classes. Four years of typing courses are a requirement of the school.

Josephinum High school 1515 N. Oakley av. will reflect few changes in the new term for last year's enrollment of 288 will be maintained. Almost all the student body took business courses last year and mathematics and science courses also remain high in interest. There as in most of the other girls' schools Red Cross work is expected to remain one of the major after school activities.

HUGO DAHM AND WIFE OF DES PLAINES FETE 125 ON 50TH WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Dahm, residents of Des Plaines since 1905, celebrated their golden wedding with open house last Sunday at which they entertained 125 guests.

Hugo Dahm

Mrs. Dahm

The couple was married Sept. 4, 1895. They have six children, 14 grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren, all of whom were present except one daughter. Their daughters are Mrs. Clara Frank, Wheaton; Mrs. Martha Wittenberger, Evanston; Mrs. Louise Morrison, Mrs. Emma Poyer, and Mrs. Meta Auld, all of Des Plaines. One son, Hugo A. Dahm, also lives in Des Plaines.

Dahm was associated with a wholesale shoe firm for 44 years, and for the last 12 years with a stove manufacturing firm. He is past master of the Des Plaines Masonic lodge, and past worthy patron of the Order of Eastern Star.

LESSONS OF WAR WILL IMPLEMENT R.O.T.C. COURSES

Announce Staff Changes for Northwest Side

With peace a reality, lessons learned in the war will be passed on to the R. O. T. C. units in 29 public high schools during the present year, Lt. Col. Oscar N. Taylor, acting professor of military science and tactics, has announced.

Changes in methods of instruction as well as in subject matter will give cadets a closer understanding of the military system, he said. Col. Taylor, whose retirement was announced last July, is carrying on in the absence of his successor, Col. Hans C. Minuth, who is on overseas duty.

Will Exhibit Weapons

Col. Taylor plans to exhibit machine guns, mortars, carbines, and bazookas and other weapons developed in this war at each school. Many of the new instructors have had overseas combat experience. All R. O. T. C. officers recently attended a special army course at Fort Benning, Ga. A similar course was offered enlisted instructors at Camp Ellis, Ill.

Three new military supervisors have been announced for northwest side high schools. Capt. Jack K. White will be in charge at Taft, Roosevelt, and Von Steuben; Capt. Vincent A. Meredino will handle Schurz, Foreman, and Steinmetz. Capt. Fred D. Sauter will direct at Lane.

Name New Instructors

Military instructors newly assigned include Corp. Arthur Bienenfeld, Roosevelt; Sgt. Edward J. Uber, Von Steuben; Corp. Clifford A. Nelson, Taft; Sgt. Elmer Cox and Corp. Philip Mezzatesta, assistant, Schurz; Sgt. Steven A. Duttko, Foreman; Sgt. Edward F. Frisch, Steinmetz, and Sgt. George R. Baxter, Corp. Charles H. Duckworth and Corp. Sam C. Britt, Lane.

City-wide enrollment of cadets is expected to equal last year's figure of 9,580. Authorized enrollment of uniformed cadets for the first semester is: Roosevelt, 265; Lane, 1,000; Schurz, 390; Steinmetz, 280; Taft, 150; Van Steuben, 235, and Foreman, 200. Number of nonuniformed cadets which may be enrolled at each school will be fixed by the supervising officer depending on the available facilities.

Business Firms Seek to Better Area Relations

With civic improvement projects as their purpose, a group of 10 manufacturing companies in the northwest area recently organized the Northwest Industrial Development council.

Members are the Benjamin Electric Manufacturing company, Do All company, Hack Machine company, Lord and Burnham Greenhouse company, General Molded Products, Inc., and the Chicago Foundry company, all of Des Plaines; Arlington Seating company and Creamery Package company of Arlington Heights; Economy Fuse and Manufacturing company of Palatine, and the M. P. Heinze Machine company, 6300 Northwest hwy.

The organization will seek to establish better understanding between member industries and the communities in which they are located and form a basis for the exchange of ideas and settlement of problems common to all companies in the council.

The organization is conducting a survey in several towns in the Northwest highway area to determine which civic projects it will sponsor. The canvass will include a cross-section of public opinion on transportation problems, adequacy of present medical and educational facilities, and possible interest in proposed cultural improvements.

With AMERICA'S FIGHTERS

Lt. Comdr. George W. Casselman, 4843 Kentucky av., recently was awarded the gold star in lieu of a second bronze star medal for outstanding performance of duty as commanding officer of the destroyer Pillsbury in an attack against an enemy submarine. The award was made at the naval operating base, Norfolk, Va.

Comdr. Casselman

John S. Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Wallace, 2311 N. Sawyer av., has been appointed a flight officer at the Enid [Okla.] army air field.

Donald J. Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Fox, 4120 Cornelia av., has been promoted to first lieutenant with a carrier squadron based in Italy. Lt. Fox has participated in dropping supplies behind enemy lines in Italy and in the evacuation of wounded.

Donald Fox

Charles R. McCall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. McCall, 4136 N. Ridgeway av., is taking advanced radio instruction in Tennessee after fighting at Iwo, Okinawa, and over Japan. An air crewman with a torpedo squadron, he was forced to parachute into the sea during one raid and was rescued by a submarine crew.

Sgt. Bruno M. Pasierbski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karol Pasierbski, 3948 Roscoe st., has completed 18 months overseas service as a member of a mine and tank obstacle removing squad with a combat engineer unit. He was in the Leyete and Okinawa campaigns.

Sgt. Pasierbski

Maj. Martin W. Hynett, 3034 Lowell av, is with a group of air force officers which has been evacuating wounded men by helicoptors.

Pvt. Clarence J. Hoffman, 3601 Wilson av., is playing a leading role in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" with a special service section in Kunming, China. Pvt. Hoffman, director of the section, has been touring various base units of the China wing of the air transport command.

Upon completion of 250 hours of operational flight over the India-China air routes, two northwest side men have been awarded the air medal. They are Sgt. William D. Carder, 4932 Kentucky av., and Sgt. Omer Dockstader, 4103 Nelson st.

Pvt. Ralph H. Dutton Jr., 3041 Dickens av., has volunteered for a year's duty at the radio-weather station at Walrus bay on Greenland's east coast. Except for radio contact, the post is shut off from the rest of the world.

WOMEN SOLVE ARMY PROBLEM OF EXTRA TENTS

The men who must find ways to dispose of army surplus goods in a peace time world can stop worrying about what to do with one item in their inventory. Mrs. Irene V. Kobrzynski, 5213 Larned av., and her friends can use all of the mosquito netting tents available.

Dainty curtains and lamp shades made from the "strictly practical" material of the tents would make the army designers jump with surprise. Now that housewives have passed the word there's a shortage of the surplus tents.

Mrs. Kobrzynski believes she was the first to get the idea. At least she got in on the ground floor of the market, however. She has bought nearly 25 tents. Two pairs of the egg shell colored curtains adorn her bedroom, bathroom, and kitchen, and a number of ruffled and bow-tied lamp shades. She used about 12 tents and distributed the rest among her friends, she explains.

How-to-make-it inquiries have kept the family telephone busy since she hemmed her first pair of curtains last January. Most conversations begin with, "You don't know me, but I'm a friend of. . . ." She has explained "how" more than 150 times over the telephone. Many women have come to see for themselves.

The material resembles bobbinet, Mrs. Kobrzynski explained, and has lots of body. It has a hexagonal design and launders beautifully, she said.

Royal League

Avondale Royal League council will present a children's entertainment program on Sept. 27 at the lodge hall, 5835 Irving Park road.

IF YOU NEED TIRE FIXED OR 4TH AT BRIDGE, HERE 'T IS

Mrs. Ward Also Repairs Occasional Furnace

If you're a newcomer to Park Ridge and need a fourth for bridge, a fire built in the furnace, or your baby is having tantrums, chances are Mrs. Esther Ward will arrive at your door just in time to help in the dilemma.

She's rung the doorbells of 8,000 homes in Park Ridge for nine years just as housewives were putting up curtains or adding some finishing touch to their new homes. As the city's official hostess, Mrs. Ward usually is the first to greet new families in Park Ridge.

Meets Occasional Closed Door

There have been few times when doors have remained shut to her, she says. That was because the housewives, just moved from apartments in Chicago who were used to living behind locked doors, took her for a traveling saleswoman. In these instances, however, the door was opened enough for her to slip thru a book listing business houses and points of interest presented on behalf of the chamber of commerce. Seeing her good intentions, the strangers often would invite her back for a cup of coffee or to dinner.

After Pearl Harbor when war plants located near Park Ridge the population climbed so rapidly Mrs. Ward was on the job 10 hours a day. Even then she missed the chance to spread the welcome mat in the homes of some workers.

Houses changed hands rapidly and Mrs. Ward found herself frequently resorting to the aspirin box. New families were tracked down in various ways. The best method devised was by keeping in touch with the city water and light department for which her husband works.

A true Park Ridger who knows the town's history from the beginning, Mrs. Ward was born and reared there as was her father. Her grandfather was one of the town's early settlers.

She's Assistant to Mayor

Recently reappointed as hostess, Mrs. Ward also has been named assistant to Mayor Alfred P. Haake. She will be chairman of the newly created woman's advisory council, purpose of which is to handle suggestions pertaining to the betterment of the community. Immediate problems to be laid before the council, she says, are the physical appearance of Park Ridge, home, educational, and religious interests, and long range planning for the future.

Among other council members are Mrs. Eugene Romeo, Mrs. Richard Wagner, Mrs. George Henning, Mrs. Harley Hohm, Mrs. Frank O. Potter, Mrs. Walter Springer, Mrs. J. O. Carr, Mrs. Fred Burt, Mrs. Paul C. Carrick, Mrs. Ogden Chamberlin.

NOTRE DAME COUNCIL OF ISABELLA LADIES TO FETE HINES VETS

The Notre Dame council of the Ladies of Isabella will entertain disabled veterans at Hines hospital Wednesday night. Mrs. Theresa Murphy, 4810 N. Linder av., is chairman of arrangements.

Mrs. Murphy

Ladies of Isabella have been entertaining disabled veterans with parties each month since the first war. The men are provided cigarets, candy, playing cards, and refreshments.

Mrs. Murphy, who has been a member of the Ladies of Isabella for 30 years, has arranged for council members to be taken to the hospital in special buses.

Shoes a Tough Problem

Past experience has taught the children it's best to sit close to the head of the table. Frequently homemade cakes don't reach all the way around.

The table is about 12 feet long and extends into the living room. Linoleum covers the living room and dining room floors, making for quick conversion into a sizable dance floor.

Major problem in the family has been shoes, Mrs. Hausen said. Twice yearly the Hausens make an excursion to the loop to tenant a shoe store for half a day. Charles always got the most for his money, Mom remembered. He wears a size 12½ double E.

Guest Gets Hotfoot

They love company. One evening a young man called for one of the girls. Unfortunately, her brothers told him, she was not yet home but they would be happy to keep him company in the interim. While one occupied his attention the other instituted an encircling movement and gave him a hotfoot.

He stayed on and learned—Jujitsu and acrobatics. He went home at length and tried his new talents on his sister, who got caught in the chandelier and pulled it down.

"We never pulled our chandelier down, mused Jack.

Like Family Hour

In the event of a family hour at home, Mrs. Hausen turns on the radio, one of the boys plays the piano, a couple thump on the drums, handily set up in the living room, while the rest harmonize or dance. Hausen reclines in his chair and sleeps tunefully. If the toads and frogs collected by the boys during the day in a tub on the front porch, compete, Mrs. Hausen calmly deposits them in the field at a reasonable distance from the house.

Mrs. Hausen regrets they've never been able to get a recording of her husband's snoring. The quiet that precedes turning the switch always shatters his slumber.

OPEN TWO DAY FAIR SATURDAY IN DES PLAINES

Des Plaines will hold a two day fair and community celebration Saturday and Sunday under the auspices of Hometowners, Inc., an organization of civic group representatives. In recognition of the occasion, Mayor G. Walter Pflughaupt has proclaimed Saturday Des Plaines day.

The fair will open with a parade beginning at 2 p. m. Saturday in the business district and ending at Rand park fieldhouse, where the fair will be held.

Exhibits will be displayed by manufacturers, retailers, distributors, business and religious organizations, women's clubs, American Legion posts, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Kiwanis and Lions clubs, and Boy and Girl Scouts. The exhibits will include equipment made for military use, as well as peace time products which are now being manufactured. The latter group will include household wares, furniture, and plastic items.

Victory gardeners will display canned goods and fresh vegetables and fruits. Hobbyists will exhibit their collections.

Mrs. H. I. Southerwick is general chairman of the fair. Committee chairmen include Mrs. Byron C. Foote, displays; Tom Montgomery, booths; Julius Kranz, parade; Mrs. Kranz, program; Albert Stafford, door prizes, and Arthur Weideman, master of ceremonies.

OPEN REHEARSAL FOR 'MAIZE KING'; YOUTH PAGEANT

Rehearsals for "The Glory of the Maize King" to be presented the first week of October by children of the Northwestern Settlement house, 1400 Augusta blvd., will begin at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow and continue each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of this month. The cast of the autumn pageant includes 50 children between 9 and 14 years old. Miss Orenda Mitchell is director.

CLUB LEADERS PREPARE FIRST FALL MEETINGS

With the approach of fall northwest side clubs are completing plans for activities and programs for their new seasons. The Irving Park Woman's club program will include talks on the post-war world, education, and international relations, plus musicals and book reviews.

The president's tea on Oct. 8 at Myrtle Masonic temple, 4240 Irving Park rd., is scheduled as the first fall meeting. Mrs. Charles Mates, president, will preside. Angelo Raffaelli, W-G-N and NBC radio star, will sing. Mrs. Bert Hardstedt is general arrangements chairman.

Belmont Woman's Club

Mrs. Fred L. Jaggle, program chairman, has completed plans for the Belmont Woman's club program. The first meeting will be held Oct. 3 at the Chopin park field house, 3420 N. Long av.

The yearbook contains notices of presentation of a play written by Mrs. Gustave E. Schutz, "A Dream Come True," which won third prize in the state contest of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs last spring, book reviews, and musicals. Talks have been scheduled on rehabilitation, Mexican art, Canada, public health, and household arts.

Catholic Woman's Club

One hundred and thirty Catholic women of Park Ridge recently organized a new club to be known as the Park Ridge Catholic Woman's club. The first general meeting will be held Oct. 8 in the Pickwick theater building at which officers will be elected and department chairmen appointed. Mrs. Arthur Gross is acting president and Mrs. Elden Roxburgh is program chairman. Mrs. John Buslee, membership chairman, said a membership of 200 by December is their goal.

Altrui Woman's Club

Miss Lorraine Ruedel, president, will be hostess to the Altrui Young Woman's club Tuesday night in her home, 2305 N. Avers av. Mrs. Helen Hudson Below of Oak Park will talk on "A Painter's View of Cape Cod." Officers assisting Miss Ruedel this year include: Mrs. Walter Beck and Phyllis Sell, vice presidents; Mrs. Bertha Gilman and Charlotte Wiebe, secretaries, and Eleanor Shefte, treasurer.

SUBURB WANTS TO INCREASE ITS WAR FUND GOAL

First indications of the success of the coming Community and War Fund drive are plentiful in the northwest suburban division — so plentiful the chairman of district 4 has asked the district quota be raised from $16,000 to $21,000.

Evan Evans, Barrington, district chairman, asked permission to change the quota as advance solicitations were made in his district. The district includes Barrington and the townships of Barrington, Cuba, Ela, and Wauconda. Campaign assistants include Albert M. Wilkins, Henry A. Neil, and Herbert B. Sykes, all of Barrington, and James H. Davis, Wauconda.

Advance work on the drive has begun in both the city and suburban divisions following kickoff meetings last week. Total goal is $13,040,700.

C. OF C. STARTS COURTESY DRIVE IN PORTAGE PARK

Determined to make its community an example of politeness, the Portage Park Chamber of Commerce will begin a campaign to promote courtesy among residents and employes of the community's stores and plants.

Ralph W. Hirschberg, president, has appointed George W. Hill chairman. Among those assisting are Charles N. Moorehead and G. R. Larsen.

Members of the chamber have received a bulletin urging greater courtesy. An essay contest for shoppers is in progress. Awards of victory bonds and stamps totaling $150 will be made to children and adults for stating 50 words or less why they enjoy shopping in Portage Park.

Placards are on display in stores to show that "every employe is pledged to give courteous service."

"Portage park certainly is no worse than any other community when it comes to courtesy, but we feel that it is up to some enterprising district to set the example by promoting such a campaign," Hill said in announcing the committee's first project. "As we stand on the threshold of a post-war era, no one can deny there has been a lack of courtesy during the war. Certainly there is no time better than the present to correct this."

DEBUSSY SHOW DELAYED; SET FOR SATURDAY

The "Debussy Fantasy," which was to have been given last night on the Chicago Theater of the Air, will be presented at 9 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N, WGNB and Mutual. The surrender ceremonies aboard the battletship Missouri, broadcast the night of Sept. 1, caused a postponement of the presentation of "The Prince of Pathos" which was aired last night instead. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak next Saturday. Marion Claire and Angelo Raffaelli will be the vocal soloists, singing several Debussy works. Henry Weber will conduct the orchestra and chorus.

THEATER GUILD REVIVES ATOMIC DRAMA TONIGHT

Burgess Meredith Stars in First Show

BY LARRY WOLTERS

The Theater Guild embarks on its first radio series tonight with Burgess Meredith playing the lead in its revival of "Wings Over Europe," a fantasy first produced by the guild back in 1928. Meredith will play the part of a British scientist who discovers a formula for the control of atomic power. The part the atomic bomb played in ending the war prompts the play's use for the premiere of the series tonight.

Burgess Meredith

Lawrence Langer, director with Theresa Helburn of the guild, will introduce the play and players over WENR-ABC at 9 tonight. He will also join in an exchange of greetings with several outstanding performers who have been associated with the guild in the past—Oscar Hammerstein, Richard Rodgers, Annabella, Philip Barry, Elia Kazan, Rouben Mamoullian, William Bendix, Edward G. Robinson, Helen Menken, and Rosalind Russell.

Other shows are returning and new ones bowing in. Truth or Consequences and the Life of Riley got back on NBC last night. Helen Hayes started off her new series at 6 p. m. last night in the role of Madame Curie. The Shadow with Steve Courtleigh in the title role returns to W-G-N-Mutual at 4 p. m. today, and Quick as a Flash, a mystery quiz with cash awards, comes back on the same network at 5 p. m.

Frank Sinatra will be back on the air with his own show at 8 p. m. next Wednesday over CBS. The Pied Pipers quartet, singing group, has been signed up for regular performances. . . . Mary Boland, the movie comedienne, will be a regular on the Rudy Vallee show. . . . Martha Tilton will join the Paul Whiteman Hall of Fame as singing hostess on Oct. 7. . . . Meredith Willson, lately out of the army, is the musical director for the Burns and Allen series which comes on NBC at 7 p. m. next Thursday.

John Hodiak and Bob Bailey, two former Chicago radio actors who have both made good as movie leading men, will return to radio for the Cavalcade of America broadcast over WMAQ-NBC at 7 p. m. tomorrow in "Sawdust Underground."

Miss Margaret Truman, daughter of the President, is expected to join in the choir singing when the Trinity Episcopal church services are aired on the WBBM-CBS Church of the Air at 9 a. m. to 9:30 today. The Rev. Harold B. Whiteman, the rector, will discuss "The Post War World and My Share In It."

The United Home Finding service which coöperates in presenting the program "I Want a Home" on WCFL at 9:15 p. m. Mondays reports that around 136 requests for child adoption and placement have been received as a result of the broadcasts. The stories of two children who need a home are dramatized on each broadcast.

Star Theater Guests

James Melton will welcome Mary Martin and Alec Templeton as guests on Star Theater over WBBM-CBS at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Songstress

Carol Stewart handles vocals on starring Marlin Hurt aired over the Beulah show, a comedy series WBBM-CBS Sunday nights at 7 o'clock.

'REFORMATION' SYMPHONY ON NBC PROGRAM

Arturo Toscanini will direct the NBC orchestra in Mendelssohn's "Reformation" Symphony on the Symphony of the Air hour over WMAQ-NBC at 4 p. m. today. The program also will include Smetana's "The Moldau" and the Overture to Cherubini's "Anacreon."

Hail Military, Shore Police on W-G-N Show

Your America over W-G-N-Mutual at 3 p. m. today will pay tribute to military police and shore patrols.

GARDEN HOMES TO BEGIN 25TH JUBILEE FRIDAY

Service Men Will Be Honored Sunday

Residents of the Garden Homes community will hold a three day program celebrating the development's 25th anniversary beginning Friday. The community, which contains 175 homes, is located between 87th and 89th sts. and State st. and Michigan av.

Opening the festivities at 8 p. m. Friday will be a street dance on 88th st. between Wabash and Michigan avs. Music will be furnished by recordings loaned by residents. Members of the Garden Homes Improvement association, the group sponsoring the affair, will string the street with floodlights. There will be a refreshment booth and one for victory bonds. Many bonds are sold in the community for it has sent 125 men to the services.

Children's Program Saturday

Saturday afternoon there will be events for children from 3 to 15 years, with races, games, and a pie eating contest. Saturday night there will be a treasure hunt for adults followed by a box social. Proceeds will be used for the improvement of the community's recreation center.

At 2:30 p. m. Sunday the community's honor roll will be dedicated at the flagpole at 88th st. and Michigan av. The Gardiner General hospital band will play and Col. John R. Hall, head of the hospital, will speak. The Rev. Thomas Mulcahey of St. Thomas the Apostle church will officiate. Sponsoring this observance will be Liberty American Legion post, commanded by Marty Battles, who also will speak. Robert Shebilla will be soloist.

Reception for Former Residents

Following the program there will be a reception for former residents of the center. Members of the anniversary committee have decorated the community house with old pictures and programs, reminiscent of various happenings and people known to most or all who ever resided in Garden Homes.

The project was built in 1920 to help east just such a housing shortage as exists today and was originally only for families with children. Eight different types of homes were built so as to avoid monotony. It was named Garden Homes after the English village from which it was copied.

Name Committee Members

Thirty-eight of the original 175 families still remain, some of them now raising their third and at least one, its fourth generation. The center has a portable school building.

Members of the anniversary committee include Mrs. Frank Felber and Arnold H. Strauss, chairmen, and Harold Jacobs, Jesse Becker, Mrs. Russell Wright, Mrs. Carl Kingsbury, Mrs. Harry Branch, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bard, Mrs. Carl Bodine, Arthur McKay, Mrs. George Coleman, Mrs. Victor Johnson, Mrs. Barnard Harrington, Mrs. Richard McCully, Donald Branch, Mrs. Joseph Storey, Mrs. Kurk Graulich, Clyde Flaks, Carl Giesen, Erick Lipsch, Victor Julian, Paul Chaplick, William O'Brien, Frank Ambler, Peaslee Street, Mrs. Joseph Colvin, Mrs. D. H. Weitzenfeld, and Pvt. William Austin.

BEVERLY HILLS LEGION WOMEN AIDS SELECTED

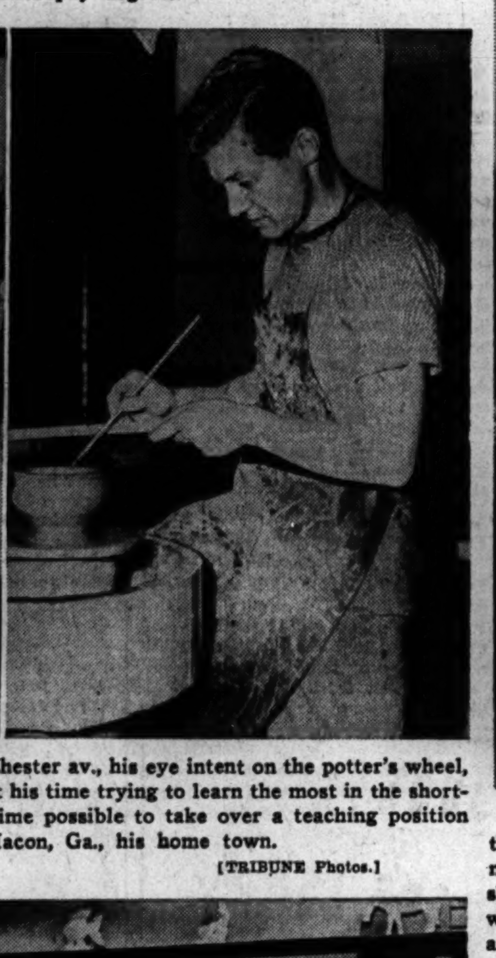
U. of C. Arts and Crafts Classes Entice Student and Hobbyist

They came from all over the country, for credits, or as a hobby, with talent and without, to attend classes in workshop techniques in the arts and crafts held each summer at the University of Chicago. Two of the most enthusiastic students in clay modeling were Edward L. Collier (left), 6724 Champlain av., and Orville Hanchey, ex-navy teacher, of Natchitoches, La. Collier, who is working on his doctors degree in education, is assistant principal at the old La Salle school, 41st st. and Michigan av. Hanchey is working on his doctor of philosophy degree.

Students may learn to weave, carve in wood, work in marble, stone, or clay, as well as study painting and designing. A St. Joseph sister from St. Paul, Minn., with the help of Mrs. Elizabeth Hibbard, 1201 E. 60th st., instructor, designed and carved a holy water fount. The water bowl is made of clay. William Garrison Whitford is director of the workshop.



"The hardest part of weaving," commented Lillian Sposta, 3421 Aberdeen av., "is threading the loom. Takes me three weeks to thread it, and about one week to weave it." When finished it will be an attractive multi-colored rug. Jerry Bosch, 5757 Dorchester av., his eye intent on the potter's wheel, spent his time trying to learn the most in the shortest time possible to take over a teaching position in Macon, Ga., his home town.

When finished by Miss Margaret Swords, 5748 Blackstone av., this block of stone will be an elephant, her second completed work in marble. The first was exhibited at the Art institute. Inasmuch as she was the first student in the course to be advanced enough to work in such a medium, every one watched the progress of her mallet and chisel with interested eyes. "It's an awfully slow process," she smiled, "but it's worth it, and will go toward my masters degree."

Wood was scarce at the workshop this year, so old tenpins from the recreation room at Ida Noyes hall were received with glee by the workshop. Their arrival gave Frances Chamberlin, 9300 Pleasant av. (left), a chance to carve that "clay" fish. It also gave Anna Bell Robinson, 1309 W. 112th st., just the right shape for the head of an Etheopian woman she wanted to carve. Miss Chamberlin is working toward a bachelors degree and Miss Robinson, a teacher in the Altgeld Garden grammar school, on her masters.

ITALIANS HONOR SURGEON'S FIGHT AGAINST DISEASE

U.S. Army Also Gives Legion of Merit

For his efficiency as surgeon of the peninsula base section in Leghorn, Italy, Col. Leo P. A. Sweeney, 9715 Winston av., has been awarded the Legion of Merit and the honorary title, commander of crown of Italy. The latter was given by Prince Umberto.

Col. Sweeney

As surgeon of the section, Sweeney was charged with the direction of the medical service which embraced professional service, supply administration, evacuation, and sanitation supporting the 5th army.

Keeps Disease at Low Level

His citation states that "during this period a remarkably low disease rate was attained and the return of effectives to the fighting forces was carried out with the maximum of efficiency. During his direction, the medical service was so coördinated as to provide the highest standards of professional care of sick and wounded."

The Italian title was awarded "in appreciation for services to and for Italians."

Served in World War I.

An eye, ear, nose, and throat physician and surgeon, Sweeney enlisted as a private in World War I., and was commissioned in 1927 in the medical reserve corps. He entered active service in February, 1941, as a captain, receiving his present rank Christmas day, 1944.

Overseas since December, 1942, he served in Casablanca and Naples before being transferred to Leghorn. A graduate of the University of North Dakota and Loyola university, he interned at Mercy hospital.

Thornton Evening School Registration to Be Held

Registration for the evening classes of Thornton Township High school and Junior college, Harvey, will be held tomorrow thru Friday. The first class will be held Sept. 17. School officials said special emphasis would be placed on courses of training for post-war positions.

World-Wide Joy Marks 3 Family Anniversaries

World-wide celebrations marked anniversaries in three southwest families recently.

Victory days hit the nail on the head twice in the Elliott family, 58 W. 66th st. V-E day was the birthday of Charles P. Elliott Jr., and V-J day was the birthday of his father.

Their former neighbor, Ernest A. Kramer, 1520 W. 64th st., a veteran of World War I., also had a victory and birthday celebration on Aug. 14.

V-J day was the occasion for a triple celebration in the Dumke home, 7426 Green st. Aug. 14 is the birthday of Mrs. Josephine Dumke. On that date in 1942 Harry Dumke entered service as a lieutenant. It's also the date in 1943 when the lieutenant was married to Patricia Tate, 7924 Rhodes av.

Esthetes Give Loud Squawk; Torsos Vanish

BY JANET PECK

Something has been missed of late by commuters on the Illinois Central.

Not the bizarre glasshouse at 40th st., or the gallant figure of Stephen Douglas perched atop a high pedestal at 35th st. The missing is the pair of two ton torsos [dubbed by riders, Adam and Eve] nudely standing in the back yard at 49th st.

For the last three years these hefty stone figures have delighted, shocked, or at least stirred curiosity among the commuters, and when the pair disappeared one morning more than one rider felt an explanation was in order.

Now Comes the Expose

Investigation reveals that:

Adam and Eve [that proved to be their real names] were created by Egon Weiner, sculptor, on commission, in his attic studio at 4847 Lake Park av. Quite unknown to the artist, the purchaser decided to use wooden Indians instead. Scarcely the afternoon had gone by after their delivery when he found the pair back on his doorstep.

Being too big and heavy to lug up three flights of stairs, Adam and Eve were destined to spend an indefinite period in the back yard, and thus practically became a couple of large, graceful landmarks. There they stood in the rain, snow, and sunshine.

Weiner exhibited Adam at the Art institute sometime during that period and he was, according to the sculptor, favorably received. Many train riders, however, not understanding the intricacies of art, often have wondered how come Eve had a head and Adam didn't. The artist offered the possible explanation that a man in love often loses his head.

Now Comes Trouble

Came the maelstrom, however, in the guise of a couple of new neighbors. They—neither art patrons nor I. C. commuters—claimed to see something insidious in the nudity of the cold stone image [or part of an image] of the first man and woman. They insisted Weiner either put clothes on the pair or get them out of the back yard.

So the harassed artist, who really wishes nothing better than to be let alone with his chisel and mallet, hastily did the best he could in a hurry—for after all he couldn't very well lug them up to his third floor studio, could he?

Commuters now see, not two stone torsos in their birthday suits but two clumps of foliage, modestly standing several feet apart. Investigation revealed they covered the headless Adam, and the supposedly sinful Eve.

Now Comes Weiner

For the sake of both the neighbors and the commuters, here let it be known, that Weiner is a recognized sculptor. Born in Vienna, but now an American citizen, he began his apprenticeship as a wood carver at 14. Subsequently he attended the School of Arts and Crafts, a technical continuation school, and the Academy of Plastic Arts in Europe.

His first work as an independent sculptor consisted of commissions for works in public buildings and portrait busts. During his last seven years in America, however, critics say he has abandoned academic formality, and has striven for greater simplification. Consequently his work has become more abstract and symbolical. This fall he has been invited to teach at the Art institute.

CATHOLIC HIGHS ADD TEACHERS AND SUBJECTS

Shift Principals at Four Schools

Southwest side Catholic high schools tabulating final fall semester registration figures report enlarged staffs and strengthened commercial and Spanish departments to accommodate the increased enrollment and deepened interests in the subjects. Altho a few schools held one day orientation programs, beginning classes last Wednesday, most of the schools will begin the semester tomorrow.

Four new principals have been announced. They are Sister Philemon, Academy of Our Lady, succeeding Sister Mary Theodista, now principal of St. Mary's academy, Prairie du Chien, Wis.; Sister Emerenciana, St. Casimir academy, succeeding Sister Eucharista, now at Villa Joseph Marie, Newtown; Sister Generose, Lourdes High school, formerly principal of St. Mary of Perpetual Help High school, and Sister Camillus, Visitation High school.

Adds Aeronautics Course

Classes will begin tomorrow at Academy of Our Lady where two new teachers will be introduced to the students. They are Sister Hester, teaching English and Latin, and in charge of the sodality, and Sister Maris Stella, English and Spanish. In addition to expanding the commercial and Latin-American studies an aeronautics course has been added.

Three new teachers and three former teachers who returned met students at St. Casimir academy last Wednesday. The new teachers are Sister Agnesine, English and dramatics; Sister Lawrence, English, and Sister Christine, Lithuanian. The returned teachers are Sister Bernadette, biology; Sister Salesia, commercial, and Sister Lucida, physics and English. Trigonometry has been added.

Two New at Lourdes

At Lourdes High school where classes began Thursday, two new teachers have been added, Sister Mary Ann, English teacher, and Sister Viola, social science teacher. A course in remedial reading is being offered this year and accommodations have been made for increased enrollment in mathematics.

Visitation High school will offer a new course in sociology and expanded health, speech, and choral department programs. The health program is under the direction of Sister Basilia, who attended the health workshop, conducted this summer by the United States public health service at Illinois State Normal university, Normal. New teachers are Sister Benitus from Sacred Heart academy, Washington, D. C., home economics; Sister Jeanne of Madison, Wis., English and history, and Sister Pierre of Trinity High school, River Forest, history.

On De La Salle Staff

At De La Salle High school, where classes began last week, the following teachers were added: Brother Patrick, former principal of St. George High school, Evanston, mathematics; Brother Peter, former principal of Cretin High school, St. Paul, Minn., history; Brother Pius of St. Mary's college, Winona, Minn., history; Brother Fidelius, also of St. Mary's college, English; Brother

FALL TERM OPENS TOMORROW

JOLIET LEGION WILL DEDICATE BUILDING SUNDAY

Stelle, Green Will Speak; Plan Big Parade

With a colorful parade and speeches by four prominent state figures Joliet's Harwood American Legion post next Sunday will dedicate its new home, the former Chamber of Commerce building.

Representatives of more than 100 state posts will join Joliet Legionnaires, Boy Scouts, and other patriotic organizations in the parade. Guests from Chicago will include the Kilti band of Stock Yards post, South Shore post's band, and the drill team of Woodlawn post.

The parade will move from Benton st. down Chicago av. to the Legion building.

Stelle Main Speaker

Other posts will send color guards to carry the post flags. Prizes of $25, $15, and $10 will be awarded first, second, and third best color guards. All posts sending color guards will receive $5.

John Stelle, former governor and a candidate for national commander of the American Legion, will be the chief speaker. He will talk at 3 p. m. from a platform before the building. Other speakers will include Gov. Green, Secretary of State Edward Barrett, and C. M. Wilson of the governor's committee for war veterans.

Plan Evening Dancing

Evening events will start at 8:30 o'clock in the new hall. First to appear will be the Slovonian Girls' Drill team. A floor show will be presented by pupils of Mrs. George Hausser of the Joliet Conservatory of Music. Dancing will begin at 9:30 p. m.

Of the Spanish style, the building was erected in 1925 at cost of $225,000. The Legion post has spent $20,000 for repairs and remodeling since acquiring it last April.

The main entrance leads into a glass roofed patio with stone benches, flowers, and ferns. The fountain in the center has been replaced by an American flag which is spotlighted.

Has Largest Dining Hall

Post offices are to the right of the entrance. Adjoining are two meeting rooms which accommodate 150 to 200 people. The canteen is located in the east part of the building.

A stairway from the patio leads to the second floor banquet hall. Designed after the main hall of the Spanish castles it is the largest one in Joliet and will be used for banquets, conventions, and large meetings. A storeroom and service room are adjacent.

Post officers are John F. McGuire, commander; Richard E. Streitz and Alex Padley, vice commanders; Ray Hamphill, finance officer; I. N. Lewis, chaplain; William Bossingham, sergeant at arms; Charles McCay, adjutant, and Ray E. Gassett, service officer.

Organized in 1919 the post is named for Capt. William E. Harwood, a Joliet doctor killed in World War I. Present membership totals more than 1,000.

FOUR FROM AREA ENTER MICHIGAN ARMY HOSPITALS

Four southwest side men were admitted recently to Percy Jones Hospital center in Battle Creek, Mich. Lt. Donald G. Moore, 6741 Perry av., entered the general hospital in Battle Creek. Others in the convalescent hospital at Fort Custer are: Corp. Joseph J. Keeley, 6028 Green st.; Pvt. Chester A. Basinski, 5659 S. Seeley av. and Pvt. Zenon C. Struzyna Worth.

Teachers College Classes Will Begin Wednesday

First classes for upper classmen at Chicago Teachers college, 6800 Stewart av., will begin Wednesday. Entrance examinations for freshmen will be held Sept. 22. Applications must be filed not later than noon Saturday.

Corp. John P. Rohan, 8118 Winchester av., is a member of the 27th fighter group of the 9th air force. An administrative clerk, Rohan has charge of service records. He entered service in April, 1942, and has been overseas 25 months. He wears the distinguished unit badge with four clusters awarded the group for outstanding performance of duty on five occasions, and three battle stars. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Rohan of the Winchester av. address.

Pvt. Raymond J. Petersen, 5927 Loomis blvd., who was wounded in the chest and arm by mortar fragments on Okinawa, is recovering at the station hospital at Fort Shafter, T. H. A veteran of 12 months overseas, Petersen wears the Purple Heart, the combat infantry's badge, and the Philippine liberation ribbon with two battle stars. His mother, Mrs. Kathryn McGuinn, lives at the Loomis blvd. address.

R. J. Petersen

Lt. Col. Thomas S. Lowry of Flossmoor was recently assigned as director of operations of the army transportation corps port at Glasgow, Scotland. Previously he was in Africa, Sicily, Italy, and southern France. Before entering service in May, 1942, he was a steamship broker.

After more than a year overseas, Sgt. Joseph J. Cecas, 1521 W. 73d st., is homeward bound with the 1376th Engineer Petroleum Distribution company. While in Europe Cecas helped his company deliver more than 2 million gallons of gasoline to the front lines.

Pvt. Edward Dvorak, 9326 Green st., is a member of a 9th air force communications squadron which has been awarded a meritorious service unit plaque for outstanding devotion to duty. He wears five battle stars for service in France, Belgium, and Germany. His wife, son, and daughter live at the Green st. address.

Pvt. Dvorak

One of the distinctive honors which can be bestowed on its men by the India-Burma air service command fell recently to Tech. Sgt. Russell M. Tanis, 119 E. 107th st. He was awarded membership in the CBI Service Chiefs, an organization of aircraft experts whose meritorious achievements went beyond the line of duty. Tanis designed and constructed three hot water heaters for mess halls and service clubs, and two gasoline burners for the bakery and laundry, all from scrap material.

Sgt. Tanis

Rudolph H. Gokel, 6414 Carpenter st., has been promoted to sergeant. He is a member of the army airways communications system in North Africa.

Sgt. Gokel

Lt. Harry Felton, who was decorated with the distinguished unit citation and the air medal with cluster for flights in the Southwest Pacific, recently spent a 30 day leave at his home at 5623 Trumbull av. A fighter pilot, he was overseas about 12 months, and has flown 112 combat missions.

Robert Johnson, yeoman 1st class, is stationed at a coast guard base in Greenland. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson, 7029 Fairfield av., he has a brother, Harry, who is a sergeant in the air forces.

Robert Johnson

Stanley K. Jados has been promoted to staff sergeant for outstanding performance of duty during the Okinawa campaign. Squad leader of a rifle company of the 7th division's 32d infantry, he is a veteran of the Attu, Kwajalien, and Leyte campaigns. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jados, live at 924 W. 34th st.

Fast thinking saved the life of Pvt. William H. Crohan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Crohan, 7549 May st. When a Jap armed with a bayonet jumped into his foxhole on Okinawa, the only warning Crohan had was a shout from one of his buddies.

BRIEF REUNIONS BY GI BROTHERS, FRIENDS HELD

Three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mulka, 12054 Princeton av., who met in Manila were among several groups of brothers and neighbors who enjoyed brief reunions overseas recently.

The first Mulka to land in Manila was Teddy, a staff sergeant with the army medical corps. Some time later Walter, an ensign sailed in on an LCT. The Mulkas became a threesome with the recent arrival of Corp. Chester.

Another son, Staff Sgt. Edward Mulka, recently spent a furlough with his parents. His wife, Lt. Mary Ruth Mulka, is an army nurse at Columbia [S. C.] army air base.

Meet Near Calais

A one man welcome committee was on hand to greet Sgt. George E. Smagac when his unit, an engineer light equipment company, arrived recently at the Calais, France, area preparing for redeployment. The motor convoy was halted when George's brother, Sgt. James Smagac Jr., stationed at the staging area, drove past. Recognizing unit markings of the organization, he made inquiries until he located George.

A few days later the two secured passes to visit a third brother, Sgt. Ray Smagac at Dijon, France. George was inducted in March, 1943, and arrived overseas in August, 1944. He has served in France, Belgium, Holland, and Germany. His wife, Ann, lives at 6229 Komensky av.

James has been in service three years and overseas 18 months. Ray has been in the army four years and has 28 months of overseas duty. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. James Smagac, 6123 S. California av.

Two Brothers Meet

The French Riviera was the scene of the reunion of Corp. Peter H. Konkel and his brother, Tech. Sgt. Anthony J. Konkel, 5630 Wood st.

Two southwest side soldiers celebrated their chance reunion on a harbor defense post of the Panama coast artillery command after a three and one-half year separation.

The friends, Pvt. Frank Costello, 7431 Union av., and Pvt. James E. Holmes, 7439 Harvard av., met during Costello's 18 hour shore liberty as his transport passed thru the Panama canal.

Vet of Three Campaigns

Costello is a veteran of three campaigns. He landed in Normandy as a paratrooper, fought thru Belgium as a foot soldier, and later was transferred to his present outfit.

Corp. Elmer W. Jensen, husband of Mrs. Antoinette Jensen, 6446 Justine st., and son of Olga Jensen, 6435 Laflin st., and Corp. Ken Matts, husband of Mrs. Jane Matts, 8544 Givins ct., met when assigned to the same tent on Leyte.

Rev. Michael Sweeney to Be Feted Tomorrow

The Rev. Michael J. Sweeney, assistant pastor of St. Leo parish and director of recreational activities at Shewbridge field, will be honored tomorrow night by Fort Dearborn council of the Knights of Columbus at the field, 74th and Aberdeen sts.

TWIN SELLERS SONS KEEP BOMBER BARONS' ENGINES IN TOP SHAPE

Double trouble shooters are Privates John E. and James P. Sellers, twin sons of Floyd Sellers, 30 W. 71st st., who have been serving as airplane mechanics with the Bomber Barons, a B-24 group in the Philippines. The twins entered service on their 20th birthday, April 20, 1943, and by their own request have been together ever since. They went overseas in April, 1944. Each has six battle stars.

TWO 'SAILJERS' JUST WHAT YOU THINK THEY ARE

New term for two southwest side service men, Corp. Edward A. Janik of 2861 Keeley st. and Corp. Chester Renkiewicz of 2300 Throop st. is "sailjers," it is reported by friends. The new tag is the result of the arrival of the two Rhine crossing soldiers at a redeployment center in France in sailors garb. They were members of the 344th harbor craft company, veterans of the V-rocket barrage in Antwerp.

LESSONS OF WAR WILL IMPLEMENT R.O.T.C. COURSES

With peace a reality, lessons learned in the war will be passed on to the R. O. T. C. units in 29 public high schools during the present year, Lt. Col. Oscar N. Taylor, acting professor of military science and tactics, has announced.

Changes in methods of instructions as well as in subject matter will give cadets a closer understanding of the military system, he said. Col. Taylor, whose retirement was announced last July, is carrying on in the absence of his successor, Col. Hans C. Minuth, who is on overseas duty.

Will Exhibit Weapons

Col. Taylor plans to exhibit machine guns, mortars, carbines, and bazookas and other weapons developed in this war at each school. Many of the new instructors have had overseas combat experience. All R. O. T. C. officers recently attended a special army course at Fort Benning, Ga. A similar course was offered enlisted instructors at Camp Ellis, Ill.

Three new military supervisors have been announced for southwest side high schools. Lt. Abbott C. Combes III. will be in charge at Englewood and Tilden. Lt. Joseph P. Adducci will handle Calumet, Fenger, and Morgan Park. Lt. Curtis L. Evans will direct Harper, Kelly, and Lindblom.

Name New Instructors

Military instructors newly assigned include: Sgt. Thomas M. Fletcher and Corp. Thomas A. Zaremba, assistant, Tilden; Sgt. Allen C. Gordon and Corp. Joseph B. LaFarr, assistant, Englewood; Corp. Thomas J. Scully, Calumet; Sgt. Ernest B. Simons, Fenger; Corp. Bruce M. Forrester, Morgan Park; Sgt. Charles N. Rea, Harper; Corp. Henry K. Seeber, Kelly, and Sgt. Joseph P. Natale, Lindblom.

City-wide enrollment of cadets is expected to equal last year's figure of 9,850. Authorized enrollment of uniformed cadets for the first semester is: Tilden, 420; Englewood, 230; Calumet, 220; Fenger, 320; Morgan Park, 200; Harper, 175; Kelly, 210, and Lindblom, 210. Number of non-uniformed cadets which may be enrolled at each school will be fixed by the supervising officer, depending on the available facilities.

Special Attention to Flowers
Our staff is especially trained in the handling of flowers from the moment they are received at Colonial Chapel. Careful, skilled attention is given the arrangement of floral tributes in the chapel, or at the church, and at the cemetery. We keep a careful record of all flowers received and provide engraved cards to acknowledge them.

Chicago Philharmonic to Air Brahms' Work

The Chicago Philharmonic orchestra, conducted by Henry Weber, will present Brahms' Symphony No. 4 in E Minor in its broadcast over W-G-N and WGNB from 8:30 to 9:30 p. m. Tuesday. The orchestra also will play Beethoven's "Prometheus" overture and Franck's "Les Eolides."

THEATER GUILD REVIVES ATOMIC DRAMA TONIGHT

Burgess Meredith Stars in First Show

BY LARRY WOLTERS

The Theater Guild embarks on its first radio series tonight with Burgess Meredith playing the lead in its revival of "Wings Over Europe," a fantasy first produced by the guild back in 1928. Meredith will play the part of a British scientist who discovers a formula for the control of atomic power. The part the atomic bomb played in ending the war prompts the play's use for the premiere of the series tonight.

Burgess Meredith

Lawrence Langer, director with Theresa Helburn of the guild, will introduce the play and players over WENR-ABC at 9 tonight. He will also join in an exchange of greetings with several outstanding performers who have been associated with the guild in the past—Oscar Hammerstein, Richard Rodgers, Annabella, Philip Barry, Elia Kazan, Rouben Mamoulian, William Bendix, Edward G. Robinson, Helen Menken, and Rosalind Russell.

Other shows are returning and new ones bowing in. Truth or Consequences and the Life of Riley got back on NBC last night. Helen Hayes started off her new series at 6 p. m. last night in the role of Madame Curie. The Shadow with Steve Courtleigh in the title role returns to W-G-N-Mutual at 4 p. m. today, and Quick as a Flash, a mystery quiz with cash awards, comes back on the same network at 5 p. m.

Frank Sinatra will be back on the air with his own show at 8 p. m. next Wednesday over CBS. The Pied Pipers quartet, singing group, has been signed up for regular performances. . . . Mary Boland, the movie comedienne, will be a regular on the Rudy Vallee show. . . . Martha Tilton will join the Paul Whiteman Hall of Fame as singing hostess on Oct. 7. . . . Meredith Willson, lately out of the army, is the musical director for the Burns and Allen series which comes on NBC at 7 p. m. next Thursday.

John Hodiak and Bob Bailey, two former Chicago radio actors who have both made good as movie leading men, will return to radio for the Cavalcade of America broadcast over WMAQ-NBC at 7 p. m. tomorrow in "Sawdust Underground."

Miss Margaret Truman, daughter of the President, is expected to join in the choir singing when the Trinity Episcopal church services are aired on the WBBM-CBS Church of the Air at 9 a. m. to 9:30 today. The Rev. Harold B. Whiteman, the rector, will discuss "The Post War World and My Share In It."

The United Home Finding service which coöperates in presenting the program "I Want a Home" on WCFL at 9:15 p. m. Mondays reports that around 136 requests for child adoption and placement have been received as a result of the broadcasts. The stories of two children who need a home are dramatized on each broadcast.

Pint Sized Scientist Joins Quiz Kids Tonight

Tommy Howe, whose speciality is science, will join the Quiz Kids on WENR-ABC at 6:30 o'clock tonight. Tommy has lectured on science to grade schoolers and has turned out booklets on chemistry and paleontology. His classmates on the school of the air will be Robert Burke, Richard Williams, Harve Fishman, and Ruthie Duskin.

Foreign Trade Topic on U. of C. Round Table

The University of Chicago Round Table over WMAQ-NBC at 12:30 p. m. today will discuss "How Can We Trade with Foreign, State-Controled Economics?" Neil Jacoby, Prof. Nathaniel Peffer, and Lauchlin Currie will participate.

Songstress .

Carol Stewart handles vocals on starring Marlin Hurt aired over the Beulah show, a comedy series WBBM-CBS Sunday nights at 7 o'clock.

DEBUSSY SHOW DELAYED; SET FOR SATURDAY

The "Debussy Fantasy," which was to have been given last night on the Chicago Theater of the Air, will be presented at 9 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N, WGNB and Mutual. The surrender ceremonies aboard the battletship Missouri, broadcast the night of Sept. 1, caused a postponement of the presentation of "The Prince of Pathos" which was aired last night instead. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will speak next Saturday. Marion Claire and Angelo Raffaelli will be the vocal soloists, singing several Debussy works. Henry Weber will conduct the orchestra and chorus.

Hail Military, Shore Police on W-G-N Show

Your America over W-G-N-Mutual at 3 p. m. today will pay tribute to military police and shore patrols. John Keeler, president of the National Industrial Traffic league, will speak.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Sept. 10

As fall approaches it is necessary to think about getting all plants that must be protected from frost under cover. It is time, too, that those bulbs requiring early planting be obtained and planted. These include lilium candidum, for it makes an early growth.

Narcissus bulbs also should be planted as soon as they can be procured. Crocus also delight in early planting.

If the soil is poor, it is best to build it up by adding decayed manures. Therein lies the value of a compost heap, for when decayed it is humus in the raw and may be spaded under.

Tuesday, Sept. 11

If there are everlastings that can be dried, gather them when they are partly open and not when in full bloom. Gladiolus corms should be carefully labeled and placed in boxes according to variety.

If an increased number is wanted, save all the bulblets no matter how small and store them for next season's planting. Discard poor flowering varieties.

Wednesday, Sept. 12

Altho the new insecticide DDT has received much publicity, and is very effective when properly used, it should be used according to directions and for the purpose intended.

Many cocoons are noticed on the trunks and branches of trees, but if removed and destroyed there will be fewer pests next season.

Thursday, Sept. 13

Many gardeners wonder what plants to use in hanging baskets or to decorate the side of pots. There are a number of interesting plants than can be used for the purpose, such as ceropegia woodii, a nice slender stemmed plant that has small heart shaped leaves, dull gray in color.

The small flowers suggest a Dutchman's pipe; these are follow by little gray tubers which may be used for propagating purposes.

Friday, Sept. 14.

Make the lawn now if it has not been done for it is during the cool, autumn days that new grass grows rapidly, making deep roots. Spade the area to be sown to grass, rake off all clods, burying them in a corner, and sow at the rate of one pound to 250 square feet.

Gently draw the rake over the new sown ground, and if it is done just before a rain so much the better. Fall rains are sufficient to give a fine growth, and weeds will grow very little.

Buy the best lawn mixture for a sunny lawn and a special shady mixture for a shady area.

Saturday, Sept. 15

Do not delay moving poinsettia plants, gardenia, Christmas cactus, and other house plants indoors before the weather turns cool.

If plants need repotting thru breakage or other causes, use a clean pot and a soil mixture consisting of two parts good loam [rich vegetable soil will do], one part leafmold or peatmoss and one part torpedo sand.

One part of well decayed cow manure may be added to each bushel of the mixture for general use.

Other plants may be grown in such an area, such as lily-of-the-valley, spurge, or grave myrtle [vinca minor].

Play Promoters Devise Novel Profit Sharing Plan

Ticket Buyers to Get Cut if Show Succeeds

By John Chapman

NEW YORK [Special]—The most thoro job of sniping since circus press agents pasted long, narrow strips of come-on copy along curbstones lining gutters has been achieved recently in the Broadway-midtown zone.

Men armed with tacks and hammers have been affixing showcards to anything that will hold a tack. I think they have been able to drive their little wedges into concrete, structural steel, apartment house rental signs saying "Fully Occupied."

The new signs say, "Share in the Profits." This is a very good headline, for the man does not live who does not want to share in the profits. Particularly if they are somebody else's capital gains. Money gained without effort is the most fun of all; the soonest spent and the least regretted, even tho all of us must have been forced to read in school thrifty Benjamin Franklin's Poor Richard's Almanac.

The new sign offers one, just any one at all who happens to read it, a share in a play called, with no doubt deliberate thought, "Heads or Tails." All one has to do is buy a pair of tickets, or five pairs at most, for this forthcoming production by a new outfit. One gets, naturally, his tickets, and can see the show when it is produced. And if "Heads or Tails" turns out to be a hit, one will share in all the profits therefrom.

The prospect should be better than a pipeful of opium, altho I am no expert on opium and have confined research to opiates, the hopeful but dreadful little plays which put one to sleep. Suppose, for instance, that you had paid $6.60 for two tickets to an early performance of "Life with Father," and you not only got to see the show but also would share in all subsequent net gains. You would now be so rich that you wouldn't even worry about the income tax.

This new enterprise in which anybody off the street can have a piece of a show involves the same risks that always have been in the theater or any form of commerce. The thing might flop. Statistics indicate that the chances for a flop are five out of six, and I do not doubt that this ratio will prevail during the new Broadway season.

In this case one would be out the price of his tickets; but one would also have seen the show and would be able to tell his grandchildren that he, too, once was a theatrical angel just like the late Waxey Gordon and the man who used to have the girl who used to be a blonde when she was third from the left in the front row of the chorus. In retrospect it could sound delightfully raffish.

So far as I am able to learn, this profit sharing scheme for "Heads or Tails" is on the up-and-up. It is a stock selling venture, and, as such, it comes under all the careful rules of the securities and exchange commission. Nobody will be allowed to take a big personal bite out of the receipts, and the money which comes in will go into the play, less only the small selling expense which the SEC deems legal. It seems to be an honest venture, and certainly it is a novel one.

The business of selling show business is ever broadening. Nobody now, ever, puts all of his own money into all of a drama or musical comedy. The chances are that he doesn't put in any money whatever; he merely supplies his experience, judgment, and reputation, for which he gets 50 or 51 per cent and the privilege of calling himself a general partner. Then he dusts up some limited partners, angels, and they provide the $50,000 or $300,000 he needs for his little entertainment. The time has gone when a theatrical manager would pony up out of his own savings all the funds needed to produce a play he was crazy about.

The time has gone because, for one thing, costs of production are prohibitive, construction, backstage labor, musicians, and even actors, nick a manager for more than they are worth. The time has gone, too, because few producers have any money any more. They have gone broke bucking the law of averages which says that five out of six Broadway offerings will not make any money.

Play financing, I believe, is the one thing which is most wrong about the American stage. The theater is a personal enterprise, a form of expression and entertainment which, to have quality, guts, and individuality, must be centered upon one person or a small and mutually sympathetic group like the original incorporators of the Theater Guild. When the drama is forced to depend upon angels, backers, suckers, investors, limited partners, tax dodgers, and ticket buyers, it loses personality. Its greatest handicap is Hollywood, which has infinite resources but little daring and less judgment.

I wish all the luck in the world to the promoters of "Heads or Tails." When the play opens I may have to kick its teeth out, but I hope not; I hope that all the ticket buyers will get 25, 50, or 75 cents profit—or more. But more than this I wish we could have in the theater a lone wolf — somebody who will write, produce, or act something he likes all on his own, without regard for limited partners, pre-sold Hollywood deals, or the fatherly interest of the leading lady's gentleman friend. Show business is full of wolves, but too few are lone.

U. of Chicago Announces New Chamber Music Series

Programs to Be Presented in Loop Hall

By Albert Goldberg

No one could complain in recent seasons that Chicago's musical life has lacked anything in sheer activity, but there has been ample grounds for objection that the resident public was deprived in large part of the joys of one of the most fruitful and rewarding departments of the tonal art, namely chamber music. Ravinia has had its four concerts of string quartet music each season, the Russian trio has played morning concerts once a month to an exclusive audience at the Arts club, and a brave effort to bring chamber music to evening audiences in the loop brought the Budapest quartet and the Russian trio to Kimball hall last season for a series consisting of two concerts by each group. But the most earnest proponent of chamber music in our midst has been the University of Chicago department of music, which, under the direction of Cecil Smith, presented six such concerts in Mandel hall last season, with a chaser of two more programs during the summer quarter.

Now this enterprising champion of chamber music, in addition to eight Mandel hall concerts already announced for next season, comes forth with the announcement of a new series of no less than 15 chamber music programs to be played in Curtiss hall [on the 10th floor of the Fine Arts bldg., 410 S. Michigan av.], for the benefit of that section of the public which not unreasonably has found a trip to the south side campus one of the more aggravating aspects of Chicago transportation.

Yet tho rating as an off campus activity, the concerts nevertheless will have an academic tinge, for the series bears the title "An Introduction to Chamber Music" and each program will employ the services of a commentator. Functioning in this capacity will be Mr. Smith, Scott Goldthwaite, V. Howard Talley and Clarke Kessler of the university music faculty, with Felix Borowski and Rudolph Ganz as guest lecturers.

Concerts will be held on alternate Wednesday evenings from 8 to 10, beginning Oct. 10. Season tickets for the entire series of 15 events is $15. A subscription to the five lecture-concerts of the autumn quarter is $6. Single admission is $1.50, tax included. The series is open to the public without restriction, but registered students of the university may arrange to receive college credit for attendance. Tickets will be available in advance at University College, 19 S. La Salle st., or at Curtiss hall on concert nights.

The concerts are arranged in three cycles of five programs each, the first illustrating various instrumental combinations used in chamber music, the second to discussion and illustration of the musical forms typically employed in chamber music, and the third an historical survey of style in chamber music. Complete programs follow:

Oct. 10—Chicago Symphony Quartet [formerly the Philharmonic quartet]; Cecil Smith, lecturer. Haydn, Quartet in F major, Op. 3, No. 5, and Quartet in C major, Opus 76, No. 3 ["Emperor"].

Oct. 24—Chicago Symphony quartet; Scott Goldthwaite, lecturer. Schubert, Quartet, E flat, Opus 125, No. 1; Szymanowski, Quartet, Opus 37.

Nov. 7—Symphony Wind Quintet; Perry O'Neil, pianist; Clarke Kessler, lecturer. Beethoven, Quintet, E flat major, Opus 16; Hindemith, Kleine Kammermusik, Opus 24, No. 2.

Nov. 21—John Weicher, violin; Perry O'Neil, piano; V. Howard Talley, lecturer. Handel, Sonata No. 4, D major; Mozart, Sonata in A major [Köchel No. 305]; Ravel, Sonata.

Dec. 5—Chicago Symphony quartet; Perry O'Neil, piano; Cecil Smith, lecturer. Mozart, Quartet, E flat major [Köchel 493]; Dvorak, Quintet, A major, Opus 81.

Jan. 16—Chicago Symphony quartet; Walter Hancock, viola; Cecil Smith, lecturer. Beethoven, Quartet, D major, Opus 18, No. 4; Mozart, Quintet, G minor [Köchel No. 516].

Jan. 30—Dorothy Lane, harpsichord; David Moll, violin; Scott Goldthwaite, lecturer. Purcell, Golden Sonata; Rameau, Trio for two violins and harpsichord. Other works to be announced.

Feb. 13—John Weicher, violin; Dudley Powers, cello; Helen Kotas, horn; Perry O'Neil, piano; Scott Goldthwaite, lecturer. Beethoven, Sonata for cello and piano, Opus 102, No. 1; Brahms, Trio E flat major, Opus 40, for violin, horn and piano.

Feb. 27—Chicago Symphony Quartet; Cecil Smith, lecturer. Beethoven, Quartet, E flat major, Opus 127; Malipiero, Quartet, "Stornelle e Ballate."

March 13—John Weicher, violin; Perry O'Neil, piano; Rudolph Ganz, lecturer. Stravinsky, Duo Concertante; Hindemith, Sonata in E; Copland, Sonata.

March 27—Chicago Symphony Quartet; Gerald Huffman, trumpet; Scott Goldthwaite, lecturer. Compositions by Isaak, Maschera, Pouerl, Gibbons, Rossi, Merula, Pezel, Purcell and Fischer.

April 10—Dorothy Lane, harpsichord; Robert Dolejsi, viola d'amore, Emil Eck, flute; Scott Goldthwaite, lecturer. Bach, Sonata No. 5 for flute and harpsichord; Vivaldi, Concerto for viola d'amore and harpsichord; Teleman, Trio for flute, viola d'amore and harpsichord; harpsichord works by Marpurg, Mattheson and Couperin.

April 24—Chicago Symphony quartet; Cecil Smith, lecturer. Mozart, Quartet, D major [Köchel No. 575]; Beethoven, Quartet, F major, Opus 18, No. 1.

May 8—Chicago Symphony quartet; Felix Borowski, lecturer. Schumann, Quartet, F major, Opus 41, No. 2; Dohnanyi, Quartet, D flat major, Opus 15.

May 22—Chicago Symphony quartet; Perry O'Neil, piano; Cecil Smith, lecturer. Stravinsky, Three Pieces for string; Barber, Quartet; Harris, Quintet for piano and strings.

IN NEW BALLET

"Frankie and Johnny were lovers" as portrayed by Ruthanna Boris and Frederic Franklin in the Ruth Page-Jerome Moross ballet to be presented for the first time by the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo during its engagement at the Civic Opera house, beginning Wednesday, Sept. 26.

Claudia Cassidy is on vacation. Her column, On the Aisle, will be resumed on her return.

Notes of Music and Musicians

The Chicago Singverein has been selected as the local choral group to sing Brahms' "A German Requiem" as the concluding number of the cycle of that composer's music to be presented during the season by the Chicago Symphony orchestra under Desire Defauw's direction. The work will be given at the final concerts of the season on April 18 and 19 with Eleanor Steber and Mack Harrell as the soloists. The Singverein will prepare the Requiem under the direction of its regular conductor, Theodore Lams, who has directed the chorus of 350 members since 1940. Mr. Lams was conductor of the Chicago Bach chorus from 1935 to 1942, during which time the group gave six concerts of Bach's music at Orchestra hall. He also assisted Frederick Stock in the preparation of Bach's B minor Mass, Honegger's "King David," the Brahms Requiem, and other choral works presented at the North Shore festivals in Evanston.

The first "little opera" production of the new season will be Bizet's "Carmen," presented by the Mid-West Opera company under the direction of William Fantozzi at the Eighth Street theater on Sunday, Oct. 7, at 8. Leading roles will be sung by Lois Gentile, Flora Palma, Dave Johnson, and George Tozzi.

Yvonne Chalfonte, lyric soprano, will give what is described as a concert presentation of Victor Herbert's operetta, "Naughty Marietta," in Kimball hall on Thursday, Sept. 20, at 8:30. The event will be presented by Thomas Post in association with the Catholic Actors Guild.

Konrad Neuger, for 10 years a chorusmaster at the Metropolitan opera, has resigned his position with that institution and will take up permanent residence in Chicago where he has been appointed permanent chorusmaster of the Chicago opera. He also has joined the faculty of the Chicago Musical college. Mr. Neuger is a native of Cracow, Poland, studied piano with the famous Theodore Leschetitzky, and served as chorusmaster of the Vienna Opera for three years, the Munich opera for five years under Bruno Walter, and for five years at the Leipzig opera. He came to America in 1934 at the urging of Fritz Reiner, who appointed him chorusmaster of the short-lived Philadelphia opera.

Leonard Bernstein has been appointed director of the symphony concerts of the New York City Center of Music and Drama, replacing Leopold Stokowski who organized the New York City Symphony orchestra and served as its conductor for two seasons. Mr. Stokowski will take a year's leave of absence to fill postponed engagements in this country and to tour South America. Like his predecessor, Mr. Bernstein will serve without compensation. He will conduct the entire series of concerts, with the exception of programs to be led by guest conductors while he fills previously contracted engagements.

RCA Victor will introduce in October a new nonbreakable high fidelity phonograph record which is called the greatest improvement in home phonograph records in 45 years. The new record is ruby red in color and is made of a compound composed entirely of vinyl resin plastic. Since the new record will be available at first only in limited quantities the company will continue to produce standard shellac records. At present it is planned to release only newly recorded musical works on the new type disc, which will be known to the trade as Red Seal De Luxe records. The first release will be Richard Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel," played by the Boston Symphony orchestra under the direction of Serge Koussevitzky.

"The Wayfaring Stranger," a collection of folk songs and ballads as sung by Burl Ives, has been published by the Leeds Music corporation. The collection was compiled and edited by Herbert Haufrecht, who has supplied piano accompaniments patterned after the guitar as played by Mr. Ives in his performances.

William Schuman, noted young American composer, has been appointed director of the Juilliard Graduate school, replacing Ernest Hutcheson, who will continue as a member of the piano faculty.

Having originally resigned as conductor of the Symphony Orchestra of Mexico in order to devote more of his time to composition, Carlos Chavez is now reported as willing to continue as titular conductor for next season, with the duties of artistic director taken over by Jose Pablo Moncayo, the present assistant conductor of the orchestra.

Arturo Toscanini will return to Italy for the first time since his brush with the Fascist regime at the close of his season here with the NBC Symphony orchestra. He will conduct the opening performances at the reconstructed La Scala theater in Milan.

Serge Prokofieff's latest orchestral composition, "Summer Day," a children's suite for small orchestra, will receive its American premiere next season by the New York Philharmonic under Artur Rodzinski's direction. The suite is an orchestration of the composer's "Children's Pieces," for piano, Opus 65. The score recently was received in this country on micro-film.

Ballet Schedule

The Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo will give a season of 16 performances at the Civic Opera house, beginning Wednesday, Sept. 26. Complete repertory for the engagement follows:

Chicago Industrialists to Lecture at De Paul U.

Aid Commerce Department in Night Classes

By The Rev. John Evans

Chicago industrialists will aid the faculty of the De Paul university school of commerce in conducting lecture-conference courses in new industrial and business techniques during the school year just beginning. The course is intended for persons now working in areas covered by the classes which meet at 6:15 each Wednesday evening.

Dr. Frederick Miller, assistant dean of the school of commerce, said the venture of coöperation was aimed at those persons with experience in industry "who want to keep on their toes," and that "the imminence of reconversion heightens the need for an aggressive leadership in industry."

Continuing service to more than 14,000 students in war training classes, De Paul now offers this new course which is divided into the two general phases of personnel and management. Herbert Kane of the United States Veterans' administration will lead classes in veterans' counseling. These classes also will look into the coöperative parts taken by industry, government and the veterans in post-war industry. Special attention will be given to the problem of absorption of physically handicapped veterans into industry.

Production, planning, and control, including forecasting, purchasing, contracting, operating, and designing changes, will be the subject matter to be handled by J. J. Betla of the Western Electric company. Other men with practical backgrounds in industry will lecture on problems of industrial relations, supervisory problems, job analysis, wage and salary administration, time study and application to wage incentives.

Other members of the visiting faculty from industry will be M. R. Zelder, Edison General Appliance company; J. L. Horvath, American Can company; C. M. Burton, Mills Industries, Inc.; Henry L. Maurer, Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, and Russell Packard, lawyer and labor counselor. Classes begin Sept. 26.

Elgin academy, which recently revealed the appointment of Capt. R. B. Wygant, U. S. N. [ret.] former head of the Abbott Hall navy school, as headmaster of the academy, has announced that Dr. Ronald B. Edgerton of Eau Claire [Wis.], State Teachers' college will serve as dean of the faculty. He was professor of history at Eau Claire. Dr. Edgerton formerly was associated with the University of Chicago High school and the University of Wisconsin High school.

Dr. Stephen A. Freeman, vice president of Middlebury, Vt., college, has been granted a year's leave of absence to accept an appointment in the education branch of the United States army. He will be in charge of all modern language instruction in the army university centers to be organized in England and France. Men will be sent to the army centers, on a voluntary basis, for term of study on the college level while awaiting transportation home.

Prof. Richard Gore, for the last six years on the faculty of Cornell college, Ithaca, N. Y., has been appointed professor of organ and composition and director of the conservatory of music at the College Wooster, Wooster, O., succeeding Prof. N. O. Rowe, who has retired after 31 years of service.

COOL'S SINGER

Jeanne Shirley is the beautiful singer with Harry Cool's orchestra in the Blackhawk. Harry, of course, does a bit of singing himself.

Vaudeville

Chicago theater. Larry Adler, famous maestro of the harmonica, will make his first appearance since his recent trip to Berlin to entertain service men. With customary versatility he will dispense his usual melange of classical and popular music, interspersed with improvisations. Dave Le Winter will be at the piano. The rest of the bill includes the ballet dancing of Carol King, remembered from recent appearances at the Chez Paree; Jackie Green, night club comedian; Renee and Russell in comedy balancing feats, and Lou Breese and his orchestra in a Chopin medley featuring Rudy Wagner at the piano.

Oriental theater. John Calvert, hypnotist and magician, heads the show with a baffling magic extravaganza, assisted by a cast of beautiful models. Calvert's feats of hypnosis and legerdemain provide laughs and thrills in a fast moving display of illusions. Also featured are the famous Dinning sisters, just completing a long engagement at the College Inn. The Yacopi troupe of teeterboard artists completes the bill.

Film Actress Claims 22 as Lucky Number

HOLLYWOOD—Joan Newton, who was born on Sept. 22, 1922, offers proof that 22 is her lucky number. On her 22d birthday she signed a long term picture contract and on June 22, 1945, she won the feminine lead in "Riverboat Rhythm." She says everything of importance has happened on the second or 22d of the month, including her first trip to Europe and her first stock engagement.

CHICAGO Movies SUBURBAN

A Little About the Movies on City's Screens

"Where Do We Go from Here?" Fred MacMurray, a lowly 4-F, finds a lamp similar to the one Aladdin used and makes one wish—to get into the army. With the help of the genie, Fred travels back into history, coming to date by joining Uncle Sam's forces. June Haver and Joan Leslie also star in this musical comedy. Chicago.

"Divorce." Kay Francis has the leading role in this film. She portrays a scheming divorcee who returns to her home town, there to break up a happy home and cause unlimited heartbreak. Bruce Cabot and Helen Mack are co-players. Oriental.

"Christmas in Connecticut." A leading magazine's unmarried cooking editor, Barbara Stanwyck, who can't cook, is ordered by the boss to entertain a service man, Dennis Morgan. She is to pose as a lady at the peak of domesticity with a borrowed husband and baby, purely as a publicity gag. Roosevelt.

"Along Came Jones." A western film stars Gary Cooper in his 10 gallon hat as Melody Jones and Loretta Young in the role of Cherry, a rootin', tootin' cowgal who helps the cowboy and his friends catch an outlaw. Palace.

"Pillow to Post." A comedy film in which Ida Lupino, a traveling saleswoman, talks an army lieutenant [William Prince] into posing as her husband in order to obtain an auto camp cottage for a night's rest. Sydney Greenstreet also is in the film. Apollo.

"Wonder Man." Portraying the roles of twin brothers, one a studious little man, the other a night club singer, is Danny Kaye. Along with him is a large cast, including Virginia Mayo and dancer Vera-Ellyn. Woods.

"Valley of Decision." Marcia Davenport's best seller comes to the screen and her outstanding characters are portrayed by Greer Garson as the Irish servant girl and Gregory Peck, her wealthy lover. Lionel Barrymore, Marsha Hunt, and Preston Foster have prominent roles. State-Lake.

"The Affairs of Susan." The leading lady has her fling with four men—her husband, a poet, a he-man, and a lumber tycoon. Pretty Susan, tiring of each, eventually returns to her Broadway producer-husband to live happily ever after. John Fontaine, George Brent, Dennis O'Keefe, and Done DeFore are the players. McVickers, Southtown, Varsity.

"Thrill of a Romance." Esther Williams and Van Johnson are the leading characters in this technicolor musical. Adding to the romance of the picture is Lauritz Melchoir of the Metropolitan Opera and the sentimental gentleman of swing, Tommy Dorsey. United Artists.

"Twice Blessed." The Wilde twins, Lee and Lyn, are singers in this film, one interested in classical music, the other in popular jive. Matters are complicated when the girls give a concert, and their boy friends try to tell them apart. Grand.

"A Bell for Adano." John Hodiak, an American major, is made AMG administrator in a Sicilian town. There he assists the people back to peace time living by supplying food, water, and a new bell for the town. Gene Tierney portrays an Italian girl who has much to do with the plot. Garrick.

"On Stage, Everybody." A vaudeville actor, detesting radio shows, finally is forced to join those ranks because of the lack of a stage job. With the help of a young couple, the new radio show is successful. Peggy Ryan, Johnny Coy, and Jack Oakie are the featured players. Paradise, Pantheon, Tower, Norshore.

'BELL FOR ADANO'

Gene Tierney is leading lady in "A Bell for Adano." At the Garrick.

Barry Fitzgerald Dances for First Time in Film

HOLLYWOOD—Barry Fitzgerald, who appears with Betty Hutton in "The Stork Club," dances for the first time in his screen career when he does a waltz with Mary Young in the picture.

Ten Night Club Sets in a Single Musical

HOLLYWOOD — Ten full sized night club sets are being built for Irving Berlin's "Blue Skies," starring Bing Crosby, Fred Astaire and Joan Caulfield. This near-record number of set constructions of a single type has been designed by Hal Pereira, unit art director on the film. In size the sets range from a Tom Thumb production measuring 16 by 30 feet to a super item 100 by 185 feet. In addition to the regulation sets five night club models are being designed for a montage sequence.

Flying Star

HOLLYWOOD. — Alan Ladd's preparation for his role as a pilot in "Calcutta" included a day's instruction by Joe Rosbert, former Flying Tiger, at the controls of a DC-3 transport plane.

Drama Notes

The latest and no doubt final advice concerning the long heralded opening of the new Shubert theater is that festivities will take place on Tuesday, Sept. 18, instead of the previous evening as originally scheduled. The theater is ready, say the producers, but "Laffing Room Only," the Olsen and Johnson opus which will inhabit the new house, does not close in Detroit until Sept. 15, and that would not give time to move the six baggage cars to Chicago nor to hang and set the show's 24 scenes. Incidentally, in case you are planning on being one of the first nighters, prices have been hiked to a $6 top for the occasion. From advance information it does not appear that "Laffing Room Only" will veer any closer to sanity than previous Olsen and Johnson romps. The boys make their entrance thru a brick wall which has just been blown out by a machine generating 250 pounds of air pressure. This leads, no doubt circuitously, to the "drinkaphone" which squirts scotch, soda, milk, and coffee into the O. & J. phizzes. What may or may not be the climax arrives when a full sized locomotive appears to rush hell-bent at a cowering audience. Better leave Aunt Minnie at home.

Skating fans, and they are as numerous as opera fans in Chicago, will be glad to get the early news that the new 10th anniversary edition of "Ice Follies of 1946" will arrive at the Chicago Arena for 17 nightly performances and five matinees, beginning Friday night, Nov. 2, and extending thru Sunday night, Nov. 18. The matinee dates will be Nov. 4, 10, 11, 17, and 18, and the opening night again will be a benefit performance sponsored by the Service Club of Chicago. The Chicago Arena box office will be open about Sept. 17, but mail orders are now being accepted. The spot news of the Ice Follies is that Evelyn Chandler is back in the cast after two years' absence, together with Roy and Eddie Shipstad, Oscar Johnson, Hazel Franklin, Heinie Brock, Mae Ross, and Bobby Blake.

Irwin Shaw's new play, "The Assassin," probably will reach Broadway about Oct. 18. The leading role, that of the slayer of Adm. Darlan, will be played by Frank Sundstrom. Other names in a lengthy cast include Harold Huber, Clay Clement, Guy Sorel, Frances Chaney, Roger De Koven, and Booth Coleman.

Walter Abel has been signed to play the male lead of John Van Druten's new play, "The Mermaid's Singing," when it is produced in New York by Alfred de Liagre Jr. in late fall or early winter. The venture will mark the second Van Druten-De Liagre combination, the first of course being the fabulously successful "The Voice of the Turtle."

While alternates have been the necessary custom for the roles of Carmen and Joe since the beginning of "Carmen Jones," it only was last week that Billy Rose was able to provide relief for Elton J. Warren, who warbles the music of Cindy Lou, the innocent young lady known as Micaela in more classical quarters. Coreania Hayman is the new member of the cast at the Erlanger. She recently won a contest sponsored by the Dayton Philharmonic orchestra at the spring music festival in that city, and she has been graduated from Howard university and the University of Arizona. She also has had pedagogic experience as a voice instructor at Payne university, Birmingham, Ala., and as a public school music supervisor in Tucson, Ariz.

A new conductor and a sixth novelty have been added to the current scheme of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo. The former is Ivan Boutnikoff, who last season functioned on the podium for the brilliant but early deceased Ballet International. The novelty is a series of divertissements from the third act of Delibes' "Coppelia," and includes the betrothal adagio, the mazurka, the prayer, the dawn scene, and other numbers. The Civic Opera house engagement of Ballet Russe, beginning Sept. 26, will follow two weeks at New York's City Center. After that the troupe will be on tour steadily for 40 weeks until May 30, making the longest season in the history of the organization.

Skeets Gallagher, long time survivor of "Good Night, Ladies," will check off his 1,400th performance at the Blackstone this week. Mr. Gallagher is now on his seventh male vis-a-vis, his current partner, Edmund Glover, having been preceded in order by Buddy Ebsen, Stuart Erwin, Benny Baker, Jimmy Ellison, John Hubbard, and Stanley Bell. Appalling as is Mr. Gallagher's record, two other members of the troupe have more service stripes: Gloria Humphreys and J. Myles Putnam, the stage manager. They achieved them by continuing with the west coast company during a layoff of the original cast.

"Journey to a Star" is the title of Ruth Gordon's latest play and it is on the production schedule of Max Gordon, together with S. N. Behrman's "Anything Can Happen," Garson Kanin's "Born Yesterday," and "This Is Our Fortress," yet to be written by Jerome Chodorov. A touring revival of "The Great Waltz" is off until travel conditions improve.

IN 'WONDER MAN'

Vera-Ellen has been titled "The Pinwheel" because of her explosive dancing displayed in "Wonder Man." At the Woods.

George Tapps to Headline New Show at 5100 Club

Boogie Woogie Pianists Join Sherman Revue

By Will Davidson

The opening of the week involves a great Chicago favorite, George Tapps, who will headline the new show at the 51 Hundred club Friday night. George's dances have been seen in most of the top clubs here, and he should be a definite attraction at the north side spot.

On the bill with him will be Hal Fisher, comedian; Viola Layne, the singing impressionist who was discovered some months ago by the 51 Hundred; Manny Opper, emcee, and the Fifth Avenue models. Duke Yellman's band continues.

That same night the Sherman will augment the show supporting Lionel Hampton's band by bringing in two great piano players, Meade Lux Lewis and Joe Sullivan in what should be a wonderful boogie woogie duet. Hold overs will be Prof. Backwards and of course the famous clown, Carl Marx.

Jazz fans get another break on the 21st when Jess Stacy brings his band into the Band Box. It will be a debut for the 88er whom College Inn fans remember as fronting for T. Dorsey when Thomas involved in the Hall Brawl litigation on the coast.

Charles Sheldon

Despite the fact that the top name act never appeared, the current revue in the Empire room of the Palmer House is a definite hit. Jack Durant pleaded a torn ligament and at this writing there is some question as to whether he will be able to join the show at all. Funny as Durant is, he really isn't needed, for there is a wealth of talent on hand.

Go thru what is left of the "Supreme Seven" and you won't find a weak spot. Charles Sheldon, handsome baritone, had, I suspect, a slight touch of jitters on opening night as he sang with the Abbott dancers in the first number. But as he went into his too brief solo spot, with "Acapulco" and "You Belong to My Heart," his voice took on greater authority and strength. I may just be imagining those jitters, and it isn't important, for Mr. Sheldon is a most pleasant entertainer.

John Sebastian, the harmonica player, spoke of this as being his second Chicago appearance, but it seems to me I remember a previous Palmer House engagement and one in Camillia House of the Drake. Again I'm carping. Maybe I'll have to give up trying to win a pot with the Odmark convention, when one-eyed Jacks, deuces, fives, and tens are wild. Suffice it to say that Mr. Sebastian is an ingratiating and very talented performer. His almost bashful introductions to his numbers are high good humor, and the music he plays is alert, full bodied, expert.

Jere McMahon is a tall young dancer of the modern school, and he's a good one. He utilizes a colorful trunk as a stage piece around which to weave his dance patterns, and in a more utilitarian way to cache his various costume changes. Mr. McMahon's talents permit him to attack the formidable patterns of the flamenco and come off very well. He shows imagination and fire in his Gershwin interpretations and he gives the standard "Dancing in the Dark" an original treatment that is most effective. His is a strong contribution to the show.

Real, wonderful laughs are the rewards offered by Paul Winchell, ventriloquist. His material, delivery, and mechanical effects are superb and very, very funny. His dummy, "Jerry Mahoney" has a leering, Laughton-like body movement that is delightful and he stops the show by asking Eddie Oliver who's working HIS head. I don't think that the show is helped any by having Mr. Winchell on stage during most of it, heckling the acts and emcee Oliver, but it is a minor annoyance.

Mr. Oliver does his usual splendid job of playing the show and partaking of the tomfoolery. His dance music is excellent.

And to Miss Merriel Abbott a laurel for the gowns and the routines her girls have been given for this revue. They are lovely. The "Caldonia" turn, with ex-Abbotteer Marilyn Marsh doing a wild jitterbug with Jere McMahon, is delirious. Miss Marsh is earning herself a solo spot.

Jerry Lester came back to the Chez Paree Tuesday and altho the opening night dinner crowd was not one to warm a performer's heart I understand that since then he has been, as we say along the rialto, slaying them. Why he didn't catch the mood of the first crowd, I don't know. His material is good, and most of it is new, at least to me. He has the old sense of the ridiculous, and the trigger mind. He's keeping his stuff up out of the dust, too. I hadn't seen his "Little Boy and the Saloon" skit before, altho I understand it is not at all new in town. It's one of those idiotic things Jerry does so well.

Cabot and Dresden, dance team last seen by cafe goers here in the Palmer House, have improved immensely since that appearance. Their lifts and tricks are excellent and there is a great deal of dash to their work. I liked especially their poem dance to Tschaikowsky's Sixth Symphony, and the spinning routine done to Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C Sharp minor.

Bob Evans, ventriloquist, was a last minute substitute for Lillian Cornell, the singer, and he did his usual excellent job. Bob has by far the best lip control of any ventriloquist I have seen, and his material is uniformly good.

Dixie Roberts, a pert little tap dancer opens the show with a flash of pleasant color, and the Olive Bernard Adorables do some of their better routines, several of them with the help of Jack Milton, vocalist in Gay Claridge's good band.

The La Salle hotel has altered its American room show, and now is presenting one of its best revues. Jayne Walton, now doing a single after many years as Lawrence Welk's vocalist, is very effective in a repertory that ranges from "Dreams" to "Saturday Night." She always has been noted for a beautiful voice, and her microphone know-how stands her in good stead.

Byron Kay and Louise Glenn offer unusual dance turns, with a strong ballet motif. They are both accomplished dancers, and their mazurka is gay, their waltz a thing of grace, and their novelty a cute bit of fluff. I think the ballet technique is much more effective on a stage than in the intimacy of a small room where every momentary preparation for the positions of the dance are noticeable, but Kay and Glenn carry it off well.

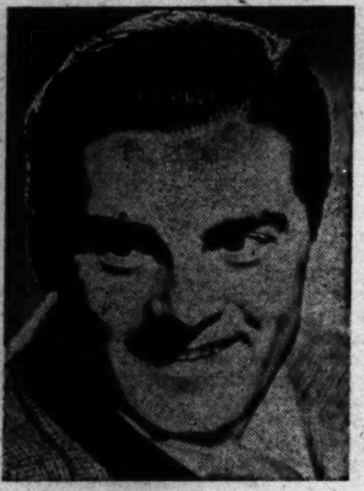
Boswelling the Bistros:

The Blackhawk has altered its floor show, substituting the dancing [not singing] Andrews sisters for the dance team of Haukane and Lonya. . . . Johnny Long's band is now playing at the Edgewater Beach hotel. . . . Art Kassel and Henry King switch bandstands Tuesday, Art going to the Trianon and Henry to the Aragon for two month runs. . . . I seem to have put George Hoefer, Downbeat's critic and columnist, on the spot last Sunday by saying he would talk AND play at the jazz concert that afternoon. It was a misinterpretation of a press release which said he would "fill in the instrumentalists' background during the concert." Sorry, sir, but perhaps I can atone by saying, sincerely, that you write with such authority and such knowledge that I took it for granted you were a musician. I regret to hear that union trouble may halt the jazz concerts. They were a fine idea. . . . Tommy Port, who used to sing with bands and on the air, is back from the wars and resuming his local radio career as the "Singing Milkman," the old Skip Farrell spot.

And what, might I ask, would any conscientious milk drinker be doing buying a bottle of Port?

AT BLACKSTONE



Phil Regan, one of the most popular stars ever to appear in the Mayfair room of the Blackstone hotel, is back there again, singing his songs.

IN MARINE ROOM

Johnny Long and his popular band are now featured in the swank Marine dining room of the Edgewater Beach hotel. Zarco and Beryl, dance team, head the floor show. [Kriegsmann Photo]

A CLASSIC STORY OF MOUNTAIN CLIMBING

Tense Drama in Conquest of High Alp

"THE WHITE TOWER," by James Ramsey Ullman. [Lippincott, $3.]

Reviewed by Fanny Butcher

A literary experience which is for the reader almost literally a physical one as well is James Ramsey Ullman's "The White Tower," the story of man's attempt to climb to the hitherto unreached top of a Swiss Alpine tower. Half of the book prepares the reader for that tremendous experience and then, with five men and one woman, he starts the slow, measured climb.

The reader with the climbing party moves in the largo of the symphony of their ascent and, while his heart quickens, feels his own footsteps timed to the slow rhythm of theirs. His breath, like theirs, grows harder to draw. He suffers the menacing lightness of body and spirit, their terrifying aloneness. He strains with them every muscle of body, heart and soul. Readers have seldom had a more intense vicarious experience. This reader, for one, is satisfied to leave the epic adventure vicarious. When she had finished the book [sometime toward dawn] she felt as if she could never look another alp in the facade, now that she knew their true nature.

That quality of making the reader breathe in the very rhythm of the book is almost unique in novel writing; especially as the pace of the book is so slow sometimes, so gropingly uncertain. Even its moments of tragedy are slow paced and therefore the more terrifying.

Mr. Ullman, who is a mountain climber himself, has written a classic of that, to many people, most incomprehensible of sports. He has thrown light on the mystery of its irresistible fascination from a circle of searchlights into the characters of six very different human beings: a young American flyer, a nazi German, a dilletante Frenchman who is always seeking reality and never finds it, an English scientist who has been doomed in life to retreat instead of to attack, a Swiss Alpine guide whose father has died trying to climb the White Tower, and an Austrian girl who has escaped nazism and to whom the White Tower becomes a symbol of her future.

To each man and the lone woman conquering the mountain was at once a dream and a compulsion. Mr. Ullman, it seems to me, more brilliantly lights the individual dream than he does the shared compulsion. When he has finished reading this remarkable book, the reader knows exactly why each one of these six persons wanted to climb that particular mountain, but he has not himself felt the irresistible compulsion to climb some White Tower of his own. A great Everest climber is quoted in the book as answering when he was asked why he wanted to climb that highest peak in the world: "Because it is there." Perhaps it is impossible to crystallize the reason why. Mr. Ullman has gone farther than any one ever has before in fiction to do so.

There is, of course, a romance between man and woman in the book, but it is unimportant in comparison to the much more violent and all-engulfing emotion of the White Tower. It is unreal in comparison to the epic reality of the climb, as when the flyer parachutes down into the very spot in the Swiss Alps were 12 years before he had known the Austrian girl.

"The White Tower" is a unique literary experience, one which will unquestionably soon be shared by at least a half million others, for this remarkable tale is the September choice of the Book-of-the-Month club.

An Engaging Portrayal of Confused Child in England

"THE WEST WINDOW," by L. P. Hartley. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.50.]

Reviewed by James Gray

"The West Window" is the story of a little boy of 9 who is subject to many a fantastic dread in which his sensitive, tormented imagination half delights. Shadows of a dire, yet fascinating, destiny hang over him until his young heart is weakened, and he has half killed himself with the fear of death.

Mr. Hartley has put together a neatly constructed, skilful, and often engaging record of what goes on in the confused mind of a child. Eustace, deliciously bullied by a sister who worships him as only an English girl could worship a younger brother, is forced to do battle with many a quite imaginary dragon. Each time he nearly collapses from a complicated disease, the elements of which are terror, submissiveness, and exhibitionism; but, each time, he triumphs in the end.

His most successful calamity is that of making friends with the ugly, crippled neighbor, who, he has been assured, is a witch. The child and the old woman achieve an absorbing mutual preoccupation, and the grateful cripple makes the little boy her heir.

This, too, manages to become a successful calamity. Eustace, unaware of his inheritance, develops a special importance in the family. The unexplained solicitude prompts the imaginative child to believe that he is about to die. The adults of his life talk vaguely about his "going away" without explaining that he is to be sent to a superior school, but Eustace is sure that he is going away to his grave.

So many different kinds of psychoneurotic difficulty are suggested in this novel that the amateur psychologist has a hard time reading it with the accent on comedy intended by the author. It is appallingly clear that Eustace has too insecure a hold upon reality to remain for long a gentle and appealing little boy. He is going to be a very sick little boy before many more years of his life have passed.

The English accent uttered by a juvenile tongue seems often to tell such wistful little stories of adventure in a neurasthenic's wonderland. Our American taste is for more robust heroes like Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn. But perhaps terrified Eustace, who wanted so much to please, is an appropriate symbol of the generation that grew up in England to develop the appeasement policy.

Big Sale Expected

A first printing of 725,000 copies of James Street's "The Gauntlet," is announced by Doubleday, Doran. The book is a Literary Guild selection, and will be published on Oct. 12.

Medicine in War Has Made Great Strides Forward

"OUT OF CARNAGE," by Alexander R. Griffin. [Howell, Soskin, $3.]

Reviewed by Walter Simmons

If there is anything more fascinating than the tremendous strides made by military medicine during the war, it is hard to think of what it is. Penicillin, blood plasma, new treatments for burns, malaria control, DDT—all these and many other things came out of the war. In no similar period have advancements come so rapidly.

The treatment of psychoneurotics ["psychos" to the GI] is a sufficiently intriguing subject all by itself. A few months ago when in the Philippines I hitched a ride from Davao to Leyte in a medical evacuation plane. It was loaded with psychos. One burly soldier was whimpering like a child; he insisted Japs were coming in the window of the plane. But most of the others appeared composed and normal. It was hard to believe they were in need of treatment.

Author Griffin [who wrote "A Ship to Remember," story of the carrier Hornet] wisely gives considerable space to the psycho and his problems in this discussion of military medicine. His review goes back as far as Herodotus, the first war correspondent, who told of a soldier going blind in battle altho he hadn't been struck. He cites many up to date cases, such as the soldier who felt he was "behind the eight ball" so long he started talking to it.

Mr. Griffin covers the entire field with surety and so well that the reader who has been in overseas combat areas can find no fault. He has an especially interesting story about how close the heroes of Bataan came to getting the quinine they so badly needed. His book is an absorbing and authentic chronicle of the army's battle against disease and death in many a lonely outpost of the world.

Admirable Collection of American Short Stories

"O. HENRY PRIZE STORIES OF 1945," edited by Herschel Brickell. (Doubleday, Doran, $2.50.)

Reviewed by Paul Engle

In the short story American writing attained its first and finest maturity. Our poetry was slow to develop and our novels, altho swifter in the order of excellence, followed after the shorter form. There was something in the nature of brief fiction, the suddenly realized sense of people, the quickness of phrase, the immediate plunge into a human situation, which seemed to belong remarkably and especially to this country. The men and women who wrote the stories had that warm awareness of men and women which is so urgent a necessity in the short story, where the impact is almost spontaneous and where the basic strength lies in perception of person in an instant.

The annual O. Henry collection has become a serious repository of good American short stories. The level is always high, there are few instances of the simply commercial story of canned plot, superficial characterization and slick prose. The emphasis is constantly on the solidly genuine effort, the story growing from a deep sense of human motive and wilfulness and anguish. It is hard to criticize such an effort.

This is an admirable book, full of stories which will delight any admirer of the short story. It is an essential book for those who feel they want to know what has been the direction of writing in the last year. For those who do not know the book, I can only urge a careful reading, for it includes enough variety of type to make a scattered sampling no fair criterion at all.

The first prize goes to a story by Walter Van Tilburg Clark, whose "The Ox-Bow Incident" was a unique novel and was made into a unique movie. His "City of Trembling Leaves" was reviewed some weeks ago in this book section. The story itself is an admirable study of an old prospector in the Nevada mountains, walking into his own death.

The second prize story, "Gunners' Passage," by Irwin Shaw, is another of that writer's unsurpassed studies of men and their motives. It is another example of the finely controled writing about the war, about men in the war, which dignifies the best stories to come out of the conflict. Understatement is the dominant method, and there are times when it is so much more expressive than the obviously stated theme that the story itself seems to move thru an air of barely restrained hysteria.

The third prize story, "Old Bill Bent to Drink," seems a labored fantasy in a labored dialect, lacking the fluency and validity of Stephen Vincent Benet's tales of the same type.

The prize for a "first" story goes to an exceptionally penetrating piece of writing by Laurence Critchell—a story of an American soldier in England and his search for his own wife in the person of an English girl.

Of the stories which did not win prizes, Katharine Shattuck's handling of the last hours of leave a sailor is spending with his girl, and the anticipation of the ruin his departure will cause her, is one of the finest.

Only one hope can be expressed for the future—that the collection will acknowledge more and more the original efforts being written in this country, most of which are published in the small magazines. The stories in this collection are good but of little new interest in form or style. An effort to include stories which had such an interest would increase the abundance of the book.

City Couple Trying Life in Country

"JANUARY THAW," by Bellamy Partridge. [Whittlesey House, $2.75.]

Reviewed by Kelsey Guilfoil

Bellamy Partridge

Bellamy Partridge, who delighted thousands of readers with his reminiscences of small town life in the trilogy, "Country Lawyer," "Big Family," and "Excuse My Dust," here offers us his first novel, an ingenuous story of a city family trying country life.

Those who have bought and renovated old houses in the country, especially old colonial houses, will find a sympathetic vein in this tale. Those who take pleasure in the portrayal of rural characters will find something to their taste in the characters depicted here, and those who have a passion for antiques will enjoy the old things Mr. Bellamy describes.

But those who like stories for their own sake, regardless of setting or circumstances, will be somewhat disappointed, for Mr. Partridge's novel depends more on its scenery and plot than upon its interpretation of life for its interest. The story is thin and stage-managed to death; the characters flat. Only old Jonathan Rockwood, the chief rural character, breathes much life; the rest of them supply the demands of the plot.

The plot is quickly told. Herbert Gage, a writer, and Margie, his wife, looking for a country home in New England, fall in love with an old house which has stook vacant for years. They insist on buying it, against the advice of their lawyer and every one else, for it has a cloud on its title. Jon Rockwood had sold his farm to the power company, retaining a life estate in a parcel of land on which the house stood. Later he and his wife disappeared, no one knew where.

Gage bought the house and parcel of land on a quitclaim deed, only to have old Rockwood return and claim a joint tenancy with him. The complications which ensue are mildly amusing, but the plot remains unconvincing.

Mr. Partridge, who knows as well as any one how to re-create the scenes of rural life, can no doubt give us a better novel when he takes some simpler circumstances and lets his story grow out of the characters' reactions, instead of making his characters fit the circumstances.

A Book by Mr. Wallace or His Ghost

"SIXTY MILLION JOBS," by Henry A. Wallace. [Simon & Schuster and Reynal & Hitchcock, $2; Simon & Schuster, $1.]

Reviewed by Walter Trohan

Sad it is, but true, that there is a growing disposition among our public men not to attempt to become articulate without the services of a ghost writer. Politicians will not cast a line into the sea of thought without the services of some scrivener or other any more than many an angler will pit his brains against those of a fish without the services of a guide.

Henry A. Wallace

The result may bring a few commas approximately into line, but it is in general distressing. The ghost writer must butter the vanity of the ghostee and he also is bound to try to put wings to thoughts of his own, with the result that the end product is too often a hodgepodge of ideas and flattery around the central theme of the book.

So it is with Henry Agard Wallace, who has been a consistent employer of ghost writers in his dozen years in public life, even tho one of the tribe brought him one of the most embarrassing moments any speaker has suffered on a public platform when he unwittingly read in an address the parenthetical note of his ghost writes—"[insert joke here to relieve monotony]."

The secretary of commerce, who nourishes White House ambitions, in this brief work sets the central theme—the United States can obtain a goal of 60 million jobs and a national income of 200 billion dollars without a planned economy, without disastrous inflation, and without an unbalanced budget. This means a job for every other American, including children, the ager, and housewives—about twice as many jobs as there are workers at present. Nonetheless, this reviewer must agree that the goal can be achieved in time—just as, with all other things being equal, every one can in time attain ripe old age and a pension.

In the course of the exposition such extraneous material is dragged in as talk of war with Russia is criminal, we have nothing to fear from communism, and a touch of Ku Kluxism in stating that the existence of 23 million Catholics in this country, along with 13 million Negroes and 5 million Jews, makes necessary the facing of the existence of social tension.

Also woven into the book is such liberal buttering of Wallace as mention of his various travels, success in the hybrid corn seed development, and learning a little Spanish at 50, a little Russian at 55, and to solo a plane at 56.

In doing Mr. Wallace's thinking the ghost writer has had a merry time, but not so merry as if Mr. Wallace, a vegetarian, should employ a ghost eater to gnaw up his red points in steaks or as if Mr. Wallace, a teetotaller, should employ a ghost drinker to nibble on his old fashioneds.

Is This the Price of Lasting Peace?

"THE PRICE OF PEACE," by William Beveridge. [W. W. Norton, $2.]

The nations can safeguard peace only by paying for it — yielding present political and economic rights, in the opinion of the scholarly author, who wrote Britain's much touted social security plan. The chief cause of war, he says, is fear, occasioned by international anarchy, and the most promising immediate preventive is compulsory international arbitration, even tho it may impair certain political privileges. In the long run, he would favor a federal world government of delegated and limited powers.

How England Received News of the Heroic Death of Nelson

"HE BRINGS GREAT NEWS," by Clemence Dane. [Random House, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Edward Wagenknecht

Before the invention of the telegraph, a people might wait long for word of a news event which had determined the whole course of their future existence. It was on Oct. 21, 1805, that Nelson gave his life to save the seas for England at Trafalgar, but England did not know it until Lt. Lapenotiere of the Pickle arrived with the news on Nov. 6. Miss Dane's brief narrative, the story of his journey, vividly recaptures a moment of history.

The book is essentially a tour-de-force. Not quite a novel, yet not satisfied to remain a series of episodes, it wavers somewhat as to structure. There are times when you feel it is going to follow the plan of a "Grand Hotel," but it never quite does. The story of Helena Jarningham, whom we see establishing herself in "Cymbeline," at Andover, the night Lapenotiere passes thru that town; the briefer tale of the Frenchman whom we meet in a balloon over England in the first, rather dangling, chapter, and of whom we take our leave as he holds forth on the significance of the English victory—these characters are not quite detached from the tale of Lapenotiere's journey, and the love story which is combined rather than united with it, nor are they ever really a part of it.

At the imaginative end of her story Miss Dane shows her hero, in the likeness of one of his descendants, brooding over his reward and his future, and his ultimate taking off. "And then? The eternal oblivion of the grave.

"And the purpose of it all?"

That last is the question some readers may ask concerning the book. Yet "He Brings Great News" may well be cherished for its many vivid sidelights on English character, for the reflection of English literature and the theater that have been caught in its glass, for a vivid glimpse of Lady Hamilton and a really distinguished portrait of George III., even by those who are not quite sure what it adds up to.

Guide to All Types of Light Airplanes

"THE STANDARD GUIDE TO PRIVATE PLANES," by Lester Ott. [Aeronautics Publishing Associates, $2.]

As complete, probably, as any directory of personal planes could be at this early stage of post-war development, this guide gives pertinent information on all types of light planes, both pre-war and projected.

How to Prepare and Cook Game of All Varieties

"COOKING WILD GAME," by Frank G. Ashbrook and Edna N. Sater. [Orange Judd Publishing Co., $4.]

Reviewed by Bob Becker

While this is primarily a cookbook and a good one, it's much broader in scope than its title. To this reviewer, who owns many books on how to cook wild game, this 338 page guide on how to prepare almost any type of game from a muskrat to an elk is a book to be read, not merely consulted occasionally, for it includes informative discussions on the uses and abuses of game, the food values of many species of feathered and furred game, information on how to cook unfamiliar and familiar species of fish, and both game birds and game animals. There are 432 recipes given in detail. Dozens of illustrations add to the attractiveness of the book.

The authors, connected with the United States fish and wild life service in Chicago, have consulted scores of authorities and game technicians, and home economics and cookery experts in assembling their material. The result is a noteworthy book, so comprehensive and well written that it deserves a place in the library of the sportsman and the epicure, and a spot in the kitchen of every home where the man of the house is an ardent fisherman or hunter.

BOOKMAN'S HOLIDAY

By Delos Avery

THERE never was a World War II. if you believe in physifiction and the Saturday Evening Post. Even World War I. never got very far—under the same if. It was stopped by a man with an atom.

Robert Williams Wood, professor of experimental physics at Johns Hopkins university, playfully collaborating with Arthur Train, the story-teller, established everlasting peace a little more than 30 years ago by writing a book, "The Man Who Rocked the Earth." It was published serially late in 1914 and in book form by Doubleday, Page & Co. in 1915.

In the first chapter a wireless operator at the Naval observatory at Georgetown picked up from an unknown station this message:

"To all mankind: I am the dictator of human destiny. Thru the earth's rotation I control day and night, summer and winter. I command the cessation of hostilities and the abolition of war upon the globe. I appoint the United States as my agent for this purpose. As evidence of my power I shall increase the length of the day—from midnight to midnight—of Thursday, July 22, by the period of five minutes.—PAX."

Well, boys and girls, PAX did it. He did it as gently as he could. There was a feeling "as tho brakes were being applied to a Pullman train," and Cleopatra's Needle, the obelisk in Central park, New York, fell down. A million other things happened, and all the clocks in the world were wrong. So were compasses. There were earthquakes everywhere, and the Giants knocked the Braves' pitcher out of the box. Two astronomers watching a star that ought to pass the meridian line at midnight were shocked to see it cross the line five minutes late.

There was a "yellow aurora" in which "Potsdam reported the presence of sodium." There were tidal waves, one of which swept over the Panama canal's Gatun lock. There were other phenomena that nobody would believe.

It was a good show, but it did not stop the war, and PAX sent a new warning:

"I will excavate a channel thru the Atlas mountains and divert the Mediterranean into the Sahara desert."

He did that, too. Out of the sky came a lavender ray, observed by one Mohammed Ben Ali el Bad, who testified:

"Instantly the earth blew up like a cannon—up into the air, a thousand miles up."

The mountains vanished and the sea flooded the Sahara. And while this happened at night "it was as light as noonday."

Well, this time all the nations were ready to take PAX's word for anything. So when he sent a message saying he would twist the axis of the earth, bringing back the glacial age to Europe, upsetting all the earth's climates, turning arctic into tropical and vice versa—nobody doubted his power. Nobody but one German general, who wanted to try a new secret weapon against Paris, a "relay gun" which could shoot "70 miles." The general tried it and he and all his men and all the village they occupied vanished like a Japanese city [to use an intended anachronism.]

Who was PAX? Nobody knew. But the wireless operator who received the first mysterious message, aided by a physicist named Hooker, figured the latitude and longitude of the PAX headquarters in a desolate region in Labrador at the top of a cliff which was composed chiefly of—guess?—uranium oxide! PAX was dead [an accident], but his secret belonged to the young physicist. And there never was another war.

PAX, it seems, had found out how to disintegrate the uranium atom and use it in two ways. He had made himself a sky car which was called the Flying Ring, in which, from vast heights, he could direct his lavender ray against any selected terrestrial spot. With atomic power he could either construct or destroy.

And what happened when peace was universal and perpetual? The answer, so far as Dr. Wood and his collaborator were concerned, is in the epilogue.

Humanity got rich by merely saving all the money it takes to repair the ravages of old wars and wage new ones. The one PAX stopped had "bankrupted the world" with "an amalgamated debt of $100,000,000,000." [These novelists, even when inspired by physicists, never guess high enough in matters of money.]

Anyway, all the ammunition left over was dumped into the sea, all boundary fortifications were leveled, all armies were disbanded, all governments were united and held annual conferences at The Hague. The only law enforcing agency on earth was the International Police.

"And, because the fear and shadow of war were removed, the nations grew rich beyond the imagination of men; great hospitals and research laboratories, universities, schools, kindergartens, opera houses, theaters, and gardens of every sort sprang up everywhere, paid for no one quite knew how. The nations ceased to build dreadnaughts, and instead used the money to send great troops of children traveling over the world. . . . People forgot that they were French, or German, or Russian, or English, just as the people of the United States had long before disregarded the fact that they came from Ohio, or Oregon, or Connecticut, or Nevada. Russians with weak throats went to live in Italy as a matter of course, and the Spaniards who liked German cooking settled in Munich."

Naturalist Writes an Absorbing Book

"THE TURN OF THE TIDE," by Leo Walmsley. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.75.]

This book, the autobiography of an English writer, naturalist, and movie man, grows on the reader. There are some wonderful descriptive passages on fishing. The picture of Bramblewick bay, with its tide-swept creeks, is unforgettable. The book ends with the story of the production of a motion picture of the same name as the book. The movie was an artistic success but a financial flop. That was all right, the author says. The people who made it were well paid and they had fun doing it.

Tragic Saga of the Civil War in Spain

"SMOULDERING FREEDOM," by Isabel de Palencia. [Longmans, Green, $3.]

Reviewed by Edith Weigle

The author of "I Must Have Liberty," who was minister plenipotentiary for republican Spain to Sweden and Finland from 1936 to 1939, in this new book tells the poignant story of her fellow republicans in exile.

It is the tragic saga of heroes and martyrs, men and women who fought, were imprisoned, tortured, and who died for the cause of freedom. Some thousands escaped and are living today in Mexico, which invited them to enter, and in South America, this country, and England. Other thousands [it is estimated about 140,000] died of hunger and privation in concentration camps in France.

The author explains that the democratic republican regime, set up by constitutional means in Spain in April of 1931, enjoyed a life of only five years before it was overthrown by the dictator, Franco, and the Falange, but she predicts that it will return inevitably, as 90 per cent of the people want a democracy. It is simply a matter of time and circumstances, she believes.

In a chapter summarizing the Spanish civil war she sets forth the issues, chief among which were the agrarian reforms started by the republicans. Other chapters describe fascist rule under Franco, recount the lives and exploits of some of the greatest of the republican heroes, and tell of present conditions among the exiles.

Mme. Palencia and her family have been living in Mexico City for some years and she has made seven lecture trips to this country. She writes with the fervor of a woman to whom the cause of freedom means everything in life.

Five Friends on Island Struggle Against Naziism

"THE DREAMERS," by J. Bigelow Clark. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Polly Goodwin

Campagna, a beautiful Italian island in the Mediterranean, would seem to provide the perfect refuge from the world. Or so had thought five persons, who for their own good reasons, had chosen to make it their home. Two Americans, the elderly Mrs. Graham and the gentle, young Tom Keen; the white-bearded old English professor Tucker, the handsome, virile Baron Gustave [Gus] von Orsted, a voluntary exile from Germany, and his lovely Italian mistress Lydia. At the outbreak of war they had refused to leave, and altho they represented nations at war with one another, they were civilized human beings and continued to live at peace with each other and the world.

But the remotest isle is not safe from war and the dream is roughly shattered by the abrupt arrival of the Germans. Campagna has been made a refueling base for their submarines and is taken over by the degenerate Captain Muller and his underlings. They poison the very air of the island with their presence, and the story concerns the inevitable struggle between their sadistic, perverted cruelties and the efforts of the islanders and the five friends to outwit them.

This is a first novel and a good one. The author reveals a remarkable understanding of the Nazi ideology. While writing a first class thriller of absorbing interest, he has with great skill and clarity given the reader a vivid insight into the mental illness which infests the world and seems to find its ugliest manifestation in the people of Germany.

3 Books Tell of Salesmanship and Job Finding

"500 POST-WAR JOBS FOR MEN," by Vocational Guidance Research. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.50.]

"HOW TO GET THE JOB YOU WANT," by John W. Herdegen. [Essential, $1.]

"MONEY MAKING SALESMANSHIP," by Michael Gross. [McGraw-Hill, $3.]

Reviewed by Arthur Bergholz

On the whole, over the years, the literature on job finding and description has shown a marked improvement. There is a definite effort to give advice about down-to-earth essentials and not to endow jobs with specific potentials which are impossible to realize.

"500 Post-war Jobs for Men" is a dictionary of 500 different jobs. Each is described by the following vocational points: present outlook, description, requirements, advantages, disadvantages, earnings, advancement opportunities, and where to apply. In addition, jobs are keyed according to an applicant's general preference and indexed by fields of work. A concise introduction guides the applicant to the agencies and to the reading and preparation necessary for interviews.

The value of "How to Get the Job You Want" is twofold. It is designed to guide the applicant in finding a position confidently and aggressively along the lines of his abilities and enthusiasms. To accomplish this case studies are used where preparation and a high degree of enterprise are combined. Secondly, Herdegen includes a list of trade papers and magazines in the important fields of work. It is in them that applicants will find many want lists and information as to what is going on in important business and industrial fields.

"Money Making Salesmanship" is, as the author says, a guide for the average salesman. It offers no easy grand slams of order taking. Thirty years' experience have given Michael Gross a fund of pithy wisdom about the sound workmanship which must go into the job of selling.

His chief concern is to counsel against talking too much, bluffing, lacking tact, being a poor sport, whining, and other negative attitudes which cut salesmen off from buyers. Once a salesman can see thru the meretricious in his behavior he is in a position to learn the positive features of selling.

These latter cluster around a knowledge of the product, the principles which motivate the producer, and the needs of the buyers of the product. Gross has much to say about these, which should prove invaluable guides and reminders to salesmen. "Money Making Salesmanship" is a good book and its common sense will be helpful in tightening up performance.

When Hired Girls Were Ever Loyal

"HORN OF PLENTY," by Valma Clark. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Kenneth Horan

Today, with the faithful servant a legend, and no such thing as a loyal factotum who performs domestic duties for room and board, this story would be anachronism were it not so realistically told. It centers about a woman whose life is bound up in the lives of her people, a competent, experienced, faithful woman who works hard to make everything pleasant for the Rathbones, a large and active family of rugged individualists. They are, of course, such interesting people that Effie is completely entranced and doesn't want a life of her own, and only hopes to steer them in the right direction, out of the confusion they have made of their deeds.

So here is domesticity at the boiling point, with such vital problems as whether there shall be fried chicken or roast beef for Sunday dinner. It's upper-state New York where, if Carl Carmer is accurate, anything can happen, and where the people are as original and opinionated and notional as tho they were a sect apart.

"'Who's running my family, you or me?' demanded Shad Rathbone, lusty and domineering head of the family. 'You are,' Effie said submissively."

But of course he wasn't. Effie told them all what to do and talked them into the right way, when the wrong seemed more attractive. And not until all the boys and girls, children of several marriages, had scattered, and Shad himself was dead, did she think of herself.

Fine characterization marks this story. But that is not all. It has the feeling of the place, which is a fine, prosperous farm in upper New York state, where the earth yields a living and its owners know and love it, and where the role of domestic servant is honorable and enviable. Those were the days—the dear, dead days beyond recall, and reading about them is like listening to a beautiful, but forgotten song.

American Record in Algiers Laid Bare by Writer

"CONSPIRACY IN ALGIERS," by Renée Gosset. [The Nation, $1.]

Reviewed by Will Davidson

The time has come for the books of revelation, the "now it can be told" volumes which will eventually help us to achieve a better evaluation of World War II. Oone of the first is this significant study of the shenanigans that went on in Africa at the time America was playing ball with the soon-to-be-assassinated Adm. Darlan. The correspondents could only hint at the truth during the time of the Darlan regime, but those hints were disquieting. Now Mrs. Gosset tells why.

The author handles her subject intelligently and on the whole impartially, but there is no escaping her conviction that the Darlan deal was idiotic and unnecessary. She asserts that had we acted quickly we could have taken Algiers without trouble, even with the small force that we landed. There was no need to deal with Darlan "to save lives." We could also have landed at Bizerte, she claims, without firing a shot, had we had the daring, for the Germans didn't come in until after our originally scheduled landing time.

This is a severe indictment of our military political efforts in the African invasion. It can not be considered the last word, but it is a stimulating first word on a subject that must be aired if we are to develop a strong foreign policy and a sensible military one.

Horror Stories Are Surveyed by Master of Genre

"SUPERNATURAL HORROR IN LITERATURE," by Howard Phillips Lovecraft. Introduction by August Derleth. (Ben Abramson, $2.50.)

This essay of Lovecraft's is reprinted from the first Arkham House book, "The Outsider," now out of print. Lovecraft's position as a master of the supernatural horror tale must have made his judgments of the other masters interesting in any event; it is a piece of genuine good luck that, in spite of some errors, he should have turned out a really scholarly and valuable study. Brief as this new book is, it goes on the shelf beside Edith Birkhead, Eino Railo, and Montague Summers. And indeed Lovecraft's range is so much wider than that of the other writers both in time and in space—he takes in American and Continental, as well as British, material—that he actually has a good deal which the larger studies were bound to omit.

Here is a good example of Lovecraft's critical acumen: Beckford, he says, "lacks the essential mysticism which marks the acutest form of the weird; so that his tales have a certain knowing Latin hardness and clearness preclusive of sheer panic fright." Here, of his careful discrimination: "Without notable command of the poetic witchery of mere words, Blackwood still is the one absolute and unquestioned master of weird atmosphere." He closes with a fine discussion of the influences making for and against the popularity of the supernatural story, and concludes that "it is a narrow tho essential branch of human expression, and will chiefly appeal as always to a limited audience with keen special sensibilities."

Potentials of Power in World Today

"THE BALANCE OF TOMORROW," by Robert Strausz-Hupé. [Putnam's, $3.]

Reviewed by Hans J. Morgenthau

While in the period between the two world wars international problems were approached primarily in terms of law and morals, it has become fashionable in recent years to discuss international problems primarily, if not exclusively, in terms of power. The "scientific" exploration of power relations and power potentials, "planning" in terms of future power developments has become the order of the day.

As an antidote to this popular tendency, which in its extreme manifestations is no less unrealistic than the Wilsonian school of idealistic morality, this book by the well known author of "Axis America" and "Geopolitics" is most welcome. The author is fully aware of the limitations to which any presumably scientific forecast of international developments is subject. "For security and peace cannot be planned; they have to be won every day." He believes that "power factor can be measured only within a very broad range of accuracy; national power in its totality cannot be measured at all." Yet "Rough measurements are better than no measurements at all."

It is with these rough measurements of national power that the book deals under the three headings of population, raw materials, and organization. An attempt is made to forecast the probable trends with regard to these three factors up to 1970. Tables and charts support the textual analysis showing the tremendous power potentialities of the United States and more particularly of Russia.

The book was written before the atomic bomb introduced an unforeseen element into the power calculations. In a preface, inserted into the volume after its completion, the author deals with the impact of this new weapon upon the future of the world. He sees no reason to revise the conclusion at which he arrives in the book that "the basic answer to the question of war and peace with which this book is concerned rests now as before in the realm of international morality."

THE JUNIOR BOOKSHELF

By Agatha L. Shea

TITLE	SUBJECT	VERDICT
"BELINDA'S NEW SHOES," by Winifred Bromhall. [Knopf, $1.50.]	Belinda had only one wish—to have bright red shoes from the store window to wear at the festival. Grandma had the same thought, and Belinda gets the shoes as a surprise. But even then Belinda and the red shoes almost missed the festival, and grandma had to save the situation.	An amusing, tender little story which girls of the third and fourth grades will enjoy and appreciate. Appealing illustrations.
"SHIPMATES AHOY," by Henry B. Lent. [Macmillan, $2.]	A combination factual and fiction story describing the training which the young hero undergoes from the time he joins the merchant marine to his first voyage on a Liberty ship.	Like the other Lent books on the various services, this one is based on experience and observation with its facts authenticated. For the upper grade reader.
"STRAWBERRY GIRL," by Lois Lenski. [Lippincott, $2.50.]	Story of the Florida "Crackers" in the early 1900s. Heroine is the little daughter of a farm family who raised strawberries while dreaming of better times when she would know how to play the organ and have book learning. Friction with shiftless neighbors and good times in which quarrels are forgotten make the story realistic.	Another one in this author's excellent series of American regional stories. Altho book is on fifth or sixth grade interest level, some readers of this group may have difficulty with the dialect of the region. On the whole, however, a real contribution to Americana, both in pictures and text.

"TODAY—FOR THE FIRST TIME—
I really see my native land!"

Here—In Gorgeous FULL COLOR, Painted By the Great COVARRUBIAS—Is ALL AMERICA and Her Riches—Spread Before You On A "Map-Portrait" Which Your Guests Will Admire and You Will Be Proud to Own!

WHEN YOU SEE this magnificent map-portrait—THE COVARRUBIAS AMERICA—you, like others who now possess it, will say: "Today, for the first time, I really see my native land! I see crystal-clear what America is—what we are—what we have!"

Here is the land that has mothered the sons and daughters who have fought so bravely for it. The land they are coming back to, and which spreads before them its untold resources and opportunities. Here is AMERICA—as it has never before been captured in picture or print.

CLIFTON FADIMAN, of Information Please! fame: "It makes clear, with humor and imagination, the solid meaning of the America we are fighting for."

THOMAS CRAVEN, noted art critic, and author of Men of Art: "Covarrubias has done this not only with an accurate survey of the productive localities, but with the gayety and charm of his remarkable art."

The Master Work of a Master Artist

Who but Covarrubias, supreme master of color and great muralist that he is, could have conceived a map like this? Not just a map—but a living picture of our land and its people. The tremendous sweep of our geography, as if you had spent many months making a state-by-state tour of America's entire length and breadth. The endless variety of our products, our industries, our inimitable legends and unforgettable history.

No wonder THE COVARRUBIAS AMERICA has already become one of the most treasured possessions in homes, offices, schools and libraries from coast to coast. Because here, in one superbly beautiful picture, are the very spirit and meaning of America. Here is a master work of art that goes straight to your heart, and tightens your throat, exactly the way a marching band or bravely streaming flags stir every American.

14 Months in the Making

Before Covarrubias touched a single brush to his canvas, he traveled over this country seeking out every last detail that would make this map the masterpiece that it is. The photograph here can only hint at the hundreds upon hundreds of exquisite, gem-like miniatures in full color that illuminate every region, every group of our people, each industry and fruit of the good earth that make our land like no other in the world. And to help you and your children to appreciate each of these intriguing miniatures to the fullest, you will receive with the map a large tracing of Covarrubias' own working chart, identifying (in its exact position) each subject, each characterization, each state.

The Black-and-White Picture Above cannot possibly show you the famous Covarrubias richness of coloring in this great map-portrait. You must SEE its lovely blend of greens as deep as America's fir trees oranges as rich as our fruit itself—purples like our wine grapes—reds as rosy as our apples the blue of our own flag the gold of our wheat!

Can you see, above, the corn and cotton and wheat—the people who love and grow and harvest them—that Covarrubias has captured? Can you see the fish and the forests, the mills and the mines, the lakes and rivers and mighty mountain ranges?

NO—you can't begin to see them in this reduced, black-and-white reproduction which is actually less than one-twenty-fifth the area of this great, 36 by 25 inch glowing map-portrait! You can't begin to feel the pride you will know when THE COVARRUBIAS AMERICA is actually on the wall of your home; the satisfaction you will know when your guests pore over it, and your children gain from it a more intimate knowledge of their native land than any other kind of map could ever give them!

Nothing can do full justice to the beauty of this map-portrait except your own examination of it. That is why we make you this offer:

Examine It Now for 5 Days

You must actually see THE COVARRUBIAS AMERICA to visualize how its rich, glowing colors will shine upon your wall. Examine its heavy, flat mounting (actually one-fifth of an inch thick); the beautiful lustre of its hand-varnished finish. Should you wish it framed, as shown above, full details will be sent with the map.

Examine the COVARRUBIAS AMERICA for five days. A small deposit will bring it to you; the balance may be sent in easy monthly payments. If for any reason you decide to return the map to us, the amount you have paid us will be promptly refunded.

Lewis Stages Comeback at the Age of 60

By Frederic Babcock

They're saying in the book trade that Sinclair Lewis has hit the comeback trail and has written his greatest novel since he left Harcourt, Brace. That means—in case you've lost track—his greatest since "Dodsworth."

Sinclair Lewis

Lewis' career has been, and still is, of tremendous interest to all us midwesterners who have followed it ever since, a quarter of a century ago, he hit the jackpot with "Main Street."

That story of small town life sold more than a million copies. It was followed by the equally notable [and equally lampooning] "Babbitt." Twenty years ago Lewis reached his peak in "Arrowsmith," regarded by some of us, then and now, as the nearest approach yet found to the Great American Novel—an opinion borne out when, largely on the strength of that masterpiece, he became the first American to win the Nobel prize for literature. There followed the highly successful "Elmer Gantry" and "Dodsworth." Then the author changed publishers.

Why he quit Harcourt, Brace is still a disputed subject. I've heard both sides, and both are interesting. At any rate, he began to slip. "Ann Vickers" had its points—remember the hanging scene in the southern penitentiary?—and so did "Work of Art" and "It Can't Happen Here." But "The Prodigal Parents" was one of the most gosh-awful bores we one-time Lewis fanatics ever tried to wade thru, and "Bethel Merriday" was even more so.

Two years ago his "Gideon Planish" was brought out; it revealed some of his old-time fire. Now his "Cass Timberlane" is about to be issued by Random House.

In New York the other evening Bennett Cerf handed me an advance copy of this latest effort, and right away I was lost in a world of my own choosing.

This isn't a review. The book won't appear until Oct. 3, and the critical estimates of it will have to wait until then. But I can say, without talking out of turn, that Lewis is once more the master of the realism and satire he showed in his earlier works.

"Cass Timberlane" is billed as "a novel of husbands and wives." More accurately, it is the story of the romance between a man in his 40s and a girl in her 20s. Interlacing this story are the accounts of the marital affairs of the couple's friends in "Grand Republic, Minn.," a town which, the author explains, might just as well be "Springfieldill, Springfieldmo, Springfieldmass," or any other medium sized city.

At 60, Sinclair Lewis has rediscovered Sex. This factor, along with his devastating portraits and his biting phrases, will make the book a huge success. [Already it has earned, thru serial rights, movie rights, and such, more than $400,000.] The last 50 pages in particular contain scenes worthy of the old master. Once more the author is letting his characters talk and act the way real people do. Once more he has captured the spirit of the middle west.

"Cass Timberlane" is his 19th novel. On the promise he shows in it, perhaps we are justified in hoping that his 20th [on which he's already working] will be another "Arrowsmith." Or can there ever be another "Arrowsmith"?

Mr. Pollock, It Seems, Is Still a Happy Man

"THE ADVENTURES OF A HAPPY MAN [With More Adventures]," by Channing Pollock. [Crowell. $2.]

Reviewed by John Randolph

"I have never been unhappy one whole hour in my life." That is what erstwhile dramatist Pollock said in 1938. He says it again in 1945 in this new edition of his book. Much blood flowed under the bridges between those dates. Clearly, Mr. Pollock must be an amazing man.

Channing Pollock

What kind of a man, really, is he? He is the one who wrote "The Fool," a play that didn't fool the critics. John Corbin has pointed out that its success was largely due to the personal publicity efforts of Pollock, who invaded churches and schools to raise an audience for the play.

Broadway was too tough, and Pollock took to the lecture platforms and the popular magazines. This less critical audience found his advice most palatable. He, in turn, greatly enjoyed his role as sage.

What is his advice on how to achieve happiness? In essence, it is the age old one of moderation in all things. He advocates saving, being happy with what you have, working, and being a good friend. This, of course, is very good advice. The only trouble is human nature does not always work that way.

Outside of that limitation, however, this book is the best of its kind. It contains some observations not in the original edition.

Anyway, Mr. Pollock is still happy.

Earthiness in a Tale of the Ozarks

"SKIP TO MY LOU," by William Martin Camp. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Marguerite Lyon

"Hit hain't a purty story," the Ozark heroine of this novel would say if she could read it. The earthiness of several main characters and the general spade-calling are reminiscent of Tobacco Road, but the migration of this Ozark mountain family and some of their neighbors to California during the high war wages era makes a tale that holds the reader.

Wm. Martin Camp

Probably other tales are being written on this subject, for the new California gold rush upset the lives of many people, but only a hill woman, like Mr. Camp's Lou Hoxie, could provide the violent contrast between the remote isolation of the Ozarks, with its ease of living, and the crowded discomfort of a war workers' trailer town.

The birth of the Pittsburgh woman's baby on the California mudflat, the gradual decline of Little Lonzo, who never gets over being homesick for the hills, the strange club into which her schoolgirl daughter is almost forced, and the discomfort of living in a tiny homemade trailer are incidents which Lou takes in her Ozark stride.

But the deterioration of "darlin' Vigo," Lou's handsome, weak willed, unfaithful husband, seems to baffle every one, from Lou to the author. Here in the Ozarks we shall always be grateful to Author Camp for making it quite plain that Vigo was a "tramp carpenter from Indiana" and not a native of the hills.

Ozark dialect, superstitions and expressions are authentic; even the famous hill expression, "light a shuck," to express extreme speed, gets used a half dozen times. Somehow the author makes Lou Hoxie, her four children, and her whining husband so real that I shall be minded to hunt out their dogtrot house in Happy Holler next time I'm near Berryville, Ark.

THE MURDER CHART

By Drexel Drake

ENTRY	PERFORMANCE	PAY-OFF
"THE WRONG MAN,' by H. C. Bailey. [Doubleday, Doran, $2.]	Murder of young girl secretary in woods behind Farways Inn turned out to be more than lovers' quarrel, once Joshua Clunk began linking apparently peaceful life of Farways with some earlier London deaths and vanished estate of antiques. Clunk and American colonel helped Scotland Yard unmask slippery personalities.	Intricate setup of villains in cleverly operated plot, producing brain twisting puzzle. Tale rates with the best of this author's work.
"MURDER BEFORE MIDNIGHT," by A. B. Cunningham. [Dutton, $2.]	It looked bad for pretty Ruth True's rival admirers when her body was found in cistern, but Sheriff Jess Roden, never blinded by surface indications, looked into dubious business of place where Ruth had worked, and turned up a surprise explanation for the tragedy.	Neatly devised murder puzzle for this patient, meticulous sleuth, who solves it in his characteristically unhurried, clear thinking fashion.

BOOKS ALIVE

by Vincent Starrett

MOST of the Presidents of the United States have been avid readers, it is satisfying to know, and not a few of them have been practising collectors, notably the scholarly and acquisitive Thomas Jefferson, two of whose three famous libraries became the victims of fire. That story is well known and already has been told in this department. But among the "true collectors," also, was George Washington, asserts Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach in a discussion of Presidential libraries, in his "Book Hunter's Holiday" [Houghton Mifflin].

There were some fine collections on the great estates within a day's ride of Mount Vernon, in the first President's youth, and his near neighbor was William Byrd of Westover, the first man in the American colonies to form a great private library. Washington came under the cultural influences of his time and section early—they were more liberal in Virginia than in the New England provinces—and delighted in building a library containing the best obtainable editions of his favorite writers. Later he had his own binder in Philadelphia, and many of his volumes were handsomely bound for him in calf tooled with emblematical designs.

Addison and Goldsmith are said to have been the authors he liked best, but he read Shakespeare, Swift, Smollett, Sterne, and Fielding with pleasure. Cervantes was a favorite with him; he read "Don Quixote" with enjoyment and owned two copies of the Smollett translation, for one of which he is known to have paid 22 shillings and sixpence on Sept. 17, 1787. He possessed, also copies of Chesterfield's "Letters," "The Adventures of Telemachus," Fielding's "Tom Jones," the "Works" of Pope in six volumes, Smollett's "Humphrey Clinker," Voltaire's "Letters," "Gulliver's Travels," "The Beauties of Sterne," Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," and the two huge volumes of Dr. Johnson's dictionary.

An Aviation Enthusiast

Washington was professionally interested in books having to do with his native state, Virginia; with agriculture—he was the first farmer of his day—and with military science. His library contained many volumes on the art of war, and these he read faithfully, occasionally making a pointed comment in the margins, says Dr. Rosenbach, who has examined some of them. Toward the close of the 18th century he became interested in aviation, with the rest of the world, and acquired a copy of Jeffries' "Narrative of Two Aërial Voyages with Monsieur Blanchard" [London, 1786], an account of the first air crossing from England to France.

The inventory of Washington's library made at the time of his death listed 884 volumes, excluding pamphlets and maps. These were gradually dispersed by his family and a series of heirs and now are pretty well scattered. The largest group is in the Boston Athenaeum. Occasional volumes reach public auction from time to time, however, and bring increasingly higher prices.

Incidentally, it might appear that the President's wife also was interested in books. One of her surviving personal possessions, at any rate, is a curious volume called "The Jilts, or Female Fortune Hunters."

He Suppressed His Book

Last week I had a note on the suppression of a book by its author, Thomas Bailey Aldrich, because he didn't like it. There have been many similar episodes in the long history of books. Authors frequently feel that way about their work, particularly their early work, and some amusing attempts to abolish juvenile indiscretions are of record; I have noted several of them in earlier columns. Now it occurs to me that Rafael Sabatini must be added to the list.

This popular writer of cloak and sword romance has just published his fortieth novel, "The Birth of Mischief" [Houghton], by his publishers' count. My own count makes it 41. Omitted from the check list is "The Suitors of Yvonne," Sabatini's first novel, which I read serially nearly half a century ago, and I am fairly certain that it got into hard covers, also. Years later, remembering the story with pleasure, I wrote the author a letter asking him about the tale, and received the following courteous reply:

"I can not prevent your endeavoring to run down a copy of 'The Suitors of Yvonne,' but I can hope that you may not succeed. It is a book that I have done my best to suppress. If you should ever discover a copy you will find that your flattering memories of the story are due only to your youth and inexperience at the time of reading it serially."

He may be right; I don't know. I have never found a copy of "The Suitors of Yvonne," and I wonder how the author went about the business of a suppression that has proved so successful.

Where Ideas Come From

Returning to an old subject, neglected in recent months, to wit, the source of a writer's inspiration, Thomas Burke makes an interesting contribution to the symposium in his "Living in Bloomsbury." What authors call inspiration, he says, comes just as often from a cheerful lunch or a good cigar as from a lonely hilltop or cloistered meditation. "Tho what that power is, or where one's ideas come from is still mysterious," he confesses. "These things come; and whatever we give them, they keep a life of their own."

His own experiences have been "queer," as queer as the queer tales he writes about queer people and queer places. Many times a story-idea has come to him, and he has written the story, only to have the tale come to life in the newspapers later—i. e., after the act of writing. From this circumstance, which most writers could duplicate in their own experience, Burke reaches his strange conclusion:

"Whether it is that power one puts behind a story compels it to take life somewhere; whether it is that the events one uses are already being planned by somebody in actual life, and one picks them out of the air, I cannot say. I think it likely that stories have a life of their own. They have happened many times in the history of human life, and at the time our minds pick them up they have made the circle and are about to happen again."

Maybe so, but I think a simpler and better explanation can be found in the phenomenon of coincidence—the accidents of circumstance. But coincidences in themselves are full of attraction, possessing as they do all the fascination of a ghost story without any appeal to the supernatural, author of RETREAT, HELL!

THE DREAMERS

is a brilliant new novel, unique in its subtlety and suspense . . .

This unusually constructed psychological thriller tells the incredible story of five gentle people who had exiled themselves to an island paradise to find what all of us want—security, comfort and peace. The soft sun, the gentle wind, the glittering Mediterranean were ample reward until one man entered their lives. Overnight their dream was shattered. Security gave way to treachery and terror and five disillusioned people found themselves capable of violence and certain of one bitter fact: There is no escape from life. $2.50

THE LITERARY SPOTLIGHT

by Fanny Butcher

GERTRUDE LAWRENCE, who is going to autograph copies of her autobiography, "A Star Danced," tomorrow afternoon in the book section of Marshall Field & Co., has received many tangible expressions of admiration from enchanted theatergoers, but none stranger than the homage paid her by several Indian princes from Hyderabad. . . . She was entertained sumptuously by them at a banquet at the Savoy. . . . At every lady's place was a small gold kidskin bag. . . . She picked hers up, and inside were several small, round, hard objects. . . . Pearls? Uncut emeralds? Pigeonblood rubies? A handful of star sapphires? . . . One of the princes beamed on her and confided, with that R. S. V. P. tone in his voice, "It is something you ladies like very much." . . . When she opened the little golden pouch, into her palm, hot with expectancy of the precious coldness of the stones, rolled a handful of those betel nuts which Indian women of Hyderabad chew to blacken their teeth and their gums.

The title of Miss Lawrence's autobiography was written by a slot machine. . . . When she was a little girl her parents once took her to Brighton for a holiday. . . . She put a penny in a slot machine with a gypsy painted on it. . . . Out came a slip which read: "A star danced—and you were born." . . . Not an entirely original remark by the slot machine, however, since Beatrice, in Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing" replied to Don Pedro's "To be merry becomes you; for, out of question, you were born in a merry hour," with, "No, sure, my lord, my mother cried; but then there was a star danced, and under that was I born." Miss Lawrence's name, so Webster's biographical dictionary confides, was originally Gertrud Alexandra Dagmar Lawrence Klasen.

Direct from Hollywood

Helen Westley, another actress, whose life has been longer, but not more adventurous, than Gertrude Lawrence's, was approached, I hear, on a movie set one day by an extra, who gushed: "Why, Miss Westley, what are you doing in this picture?" . . . "My dear," she replied, "hadn't you heard? I furnish the sexagenarian appeal."

And, while we're in Hollywood, I read in the World Book company's amusing "Counter Points" that Irving Hoffman says that at the Cedars of Lebanon hospital there it is customary to notify the staff when an interesting post-mortem is to take place. . . . The occasion is delicately announced over the loudspeaker thus: "Calling Dr. Post; calling Dr. Mortimer Post." . . . Which reminds me that my favorite name for a writer of mysteries . . . and a reviewer of them . . . is still the one I made up [said she, modestly] for Mrs. Walter Brewster when she was the mystery reviewer of mysteries for The Tribune book pages. . . . It was Mortimer Quick.

Wrong on Two Counts

Corp. Don Roscher is the kind of reader the Spotlight likes to have—the kind that writes in to correct a mistake and adds a packet of news. . . . When I wrote about Gertrude Stein and her new book, which will be about worrying about the American GI's worrying and their worrying together, I said that she was 69 years old. . . . "Gertrude Stein is not 69," writes Corp. Roscher, "she was 71 on Feb. 3 of this year."

And he further assures me I was wrong when I said she sold a Picasso and was able, on its proceeds, to live, undiscovered, in German-occupied southern France. . . . "Miss Stein did not sell a Picasso when she was being needing money quite desperately," he writes. . . . Incidentally, that "being needing" [and, indeed, all of his letter] shows definitely the influence of Gertrude Stein on his writing. . . . "She sold the one Cezanne that was by that time left in her collection. At the beginning of the occupation by the Germans she sold her Cezanne for 3 million francs. . . . A French dealer was the buyer. If Miss Stein had been being willing to have traffic with the Germans she might very well have received 9 million francs for the painting. She knew this because the Germans did send such word to her—not directly, of course; grapevine. But the Matriarch G. S. did positively decide to enter into a hush-hush deal with the Frenchman, thereby forsaking the additional 6 million francs. To be sure, the Great Lady performed rightly. Always Gertrude Stein performed rightly. And always she does."

He continues: "I have just returned from Paris. In Paris I did spend a good deal of time with the Misses Stein and Toklas, Sylvia Beach, and Bravig [Confessions of Another Young Man] Imbs." . . . Altho one of the artistic avant garde in Paris, Mr. Imbs was born in Milwaukee and was graduated from the Carl Schurz High school in our own town. . . . "Bravig Imbs," continues my informant, "is in Paris in uniform. He is with the United States information service."

Names and Places

I hear that Joseph Henry Jackson, the literary mentor of the Pacific coast, has invented a new game—place names to go with the abbreviations of state names. . . . His favorite for our state is Deathly, Ill. . . . Some of his other favorites are Olla, La.; Goodness, Me.; Poison, Penn.; Grandpa, Pa.; Hittor, Miss.; Praise, Ala. . . . The author of Columbia University Press' "The Pleasures of Publishing" says he likes Proan, Conn.; Coco, Colo.; Either, Ore.; Rockand, R. I., and Farmerina, Del., but he thinks these go too far: Montmore, N. C.; Apples, Ida., and Squee, Mich. . . . He feels that the high is reached in Bee, O.

Introduction to the Study of Religions

"THE ELEVEN RELIGIONS AND THEIR PROVERBIAL LORE," by Selwyn Gurney Champion. [Dutton, $3.75.]

Reviewed by John Astley-Cock

As a brief introduction to the study of comparative religion this book excellently serves its purpose. Buddhism, Christianity, Confucianism, Hebraism, Hinduism, Islam, Jainism, Sikhism, Taoism, and Zoroastrianism are selected, and styled by the author as the "surviving religions." Each is preceded by a summary, philosophic and historical, and the 4,890 quotations of the eleven sections are arranged as in a concordance. Published in England, this American edition has a foreword by Dr. Rufus M. Jones on religion generally which, he says, "as nothing else has ministered so effectively in the life of the human race to increase the depth and scope of living."

Of the quotations, 35 per cent is allotted to seven religions; 25 per cent to Islam and Confucianism. Christianity and Hebraism comprise 40 per cent, and three-fifths of the Jewish sources are the Old Testament and the Apocrypha.

As comparison of proverbial lore may be cited the gospel's admonition against that proneness to see faults in others while oblivious of one's own shortcomings—"First cast out the beam out of thine own eye; then shalt thou see clearly the mote of thy brother's eye"—which appears as "The dust that is in thine eye thou seest not, but thou canst see the straw that is in the eye of another" in the Arabic proverb, and in the Talmud as "Man sees the mote in his neighbor's eye, but knows not the beam in his own."

Scholars will find this compendium useful for reference; students will find that Christianity has all of other religions and a lot more; and perhaps even the non-Deist may be induced to seek that consolation only to be found sub specie aeternitatis, as does the writer on Jainism.

Herbert Warren says: "In view of the unsolved problems in modern philosophy, the divergent views of theology, and the varying theories about life and the universe, the writer of this introduction would feel himself completely at sea were he not the possessor of the Jain metaphysic, which for him settles the problems and puts the mind at rest."

More Family Books for Young Readers

"THE PENCIL BOX FAMILY" and "THE ICE BOX FAMILY," by Isabel Proudfit and Caroline Matson. [David McKay, each 50 cents.]

The occupants of the pencil box and the refrigerator came to life in amusing picture and story for small readers in these two additions to the four previous "Family" books by the same author and artist. Sometimes the imagery and humor seem a bit beyond the imagination of the average kindergartner. A village child particularly may have trouble visualizing an ice box as an apartment house.

Epic of How Russia Was Kept Supplied

"PERSIAN GULF COMMAND," by Joel Sayre. [Random House, $2.]

Reviewed by Will Davidson

Route of the P. G. C.

In a war that called for miraculous achievements by industry and the men who know how to make industry run, the epic of the Persian gulf command must rank on the top shelf. Joel Sayre has not written the story of this little group in a grandiose vein at all, but he simply told record of a gargantuan accomplishment under unbelievably malevolent conditions ranks as some of the best writing of the war.

The task of the Persian gulf command was to supply Russia with 4½ million long tons of drastically needed arms and supplies and 147,000 vehicles with which to push the Germans back from Stalingrad and onto their own soil. The P. G. C. had to do this over a route about as long as that from New Orleans to St. Louis, on which there was an antiquated, one track railroad, and over which settled a dreadful heat that sometimes reached 180 degrees in the tunnels. Ports had to be built, roads laid, assembly lines established, Arabs fended off from communication lines, every tropical disease combatted. It was one of those impossible jobs, and 30,000 men did it.

It is no wonder Joel Sayre says in his last sentences: "If you see a fellow wearing a green shoulder patch with a red scimitar and a white star in it, you had better buy him a drink. He did well by all of us." You might buy Joel Sayre one, too—for the same reason.

Pilot-Writer Tells Story of His Life

"RUNWAY TO THE SUN," by Col. Robert L. Scott Jr. [Scribner's, $2.50.]

The author of "God Is My Co-Pilot" has told a moving story of his life which may be classified as a juvenile, but we'll bet any grown-up who reads it will swear it was written for his entertainment and enjoyment and not for a youngster. It's the simple, sincere, well written autobiography of a world famous flyer—an inspiring book for any one.

High Comedy Is Found in Urbane Book

"ALL SUMMER LONG," by Wilder Hobson. [Duell, Sloan & Pearce, $2.50.]

Reviewed by Richard Sullivan

Wilder Hobson

"All Summer Long" is an urbane little book. It grinds no ideological ax and is quite unconcerned about solving even a single big problem; yet it never descends to the rather meaningless level of what is sometimes called "light" fiction. All the way thru it exhibits a fine understanding of the pitiable as well as the ludicrous aspects of passionate human entanglements.

The people involved are a glittering company. J. Bates Upham—to whom a friend says accurately, "You're a character, Jack"—runs a gambling house and looks like "the resurrection of a rather beery Woodrow Wilson." In his establishment is employed the luscious Estelle, about whom all other persons of the plot revolve in appropriate stages of frenzied emotion.

Among these others are virile Hugo, the millionaire junk dealer; and Boaty, the aging playboy whose emancipation dates from a long delayed realization that after all his father never had any brains; and Bill Priest, a poor drunken writer of advertising copy; and a sturdy New England matron named Mrs. Guarnaccia; and a remarkable dame called Vivian, who insists that the only thing that kept her from a radio career was her throat.

They are all persons who, seen differently and treated in a less classical idiom, might by Damon Runyon characters. But at least a suggestion of Wilder Hobson's individual approach is to be found in the phrase summing up all the men of the book as "so many tomcats."

This is hardly the stuff for earnest readers who like messages. Nor is it to be recommended to any who know themselves susceptible to occasional verbal shocks. But there will be a good many readers who will judge "All Summer Long" a prime example of high comedy, rowdy yet civilized, with just a faint, restrained overtone of rue arising from its admirable prose.

This Is How EVERY Part of Your Body Really Works!

Stop Worrying About Yourself! Take This Fascinating "Conducted Tour" and Find Out What Really Goes On Inside Your Body. Know—Instead of Guessing, Wondering, and Worrying!

HAVE you only a hazy idea about what really goes on inside your lungs, intestines, nervous system, glands, stomach, reproductive organs and other parts of your body? If you don't actually KNOW, then you may be the prey of fears, superstitions, mistaken beliefs — and constant worries about yourself which are health-destroying and dangerous!

YOU are the "driver" of the most marvelous machine in the entire universe—your body. Naturally, you will be a better "driver", and will do a better job of operating and caring for your "machine," if you know exactly how every part of it works!

Lungs
Reproductive Organs
Heart
Nerves
Glandular System
Muscles
Bone Structure
Intestinal Tract
Brain
Kidneys
Stomach
Blood Stream
Etc.

Take This Fascinating "Conducted Tour"— Showing You Scores of Amazing Miracles!

Every twenty-four hours, wonderful miracles take place inside your body—miracles of digestion, elimination, reconstruction, self-preservation. Do you understand them? For the sake of your own health and peace of mind, it is extremely important that you SHOULD.

Little valves magically open up, and close just at the right fraction of a second. Tiny "bridges" go up to let some things pass; then stop to hold up other unwanted things. Signal systems send flash messages automatically. "Inspectors" go around rejecting and accepting various products. "Mechanics" do quick repairs; send for new tools. "Express trains" carry things needed in a hurry; "locals" tote non-rush items.

Everything You Want to Know— and SHOULD Know

There's no more absorbing story in the world than "The Amazing Story of Your Wonderful Human Body." And that's the title of the new book which tells it to you—in clear, graphic pictures and simple, interesting language.

The "Conducted Tour" of your entire body (on which this new book takes you) is not intended merely to satisfy curiosity-seekers. It is meant to give you an intelligent understanding of the marvelous and highly complex organism which houses your mind and spirit.

Medical findings establish definitely the amazingly close connection between mind and body. Once you clearly understand what takes place in your body, you will experience a corresponding feeling of confidence and well-being in your mind. Through this book, you may find that some of your oldest fears about the functioning of your own body are utterly without foundation. Your worries about the changes which take place as you pass from one period of life to another will give way to a new, serene, healthy understanding.

Profusely Illustrated with Clear Pictures

It is impossible to describe adequately here the comprehensive contents of this valuable illustrated book —how it tells and shows you everything you need to know about your body's construction and operation; the magical action of your thyroid, pituitary, pancreatic, and sex glands; the "telegraph system" of your nerves; the miraculous process by which life perpetuates itself inside your body; the startling relation between your emotions and your digestion; the action of beer, alcohol, tobacco, etc., in your blood stream; the ingenious way Nature has fitted together the 206 "girders" of your frame, etc.

Yes, the Partial Contents (shown on this page) can describe only a very small part of all the facts and pictures this book contains. But that does not matter; for NOW you may examine the book itself, without cost or obligation.

But if for any reason you are not, simply return it and your $1.98 will be refunded in full at once.

Nature has entrusted you with the lifelong care and operation of the most marvelous (and yet the most delicately balanced) "machine" in the entire universe. If you UNDERSTAND EVERY PART OF IT THOROUGHLY and care for it, it will undoubtedly serve you long and well. But if you fail to do this, you may eventually have to pay dearly for your negligence.

So mail this 7-Day Examination Coupon at once. Let this book take you on a "Conducted Tour" of yourself which will be the most instructive and worthwhile one you have ever taken. GREYSTONE PRESS, Dept. CTM 9-A, 31 West 57th St., New York 19 N. Y.

(Copyright: 1945: By Frank R. Adams)

INSTALMENT XII.

"MY DIANE!" Henri's voice at the open window. "Time runs out."

"Coming," she replied. "I'll meet you in the dining room."

Yes, Henri was right. Time was running out. And she needed time desperately. She had to think. How had the unwelcome visitor at that house guessed the secret it held? Was he himself the murderer? No, that seemed unlikely. He would not have returned to ask for Lady Baltimore. Or would he? Such a course of action might be only an excellent red herring. The man seemed coldly capable of murder.

She must see Seven Smith and tell him about it.

But there was no time to see Smith. Henri was waiting for her as she came in from the kitchen. So were all the invited guests who had already assembled in the main dining room and were sorting themselves out in accordance with Virginia Van Gynt's exotic place cards.

Perhaps it didn't make any difference whether Smith knew or not. Probably it was only overwrought feminine nerves that made her think that there was something sinister about the inopportune presence of a man whose looks she didn't like and a dog who was too intelligent.

Diana never remembered much about her personal participation in the feast. She sat at her father's right, the guest of honor at the table over which she had so long presided. Henri was on the other side of her. Between his easy gayety, which she found herself resenting slightly, and her father's too gilded depression she found no conversational level on which she was comfortable. And yet on such an occasion a bride who is not highly vivacious may be rightly accused of not having her heart in her work. So Diana forced sparks that glittered as coldly as those which spin from the flint of a safety fireworks toy.

Apparently her guests did not notice that Diana was any more jittery than the average bride or if they did they made extra allowance for her state of excitement. After all she was embarked on two great enterprises, matrimony and a wedding trip which would probably end somewhere in Europe with music by Krupp and Messerschmidt.

Henri responded easily to a toast to his bride and himself with a speech which sounded anything but impromptu. It was rather flowery like something out of a book.

There were to have been other toasts but Mr. Pyneglass apologized as he explained about the last minute change of plans which made it necessary for the newlyweds to get started soon or they would miss their train.

Diana was glad to leave the table. Some of the guests who were not too interested in the refreshments followed the bride and groom to the main hall.

Henri and Diana mounted the stairs and turned at the landing as brides and grooms have always turned to wave a farewell and for the ceremony of the bride's bouquet.

As Diana looked down she did not really see the parquetry of upturned faces. Her imagination erased everything but the memory of the way that same hall had looked that morning when Mrs. Baltimore had kept her lonely appointment there with death. The way her knee had been drawn up, the position of the cushion with which she had been suffocated, the pile of florists' boxes on the floor, every component of that static, tragic scene was more vivid than the animated, gay and noisy one which overlaid it.

Henri nudged her. "They're waiting," he whispered. "Throw your bouquet."

Diana came out of her reverie with a start. The people down there were still not so real as the corpse which she felt must be lying beneath their feet but the confused blur came into a clearer focus.

Diana's sister, Rhoda, was standing where the body had been. She was smiling at Diana enigmatically, an expression combined of patronizing pity, perhaps because of the things she had yet to learn, and of selfish relief at seeing her go.

It was Rhoda who caught the bouquet which the bride threw without any particular aim or intention but which flew to her arms as if she had exercised a magnetic attraction for it.

There was a murmur of laughter and accusations from the ranks of debs and sub-debs clustered up nearer the staircase that it was collusion between members of the Pyneglass family to engineer a monopoly of men.

As Henri and Diana continued on up the staircase she heard Rhoda in her clear, sharp voice declaring that as she already had a man, at least legally, she would toss the bouquet again for a free catch.

Who got it that time Diana didn't know. They were around the turn at the top of the stair well by then and her own personal problems assailed her.

As they passed the open door of her father's den on the second floor Diana could see Smith busy at the desk telephone. He seemed to be taking notes. If she had been alone she would certainly have stopped for a conference. Things were getting too complicated. Smith didn't know all that she knew and she had only a vague idea what he was up to.

But Henri gave her no opportunity to detour from the path to her room but escorted her right to the door where he kissed her lightly with an admonition to hurry.

She recognized the necessity for haste and started to undress. But she had only had time to remove the bridal veil when a cry of distress somewhere out in the hall summoned her from her preparation for the future. It was not a dying gasp or even a shout for assistance. It was more like a yelp of protest. A man's voice.

Diana went out into the hall where she met Seven Smith coming out of the den. They met at the head of the stairs.

"What goes on?" he asked with a touch of alarm in his voice.

"It sounded like Donald Duck having an argument with the Reluctant Dragon," she told him. "Not a murder, this time."

"I hope not. I'm not doing so well in my capacity as protector of this household."

The first door in the south wing opened—that was the room which had been assigned to Henri—and out of it stumbled, as if he had been pushed, no less a person than Arthur Weeks.

From behind him came Henri's voice. "There is nothing in my luggage you cannot see, my friend, but next time your curiosity gets the better of you, ask me and I will show you myself."

The door slammed. Henri had not appeared.

Arthur Weeks could not very well avoid Diana and the detective. They were right there in his path.

"Well," said Smith, "what were you doing in Capt. Bayonne's room?"

The caterer started to speak and then stopped. "I'm not going to tell," he said in a voice rising toward hysteria. "You have no right to ask me."

The detective laughed at the man's tone of voice rather than at anything else. Arthur Weeks acted more like a child who has been caught in a petty misdemeanor than like a full grown man.

"You'll have to explain this and every other move you've made today," Smith told him, "as soon as the official police move in on this case."

Weeks did not even wait to hear the end of the detective's speech but scuttled down the back stairs like a rabbit disappearing into a burrow. Smith looked after him and then at Diana and shrugged his shoulders. "I can't do anything without busting the whole story wide open."

"What do you think he was looking for?" Diana asked.

"My guess is that he is merely one of Horace Heydon's keyhole men—a gossipy caterer would make a good society spy—and that he is merely trying to dig up an item for his boss."

"In Capt. Bayonne's luggage?"

"Apparently. Whatever it was he was looking for, he didn't find it. Your husband seemed to have the situation well in hand."

This seemed like the opportunity she had been looking for and Diana in a low voice rapidly sketched out for the detective an account of her encounter with the blind man.

"Why," she concluded, "couldn't he be our murderer?"

Smith smiled at her. "It would be nice, wouldn't it? He's no one we know and he has a sort of a sinister personality—at least the way you describe him. But I'm afraid he only fits in because we wish he would. Actually I don't believe that anything he said or did points away from my own deductions as to the identity of our killer."

There was no comfort to Diana in that. She was pretty sure that he believed her father was guilty and that he was merely doing everything to protect him. But she had to know so she could help too.

"Aren't you going to tell me the conclusion you've arrived at?"

"Not yet." He turned her around and gave her a gentle push toward her own room. "Scat! Give me a chance to think of something besides the way you look in that cloud of mosquito netting."

Diana paused and looked at him over her shoulder. "Mosquito netting? This is priceless lace."

"With you in it——yes."

"Skip that, Mr. Smith. Right now I can use fewer compliments and more facts. Do you think I can board a transcontinental train without knowing the answer to what has happened in this house today? How do you think I can have any fun on my first and only honeymoon if I don't know why somebody tried to prevent me from having one at all?"

He considered her protest gravely and apparently decided not to be flippant about it. "Perhaps you're right. I really wanted to spare you from any unpleasantness if I could but perhaps uncertainty would be more annoying——especially to a woman."

"Will there be unpleasantness?" Diana asked.

"There's bound to be——about any homicide. But in this case it is especially likely because every possible suspect is some one you are either related to or at least hold dear as a devoted servant or a friend. Do you still want to know?"

"Do you know?"

"Well, yes," Smith admitted grudgingly, "but I can't prove it absolutely. I'm waiting for a telephone call from my office. They're checking on—— What was that?"

"A door closed somewhere—blew shut probably."

"I hope so. I talk too much."

"You haven't told me anything yet."

"But I promise that I will before you leave the house. Fair enough?"

"It has to be, I guess. Don't forget."

He crossed his heart in pantomime as she turned away.

Not until she was out of earshot did he say, "No one would ever forget a promise made to you, darling—not anybody named Smith."

But Diana's aural attention was responsive to almost inaudible sounds. This was the result of long training in the sickroom.

She had her hand on her door but turned and asked sharply, "What was that you said, Mr. Smith? You mumble so in your beard that I didn't quite hear."

"It was nothing for your long, quivering ears, Bunnyrabbit. I merely exhaled a pleasantly profane thought."

"Something you et?" Diana suggested, politely.

"No doubt," he replied with equal courtesy.

Diana's door closed softly behind her.

Seven Smith stood looking at that door for a moment as a man sometimes does at a place where a woman he appreciates has disappeared.

I think, he thought—but not out loud this time—that I care more for her than her husband does, maybe more than I've cared for any girl I ever met. And I believe she really heard what I said and didn't mind. That makes it lucky for both of us.

Just why it was lucky for Smith did not immediately appear.

Something soft but heavy like a sock full of sand hit him on the back of the head and he stopped thinking about anything.

Diana begrudged the time it took to change clothes. Lydia made little exclamations of dismay as her mistress tore off her wedding gown but she offered no argument as she handed her a silk jersey skirt of rather deep tan color and held ready the chartreuse green blouse that went with it. It was only a matter of seconds before Diana was ready to start on her wedding journey, if nothing happened to her.

"Thanks." Diana impulsively kissed the friend whose service had stood the test of so many breaking strains. "I have to hurry because there are things to do before I leave." She went to the door. "If I don't return to my room please bring my fur wrap downstairs, Lydia, and let Agnes know that the bags are ready."

Lydia looked after her with tearful anxious eyes as Diana opened the door.

But Diana did not glance back. Her attention was instantly arrested by what she saw in the hall. She closed the door in back of herself so Lydia would not see, too.

Her father was standing there over the prostrate figure of Seven Smith, whose eyes were closed.

"You've killed him," she accused, the words tumbling out unthinkingly.

"Nonsense," Pyneglass said sharply. "What for?"

Diana controled herself. No use to tell him what she suspected—that Smith had probably confronted him with a flat accusation of murder and that her father had attacked him with intent to silence him—to cover up until the wedding party was away.

It all fitted in too perfectly.

"I don't know what happened," Pyneglass explained testily. "I practically tripped over him when I left my room to go downstairs."

Smith groaned. At least he was alive.

"Where's that doctor—what's his name?" Pyneglass demanded.

"In mother's room," Diana replied. "Name's Wilson."

"Then help me take him there. And hurry, Mutt. We don't want people to find out about this now. You might miss your train."

There it was. Anything to get her out of the house.

Before Diana could protest her father was lifting the tall detective by the shoulders and dragging him down the hall.

At his wife's old room he said, panting a little, "At least open the door."

Diana turned the knob and pushed.

Dr. Wilson, who had been sitting near the window looking down, jumped to this feet and came over to see what was causing the disturbance.

Diana had to admit that Wilson was an efficient little man in an emergency. Without asking questions which could be deferred until later he grabbed Smith's legs under the knee and lifted them off the floor.

"We'll put him—hrmph—on the bed," he directed Pyneglass.

They managed.

No one seemed to think it was particularly incongruous that Virginia Van Gynt was already lying on that same bed. She was still unconscious and she and the detective made a pretty pair of lifeless bodies stretched out there side by side.

Dr. Wilson lifted one of Smith's eyelids and felt the pulse. The detective was breathing heavily but regularly.

"What do you think is the matter?" Diana asked anxiously.

"He just bumped his—hrmph—head," Dr. Wilson explained. "See that swelling—hrmph—on the place where he'll be bald in a few years? Probably slipped—hrmph—or something and fell. Nothing serious, I imagine. Be all right except for a headache in an hour or so."

Diana didn't think Seven Smith had slipped and bumped his head accidentally—not in that house and on that day. But she didn't see how she could probe for further details without embarrassing her father. She liked less than ever the idea of going away and leaving Smith where whoever had assaulted him could finish the job. Even if it wasn't her father.

She was a little mad too because Smith had gone and gotten himself into that state. Now, if ever, she needed him and he had been full of promises of what he was going to do at the last minute. She had definitely misplaced her trust.

"Come on, Jeff," she said finally. "Let the poor fool sleep it off. I've got a honeymoon waiting for me downstairs. I want you to hurl a shoe after me."

"O, I'm going to the station with you," her father replied. But he looked at his watch. "We'd bettter be moving at that."

As Diana and her father stepped out into the hall the telephone was ringing in Mr. Pyneglass' den, . . . Smith's temporary headquarters.

Diana started in that direction.

Her father objected. "Let it ring. It can't be important."

Diana threw over her shoulder, "Mr. Smith is expecting a call from his office. I know it."

That was a considerable overstatement. Diana knew almost nothing about it but she wanted to.

"Hello." She spoke into the mouthpiece.

"This is Mr. Smith's secretary, Jane Boyle. May I speak to him, please?"

"He's busy right now," Diana said cautiously. "But I'll take the message."

"Sorry, madam, . . . I have to speak to him personally. Have him call me back as soon as possible. Tell him it's urgent." The voice hesitated a moment, then added: "Say that we've got the dope on the bride's bouquet. Got that?"

"Yes, but . . ."

"Thanks." The receiver at the other end was hung up, . . . definitely.

When Diana left the den she found that her father had not waited for her but had gone downstairs. But she did encounter Dr. Wilson, little black bag in hand, just leaving the room where Virg'nia and Seven Smith were taking their unintentional siestas.

"You're not going away, Dr. Wilson?" she asked in dismay.

"Why yes . . . hrmph . . . I have to. Must be . . . hrmph at the hospital. Late now."

"But you're not going to leave Mr. Smith and that girl alone?"

"It's alright, hrmph . . . don't you worry about it at all."

"Mutt!" yelled a voice from the foot of the stairs—her father's voice. "Make it snappy. Everybody's waiting."

"O. K., Jeff—hold everything. I'm on my way."

Diana did not know why her father wanted to go to the train with them. Frankly she would have preferred to say good-by right there at the house, just as if she were merely taking a trip to Los Angeles for a football game. Perhaps that was a selfish preference on her part.

They drove from the house mostly in silence.

What Has Gone Before

On her wedding day Diana Pyneglass slips down the back stairs to burn old love letters. Wedding preparations under the supervision of Lady Baltimore, cateress with a mysterious past, and her assistant, Arthur Weeks, are under way. Diana finds some one has been burning papers before her. Back in her room, her father is sprawled on her bed. Diana notices his shoes are wet. After her mother's death her Spanish grandmother, Donna Diego, who rules the family, comes to live with them and plans to bring about Diana's marriage to some one socially eligible. Diana's fiance, Henri de Bayonne, a Frenchman entrusted with a secret mission, meets with the grandmother's approval. Lady Baltimore is found strangled. Arriving to guard the presents, Detective Seven Smith and his assistant, Horace Morse, are called upon to solve a murder. Donna insists the wedding go on, no mention to be made of the murder until the ceremony is over. Smith agrees. Diana's sister, Rhoda, arrives with her husband, George Angell. Virginia Van Gynt, attractive artist niece of Lady Baltimore, is questioned about a photograph missing from a frame in her aunt's apartment. In the incinerator Smith finds some half-burned letters referring to a settlement. Diana recognizes her father's handwriting. Donna Diego gives Diana her ruby necklace and confides she suspects Diana's father. In the room where Smith has been questioning her Virginia is found strangled. She is revived but soon after is drugged. Diana breaks down and Smith comforts her with a kiss. The wedding is picturesque. Henri's kiss after the ceremony makes Diana positive she married the wrong man. A blind man with a dog inquires about Lady Baltimore. He tells Diana he often had thought of killing her himself.

WHAT MADE THIS MESSIAH INTO A JUDAS WHO BETRAYED ALL WHO LOVED HIM—INCLUDING EVEN "SWEETFACE"?

Hank Martin was a lowly peddler of pots and pans—but he had the "kindlin' power." Burning with righteous wrath, the heat of his words set the poor, the ignorant, and the down-trodden aflame. They followed him, cheered him—and supported him with their fiercely earned dollars. Steadily, craftily, he rose to power—but somewhere on the way up he became a Judas instead of the Messiah his friends worshipped.... Even "Sweetface" the schoolteacher who was swept off her feet by this same "kindlin' power"—who was consumed by his great love—finally realized that she had been betrayed—sacrificed on the altar of a greater lust. ... Here is the story of a man who missed greatness—of a woman who achieved it.... "A Lion Is In The Streets" is more than a novel—more than a beautiful love story. Fashions and Fancy

By Judith Cass

Wearing the brightest smile in town, and dressed to big city perfection in smart, tailored navy blue, Mrs. Aldis J. Browne the other day was telling her friends the exciting news of the marriage of the Brownes' younger son, Capt. Secor Delahay Browne of the army air forces, and a young Englishwoman who is the widow of a royal air forces officer. Thru the marriage, which took place in Chislehurst, Kent, England, home of the bride's parents, the Brownes have acquired a step-grandson, little Patrick Bellamy, named for his mother's brother, who is serving in the middle east area. The Brownes have seen their son's bride and her son only in pictures, but have hopes of welcoming them to Chicago as soon as Capt. Browne and his family can come home. Mrs. Browne's suit of thin wool was brightened by a touch of navy and white print at the throat. Her cunning little hat of navy was trimmed with white flowers and a face veil of pastel blue, which tied in a soft bow at the back of the head. One of the first fall ensembles seen in Lake Forest was the brown costume worn by Mrs. Percy Wilson to a recent garden party in the suburb. Her smartly draped afternoon dress was of a chocolate shade of satin and unadorned. She wore furs of a lighter brown color to ward off the late afternoon breezes. Her tiny tilted hat was of the same material as the dress. Mrs. T. Philip Swift, who arrived at the party with her son, Lt. Phelps Swift, on leave from the army, wore a short, white tweed coat over the shoulders of her pretty green and white printed frock. Two other attractive prints seen among the guests were those worn by Mrs. Philip J. Reddy and her daughter, Jean. Mrs. Reddy chose a pale blue dress with a black and white design and her daughter's frock was a black one printed in gay, yellow flowers.

Mrs. John I. Marshall Jr., who is called "Rusty" by her friends because of her lovely red hair, showed her crowning glory to an advantage on this occasion by wearing a simple, yellow cotton frock, relieved at the shoulders and at the waist with appliqued brown bows. Another coiffure which causes much comment because of its versatility is that of Mrs. J. Hampton Monroe. She usually wears her flowing blond locks a la naturel, falling to her shoulders. However, she recently was seen wearing it in a becoming pompadour-halo effect, combed close to her head. On those days when she travels from Lake Forest to do nurses' aid work in town, it is caught at the nape of her neck in a snood. Lunching one day in a party on the sunny little porch of the Chicago Yacht club overlooking the harbor were Mrs. Carleton Adams, with her fair hair held back by a white barrette, in a tailored blue suit and matching cloche, and her little daughter, Susie, in a white pinafore; Miss Betty Osborne, and Mrs. Victor Milliken. Miss Osborne, who sails with the Adamses on Miss Lucy, wore a dusty pink suit, and Mrs. Milliken's turquoise coat topped a tomato red dress. Their costumes were typical of the spectator sports ensembles preferred by most of the women at luncheon, altho Mrs. Daniel Strassheim appeared in "working" sports togs, all ready to go sailing on Vice-Commodore George Sollitt's White Cloud. Mrs. Robert Davies came to luncheon in a green crepe dress patterned in little turbaned Indian figures, and a black straw half-hat with a cluster of red cherries to one side.

National Federation of Music Clubs to Open Regional Conference Here Friday

By Irene Steyskal

Like the uncertain outlines of figures that suddenly loom in a fog, the mighty post-war problems already are beginning to emerge. Women's organizations, preoccupied for four years with war service, open a new season in a world restored to peace, but a peace portentious with questions whose solution the least of men no longer dares to believe can be left to chance.

How best to effect the transition from war work to post-war service for those returning from battle temporarily or permanently disabled, how to improve and extend education which alone can give any sound hope for enduring peace; how to provide food for the hungry and shelter for the homeless—these and a thousand related problems are in the minds of women as they gather for another season of united effort thru their clubs, associations, and federations.

Next week-end will see representatives from nine states gathered here in the Edgewater Beach hotel for the first regional meeting of the National Federation of Music Clubs—a conference to determine what the post-war role of the organization will be. War proved again the importance of music as a morale factor. Leaders of the federated music clubs believe it can be an even greater factor in rehabilitating the hospitalized service man and woman; that it can be a potent force for unifying people of all races and classes in the ways of peace.

The two day meeting, opening Friday, will draw to Chicago a large representation of national members, including Mrs. Guy Patterson Gannet of Portland, Me., the national president. Others will include Mrs. Edgar Stillman Kelley, Mrs. Royden J. Keith, Mrs. Ralph A. Herbruck, Mrs. A. A. Coult, Mrs. Ada Holding Miller, Mrs. Edwin C. Thompson, Mrs. C. Lloyd Billman, Mrs. Howland Carroll Day, Mrs. Albert P. Stewart, Mrs. Frederick Stoyle, and Mrs. Gaillard B. Fuller.

Highlight of the conference will be a noon luncheon Saturday at which Dr. Hobart Sommers of Chicago, musician and writer on musical subjects, will deliver an address entitled "Music after the Storm." Among other guest speakers will be Dr. Ira M. Altshuler, psychiatrist, who, in relation to the federation's "music in hospitals" project, will discuss, "Possibilities and Limitations in Psychiatry." Roy Harris, composer, will talk on "A New Deal for the American Composer," Ralph McCallister, program director of the Chautauqua institute, will talk on plans for a "Federation Week-End" at Chautauqua, N. Y., next year, and Philip J. Jacoby of a leading

Transcribers Club to Visit Library's Braille Division

The Braille Transcribers Club of Illinois, opening its second year, will gather at 1 o'clock Friday at the Hild branch library, 4544 Lincoln av., for a tour of the Braille division. Mrs. H. J. Johnson, program chairman, has arranged for a demonstration of talking books and of methods employed in teaching arithmetic to the blind. E. A. Peterson, the librarian, will give the women a 45 minute talk on the Library's Braille service.

Member group of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, the Braille Transcribers group originated from the federation's Braille classes. Membership is open to any person who holds a Red Cross Braille certificate or who has successfully completed the federation's course and can submit an acceptable manuscript. The club is headed by Mrs. Harry M. Daughtrey.

Any blind person may, upon request, procure the club's services without cost. He need only supply the paper for his book. If he cannot afford the paper, the club will assume the cost.

World War Mothers to Meet Thursday Night

The Illinois World War Mothers will meet at 8 o'clock Thursday night in the Brevoort hotel, with Mrs. Mabel Montgomery presiding. The group is raising money for the purchase of an iron lung to be used in an Illinois hospital. Thursday's session is open to mothers, wives, and sisters interested in service men's and women's welfare.

Chicago's Social Welcome for Gen. de Gaulle and Party Varied and Colorful

By Thalia

The recent visit of Gen. de Gaulle to Chicago centered the city's attention on the future of a country which had before the war become so integral a part of American cultural life that there was a quip, you remember, that "All good Americans when they die, go to Paris." Many good Americans had gone there long before their death. The number of good Americans who can now say "The last time I saw Paris" has been augmented during the last year by hundreds of thousands of that generation into whose hands the fate of the world has been and will be entrusted.

The city's social welcome for Gen. de Gaulle was varied. Mayor Kelly gave a huge dinner at the Blackstone for him the night of his arrival [three hours late] and the Association of Commerce filled every crevice of the huge ballroom in the Palmer House the next day with luncheon guests. Incidentally, at the honored guest's table, which seemed as long as a streamline train, only one woman's face was to be seen, and that was topped by such a dashing hat that probably the entire feminine part of the audience remembers an enchanting swirling pouff of that pecularly French shade known as bois de rose which formed three enormous roses whose green stems twined behind the wearer's beautiful right ear. Under that masterpiece, just over from Paris, the delicate features of Mme. Hehri Bonnet, wife of the French ambassador to the United States, elicted such comments as "Isn't she typically French, with that chic?" but Mme. Bonnet is Greek, not French, altho she might have been born in a French faubourg, so far as her chic is concerned.

She put that sense of style to good service during the years when she and her husband were exiles in America. They had spent two years in the United States before M. Bonnet was called to Algiers as a member of the committee of national liberation in 1943. At that time he made Chicago his headquarters for the work he was doing for the World Citizens association, and he has many warm friends here, altho he and Mme. Bonnet actually lived in New York. There she opened an exclusive hat shop, and so far as I know nobody ever had the temerity to call it the Bonny Bonnet shop.

In a ceremony in the rectory of St. Catherine's church in Oak Park, Ill., Miss Betty Lou Kane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Kane of Oak Park, became the bride of Lt. William E. Zook of the army, son of Mrs. Marguerite Zook of Bloomington, Ill. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas Kane, a cousin of the bride. Both Lt. Zook and his bride attended Illinois Wesleyan university.

Fresh from the Hills . . . By Marge of Sunrise Mountain Farm . . . Ozark Quilt

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

STEP into an Ozark home unexpectedly and nine times out of ten you will find the housewife making a quilt. To you that quilt will look like so many bits of fabric, a blue piece here, a red piece there, a yellow piece there in the corner, fitted together to make a pattern that lies smooth and trim. But to the quilt maker each of those tiny pieces has its own identity. Each can bring to mind an incident, a day, or a lifetime. Listen to her tell of them:

"That blue piece there, now. That's a piece of the dress maw bought with turkey money! My, what a chore them turkeys wuz! Ketchin' cold easier than a puny baby. But we raised 'em, and maw got that old organ my sister'd been a-beggin' for. And we made maw git herself this dress.

"And this yallery-green piece! It come from that city woman that moved into that big old place in the valley. My, my! That man o' hers! Runnin' around with that girl from 'cross the crick.

"And this pink piece. Ain't that purty! That's from a dress I made for my youngest girl to wear to a pie supper. It was the night she met that young feller she married."

[illegible] the hills reminds me of a patchwork quilt. Look at it all in [illegible] p[illegible], so to speak, and the days flow into a pattern smooth and unwrinkled. But look at those days as one examines the scraps in a quilt and each becomes a memory picture. So many of these crowd a year in the hills they could make a giant's quilt, with plenty to wrap around his feet and tuck under his chin. For, in spite of its outward placidity, life in the Ozarks is crammed with things to remember.

Yes, I would even want a block in my Ozark picture quilt to recall the days when the only happening outside of cooking, sweeping, scrubbing, and washing dishes is a walk with Judy, the Boston terrier. Perhaps it is a day in late February or early March, when the buds along a million branches give the faroff woods a rose color, warm and pastel soft against the blue sky. Or perhaps it would be an autumn day when the sun is bright enough to make a sunbonnet welcome, and the hills have become a rich tapestry of gold, and amber, and scarlet, shot with purple shadows.

For the second block I would like a picture of a "city dude" fishing. He would recall that unfortunate city man who invited a hill man to go fishing with him in Jack's Fork. For two mortal hours he kept poor Unc' fetching and carrying for him. "Bring me that fish line." "Hand me that knife." "Get out some more flies." Finally the man of the hills, who had never been ordered about or bossed in his life, exploded.

"Dang it," he said. "Git yore own stuff. I'm a-gittin' to hell out'n here."

With that, he went upstream a hundred yards and with a hickory pole and a few worms serenely yanked a dozen fish out of the stream while the city fellow still fumbled with his swanky outfit.

For my third quilt block I would want a picture to represent Ozark superstitions. Possibly it could be the one that says I must never, never sweep dirt or empty a panful of water outside after dark for fear of bringing myself bad luck. Ozarklans do not say how such an act and bad luck may be linked, but any good housewife in Ireland would tell you that water or dirt carelessly tossed out into the darkness might hit one of the Little People who lurk about homes at night. Woe to any one who offends any of them. Thus our hills and Ireland are united in a famous superstition.

Of course I should want a block to recall Ozark sayings. And it should be my favorite: "Better lick your calf over." This saying implies that the job one has just finished isn't well done . . . and must be done over. And why is a calf brought into the discussion? Because a cow invariably licks her new calf all over again if she finds some spots her rough, warm, moist tongue didn't touch on the first once over!

Then I would like my quilt to have a picture recalling the day when a storm and the discomfort of dripping clothes sent Eva Bone, Maud Langham, Nettie Fritz, Opal DeWoody, and myself scurrying home from the picnic. But our neighbor, 71 years young, lingered beside the swiftly flowing river, still speckled with raindrops.

"After that rain the fish'll be a-bitin' like all git-out," she said. "Reckon I might as well stay and ketch me a mess, long's I'm here."

The sixth block should have a picture of Jimmy, our rambunctious ram, who always waited behind the barn until the man-about-the-farm crossed the woodlot carrying two buckets of milk. Then he would come from behind and let him have it. However, that block might give me trouble, for Lois Fisher, who draws the pictures for my stories, always puts horns on our rams. That is a bit disconcerting to folks who visit Sunrise Mountain farm and find that our sheep are Shropshires, with nary a horn in a fieldful. But I won't quibble. Maybe the Jedge will shift to Ramboullets some day.

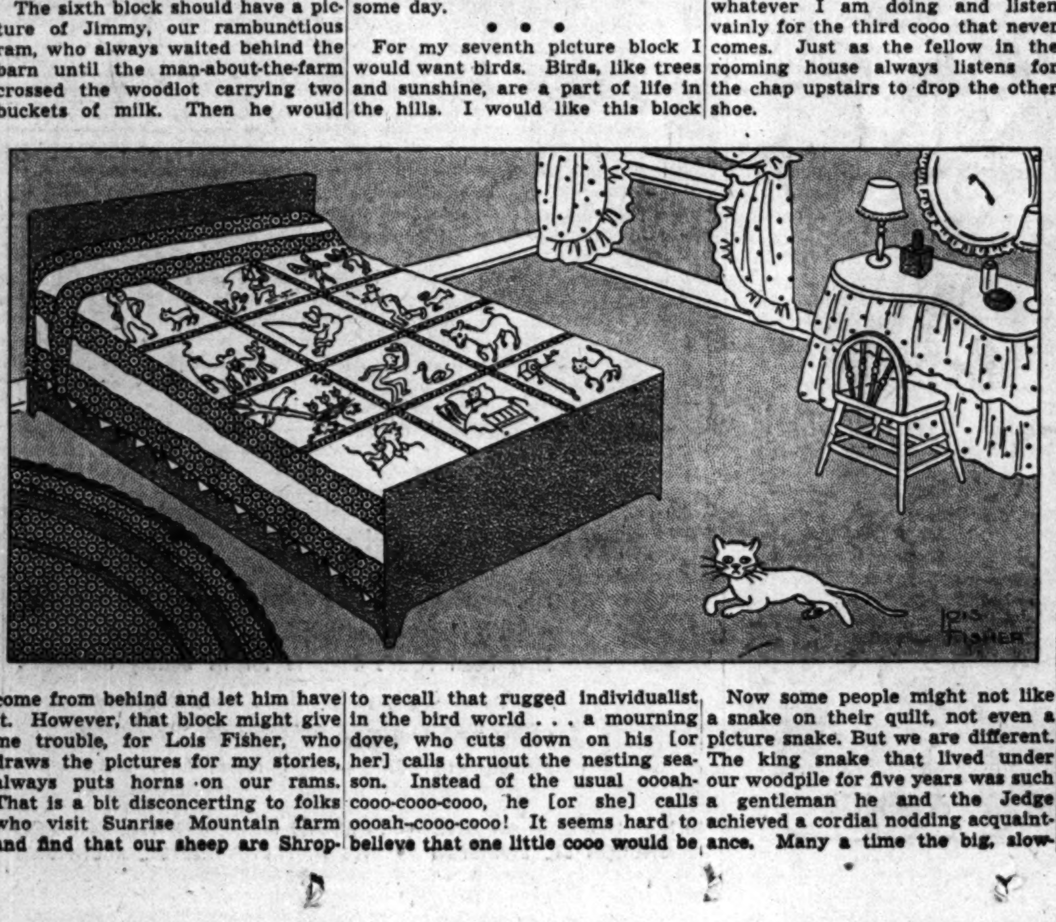
For my seventh picture block I would want birds. Birds, like trees and sunshine, are a part of life in the hills. I would like this block to recall that rugged individualist in the bird world . . . a mourning dove, who cuts down on his [or her] calls thruout the nesting season. Instead of the usual oooah-cooo-cooo-cooo, he [or she] calls oooah-cooo-cooo! It seems hard to believe that one little cooo would be missed in Mother Nature's spring symphony, but every time that call begins in the north forty I stop whatever I am doing and listen vainly for the third cooo that never comes. Just as the fellow in the rooming house always listens for the chap upstairs to drop the other shoe.



Now some people might not like a snake on their quilt, not even a picture snake. But we are different. The king snake that lived under our woodpile for five years was such a gentleman he and the Jedge achieved a cordial nodding acquaintance. Many a time the big, slow-moving snake could have been seen lying in the sunshine with kittens playing nearby, or an old hen mothering a brood of chickens within easy reach. But his majesty made the mistake of coming home at twilight one evening. In the gathering darkness I mistook him for a stranger and hacked him with my garden hoe. Then the Jedge, who likes all things that bark, neigh, bleat, mew, bray, and even hiss, came out and turned his flashlight on the mangled remains. With infinite sadness, he turned to me and said:

"You've killed my friend."

My ninth picture would show Star, the mare that was sold at auction after the lawsuit at our house, in order that her boardbill might be paid. Being a sucker for auctions, I took a hand in the bidding, after it got up to $30. In a matter of minutes I was the owner of a brown mare, lean and hungry looking, with a fuzzy coat, thick ankles, and a face so long she seemed to be wearing a gas mask. And I was out $46. The Jedge still says I must have done it because it was lunch time and the mare looked like a pile of meat.

The tenth block for my Ozark quilt would be a picture of the Jedge, with Toughie riding home on his shoulder. This picture could recall the day when Toughie was bowled over on the hillside by the dogs, who were racing after a fleeing rabbit. The Jedge picked him up, and all the way home the angry kitten growled, muttered, and mumbled his utter disgust. The Jedge longed to translate those remarks. They would come in handy, he said, next time a tire blows out.

For my eleventh picture I would show a little sore throat sufferer to remind me of Ozark home remedies. When a country youngster complains of sore throat he gets prompt and vigorous treatment. In the old days skunk fat was rubbed on the aching throat. But skunks are not easy to find nowadays. As an alternative, lard, turpentine, and coal oil are heated in a mason jar lid and applied stinging hot. This must be covered by the woolen sock the sufferer has been wearing, to make the remedy really good!

Then, just to recall how swiftly the hours slip into days and the days into weeks, I would finish my Ozark quilt of memory pictures with the cuckoo clock that hangs on our dining room wall. Beneath it, Lois should draw a picture of the snow-white daughter of Little Eva, who "looks at the birdie" with an expression that bodes no good for the chirper.

If Lois Fisher would be made to understand how dear these memories are to me I wonder if she wouldn't draw these pictures for an Ozark quilt!

Editor's note: Miss Fisher, after she had read the foregoing, got busy and drew the pictures, and the quilt pattern now is available to Tribune readers.

For the pattern send 25 cents in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th av., New York 1, N. Y.

Varied Events on Welcome to Gen. de Gaulle

inches below the towering black one of De Gaulle, who, incidentally, does not look his real six feet six.

At the reception I talked with Mrs. R. Charles Lebret, secretary of France Forever, who told me a bit of interesting news. Her uncle, Alexandre Vachon, archbishop of Ottawa, who would welcome Gen. de Gaulle on his arrival in the Canadian capital, had just performed the impressive hour and a half ceremony which united in marriage Hugette, daughter of the French ambassador to Canada, Comte Jean de Hauteclocque, to Lt. Alain Marie Henri de Courson de la Villaneuve, whose family name is borne by the cardinal of Quebec. It was one of the most impressive social occasions of the year in Canada, with the earl of Athlone, Princess Alice, the prime minister of Canada, and the entire diplomatic corps among the guests.

Comte de Hauteclocque is, I was surprised to hear, the brother of the famous Gen. Jacques Leclerc, the idol of the French army, and one of the most romantic figures produced by the war. It was Gen. Leclerc, you remember, who organized and led the famous 2,000 mile march from Lake Chad to menace Rommel. It was Gen. Leclerc who commanded the triumphal French soldiers who landed on the beaches of Normandy in late July, 1944, and rode thru the French countryside—over literally a carpet of flowers thrown in their path by the French in welcome—in Gen. Sherman tanks with such reminiscent names as Dunkerque, Dijon, Marne. It was Gen. Leclerc who signed for France on the historic occasion last week when on the battleship Missouri the official surrender of the Japs took place.

Gen. Leclerc took an assumed name to prevent the Germans from taking reprisals against his many relatives who were under their domination. Even now few know his real name, which is one of the oldest in French aristocracy. Gen. Leclerc will not, however, resume it, I hear, preferring to remain a man without a title other than the military one which he so superbly earned.

The visit of Gen. de Gaulle also drew attention to the newly organized Chicago chapter of American Relief for France which has just opened its workrooms at 332 S. Michigan av. and will start its social schedule this month. The Chicago chapter is one of 300 units in 42 states, organized to supply vital necessities for the rehabilitation of France. The work is financed by the Community and War fund and no personal solicitation of funds is permitted, but the work of willing hands and gifts of clothing, etc., are welcomed eagerly. The New York office is an enormous project which takes care of all shipments collected by the nation-wide chapters. It was under the leadership of Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of the late J. Pierpont Morgan. She has worked again in this war as she worked in the first World war for the rehabilitation of devastated France.

I met Miss Morgan one day in the '30s in the lovely little museum of Franco-American friendship which she and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt organized and watched over in Chateau Blerancourt a couple of hours' motor ride from Paris. The chateau itself had been destroyed, but the two beautiful little pavilions at its entrance had been restored and were filled with treasures, among them a great many letters which were written by Benjamin Franklin when he was American ambassador to France in days which were trying ones for both countries but which cemented rather than severed their friendship. I remember Miss Morgan as vivid and vital despite her pure white hair [she is 72 now] and openheartedly friendly. And to this day I can see Mrs. Vanderbilt's fabulous jewels worn with the severest sports suit.

They were an eager partnership in sponsoring the museum. In the first World war they and the late Elizabeth Marbury and Lady Mendl, then Miss Elsie de Wolfe, had worked indefatigably for their French friends, and Miss Morgan has done so again in this war. Incidentally, Miss Anne Morgan is a commander in the Legion of Honor, an honor held by only one Frenchwoman, the Comtesse de Noailles, one of France's most beloved poets.

Miss Morgan sailed for France the middle of June with seven tons of material and a unit of women to work in American Relief for France.

Among the ardent workers in Washington, D. C., for American Relief for France has been Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, who traces her lineage back to the De Marignys, whose ancestral acres in Normandy were the Deweys' annual summer objective before the war. It was thru her enthusiasm that the Chicago chapter has been organized with her old friend, Mrs. Walter R. Kirk and Louis H. G. Bouscaren as co-chairmen. Whoever suggested the organization of the board of directors knew her social register, for there are few directorates with more well known Chicago names. The four vice chairmen are Mrs. Ernest Ballard, Mrs. John Collier, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, and Mrs. Oscar C. Hayward and among the directors are Mr. Ballard, Mrs. Laird Bell, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, William C. Boyden, Mrs. Arthur Cable—whose 84 year old mother lived in France during the entire four years of the German occupation—Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Connors, Mrs. Walter Cummings, the Hon. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey—who are, I hear, going to sell their house on N. State pkwy. and live permanently in Washington.

Other members of the board of directors of American Relief for France are Charles Y. Freeman, Clark Lawrence, Robert Hall McCormick, John Root, Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, and Mrs. Walter B. Wolf.

Two Americans who will always have a special place in their hearts for Paris because they met there are Capt. Alice Bradley Davey of the WAC, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley, and Col. Huntington Sheldon of New York. In the spring Mrs. Bradley made a literally flying trip to the battlefields of Europe [she spent V-E day in London on her way home] and now she has just returned from Washington where she met her future son-in-law for the first time. He had flown over from Paris on a special mission. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley are announcing Alice's engagement this week. The wedding will take place in Paris some time this month, but army regulations will decide the actual date, for both the bride and the groom are still on active duty.

One of Capt. Davey's assignments was interrogating Germany aviators who were characteristically furious because an American girl and not a man was their questioner.

RECENT BRIDE

Mrs. Edward Joseph O'Donovan (Mary Theresa Connolly) and Lt. O'Donovan of the naval reserve medical corps, were married recently in St. Joseph's church, Homewood. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Emmet Connolly of Flossmoor and attended the Ursuline school and was graduated from the College of New Rochelle. Lt. O'Donovan, who recently returned from 18 months in the South Pacific, was graduated from Georgetown university and Loyola Medical school. He is a son of Thomas P. O'Donovan and the late Mrs. O'Donovan of Chicago.

Art Institute Holds Annual Exhibit of Students' Work

The annual exhibition of works by students of the school of the Art institute, which opened last Thursday in the East Wing galleries of the institute, will remain on view thru Sunday, Sept. 30. A total of 6,075 students for the year of 1944-'45, the largest enrollment in more than 10 years, has resulted in an unusually comprehensive display of works from all of the school's departments: Painting, drawing, sculpture, etching, lithography, products design, and ceramics; pattern, industrial, interior, dress, and advertising designs; jewelry, weaving, and crafts.

Club Women Plan Regional Meeting Here

radio corporation will address the women on "Music in Industry."

At the close of the convention Mrs. Gannett will outline federation post-war plans for converting the war service department into a peace time agency, the veterans' rehabilitation program, resumption of activities in rural music, and extension of international music relations.

Entertainers scheduled to appear on the program are Naomi Weiss, pianist, 1944 winner of the federation's Edgar Stillman Kelley scholarship, and Dora Alanen and Lois Fehr, two young Illinois winners of piano and voice contests.

Host organization for this, the first of eight regional conferences, is the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs. Mrs. Alma K. Anderson, state president, has supervisory charge of local arrangements. Serving as general chairman of the conference committee is Mrs. Merritt M. Ranstead. Other active members are Miss Mary Wickerham, Mrs. Walter Flandorf, Mrs. Charles A. Pardee, Mrs. James A. Young, and Mrs. Howard Earl.

Represented here by their presidents will be the state federations of Ohio, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Missouri, Indiana, Tennessee, and Kansas.

The 60 member directors board of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs assembles at Chicago headquarters this week under a new administration to set in motion the machinery that will rechannel the war work of more than 73,000 club women in this state. Rehibilitation and relief, conservation, education are fields indicated for post-war study and action.

Wednesday and Thursday are the days set for the state leaders' closed conference. The club year begins with Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman of Jerseyville, elected president in the spring, assuming active direction of the federation as successor to Mrs. Walter M. Rennie of Chicago.

As the season opens, clubs of the state are completing the raising of the largest scholarship fund in federation's history. Ten thousand dollars is the goal. The new occupational therapy department headed by Beatrice Wade at the University of Illinois can be credited largely to the federation, which, motivated by Mrs. Rennie, supplied 15 scholarships to girls who started the course last season with the first class of 72 members. Nursing scholarships previously assumed will be continued by the club women, but the large fund will go toward the training of occupational therapists.

Last year there were only 2,000 registered occupational therapists in the entire country when Mrs. Rennie and her federation associates, foreseeing the vastly increased need that government hospitals would have for this service, procured the club women's backing for the new course at the state university. Dean D. O. Grossman has notified Mrs. Chapman of 10 renewals of federation sholarships in the occupational therapy department this year. New awards for freshmen will be announced later.

The young women continuing at Illinois for a second year on scholarships are June Claire Fluegge, Lois Anderberg, and June Eirich of Chicago; Jeanne Toyer of Belvidere, Doris Mae Peters of Watseka, Jeanne Humberstone of Moline, Marilyn Coolidge of Jacksonville, Ruth McGaw Lewis of Hersman, and Betty McClure and Anne Frances Baker of Urbana. Mrs. Frank J. Christenson of Cicero has direction of the occupational therapy work of the federation as chairman of the department of public health, and she will present a report at the board meeting.

The board members are to hear during their conference three guest speakers who are authorities in reforestation and soil conservation—problems to which the federated clubs have given sustained interest. The federation has financed the replanting of many acres of woodland in southern Illinois. Livingston E. Osborne, director of the state department of conservation, will talk to the state club leaders on reforestation, and Joel C. Loomis, acting state forester, will discuss objectives and effective means for club coöperation. L. F. Wainscott of the department of agriculture conservation service will come from Urbana to discuss soil conservation.

All three visitors will appear under auspices of Mrs. Charles D. Rowland of Polo.

The war service committee of the federation emerges at this season as the committee on rehabilitation, with Mrs. Walter Hermsdorf of Evanston as chairman. With harvest time at hand, immediate interest of the committee will be directed toward coöperating with the general federation's program of food canning, announced several weeks ago, to aid UNRRA in feeding war-ravaged populations in Europe and Asia this winter.

When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, Sept. 2, 1897.

Dear Julia: Weren't you sorry to hear of Mrs. John Drew's death? The stage has lost a great figure, but it is good to think of her children and grandchildren carrying on the traditions of the family.

I hadn't realized she was so old—79. Think of all the changes she had seen in her life time, the advance in stage equipment, lighting, and all that! She had the distinction of being the first woman theatrical manager in America. Will has been reading aloud to me of her life. She was born in England in 1818, her mother being an actress of ability. As a child of six, she appeared on the stage in Liverpool, and a little later came to America with her mother, who had been engaged to act in a stock company in Philadelphia. Junius Brutus Booth, father of Edwin Booth, was the star of that memorable company and it was with that famous actor that the little Louisa Lane, later Mrs. Drew, made her American debut, taking the part of the duke of York to Booth's King Richard in Shakespeare's "Richard Third."

Mrs. John Drew

When in 1884 Mrs. Drew celebrated the 60th anniversary of her continuous service on the American stage, she recalled that first experience before the public which later made her an idol. She must have been an appealing figure as the young duke. I'd like to have heard her childish treble reciting: "Small herbs have grace, great weeds do grow apace."

I never saw her as "Lady Teazle." Did you? That was her first really famous role. Then, as leading lady, she received $20 a week, I saw in a newspaper article.

"Lady Teazle" was a favorite role of hers until it was eclipsed in popular favor by her delineation of "Mrs. Malaprop" in "The Rivals," where she shared honors with Joseph Jefferson. She had played no other part for years, I believe.

We are having a dreadful murder case tried in our Criminal court here and the newspapers are full of it. A man named Luetgert is accused of having murdered his wife by throwing her into the vat where the sausage he manufactured was prepared. Sickening! Her wedding ring has been found in the vat and it looks very much as if he would be convicted. So important is the case regarded that Julian Hawthorne has been sent here by the New York World to report it. I wonder how he likes such an assignment.

I almost never read the newspaper accounts of murders, but Mr. Hawthorne's brilliant comments are not to be slighted. His reports are studded with Shakespearean quotations. He ended his column today by writting that Luetgert would need poppy and mandragora and all the drowsy sirups of the world, if he sought sleep in his cell tonight. I couldn't remember in which play those familiar words are found. Will was sure Macbeth said them, for there's so much about sleep in that play. I searched in vain there. Finally they turned up in "Othello."

My dressmaker has come to make me a new fall gown. I dread the ordeal, for I dislike changes in style and she usually wants to make me the latest thing. She brought with her today a silk petticoat decreed by Paris, she says. Attached to the top are great hip pads, which exaggerate the size of that part of one's anatomy. At the bottom are three silk ruffles and beneath each ruffle are three rows of fine flexible wire, which cause the dress to flare out. I don't think I shall like it, for it seems so heavy, but Martha Jr. says I'll get used to it and find it comfortable, so I suppose I shall try it. It seems to me women's lives are spent in getting used to a style, which must be abandoned just when habit has made it bearable.

Now, with love, I am ever,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND

Foot Notes

Mrs. John Drew [Louisa Lane] was grandmother of John, Ethel, and Lionel Barrymore. . . . In the first trial of Luetgert, in 1897, the jury disagreed and was discharged. He was tried a second time in January, 1898, when a verdict of guilty was reached and a sentence of life imprisonment imposed. Luetgart died in his cell in 1900, protesting his innocence to the last.

From Readers

Mrs. Hyde W. Perce, Oak Park, sends us clippings about the play, "The Butterflies' Ball," mentioned in these notes recently. It was Mrs. Perce's mother, Dr. Julia Holmes Smith, who wrote the little play which netted for the Central Homeopathic hospital in 1877 the sum of $2,396, a phenomenal amount for that time. . . . Louis P. Troeger Chicago, sends an old music book, "The Bugle Call," edited by George F. Root, famous Chicago song writer. Among the patriotic songs in this Civil war book is one called "Picking Lint," an unintelligible phrase to moderns. Lint was scraped from linen and made into dressings for wounds. The women who did this work, in the north and in the south, were forerunners of the Red Cross workers of today. Another song in this old collection is "God Save the Nation," words by Theodore Tilton. We offer this as a Poem of the Week.

Legion Groups Hold Officer Installations

Mrs. Arthur C. Lynge was inducted as president of Cook county council of the American Legion auxiliary in special ceremonies yesterday afternoon in the Continental hotel. Luncheon at 1:30 preceded the installation which was conducted by Mrs. Melville Mucklestone, past national president of the auxiliary and recently appointed chairman for the national organization's 1945 convention. The national meeting, scaled to full delegate attendance, is scheduled Nov. 18 to 20 in Chicago. It was at the state auxiliary's streamlined token convention held last week in the Morrison hotel that Mrs. Charles B. Gilbert of Norwich, Conn., national president, announced Mrs. Mucklestone's appointment.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

D. A. R. Unit Plans Round Table Meet

A comprehensive over-all view of the forthcoming year's program of the Illinois Daughters of the American Revolution will be afforded thru state officer and chairman reports at the first fall round table meeting of the society's fourth division, scheduled at noon Friday in the Century room of the La Salle hotel. This is one of seven district gatherings to be held this month at the various division headquarters thru the state.

Mrs. J. De Forest Richards

Mrs. J. De Forest Richards, state regent, will preside and summarize the organization's patriotic and philanthropic activities, which are to be focused on veterans' rehabilitation projects, citizenship training, education, and conservation. Mrs. Robert M. Beak, fourth division director, will introduce Mrs. Richards.

Human conservation will be stressed in reports both by Mrs. George F. Dasher, state chaplain, and by Mrs. Frank E. Richart, state conservation chairman. Mrs. Richart has planned a program in cooperation with local agencies designed to curb juvenile delinquency thru constructive recreation.

Mrs. Charles A. Herfuth's Americanism committee will carry on its project of citizenship training, and Mrs. Alonzo Newton Benn, state chairman of the correct use of the flag committee, will tell of her committee's program for keeping citizens informed on flag etiquet.

The D. A. R. will continue sending gifts to crew members of three ships, and will attempt to aid these men in finding the kind of positions they want after they are mustered out of service. Mrs. Otto H. Crist, state chairman of the war service units, will report on this phase of the organization's post-war work. A program of service for the blind will be described by Mrs. Getrude S. H. Galloway, state chairman of Red Cross, and Mrs. Thomas R. Hemmens, state vice regent, will tell of the D. A. R.'s extensive gifts to the Red Cross, to hospital ships, and to army hospitals.

Training for Indian girls in home economics, home nursing, and domestic arts is to be undertaken by Mrs. J. Lewis Fowler's American Indian committee. Mrs. Alexander C. Dallach, state chairman of approved schools, will report on work planned for the two D. A. R. supported schools: Kate Duncan Smith in Alabama and Tamasee in South Carolina.

Other reports are to be given by Mrs. George C. Gumart, Mrs. Frank Disbrow, Mrs. Albert E. Woodruff, Mrs. Frederick Sapp, Mrs. Anthony E. Bott, Mrs. Carl O. Nyman, Miss Jennie Gates Harris, Mrs. Ira E. Owen, Mrs. George A. Parker, Mrs. G. F. Senneff, Mrs. Everett L. Hess, Mrs. Franklin M. Watkins, Mrs. Charles Cotta, Mrs. H. C. Chase, Mrs. A. W. Abbott, Mrs. A. I. Carrier, Mrs. Wendell W. Hall, Miss Carrie N. Decker, Mrs. William Jackson Sweeney, Mrs. F. J. Friedli, Miss Mary Jeanette Munce, Mrs. Grover C. Wilson, Mrs. W. P. Topping, and Mrs. George T. Rogers.

At 2:30 o'clock Tuesday, Mrs. Herbert J. Maass, regent of the D. A. R.'s Chicago chapter, will entertain board members and chairmen of the various chapter committees in her home at 822 Forest av., Wilmette. The group will draw up plans for the new season's patriotic projects, with the chapter's annual fall card benefit first on the calendar. The party is scheduled at 1:30 o'clock Saturday, Nov. 10, in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel. Proceeds will go for relief and rehabilitation work.

Marian Brogmus Married Recently to Lt. R. A. Pfaff

Miss Marian Brogmus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Brogmus of Downers Grove, became the bride of Lt. Robert A. Pfaff of the naval reserve medical corps in a double ring ceremony recently in Niccolls Memorial church in Old Forge, N. Y. The bride attended Northern Illinois State Teachers' college and was graduated from the Johns Hopkins hospital school of nursing.

Lt. Pfaff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl O. Pfaff of Old Forge, was graduated from Colgate university and from the University of Rochester school of medicine. For the past year he has been associated with Johns Hopkins as house officer in surgery.

Recital Tonight to Aid Mexican Social Center

Chicago's Mexican colony and its many friends have a pleasant evening of music offered at the new Mexican Social center, 2431 W. Roosevelt rd. Samuel Martinez, Chicago trained violinist, and his American wife, Gunhilde Nilsson, concert pianist, who played at the center to an enthusiastic audience a week ago, are giving a second benefit recital there at 8 o'clock tonight.

Their program will be composed almost entirely of the works of Central and South American composers—Villa-Lobos, De Sarasate, Villaneuva, Carrasco, and others.

Founder and director of the Yucatan Symphony orchestra, Martinez, determined to bring good music to the smaller towns of the provinces, organized the only concert circuit in Mexico and Central America. The project, serving 25 cities, is known as Conciertos Martini.

Miss Nilsson shares her husband's pioneering spirit. An unofficial ambassador of good will, she was the first American musician to undertake a Concierto Martini tour. She traveled 10,000 miles giving recitals of American music in all of the largest towns and, asking only an adequate piano, adventured also into many a remote village far off the railroad lines and accessible only by horseback. Blonde Miss Nilsson is a native of Minnesota. She has studied in Chicago, New York, and Paris.

Martinez has been giving public concerts since he was 8. So confident of his talents were his high school classmates in El Paso, Tex., that they held torch light parades to advertise concerts he gave to procure the means for study in Chicago. Their faith was justified when at 17, Martinez, winner of the Lyon & Healy contest award, appeared in Orchestra hall to play the Beethoven violin concerto.

Chicago is a favorite city of the attractive young couple, for it was here that they met as students. For the last year they have been in this country giving concerts at Mexican and Latin American centers.

Chairman of tonight's benefits for the Mexican Social center is Jose Aviña. Among guests at the center will be Emilio Amada, Mexican consul in Chicago.

Willing Helpers to Open Season on Wednesday

The Willing Helpers for Crippled Children will resume its service activities on behalf of the Spalding school with a meeting at 1 o'clock Wednesday in the school, 1628 Washington blvd. The program is to be open to all persons interested in work with crippled childsen. Mrs. Otto M. Olson will preside.

A Friend in Need

[If you are in need, perhaps I can help you. If you have usable articles or clothing you no longer need please let me place them with needy families. Address correspondence to Sally Joy Brown, Chicago Tribune, Chicago. Activities of this department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

By Sally Joy Brown

With the opening of the fall school term come numerous appeals for wearables for all groups of school children who must be kept suitably and comfortably clothed to assure regular attendance thruout the year. Please help us place surplus, clean, wearable clothing with families whose small incomes are unequal to the strain of replenishing depleted wardrobes. The following appeals will give a general idea of the existing need.

Mrs. K., mother of boys 16, 11, and 9 and a daughter, 14, is receiving agency aid, but the amount is too small to furnish any but the most basic requirements of living. Months of ill health make early operative care imperative, and a sister will look after the children during the period of hospitalization. Before leaving home, however, Mrs. K. wishes to be assured, thru our aid, that the youngsters will be suitably clothed for school. The girl wears size 16-18, the eldest boy, who is 5 ft. 10 and weighs 135 pounds, wears size 36, and the younger boys wear sizes approximating their ages.

A north side social worker hopes to enlist the aid of our readers in obtaining a warm coat and underwear for a high school girl 14 years old, and a snowsuit, size 8, and other boy's togs for the 6 year old who is entering school for the first time this fall. An older sister is employed trying to further her education by attending night classes. Her earnings are too limited to provide apparel for the younger children.

A welfare nurse has referred Mrs. L., mother of a large family, living on the north side, to us for assistance in locating clothing for her twin daughters who are 10 years old. Her husband has lost much time from his job thru illness, and his earnings have suffered proportionately.

Sanitarium Service Club to Open Season Tuesday

The Metropolitan group of the Fox River sanitarium at Batavia will mark the opening of the fall season's activities with a business session and social gathering at 8:15 o'clock Tuesday night in the Standard club. The program will include dramatization of a popular play by Ann Birk Kuper. Miss Everyn Jaye will preside at the meeting, which is open to guests. Another service club—the junior auxiliary of the Douglas Park Day and Night nursery—has scheduled its first fall meeting the same night in the Standard club. The latter group will hear Sadie Stern Merel dramatize Elmer Rice's play, "A New Life."

The Cape Cod Resort Season Nears Its End

CAPE COD, MASS.

With the 1945 season fast nearing a conclusion, the next fortnight will witness a final round of informal entertaining among scores of colonists who soon will depart from this resort section until next summer. For many who had leased homes thru the month of August or who must return to the city to enroll children in schools and colleges, this departure already has taken effect. There were others, too, who bade farewell to cape friends during the Labor day week-end.

Those who were able to remain until the holiday found a round of activities planned for their pleasure. The Oyster Harbors club, for instance, was a gay place thruout the week-end, a busy schedule of both outdoor and indoor events having been listed for its guests. A patriotic theme of red, white, and blue streamers and flags was used to decorate the ballroom at the club Saturday night for the annual Labor day ball. There were several dinner parties preceding the dance, including one at Osterville at which Mr. and Mrs. Franklin T. Scott of Winnetka, Ill., were guests. The Scotts were joined later by their daughter, Barbara, before adjourning to the club for the festivities there.

The many indoor activities, however, were not able to overshadow the popularity of the tennis, golf, and sailing. A highlight of the sports program was a three day Red Cross tennis tournament, which started Saturday and continued thru Monday, with play-offs that afternoon. A large gallery of fans attended all the contests.

The James Scott Kempers of Chicago, who have been at the club thruout the month of August, were among club guests who entertained friends at parties during the week-end. Mr. Kemper was host to a party of men at the club recently when Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Attleboro, minority leader of the house of representatives, was guest of honor. The Kempers were one of the groups who left the cape Labor day for their home city.

The Hyannisport colony was busier than usual last week-end, too, with many guests arriving there for a final holiday before the curtain comes down on the current season. Miss Evelyn Gardner, daughter of the Henry A. Gardners of Winnetka, was a busy person answering many calls from friends who wanted to extend congratulations on her engagement to Ensign Warren Carstensen, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hans L. Carstensen of Cambridge, Mass. Miss Gardner, a popular member of the port resort section, is well-known in Chicago where she is a member of the Junior league and has served as a nurse's aid at Cook county hospital for three winters. Evelyn also has made many friends with patients at the Cape Cod hospital, lending her services to that institution while she vacations at Hyannisport. Ensign Carstensen, who attended Harvard university prior to entering the service, is a member of the naval air corps.

Planning to remain another two weeks at the Hyannisport colony are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parkington and their children, Betty, Paul, and Patricia, of Oak Park. The Parkington family came to the cape in mid-August, intending to remain only a few days and then go to another vacation spot. The cape was as far as the party went, however. Finding the peninsula to their liking, they canceled plans to go elsewhere and are looking forward to a return visit for a longer stay next summer. Last Sunday night the Parkingtons were hosts at the Wianno club to Mr. and Mrs. James Cavanaugh of Wellesley, Mass., formerly of Oak Park, who came to the cape to spend the holiday with them.

Announcement of a marriage performed in Cambridge, is of interest to a wide circle of Chicagoans now on the cape. Principals were Miss Edith Carlton of Cambridge, and Gordon Mervin Browne Jr., instructor at the North Shore Country Day school in Winnetka. The bridegroom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon M. Browne of St. Louis, Mo., is a graduate of the St. Louis Country Day school and Harvard university. He served with the army air forces before being honorably discharged. The bride, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Carlton of Cambridge, is a graduate of Radcliffe college. The couple will live in Winnetka.

Prof. and Mrs. LaForce Bailey, who have been in Provincetown thruout the summer season while Prof. Bailey conducted art classes, left the cape last week-end to return to their Chicago home. At the annual picnic and election of the Beachcombers, a prominent cape-tip organization, Prof. Bailey was chosen first mate. Philip Conrad was named a trustee.

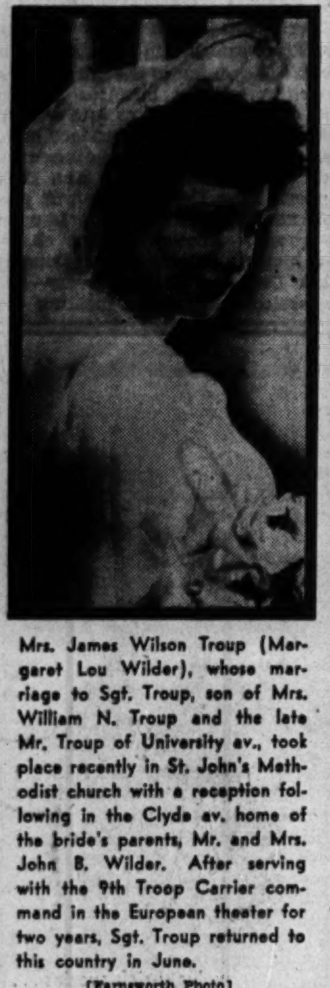
Other Chicagoans who were on the cape tip for a summer vacation included Mrs. Wayne Thomis and her three children, Holly, David, and Wendy. Mrs. Thomis has decided to remain in Provincetown for the winter while Lt. Thomis is serving in the South Pacific.

In Yarmouth, Mrs. Annie Mortenson of Hinsdale, has been a guest in the home of her niece, Mrs. Gordon Clark. Before visiting at the Clark home, Mrs. Mortenson was the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stobbart, also of Yarmouth. She will return to Illinois after a stay with friends in Wrentham, Mass..

Miss Marion Vilas, daughter of Mrs. Lawrence H. Vilas of Chicago and Wianno, has spent many busy days aiding in the Barnstable drive of the National War Fund campaign. Miss Vilas, who gives many of her leisure hours to the Cape Cod hospital, working as a nurse's aid, was a solicitor in the village of Osterville, neighboring community of the fashionable resort where she and her mother spend their summers.

The Buzzards Bay summer colony has many late season vacationists, among them, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mitchell of Alton, Ill., who are there for a two week stay. Before the Mitchells conclude their stay they expect to be joined by their daughter, Marilyn, who will come to the cape from New York where she is employed. Vacationing in Buzzards Bay for the two weeks prior to Labor day were Mrs. Harlan Johnson and her sister, Mrs. Raymond Dale, both of Evanston. Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Dale now are spending a week on the island of Nantucket.

WED RECENTLY



Mrs. James Wilson Troup (Margaret Lou Wilder), whose marriage to Sgt. Troup, son of Mrs. William N. Troup and the late Mr. Troup of University av., took place recently in St. John's Methodist church with a reception following in the Clyde av. home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Wilder. After serving with the 9th Troop Carrier command in the European theater for two years, Sgt. Troup returned to this country in June.

Colonists Take Part in Annual Benefit Bazar

PITTSFIELD, MASS.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Holloway of Glencoe and Mrs. W. Rockwood Gibbs, Lake Forest, were among the leaders yesterday afternoon at the annual Stockbridge fair for the benefit of the Ascension Farm school and the Lenox Children's home. The town hall was transformed into a bazar with gaily decorated booths and tables. Mrs. Holloway and Mrs. Gibbs were in charge of the book stall, and Mr. Holloway was chairman of the sporting goods department. There was a demand especially for old books relating to Berkshire. The first history of the county was compiled and published in 1829 by the Rev. Dr. David Dudley Field, father of Cyrus West Field, who laid the first successful Atlantic cable.

Mr. and Mrs. Holloway were among those who entertained at the Stockbridge Golf and Tennis club Labor day luncheon, and they also are to be hosts next Saturday at the 54th anniversary luncheon of the Mahkeenac Boat club, of whose board of governors Mr. Holloway is a member.

Mrs. John H. P. Gould [Lee Higginson] was a dinner hostess for 20 at Mahkeenac farm, Stockbridge, for her daughters, Misses Jenifer N. and Barbara T. Gould, before the Labor day dance at Pittsfield Country club. Miss Mary Palen Snow, New York City, is a guest of the Misses Gould. Their father, Lt. Comdr. Gould, U. S. N. R., now in Florida, expects to join his family later in the month at Mahkeenac farm. Mrs. Gould's brother-in-law and sister, Count and Countess Giangiulio Rucellai, and four children of Canneto, Prato, Italy, came thru the war safely.

Mrs. W. Rockwood Gibbs had a Labor day dinner party of 22 at the Red Lion inn, Stockbridge, for her guest, Miss Helen Leslie Latting of New York City. Noticed in another holiday dinner party at the Red Lion were Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, widow of the President; Mrs. Florence Bannard Adams, and Mrs. Thomas J. Hammond, Northampton. Mrs. Adams' cousin, Mrs. Lucy Wadhams Dodge, formerly of Milwaukee, has sold her estate, Guestwick, at Pittsfield, and expects to buy a smaller place.

Mrs. William Felton Barrett was a luncheon hostess yesterday at Sky farm, North Egremont, in honor of Miss Helen Brice, New York City, a summer sojourner at the Berkshire inn, Great Barrington. Mrs. Barrett expects as a guest over the annual meeting of the Lenox Garden club, Sept. 19, Mrs. Clifford Mallory of Washington, D. C., a director of the Garden Club of America. Mrs. Barrett is a former president of Lenox Garden club. Under Mrs. Barrett's direction the Beulah Cannon verbena is on trial at the Berkshire Garden center, of which she is president. Originally produced by Miss Beulah Cannon, who for 40 years has been the owner and manager of Orchard House inn, Tyringham, the soft pink flower is described by Mrs. Barrett as "without question the finest verbena ever on trial at the center."

Mr. and Mrs. Perry M. Shepard [Eleanor Ogden West] of Geneva, N. Y., are with Mrs. Shepard's sister, Mrs. Donald F. McPherson, at Court Hill, Pittsfield.

Lt. Comdr. Morton L. Fearey, U. S. N., and Mrs. Fearey of Washington, D. C., and their new daughter are visiting Mrs. Fearey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Senior, at High Wick, Lenox. John L. Senior Jr. has returned to Baltimore. Mr. and Mrs. Senior were among the guests at a cocktail party given on Monday by Mrs. Carlos M. De Heredia, at Wheatleigh, Lenox. Among others noticed in the group were Canon and Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes of Washington; Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith, president of Berkshire Symphonic Festival, Inc., and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce W. Sanborn of St. Paul, Minn., who later entertained at dinner at Plumsted, Lenox.

ENGAGED

Miss Harriette Louise Armstrong's engagement to Lt. (j.g.) Irvin C. Hibbeler of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hibbeler of Chicago, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Armstrong of Evanston, formerly of Wilmette. Lt. Hibbeler, a graduate of Columbia university, has been stationed in the South Pacific.

World of Art Mourns Death of E. Forkner

By Eleanor Jewett

Another great loss to the art world of Chicago and the west is seen in the recent death of Edgar Forkner, well known water color painter, who lived much of his life in Chicago and moved some 15 years ago to Seattle, Wash. Mr. Forkner was a delightful man and an outstanding painter. His water colors are brilliant. Probably no one achieved as great success in bringing an arrangement of flowers to life as he did. His colors, composition, and background left nothing to be desired. Again and again he produced an exciting, unusual canvas.

Mr. Forkner painted boats superbly and harbor scenes. He was a staunch believer in the value of academic painting and his technique was sound and convincing. During the years when museum directors and artists were taking modern art seriously, Mr. Forkner, like Frederick Waugh and a few other notable contemporaries, remained true to his belief that fine art is based on something firmer than whimsey. Water colors and oils came from his brush fresh, vivid, alive, and alluring. Color, composition, and technique, each superbly mastered, were Edgar Forkner's great contributions to the profession which gives as much pleasure to its followers as do music or literature to theirs.

A memorial exhibit of oils and water colors by Mr. Forkner is on view at the Chicago Galleries association, 215 N. Michigan av. Mr. Forkner was a beloved member of the association. He will be greatly missed. Another exhibition center which will miss him is the Hoosier salon, where he was a consistent prize winner, and still another, the Seattle Art institute.

Elizabeth R. Anrod has had a popular exhibit of her photographs at the Chicago Public library. The exhibit is so well liked it may, according to the artist, carry over a few weeks. Those who have not seen it will do well to look it up. Many of the prints are delightful.

In October the Chicago Galleries will hang the 25th annual exhibit of artist members of the association. This is invariably a fine show, each artist giving his best to make the exhibition as representative as possible.

The Chicago Galleries association is doing a little palm reading and foretelling a November show made up of work by Roy Keister, J. M. O'Malley, Gianni Cilfone, and Louis Kaep, tho, not to break the usual routine of the gallery, which is to show the work of only three artists at a time, one of these may postpone his exhibit until later. The alternative to the three man show is a four man exhibit, needing fewer pictures from each painter, and that might be a welcome solution to the present shortage of frames, paints, and canvas.

December will see the Chicago Galleries festive with pictures especially designed for holiday buying.

The annual exhibition of work by students of the school of the Art institute opened Aug. 30 and will continue thru Sept. 30. The exhibit is unusually comprehensive this year, the first gallery presenting a cross-section of all the departments, illustrating what the studios and the equipment look like. Each department is represented by photographs of the students at work as well as by selected pieces of their work. The installation of the explanatory material has been intelligently handled and the result is interesting.

More complete exhibitions of the different works covering a large field of craftsmanship including painting, drawing, sculpture, ceramics, etching, jewelry, weaving, advertising designs, and so on, almost ad infinitum, fill the remaining galleries. Mr. Ropp and his students have created an ingenuous staging which sets off each object to advantage. For the first time work in volume design has been given a major showing and some of the designs in the third dimension are amazing.

The Art institute school had the largest enrollment last year in over 10 years, a total of 6,075 students in all the departments, and this in spite of the fact that 1944-'45 was a war year and many potential artist students were still in service. It is in part due to this extraordinary number of students that the current exhibit is as varied and excellent in quality as it is.

The North Shore Art league is represented in the exhibit that opened yesterday at the Club Woman's bureau, Mandel Brothers. There will be a dinner on Sept. 17 for members and friends. Mrs. Charles Hahn of Winnetka is in charge of the show. In October the Club Woman's bureau will hang a group of "American Primitives" which will include paintings by Thomas Eakins, T. Chambers, Charles Loring Elliott, and W. H. Harnett.

Original portraits by Boris Chaliapin, Boris Artzybasheff, Ernest Hamlin Baker, and Guy Rowe are among the interesting works to be seen in the new exhibit at the Marshall Field galleries, which opened yesterday.

News of the last exhibit in these galleries, where work by a group of Chicago artists was hung, reveals the enviable fact that Julia Thecla's charmingly quaint "The Audubon Tree" was sold. The purchaser is to be congratulated.

At the Esquire theater on Oak st. until Sept. 15 is a group of 23 portraits of dogs by Lial Hoppen, whose work was reproduced in color in the graphic section of the SUNDAY TRIBUNE on June 24. Miss Hoppen has a particular talent for catching the personality and character of each animal. There are bulldogs, scotties, wire haireds, a German shepherd, dachshunds, a Dobermann, an Irish setter, several appealing spaniels, and also the heads of two or three cats. All are done with a posterlike boldness and clarity, and with great attention to detail.

TO BE MARRIED

Miss Patricia Ross, whose engagement to Donald Robert Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Baker of Bartlett, is announced by her parents, Dr. and Mrs. James H. Ross of Glen Ellyn. Miss Ross attended Rockford college. Mr. Baker, who recently returned after 18 months in the Pacific with the navy, attended Elgin academy.

Chicago Zonta Club to Hear Therapy Chief

As club women open their new season in a post-war world, the transition from war service to service in the field of rehabilitation is well under way. Interests to be given emphasis this year by the Zonta club of Chicago are indicated in the program for the first meeting, which will bring as guest speaker Miss Harriet M. Carman, chief of the occupational therapy department at Vaughan General hospital.

Miss Harriet Carman

The organization of executive women will hear Miss Carman at a dinner meeting at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday in the Normandy house.

Among other gifts presented to Vaughan last season by the Zonta club was a check for $500 for tools to equip a machine shop. A special rehabilitation fund was set up by the Zontans, and the money allocated by a rehabilitation committee headed by Elizabeth Hibbard, the sculptor, who was chairman, and Miss Marion McKinney, co-chairman.

Mrs. Hibbard was one of several members of the club who did active work at government hospitals. She personally taught patients at Gardiner. That hospital has in its arts and skills shop a potter's kick-wheel provided by the Zonta club. Some 30 table looms and $100 in materials were procured for Gardiner, Vaughan, and the naval hospital at Great Lakes.

This year the special rehabilitation committee and fund will revert to the service committee of six members, senior trustee of which is Miss Maud Westlake.

Miss Carman's talk at the Tuesday dinner meeting will be on "The Occupational Therapy Program at Vaughan General hospital."

Mrs. Kate Certa continues as president of the club. Mrs. Elaine Norden is program chairman.

Another organization of business and professional women, the Soroptimist Club of Chicago, will give its first meeting primarily to discussion of a post-war program for disabled men at Vaughan and neighboring Hines hospital. Also a dinner gathering, the Soroptimists' session is set for tomorrow evening in the Army and Navy club at 410 S. Michigan av.

Matrix, club of professional women writers and publicists, has moved from its Wacker drive rooms to new quarters in the Fine Arts building, and will have a manuscript reading evening there in room 528 at 8 o'clock Wednesday. Writers both of fiction and non-fiction will have an opportunity to present their latest stories and articles for critical analysis.

Thru the Looking Glass

By Eleanor Nangle

Got skin that's partly dry, partly oily? Try a soap cream, half bland soap, half softening cleansing cream, which is used with a sponge. It was created especially for the adolescent skin, and its big virtue is that it cleanses deeply, but gently.

Something new, sensible, and efficient has been added to the growing number of beauty-helpers designed especially for the girl of high school or college age. Nowadays this girl usually has one invaluable beauty asset: Superb health. But the growing-up process in itself often involves an unevenness of glandular balance that is annoyingly manifested by pimples, blackheads, and skin patches that are either dry or oily, or sometimes both.

Cleanliness, of course, is the basic thing in skin care. But youthful skins need more than casual cleansing to keep them clear and radiant during the years when glandular function is apt to be erratic. And here's where the new young-beauty aid helps.

It's really not one aid; it's a team, consisting of a jar of snow-white facial "soap cream," and a workmanlike cleansing sponge that fits the hand. The soap cream is exciting—half bland soap and half softening cleansing cream, beautifully blended into a smooth mixture that gives the skin the brisk, deep cleansing it needs and some soothing creaming at the same time.

This, as you can appreciate, is a tremendous find for the girl whose skin is thin but still troublesome in that dirt adheres to it. The cleansing is a must, but vigorous methods simply won't do. The soap cream, while it cleanses deeply, does it gently. The sponge is wrung out in warm water, smeared with cream and then worked up on the skin into a soft, luxurious lather, super-fatted, that banishes dirt, oil, and impurities without bruising or drying.

This scrubbing team should go off to school with every girl who wants a smooth, clean, and clear complexion; it will help prevent blemishes and help clear them up if they do pop out.

Some Parents Too Practical with Children

By Gladys Huntington Bevans

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

I may have told you this incident before, but it's a true little narrative which I think worthy of repetition. It is about two lovely women who were sisters, one of whom ran the home for the other. The evenings were the only leisurely time they had together.

"I didn't finish the slip covers after all," the loving aunt would say to her sister. "Dick came into my room just as I was putting on the binding and sprawled out on the bed and began to talk. It was one of those special times, you know, so I just put down my sewing and we chinned and chinned. He opens up at a time like that, and you can't be practical and say you have to work. O, well, you know how it is, or at least how it used to be when you were home all the time."

Her sister looked at her "Thank heaven for you, dear," she said. "Give me the old slip covers, I'll do them tonight."

There's one thing children can't get along on, and that is tag ends of your time. Neither can they be tucked in only when other more important [to you] work or affairs have been taken care of. Their ways, thoughts, yearnings, and needs are spontaneous things. Your responses to them must be as spontaneous.

I believe you will find that if you're too practical, too efficient, too systematic with the children and your house in general you'll lose a lot. For one thing you won't get nearly as much out of having your children.

For another thing: Oddly enough, if you are too practical in your handling of the children and in your attitude toward them, you're quite apt to have trouble with them. Sometimes they'll sprout behavior difficulties that you never would ordinarily connect with such a seemingly remote cause as just being too practical.

One mother wrote me a long letter telling me how her little girl [as I remember she was about 20 months old], followed her from room to room, crying or whimpering. And as I read on I could see that that child never got any real whole-hearted attention from her mother. It was the housework, the chickens, and the wash that were the only real concerns of this woman's life.

It isn't sentimental to say that children actually need unmistakable signs that their mother or father loves them, and is interested in them. If they don't get it, all kinds of "misbehavior" as we call it, may spring up. Trouble with all the routines is one sign. Children discover, the clever little rascals, that if they don't eat, can't seem to sleep, or keep on having "accidents," mother simply has to put aside her broom, needle, of cooking [or it may be her music or reading].

Smart Suits Accent Color and Silhouette

By Rea Seeger

Town suits, sophisticated, urban, and the essence of elegance, are harbingers not only of an exciting new fall and winter season, but the newest silhouettes, colors, fabrics, and contrasts. Most of the suits are sleek and willowy, despite the wider armholes, the looser, sloping shoulder lines, and that attenuated streamline achieved with slim, slinky skirts and a defined waist line.

Fabrics are rich, supple, and flattering. Textures are important; so are the varied weights. Soft fleeces, as thick as thistledown and almost as featherweight, have a look of cozy warmth and are as warm as they look. Suedelike textures, soft velvety weaves, some elegant broadcloths, and the precious Rodier fabrics, still make the most beautiful of suits, costumes, or ensembles for town.

Gray, from cool, silver tones to classic steel and oxford grays, is effective. But these darker tones, surprisingly, make the dress suits. The medium shade of gray honestly combined of half black and half white, makes some of the most distinctive dressmaker suits in every collection. Steel gray and the popular "banker" gray make the slim, extremely simple suits to wear with giddily gay striped taffeta blouses or the more gawdy coin dotted brocades. Town suits of gray dramatize the solid or monotones.

Unusual color contrasts are particularly emphasized in the black or dark colored, straight skirt topped with a jacket of color. Chamois yellow, citron, vivid reds and pinks, bright blues, equally brilliant greens, and, smartest of all, the tangerine, lemon, or canary yellow woolens, are some of the contrasting jacket colors out in the first parade of early fall town suits.

Capes are returning by the dozens. They definitely are a third part of the suit costume or ensemble. Some are of fur; others are fur trimmed or lined. Shoulders are snug and not overemphasized. The smartest length is that which swings around the knee. Needless to say, these capes are separable and can be worn with other dresses or suits in the wardrobe.

The most important fall contrast trim is that of braid. Pockets, real or fake; shoulders, epaulets, cuffs, yokes, and rows of intricate designs, all are of braid.

Sketched are four new town suits and costumes from a fall collection to be found in a Chicago store. For further information call Superior 0200.

The bidding:

South	West	North
2 spades	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of hearts.

Fame and oblivion are frequently separated by a margin no wider than a hair. Success is many times dependent upon the ability of a person to make the winning guess. In these cases Lady Luck is the final arbiter. Sometimes, however, a decision that may appear to depend upon an out and out guess, can in fact be reached on evidence that does not appear on the surface. Such a decision was made by the South of today's hand.

The slam contract was a fair gamble. South opened quite properly with a bid of two spades. His hand represents a playing strength of about nine tricks and his honor holding is adequate. If North has as little as the queen of clubs there should be a splendid play for game. North's response of three diamonds may be questioned, but I think is justified in view of the fact that he has three trumps and a short suit. An overcall by West after South's announcement of strength could have accomplished no good purpose, indeed it could be punished to the extent of at least 1,100 points.

The king of hearts was opened and the queen continued. This was ruffed by declarer and followed by the ace, king and another club ruffed in dummy. South was now faced with the problem of disposing of the three of clubs. There were apparently two choices. One was to lead the club and hope that East [who apparently held the nine of clubs] also had the jack of spades so that West could not overruff dummy's nine. The other was to take the diamond finesse and discard the losing club on the ace of diamonds if the finesse succeeded. As will be seen either of these plays would have failed.

Declarer, a star of the first magnitude, decided not to guess who had the jack of spades or whether the diamond finesse would work. If West was not false carding in clubs, he could see a sure way to make the hand on a squeeze. A heart was led from dummy and ruffed by declarer. Then every last trump was led. West in order to guard the jack of hearts in dummy had to let go the seven of diamonds. Dummy thereupon discarded the jack of hearts and was left with three diamonds. East, who by this time was down to three diamonds and the nine of clubs, had to retain the club to prevent South's three of clubs from standing up. He therefore parted with a diamond, and now all the diamonds had to fall as declarer played the ace and king of the suit. A three suit squeeze had been put into operation.

The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps but not value. Enclose a stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

A 3 cent khaki colored stamp will be issued by the United States on Sept. 28 to honor the heroic deeds of the United States army in World War II. The first day sale will be held in Washington, D. C., and collectors may send their covers to the postmaster in that city with a remittance to cover the cost of stamps to be affixed.

Little consideration was given to the design of this stamp as the Arc de Triomphe in Paris is to be shown. Soldiers are marching under the arch, airplanes are flying overhead. The Arc de Triomphe is one of the outstanding symbols of victory, but it has little to do with the exploits of the United States army in this war.

The "winged victory" statue of ancient Greece would have conveyed the meaning with equal force. It is unfortunate that the nation which furnished the majority of the military strength, the munitions and equipment to fight this war, and the money to support the world during the struggle, should have to go abroad to find a subject for the design.

A postoffice being established tomorrow in West Virginia will be named Nimitz to honor the outstanding achievements of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz. Under similar conditions on April 15, 1942, a postoffice was named for Gen. Douglas MacArthur. The Nimitz office will be 18 miles southeast of MacArthur.

Lady of the House

Extra Thinking

So many long familiar, recurring house and garden chores which employ the hands for long hours leave the thoughts free to wander where they will. Washing dishes, shelling peas, top-and-tailing beans, preparing fruits for canning, weeding garden beds ad infinitum—these require so little concentration one can do a lot of what Aunt Ella calls "extra" thinking.

The other day, trying to relax while watering the yard, it seemed there hadn't been the usual number of those "aviators of the garden," the butterflies, about. No doubt the fault was mine, because the poor, neglected garden certainly had been short of flowers, beloved by most butterflies. They do belong together. Then, too, I had had so little leisure to sit outdoors and observe the doings of the insect world.

Pouring water at the roots of the parched and struggling arbor vitae, I recalled field trips of student days, and later jaunts for observing the lovely fragile creatures. Particularly my prying into the private life of that common but very interesting garden butterfly, the Monarch.

One late summer I took one of those smooth, pale green, gold and black banded caterpillars from a milkweed stalk, put him in a box with sliding glass top, fed copiously with milkweed leaves; and presently found a jewel-like chrysalis—"the green house with the golden nails"—dangling by the tail from one corner of the lid.

In my ignorance of the ways of the species, I supposed he was set for the winter. One day I discovered a miracle. There had emerged from the little case an imago with large body and abortive wings. As I watched, the plump body shrank and the small wings were pumped up with such amazing rapidity that in less than a quarter hour I saw before me a creature in luminous, velvety brown glittering with jewel tones. A Monarch! Wavering wings steadied and strengthened as it fed on the home made nectar I provided.

Later I learned these fall-born Monarchs are migratory and gather in the autumn, like many birds, to prepare for their journey southward and their return, worn and frayed and disheveled, in the spring.

As I maneuvered the spray to some rather discouraged phlox, I spied a Tawny Admiral spreading his wings to the sun and taking a late breakfast from an apple a robin had abandoned. He balanced daintily, dipped and drank. And I thought again how much these fairy creatures add to our little daily pleasures.

A Leave in the ANC

You're coming home! My restless feet
Would hurry all too soon to meet
Your laggard train, or dance, or run,
Leaving a dozen tasks undone.
How wait for time's slow metronome?
You're coming home!

No shouting crowds will throng your way,
No ceremonies will convey
In oratory, flags or flowers
Your country's gratitude, or ours.
Just we who love you best will wait
Beside that gate.

Now let me sweep and dust and make
The old house lovely for your sake;
Now three fresh roses for perfume
To bless your little patient room,
Your brushes here—your ivory comb—
You're coming home!

That grim old platform down the street
Where past and future part and meet,
Ordained to ecstasies and woe,
Will find us soon, one eager row,
With hearts like flying wind-blown foam—
You're coming home!

'Thout knowin' why I should,
With mother makin' ketchup
And me likin' it so good.

She even let me stir while
She measured in the spice
But I kept gettin' sadder the
She let me taste it twice.

I thought of winter time and how
I'd find it such a treat
On eggs and fried potatoes, not
To mention sandwich meat.

Designs for Needlework

By Ellen Bruce

If your small daughter is partial to Dutch dolls, No. 886, a handsome creature, will make her happy. Your pleasure will be in making the toy. The pattern contains detailed directions for making the body, clothes, shoes, and wig.

The crocheted infant's set, No. 459, of cap, jacket, and bootees will be one of the most useful outfits in any layette. This attractive group is crocheted in a pattern which is simple to execute. It is trimmed with dainty pink blossoms.

For instructions in making either of these items, send 15 CENTS in coin [30 CENTS for both—wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

FOR THAT HARD TO ELIMINATE
Perspiration Odor IN CLOTHING
Spray D'SAPEER

Have you noticed how dry cleaning seldom eliminates perspiration, nausea or medicine odors from clothing? You can kill these odors by spraying a little D'SAPEER. It's not a perfume, not a cover-up. It's a scientific chemical deodorant that dispels odors as if by magic. Harmless to fabrics, does not spot. D'SAPEER, sprayed in a room, also quickly eliminates practically all disagreeable odors. Easy to use—a little goes a long way.

So. Wisconsin Resort Areas Lure Visitors

Madison, Wis. [Special]—Southern Wisconsin with its attractions for the vacationist is welcoming one and all to the great open spaces and its scores of beauty spots. Here are spacious parks, great expanses of fish-filled waters, awe-inspiring freaks of nature found in few places in the United States, picnic grounds, bathing and boating facilities and Wisconsin lore that dates back before the founding of the state.

Scenic Dane county in the heart of the Wisconsin dairyland has numerous fine lakes and here the visitor will find the famed Cave of the Mounds, the equally famed chain of lakes, good fishing, Little Norway, that splendid little replica of old Norway, the "land of the Sky" at Blue Mounds, the magnificent state capitol building, the great campus of the University of Wisconsin, and the Poynette game farm.

The capital city of Madison is centrally located to make this the hub for your travels about this interesting center. Here also are available boats of every type, fishing in newly planted waters where the catches have been good, moonlight cruises on Lake Mendota and sporty golf courses open to the public.

From Lake Koshkonong to Edgerton there is a perfect haven for fishermen and the Wisconsin conservation commission has stocked the waters heavily during the past several years.

From Lake Ripley to Cambridge, Lake Ripley affords modern accommodations at hotels, cabins, cottages and trailer camps. Rock Lake at Lake Mills is an ideal spot to relax. Swimming, dancing, fishing, picnicking, and golfing are available at this vacation spot.

From Lake Kegonsa to Stoughton is one of the finest stretches of wooded shorelines in the state.

From Lake Waubesa to McFarland is the ideal spot for the family vacationist to hide away from the noise and bustle of the city and go fishing, with an 18 hole golf course conveniently near.

Mt. Horeb, just west of Madison, opens the portals of the state's wonderland; for here are found the scenic features of the Cave of the Mound, the famed Blue Mound and its picnic ground, and the outdoor museum of pioneer Norway.

Southern Wisconsin is easily accessible to travelers from a wide area.

Blind Service Group Will Reopen Loop Office

After a summer's recess the Blind Service association has announced the reopening of its office and reading room service at 185 N. Wabash av., suite 900. Blind and near blind persons are offered a number of gratis services thru the association. Guide dogs are provided for qualified blind persons, medical and dental care is given the blind and near blind, scholarship and tuition expenses are offered blind students, and emergency relief provided when needed. Mrs. Gottfried D. Bernstein is association president.

Margaret McGoorty Wed to R. H. Oakes

From his summer home in Whitehall, Mich., Judge John P. McGoorty of the Superior court of Cook county announces the marriage Sept. 1 of his daughter, Margaret, to Ralph Hathaway Oakes, professor of economics at De Paul university. The Rev. Cyril McKinnon, S. J., of Marquette university officiated at the ceremony which took place in St. James church, Montague, Mich.

M'Cormick Creek Park Is a Beauty Spot of S. Indiana

SPENCER, Ind.—[Special]—There are many things to see and do here at McCormick's Creek state park, established in 1916, but if rest and relaxation is your vacation goal, that also is possible in this quiet secluded spot of nature. One of Indiana's most beautiful parks—and she has many—McCormick's Creek can be reached by train, bus, or car.

Here a thousand acres of majestic scenery await your exploration. Large forests of beech and pine trees, deep stone gullies, sloping ravines and merry creeks are lures to vacationists who may enjoy miles of hiking or riding amid myriads of wild flowers, ferns and trees.

The low falls in McCormick's Creek, which flows thru the park and gives its name to this area; the canyon thru which the stream rushes to unite with the White river, and the many sink holes are among the scenic features of this, the first of Indiana's state parks. Geologists say that this canyon was once a cave. White river, which borders the park, is one of Indiana's beautiful streams and is widely known for its fine fishing.

Also inviting exploration is the natural history museum, with its varied local collections. A nature guide aids in the study of birds, plants, and flowers.

There is a large modern swimming pool and a smaller one for the kiddies. Saddle horses are available for those who wish to ride and hayrack parties are organized with a zestful meal served in the open. Courts for tennis, badminton, horseshoe, croquet, and shuffleboard are available. An indoor game room is popular in the evenings and in rainy weather.

Southern Indiana offers for your enjoyment other state park properties including Brown County, Spring Mill, Muscatatuck, Shakamak, Lincoln, and Clifty Falls state parks.

Smoky Mountains Sightseeing Bus Tours Resumed

Asheville, N. C. [Special]—With the end of the war, tours thru the Great Smoky Mountains National Park and over the Skyline drive on open top sightseeing buses have been resumed.

Two different tours will leave Asheville each day thru Nov. 15. One—the 210 mile trip to Newfound Gap, Clingman's Dome, and Gatlinburg—will leave Asheville at 8 a. m. daily and return at 6 p. m. It will be routed via Waynesville, Maggie, the new scenic Soco Gap highway and across the main ridge of the Smokies at Gatlinburg, where a stopover will be made for lunch. On return trip, a stopover will be made at Clingman's Dome and the groups will then return to Asheville via Sylva and Balsam Gap.

The second tour—an all day combination tour including the Skyline drive, Lake Lure and Chimney Rock—will leave at 9 a. m. and return at 5 p. m. One-day Smoky mountains tours out of Knoxville also have been resumed.

FOR SALE

The Wisconsin State Department of Public Welfare offers for sale approximately 24 acres of land on Lake Kentuck in Vilas county, Wisconsin, heart of the northern Wisconsin resort area.

The plat offered for sale, having approximately 300 feet frontage on beautiful Lake Kentuck, is 17½ miles northwest of Eagle River and 10 miles directly south of Phelps, Wis. It is well timbered and easily accessible by good road.

Sale of the property has been authorized by enactment of the Wisconsin legislature. Inquiries or offers may be addressed to

NOW You Can Actually Lighten Complexion to More Radiant Beauty!

YES, a heart-softening radiant beauty that fairly seems to glow! This is accomplished by the lovely bleaching action on the skin surface by MERCOLIZED WAX CREAM. Under the outer layer of your skin, which may be dull, drab, air-hardened or sun-colored, reposes the baby-pink natural skin beauty. This is brought out with most surprising effects by MERCOLIZED WAX CREAM. Thousands of women use MERCOLIZED WAX CREAM. Thrill at your own discovery of its radiantly beautifying action. Use only as directed.

PHELACTINE DEPILATORY—REMOVES FACIAL HAIR. Here is a clean, easy way to take ugly superfluous hair off the face in a few minutes. It extracts a portion of hair embedded under the skin along with the surface hair. Not a cream or powder. Has no unpleasant odor. Clear your face of superfluous hair with Phelactine Depilatory.

OILY SKIN—Helped by SAXOLITE ASTRINGENT—It is easy to help oily skin look fresher and better with the invaluable aid of Saxolite Astringent. Just dissolve Saxolite in one-half pint witch hazel and pat it on the skin several times a day. It subdues excess surface oil, tightens skin surface by temporary contraction, and leaves the skin feeling delightfully refreshed.

NATIVE INSPIRATION

Mexico and South Seas merge in so-right sarong

Who'd have dreamed the sarong could be any more fetching? But a new tropic touch turns the trick—splashing flame-bright jungle hues on this already bewitching beach attire.

Note though that this revealing fashion makes it a must to be smooth-limbed all the way to the tips of your fingers and toes. Easy, with extra-concentrated YARDLEY HAND CREAM, generous in soothing oils. Pleasant, too, for this is the super (NON-STICKY) lotion—petal pink, refreshingly fragrant. Just 65c.

As for your face, if you're the shining-skin type here's a wonder-worker to turn that sheen to glow, YARDLEY LIQUEFYING CLEANSING CREAM.

First, sail in daily with complexion brush and soap. Then the ritual of this fluffy-pink, mint-cool beautifier . . . coated on, worked in with brisk massage to free clogged pores. Whisk off—behold! A limpid allure that's apt to go to your head.

"But," you protest, "my skin's the dry-ish sort!" To solve your special woe—use thick-whipped YARDLEY DRY SKIN CLEANSING CREAM in this routine:

Dab on, work in—and do include your neck! Feel Croesus-rich oils help cleanse and lubricate parched pores. Tissue off with upward strokes. Now thin on a light film and let it penetrate deep as you nuzzle your face in a well-wrung hot cloth. Brief moments—then a dash of cold clear water. Awake to a newly found, petal-smooth look!

Whatever your type, it's head-in-the-clouds when your feet take you to the Yardley counter of your favored drug or department store for the cream that's right for you.

Either of the above cleansing creams just $1, or $2 the larger size. Plus tax.

Yardley products for America are created in England and finished in the U. S. A. from the original English formulae, combining imported and domestic ingredients. Yardley of London, Inc., 620 Fifth Avenue, Rockefeller Center, New York 20, N. Y.

Contest Editor Gives Favorite Entree Recipes

By Mary Meade

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Today our contest editor presents a group of favorite "main dish" prize winners. They are her special selections from winners in the last four years.

Persons who never get excited about liver on the menu welcome it in the form of Norwegian patties. Since the meat is ground and potatoes carry some of the strong flavor, beef liver may be used in making them.

The two chicken dishes are excellent "company" fare. Chicken almond is a fine all-in-one for buffet menus. The other chicken dish is notable for its intriguing olive flavored sauce.

Shrimp-roni salad is another grand dish for buffet service, a good recipe to have in your files when the party is rather hastily planned. It's the custard base in the macaroni and cheese dish that gives it superiority over the usual recipe of this type.

Norwegian Liver Patties
[Serves four to six]

- 1 pound beef liver
- 3 medium potatoes [about]
- ½ cup suet
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon ginger
- Few drops onion juice

Put raw liver and suet thru food chopper, using medium blade. Grate or grind enough potatoes to make 1 cup. Combine all ingredients, mixing well. Drop by spoonfuls into a little fat in a hot skillet. Flatten to about ¼ inch in thickness. When browned, turn to brown second side. Serve with garnish of bacon curls if desired.

Southern Chicken Loaf
[Serves 12]

- 4 cups diced cooked chicken
- 3 tablespoons grated onion
- 4 tablespoons chopped pimiento
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1½ teaspoons chili powder
- 2 cups cracker crumbs
- 1½ cups chicken stock
- 1½ cups milk
- 3 eggs

Combine all ingredients in order listed and mix well. Pack into well greased loaf pan and set in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for one hour, or until a knife inserted comes out clean. Serve with olive sauce.

Olive Sauce

- 14 large whole green olives
- 4 cups chicken stock
- 4 tablespoons cornstarch
- 4 tablespoons cold water
- 1 cup coffee cream
- 2 teaspoons worcestershire sauce
- ½ cup finely shredded toasted almonds

Cut meat from olives. Combine pits, meats, and stock and boil together five minutes. Remove pits and thicken with cornstarch which has been mixed to paste with cold water. Add remaining ingredients. Heat thoroly.

Chicken Almond
[Serves six to eight]

- 1 4-pound stewing hen
- 1 7-ounce package egg noodles
- 1 small can mushrooms
- ½ pound blanched almonds, browned in butter
- 1 cup medium white sauce
- Salt and pepper to taste
- ½ cup cracker crumbs

Cook chicken in water to cover until tender. Salt water when half done. Remove meat from bones and measure out 3 cups skimmed broth. Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Butter a shallow casserole and arrange half the noodles in the bottom of the dish. Cover with half the chicken, top with layer of mushrooms and layer of almonds. Top with second layer of noodles, chicken, and mushrooms. Mix broth with white sauce and pour over all. Sprinkle with cracker crumbs and top with remaining almonds. Bake for one hour in a moderate oven, 350 degrees.

Macaroni Milan
[Serves eight]

- 1 pound package long macaroni
- 4 whole eggs
- 2 cups milk
- Salt and pepper
- ¼ to ½ cup margarine
- ¾ pound nippy cheese, grated

Cook macaroni, without breaking, in boiling salted water until tender, about 15 minutes. Drain in colander and blanch with cold water. Meanwhile, beat eggs, add milk, and salt and pepper to taste. Place macaroni in buttered casserole and pour egg mixture over it. Dot with butter and set in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 35 minutes. Uncover last five minutes of baking, sprinkle with grated cheese, and leave in oven until melted.

Shrimp-Roni Salad
[Serves four to six]

- 3 cups cooked shrimp
- 1 package [7 ounces] macaroni
- 1 stalk celery, chopped
- ½ green pepper, minced
- 2 pimientos, minced [optional]
- 1 small onion, minced or grated
- 1 cup mayonnaise or cooked dressing
- Salt to taste

Combine all ingredients, mixing well and seasoning to taste. Cover and chill overnight or for several hours, until flavors are well blended. Serve on lettuce with garnish of tomato quarters or parsley.

Fashions

Suits are something special this season because of the wide variety of styles and materials. But the extra special feature about one group of fall presentations is the fact that they are cut to fit three types of women: The shorts, slims, and regulars. As these names imply, the suits which are beautifully cut and man tailored are designed to fit the short girl, the taller than average, and average figure.

One of the most striking of these three dimension suits is a brown and white hound's tooth check with a long, collarless jacket, smoothly fitted and fastened with a single button closing. The chest flap simulated pockets are trimmed with a single material button, and the fronts are marked with a hand picked edge. The skirt has a single plait with stitching at either side creating a panel type skirt. It also is available in black and white and navy and white, in sizes 10 to 20.

The shop which features these suits also has on hand a beautiful collection of blouses and gilets from which to select the appropriate accessories to complete a perfect suit ensemble.

Of particular value this time of year when decorating tasks are all around us is a little gadget in the form of a plaster stick which fills hair line and other small cracks in plaster, wood, plastic, etc. . . . This little stick will take care of cracks up to approximately ⅛th of an inch in width, fills flush to the surface and hardens permanently. . . . Manufacturers state that it is in no way competitive with the usual patching plaster compounds, but is intended for smaller cracks, and especially for the home owner who wishes to paint his own bathroom or kitchen.

A Fine Silver Cleanser!

The footmen who clean the precious, gold and silver services at Buckingham Palace use SILVO Liquid Silver Polish regularly,—which certainly assures you of the safety of this fine silver cleanser! It works with incredible speed, too,—no time lost in getting polish into and out of crevices and chased areas . . . for SILVO is a liquid and sinks right in to clean, and then rubs right out. Just apply with a soft cloth, give a few easy strokes . . . and the gleam and glory that results will amaze you! No chalky deposits, no hard rubbing necessary for polishing. Ask for SILVO at leading Grocery and Department Stores . . . 25c a bottle!

Quality Underwear!

If I could advise "the old woman who lived in a shoe, who had so many children she didn't know what to do," there's one thing I'd recommend for SURE! E-Z UNDERWEAR for every one of her children! Just one shopping tour, one shop, one name to look for, because E-Z UNDERWEAR comes in the whole range of sizes from infant right up through school ages! The E-Z label in each garment assures quality, wear and comfort . . . service, fit and easy washing . . . PLUS popular prices! Be patient if you can't find E-Z easily, the E-Z Mills are still turning out underwear for men overseas! But DO look for them!

Need a New Permanent?

I always find it hard to take time out for a permanent when I know I have scads of other things to do. If you feel that way, too, but need a new Fall Permanent,—why not give yourself one right at home? Get a CROWNING GLORY Cold Wave Permanent set and you can give yourself a really beautiful coiffure . . . with the kind of waves you want . . . where you want them! All while you go about your regular household tasks right at home! CROWNING GLORY is the original Cold Wave . . . contains no ammonia, is harmless, non-irritating, and takes about 3 hours to set. Costs only $2 at Notions or Cosmetics Counters.

The harried expression you see on the faces of so many women is as much a symbol of corns, sore toes or callouses, as a slipped-off shoe or a limpity-limp! I can't play "good samaritan" by giving these foot sufferers a box of DR. SCHOLL'S Zino-pads—but I can remind you again of how quickly Zino-pads bring relief! They are thin, soft protective pads that instantly stop tormenting shoe friction, lift painful pressure on sensitive spots wherever the shoe rubs or presses. The separate medications included work wonders in helping to remove corns or calluses. So, unloose that frown that's marring your pretty brow—get yourself a box of DR. SCHOLL'S Zino-pads! Keep them on hand for small "foot emergencies" whenever a shoe pinches or a corn, callous or chafed spot occurs!

Tea-Time Snack Tip!

September afternoon . . . five o'clock . . . tea-time! There's something relaxing and pleasant about those words . . . and a "spot of tea" is a wonderful way to break the wartime tension of these busy Autumn days. For that just-right snack to make tea-time an event, try crisp wafers or thin slivers of toast spread with WELCH'S Orange Marmalade,—the tangy FRESH-Orange Marmalade that's made by the WELCH Grape Juice people especially to the American taste. It lacks the bitterness of English-type marmalades,—is sweetly good as the fresh oranges from which it is made! Using precious butter with this flavorsome fruit-treat would be "gilding the lily" indeed . . . and you don't need ration points.

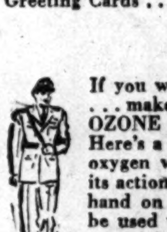
Dinner Is Served!

Silver marked sterling, china in tasteful pattern, damask gleaming under candlelight . . . and the gem-shine of sparkling SCHLITZ in crystal goblets! When the Head of the House seats himself at the head of such a table, he'll thank you for your special knowledge of distinguished dining . . . a he-man dinner beverage in a gracious home setting. SCHLITZ Beer is a treat he loves for its true beer character, because just the kiss of the hops is used to give delicate, piquant flavor. Your Food Market has SCHLITZ, the beer that's so fine it made its home town famous. It's produced by the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co., Milwaukee, Wis. Order it with the food for dinner! Try it this week!

Miracle Skin Cleanser!

Try TEN-O-SIX Liquid Cleanser, made by Bonne Bell, and you'll know the truth of the old adage . . . HANDSOME IS AS HANDSOME DOES! It does a miracle job of keeping the skin scrupulously clean, of helping to clear up little irritations that are externally caused, of making your complexion feel fresh and tingly-alive! Bonne Bell's TEN-O-SIX removes even heavy caked make-up easily . . . without pulling or mauling. Use this liquid cleanser nightly and apply it always before putting on your make-up,—it stimulates while it cleanses. May be used on dry or oily skin. $1 to $12 (plus Federal Tax). Ask at Mandel Bros. or Carson Pirie Scott.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 9th—You probably don't need me to remind you that October 15th is the deadline for mailing packages of Christmas cheer overseas,—but DO take this tip! Tuck several CHAP STICKS into each box, for this specially medicated balm-stick will be a real blessing to any man whose lips are exposed to the sizzling heat and dirt of the tropics . . . or to airmen and navy boys who are constantly exposed to wet and cold. CHAP STICK "keeps lips fit" . . . comforting them quickly when they're miserably chapped, parched or sore. As the boys say, "It's little, but it's super!" A comfort-bearing gift for only 25c . . . takes up practically no room! At your Druggist's.



Here's a new addition to the BUY-LINES family that's a joy to write about . . . GIBSON Greeting Cards! These charming and distinctive cards were made for just the purpose of bringing happiness to people,—so their appeal is as universal as a bright smile! You know how much pleasure it brings you to receive an unexpected greeting . . . so why not "do as you'd be done by" and send these ambassadors of your thoughtfulness to help weave your links of friendship closer? With a GIBSON Card, you're sending the finest . . . a message said just like you'd like to say it for any occasion,—be it solemn or funny, be it sentimental or saucily gay! Ask your dealer to let you see a selection of GIBSON Greeting Cards . . . you'll really love them!

If you want that gift for your man still in service to be SPECIAL . . . make it SUPER-SPECIAL! Send him a SUPER-SIZE ACTIVE OZONE SHAVE-STICK made by the House of GOURIELLI! Here's a "s-m-o-o-t-h" gift for any man,—because it releases nascent oxygen while on the skin and has a soothing oil base that makes its action on a tender skin and tough beards as comforting as a cool hand on a fevered brow. And GOURIELLI'S SHAVE-STICK can be used with or without a brush, with soft, salt, cold or hot water . . . points of importance to a man who packs up and travels on short notice. So make your giving GENEROUS . . . send him the SUPER SHAVE-STICK at $2 (no Federal Tax); or tuck the smaller size at 50c in with other things,—for whether he's in this country or overseas, he'll bless you for either! At smart shops; or at Gourielli, Inc., 16 East 55th St., New York 22, N. Y.

Set for that gala day when HE comes back into your life again? It's a day you'll long remember,—and I hope you'll look just as pretty and sweet as he remembers you! Don't let some important trifle (yes, trifles ARE often terribly important!) spoil the whole effect. Excitement, for instance, may cause excessive perspiration and its offensive odor. So safeguard your daintiness always with AMOLIN Deodorant Cream. It smooths on your underarms easily . . . disappears quickly . . . and leaves your skin smooth, fragrant, fresh as a rose petal. This snow-white cream neutralizes body odors safely, efficiently and daintily. It's a famous Norwich product . . . costs just 29c and 49c a jar. Good to the last dab because it doesn't get hard. Ask for AMOLIN at Drug and Department Stores . . . use regularly!

Any girl can be a marvelous cook, if she learns that FLAVOR makes the difference between a mundane dish and one fit to set before a king. If it's his heart you're after, try this recipe, the BURNETT FOOD FLAVOR way:

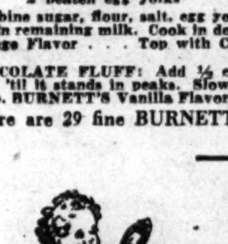
POMPADOUR PUDDING

- ½ cup sugar
- 2 tb. flour
- ⅛ tsp. salt
- 2 beaten egg yolks
- 1 beaten egg
- 2 cups milk, scalded
- 1 tsp. BURNETT'S Orange Flavor

Combine sugar, flour, salt, egg yolks and whole egg. Add small amount of milk, blend, stir in remaining milk. Cook in double boiler, stirring constantly. Cool, add BURNETT'S Orange Flavor . . . Top with Chocolate Fluff.

CHOCOLATE FLUFF: Add ½ cup confectioner's sugar to 2 stiffly beaten egg whites, beat 'til it stands in peaks. Slowly add 1-ounce square unsweetened chocolate, melted, 1 tsp. BURNETT'S Vanilla Flavor. ⅛ tsp. salt. Chill.

There are 29 fine BURNETT FOOD FLAVORS at your Grocer's.



Glamorizing the American Girl starts in the cradle,—because every mother knows that her baby's beauty can be developed and encouraged to grow as baby grows. So start NOW to help your offspring have lovely luxuriant-looking curls. (Don't neglect the boy urchins, either,—for a wispy-locked little tyke can have ringlets, too!) All you do is begin using NESTLE Baby Hair Treatment when baby's second growth of hair is about an inch long. Doting mothers have used it successfully for over thirty years to help give thin, wispy hair lovely-curling tendrils. Ask for dependable NESTLE Baby Hair Treatment lotion at Drug Store, Beauty Salon or Baby Shop. If you cannot find it locally, write me and I will help you. It's commended by PARENTS' Magazine.

Good grooming . . . good taste,—they're the earmarks of the truly discriminating woman! It's no wonder a cigarette combining both these qualities is fast becoming the favorite of more and more smart American women. VICEROY is the name,—a cigarette tailored for Milady's pleasure . . . packed with a quality blend of domestic and Turkish tobacco for flavor-perfection and neatly filter-tipped for tidy smoking. The unique VICEROY filter keeps annoying tobacco crumbs from lips and tongue, holds back irritating tars and resins. Result is enjoyable smoking that is well-groomed and tasteful! Be SMART and ask for VICEROYS whenever you buy cigarettes!

Reduce Comfortably!

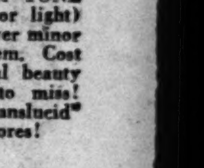
"Too curvaceous" ladies usually sigh with relief when they "cover up" in the Fall! Yet clothes can't conceal or camouflage fat . . . instead, excess poundage sabotages lovely clothes. Why tolerate it when you may reduce comfortably by following the proven AYDS Vitamin Candy Reducing Plan? No harsh drugs . . . no over-strenuous exercise . . . and, too, you don't cut out any meals—you simply cut them down. AYDS help curb your appetite—lessening the desire to eat. Medical doctors found in tests that 100 people lost 14 to 15 pounds average in a few weeks' time by this simple reducing plan. AYDS are vitamin-fortified and if you don't get "slim-down" results on first box, money is refunded. Month's supply, $2.25. Ask for AYDS at Netcher's Boston Store, The Fair, Mandel's and leading Drug Counters.

Note To Mothers!

When you're packing your young son and daughter off to school, be sure to provide for those skin "mishappenings" so common to growing-up complexions. Pack in a supply of RESINOL Soap and Ointment. Blemishes, no matter how small, can do serious damage to young egos when they're meeting and making new friends on their own. So stress the importance of daily skin-cleansing with the rich, gentle lather of RESINOL Soap . . . tell your "chillun" how RESINOL Ointment hastens healing and comforts the itching and burning of skin blemishes! And, because it's important to youngsters, add that RESINOL Ointment is flesh-colored and won't be conspicuous in the dormitory! Urge them to write home for more when their supply runs out . . . or shop for their own RESINOL skin aids at the corner Drug Store.

New "Cream-Tone" Base!

Here is a prize, indeed! A non-drying, non-caking tinted cream which gives your skin a fresh, sheer velvetiness that keeps you looking naturally lovely all day long! It's an amazing new make-up base by HOUBIGANT . . . "Translucid" CREAM-TONE, the most rewarding new beauty aid that's come my way in a long, long time! I can't praise it enough . . . the way it smooths quickly and easily over the face without creating that hard "made up" look so many make-up bases leave . . . the way it creamily films the complexion and blends perfectly with your skin tones (CREAM-TONE comes in dark, medium or light) . . . the way it smoothes over minor skin blemishes to conceal them. Cost is $1, plus tax . . . a real beauty "find" you won't want to miss! Find HOUBIGANT'S "Translucid" CREAM-TONE at better stores!



Here's news for you! The manufacturers of RONSON LIGHTERS have just told me that government regulations may soon permit their going ahead in the production of my favorite model . . . the CROWN TABLE LIGHTER (see illustration)! A limited number will, they hope, be ready for Holiday selling! This CROWN model is as glamorous as Hollywood, as practical as salt and pepper shakers on your dinner table! The famous RONSON "press-it's-lit", "release-it's-out" patented action makes lighting so safe, so SURE! So start a secret cache in the cupboard to be ready by Xmas . . . for a RONSON CROWN TABLE LIGHTER is a gift beyond equal . . . a "must-have" for any home! Meantime, for BEST servicing, keep right on using RONSON "top-quality" fuel, "flints" and wicks for lighters you have of any make.

For A Radiant Smile!

Your hair can be as golden as buttercups and your skin the envy of angels—but if you can't smile with glory, you're just not in the running! It's the "honest-to-goodness" kind that brims over and breaks through in sparkling radiance that counts! That's why you've got to KNOW that the dentifrice you're using will help clean your teeth efficiently and polish the enamel until it shines naturally bright for your smile's sake! That's why LISTERINE TOOTH POWDER is on my bathroom shelf for keeps,—its satin-soft polishing agents MORE than please me and its quick foaming powder quickly leaps into thorough, efficient cleansing action. Added reason for choosing LISTERINE TOOTH POWDER is that new container that makes EXACT pouring easy! . . . No spill, no waste, no loss of time!
